Now is the time for those interested in Sunday school and public and private libraries to buy books at very low prices. The Peterborough Bookstore is determined to reduce its large stock of miscellaneous books and standard sets, and will, therefore, previous to stock taking, close out its best books at prices which cannot be duplicated. A spendid stock to select from—equal to any in the cities. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

A Runaway Accident.

A horse driven by Mrs. Thos. LaPlante ran away a few days ago on King street, throwing Mrs. LaPlante and Miss Josephine Trenwith from the cutter. Miss Trenwith was so seriously hurt as to have to be carried into the residence of Mr. McBain. Her face was badly scratched and bruised by coming in contact with some rough ice, and since the date of the accident she has not recovered from the effects of the fall as rapidly as might be expected.

Twelfth of July Celebration.

The glorious 12th will be celebrated in Peterborough this year. Through the efforts of Commodore Calcutt and Mr. Wm. Croft, who were the prime movers in the matter, the local Orangemen have decided to hold one of the old time celebrations here. These two gentlemen, between them, have guaranteed four hundred dollars. No doubt other enterprising manufacturers, etc., will contribute liberally also. Orangemen from Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay and Belleville, as well as other towns and villages, will be present on this occasion which will make it one of the largest of the kind ever held in the district. The two gentlemen who have headed the guarantee list with such a substantial amount are to be congratulated on their enterprise.

THE HOME BOYS VICTORIOUS.

Lindsay Collegiates Defeated in a Fast but Close Game.

This afternoon a good crowd gathered at the rink to witness the hockey match between Lindsay Collegiate Institute and Peterborough Collegiate Institute teams. The game from the start to finish was an exceedingly close one, and good individual play on both sides was made, but the combination of the local team worked wonderfully, and they won with a score of 10 to 9. The following are the teams as they lined up before Referee Lionel King:

ATTACKED BY A DOG.

Mr. Alex. Elliott's Mastiff Teased Past Endurance—It Seizes a Boy.

Master Archie Hagel, an errand boy in the employ of Mr. A. Mercer, met with an accident yesterday, the results of which might have been too horrible to contemplate.

He was riding on a farmer's sleigh out Charlotte street for the purpose of delivering a parcel. On the sleigh were a couple of men who were teazing Mr. Alex. Elliott's tremendous mastiff "Moscow." The huge dog, though generally good natured and kind, had become infuriated by the men kicking at it and suddenly sprang upon young Hagel, who was hanging on the rear of the sleigh. It seized his leg between its tremendous jaws and pulled him from his seat in a twinkling. Fortunately the dog knew him well and at the sound of his voice released its hold on his leg.

Although a severe bite was administered the young lad may consider himself extremely lucky in getting of so well as, doubtless, if the dog had not known him it would have torn him to pieces.

The action of anyone teasing a dog of this size cannot be too severely criticized. The animal is well known to be of a most kindly disposition and it must have been only under great provocation that it seized the boy.

On hearing of the accident Mr. Elliott at once sent a physician to see the lad. The wound was bathed in alcohol and cauterized and he is now doing well.

SELLING WHISKY TO INDIANS.

A Hiawatha Man Before the Magistrate This Morning.

Mr. E. B. Stone has returned from Roseneath where he was acting for the defendant, Wedlock, in a case where a charge of giving whisky to an Indian had been laid.

The defendant, in giving his evidence, stated that several parties including himself were together in the hotel at Hiawatha. All three had treated at the bar and if the Indian had secured a drink he had none so without his knowledge.

The Indian in question was the chief of the tribe, Prof. Crowe, and when in the witness box he stated that he was sitting in the bar and heard someone say, "have something with me." Thinking that he was included in the invitation he walked up to the bar and seeing a glass of beer on it took it and drank it off. He had not asked for beer and did not know who paid for it.

The case was a unique one in its way, as apparently no one saw Prof. Crowe get his drink, no one served him with a drink and no one remembered paying for it. Judgement was reserved.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

Dr. Bain, of Toronto, to Lecture Here Under its Auspices Next Friday Evening.

As has already been announced in these columns, the Fortnightly Club has secured the consent of Dr. Bain, of Victoria College, Toronto, to deliver in Peterborough his popular lecture on "Oxford." The evening chosen is Friday, Jan. 24th. This is the first time the club has brought any gentleman from outside the town to lecture under its auspices, and it hopes Prof. Bain will be greeted by such a large audience that it will be encouraged to invite other eminent and scholarly men for the same purpose. The lecture is absolutely free to all, the subject is both instructive and interesting, and the lecturer is well known as an able and fluent speaker. The trustees of George street Methodist church most generously offered the use of their lecture room, and as it is both central and commodious, it has been selected for the lecture. The club extends a most cordial invitation to all to be present next Friday evening.

"Mamma, was that a sugar plum you just gave me?" asked little Mabel. "No dear, it was one of Dr. Ayer's Pills." "Please, may I have another?" Not now dear: one of those nice pills is all you need at present, because every dose is effective.

DEAR SIR,—I was recommended by my family physician to use your "Dublin Porter" to build up my system. I have used a pint bottle a day for the last three months and gained weight, thirty pounds (30), and I am quite strong again.

Yours truly,
MRS. CONNERS.

STILL ANOTHER BIG SUCCESS.

The Foresters' Entertainment in the Opera House—Mr. Frank Yeigh's Interesting Illustrated Lecture on "Canada"—Singing by the Children—A Good Audience and a Splendid All-Round Evening's Enjoyment.

Last night there was a fair-sized audience assembled in the Opera House to enjoy the very pleasant entertainment presented by the Canadian Foresters, represented by Courts Peterborough and Lang ton. The picture lecture on Canada of Mr. Frank Yeigh doubly deserved its name, the stereopticon pictures of Canadian scenes, statesmen and monuments being superb, while the descriptive lecture was rich in eloquent word painting.

The programme opened with a stirring chorus, a patriotic song, sung by about a score and a half of school girls under the baton of Sergt.-Major Rundle, who also contributed at intervals during the evening, with great enthusiasm, other patriotic hymns, with delightful effect.

It is impracticable to follow Mr. Yeigh through the course of his brilliant address; it is enough to say that his remarks and the accompanying stereopticon illustrations gave even the most well read a new and graphic idea of the great extent and resources of the Dominion and afforded a new stimulus to the patriotic pride and aspirations of all who heard them. He started at the sunrise side of Canada and took his hearers by easy stages to the remotest western limit of our great country. He outlined in speech and depicted on canvas the history of the country for the past three centuries. His address was frequently interrupted by hearty applause. During the singing of the "Maple Leaf" by the children, in connection with the picture of the new Canadian flag model, bearing the maple leaf, at the final line of the chorus,

"God Save our Queen, and Heaven bless
The Maple Leaf forever,"

when a picture of Her Majesty was shown on the screen the enthusiasm was magnetic. Altogether Mr. Yeigh's lecture on Canada was a great success, and all who were present last night will long carry pleasant memories of the occasion, and feel grateful for the enjoyable entertainment presented by the Foresters.

At the conclusion of the lecture a beautiful transparency thrown upon the canvas represented the emblems of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and also a splendid group picture of the High Court officers and Executive. These were accompanied by a few brief and pointed remarks made by Bro. A. L. Rundle as to the excellence, stability and financial soundness of Canadian Forestry, which was an exclusively Canadian society, and in addition to fraternal and beneficiary features, sought to promote a spirit of patriotism and national sentiment.

Rev. H. Symonds in a few words of graceful compliment of the lecture and lecturer, moved a vote of thanks to the latter, which was seconded by Mr. Hampden Burnham, and unanimously carried. God Save the Queen, sung with great heartiness, brought a delightful evening to a close. Last night the Foresters added another to the numerous entertainment successes they have achieved.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

A Severe Accident.

One day last week a son of Mr. L. Dunford, of Dummer, met with a severe accident while working with a sawing machine. The young man was engaged in taking wood from the saw when a stick fell on the bolt, flying up and striking him on the head and face, bruising his forehead and knocking out a number of his teeth. The force of the blow knocked the young man down and stunned him for a short time, but he soon got over the effects of it, and is now getting along all right.

Reports have come from Millbrook, Keene, Lakefield and Young's Point, that the young people of these places are preparing in large numbers to attend the Carnival, bills of which have been posted in these places during this week, and the long and elegant list of prizes is guarantee enough that this Carnival, as all former ones run by the Sons of Canada, will be a success. Water Supply for Cobourg Jail.

A large water supply plant has just been erected for the Cobourg Jail by the Peterborough Pump and Windmill Factory of Mr. G. Walter Green, Dickson's Race. The county council of Northumberland and Durham have now a well-equipped water service for their Jail premises in Cobourg, which will not only save a great deal of labor and time, but will also insure an abundant supply of water at all times. Mr. J. Couch, foreman for the Peterborough factory, who superintended the work, returned to town yesterday, to proceed with other orders waiting him.

The Norwood team came up on the 4.48 C. P. R. express this afternoon, accompanied by a host of friends, who were sanguine of seeing the visitors down the famous Peterboroughs: whether their hopes will be realized or not remains to be seen. One of the best exhibitions of hockey of the season will undoubtedly be witnessed and a big crowd is expected down at the rink, to witness the contest.

We will positively undersell all other dealers, no matter what imaginary reductions may be offered. Crockery, China, etc., is our especial business, and to undersell all competitors is our set policy. China Hall, 360 George street.

WEST PETERBOROUGH.

At the coming general elections it is pretty well agreed that Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., will not be the Conservative candidate; that he will not be acceptable to the Conservative leaders, and that the name of Mr. James Kendry or Mr. R. M. Dennistoun will find favour with a nominating convention. Much as Mr. Stevenson would like to again be the candidate of the Conservative party, yet it would seem his record as a representative, etc., and his connection with certain public offices and appointments have put him out of the running so far as the Conservative party is concerned. It is said that Conservatives would not have had as much feeling in the matter if Mr. Stevenson had accepted the the customs appointment himself, and it is felt that such an appointment would not be any more a violation of the civil service regulations, as regards age and qualifications, than the present appointment may involve.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

From time to time THE EXAMINER has had pleasure in calling attention to the excellent work carried on by the Children's Aid Society and the annual report presented at the recent meeting furnishes proof, if any were needed, of our remarks in this connection. We all know that a wide and ripe field for its operations exists in this community and the statutory powers and organization as well as its excellent local management permit the society to reap a rich harvest of beneficient acts. Endowed with powers sufficiently large to secure respect for its mandates, it has four principal functions, admonition, prosecution, protection and rescue. If a child or children is discovered to be unkindly or harshly treated to the extent that will justify interference, the society sends its warning, which in many cases is promptly regarded; if ignored, prosecution ensues, and, if the charges are proven the child or children is placed under the protection of the society, which performs the work of rescue by placing it or them in a foster home of approved respectability, where kindness and virtuous training take the place of the brutality and viciousness of the home, or rather habit, from which it has been rescued. In ways like this the society has done a large amount of very excellent work, although it is hampered by lack of means. No form of charitable contribution can compare with the giving of financial assistance to the society. It prevents children being reared in vice and becoming objects of charity, and thus deserves the help of the charitably inclined. The society needs funds very badly, and it is to be hoped that the public of Peterborough are sufficiently possessed of the spirit of Christian charity to need no other appeal than the knowledge of this fact.

The Lindsay Warder—of all newspapers—charges Mackenzie Bowell with blind adherence to ultra views on remedial legislation.

THE CUSTOMS APPOINTMENT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Is it not compulsory for every person accepting office in the Dominion Civil Service to have passed an examination, under the Civil Service Act? Has Mr. Ruf. Stevenson passed the examination? Is this Act a farce like the Government?

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE.

January 18, 1896.

OFFICE AS A REWARD OF SERVICES.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—In your remarks in reference to the recent customs appointment you say correctly enough that so long as party services are recognized as the basis of appointment to office such appointments should be made in concurrence with the views of the local workers of the party. In connection with the recent customs appointment I do not see that this principle can apply, for it seems to me from the knowledge I have of the circumstances, that Mr. Stevenson, M. P., has more to thank the Conservative party for than that party has to thank him for, and that the balance of obligation lies upon him. If sacrifices and financial contributions are to be considered, it would appear that those of Messrs. Morrow and Bradburn, though indirectly made and expended by proxy, are deserving of some attention. But what else can we expect when our lofty principled advisers of Her Majesty's representative set the example of the game of grab irrespective of merit or service to the party or the country. The man with the biggest "pull" gets there.

"No matter what your industry, your aptitude, or brains,
You'll pine neglected, and but have your labour for your pains;
You may raze, as in the china shop raged the proverbial bull,
But you'll never get promotion, if you haven't got a "pull."

Yours, etc.,
BYSTANDER.

ILL NIGH UNTO DEATH.

THE EXPERIENCE OF A LADY WELL KNOWN IN COATICOOK.

Stricken with LaGrippe, Followed by Pneumonia. She Languishes for More than a Year—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Saved her when Other Medicines Failed.

From L'Etoile de l'Est, Coaticook, Que.

The town of Averill, Vt., is situated about eight miles from Coaticook, Que., and is the home of Mrs. Ada Hartwell, who has many relatives and numerous friends in the latter place. Mrs. Hartwell has passed through an experience which L'Etoile de l'Est thinks worthy of giving the widest publicity as many others may derive much benefit therefrom. Mrs. Hartwell has ever been considered a woman enjoying a healthy constitution until about two years ago, when she was, like hundreds of others in the vicinity, stricken with influenza, or as it is more generally termed, la grippe, a disease which carried off many people in this town and vicinity, and in the case of numerous others left behind wrecked constitutions. As often happens pneumonia followed the first symptoms of la grippe and Mrs. Hartwell was sick, nigh unto death. The best of medical aid was summoned, and Mrs. Hartwell was saved from what seemed to her friends imminent death, but when convalescence came, she remained deprived of her appetite, extremely weak, and in constant danger of a relapse, and all her physicians could do could not bring about her former condition of health. Numerous medicines were tried but to no avail; she was weak, dispirited and despaired of again enjoying her former vigour and health. For a whole year after her attack of pneumonia she continued to languish in this state. At last one day her husband purchased a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He had read of the many cures wrought by this wonderful medicine, but procured them, he says, for his wife in order to be able to say "we have tried all," rather than from strong faith in them. To please her husband Mrs. Hartwell willingly consented to take the Pink Pills, and great was her surprise and that of her husband, when, after taking three boxes she was able to take a short ride without feeling any fatigue. She wisely resolved to continue the treatment, and before long found that she had regained her old time strength, and she declared that she owes her recovery entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Last winter Mrs. Hartwell felt a slight recurrence of her former weakness and again resorted to Pink Pills, since which time she has not had a day's illness.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a more potent influence on the blood and nerves than any other known medicine, and speedily restore the bloom of health to pallid cheeks. Pink Pills cure when all other medicines fail. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Refuse all substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

Wasted Energy.

Sir Robert Ball has odd methods in his lectures of making comparisons by which facts are more clearly shown than any figures can do. What should we think, he asks, of the prudence of a man, having been endowed with a splendid fortune of not less than $20,000,000, spent one cent of that vast sum usefully and dissipated every other cent and ever other dollar of his gigantic wealth in mere aimless extravagances? This would, however, appear to be the way in which the sun manages its affairs, if we are to suppose that all the solar heat is wasted save that minute fraction which is received by the earth. Out of every $20,000,000 worth of heat issuing from the glorious orb of day, we on this earth barely secure the value of one single cent, and all but that insignificant trifle seems to be utterly squandered. We may say it certainly is squandered so far as humanity is concerned. No doubt there are certain other planets besides the earth, and they will receive quantities of heat to the extent of a few cents more. It must, however, be said that the stupendous volume of solar radiation passes off substantially untaxed into space, and what may there become of it science is unable to tell.

THE FLYING SQUADRON

Speculation as to the Destination of the Fleet.

SUGGESTION THAT IT IS BERMUDA

Some Excitement in New York When the Rumor Was Announced at the Maritime Exchange—The U.S. Senate Getting on Rather Dangerous Ground.

London, Jan. 17.—The Central News circulates a report, which it says is unofficial, that the British flying squadron just put into commission is destined for the Bermudas. This report cannot onw be confirmed.

Though the Admiralty refuses to either confirm or deny the statement that the new flying squadron is destined for Bermuda, it can be stated on the authority of officers attached to the squadron that they believe that if they do not go to Bermuda they will go to some point in the West Indies. They do not know the nature of the service they are going on, bu tin view of the dispute with Venezuela, the fact of the despatching of the squadron to the West Indies causes some anxiety.

New York, Jan. 17.—The report that the flying squadron might go to Bermuda, created quite a sensation when it was ported on the Maritime Exchange to-day. The statement was not generally believed, however. A South street merchant who said that there was in all probability more truth in the report that some people cared to believe, added: "If England sends the flying squadron to the Bermudas, it will mean that she is either trying to intimidate or bluff us, or has taken Cleveland's Venezuela policy seriously. She has already ten ships on the North American and West Indies Station, with the Canada, Capt. William Wilson, as flagship. These ten vessels xceed both in number and size anything Great Britain has had on the American coast in some years, and what she means by increasing its numbers with vessels of the strength, speed and power of the flying squadron is mysterious, to say the least. It may be that she thinks we will back down. It certainly looks suspicious, and our Government should keep an eye on the fleet's movements.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

A Resolution Which Will Put Uncle Sam in a Hole if it Goes Through.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Reations discussed the Monroe doctrine for two hours this morning, and finally ordered a report on the resolution submitted by Mr. Davis (Minn.), chairman of the sub-comittee. Mr. Turpie, at whose request the matter was laid over until to-day, made an argument against the affirmation of the doctrine as a general principle. He believed it was sufficient for the doctrine to be applied when specific cases arose. He favored its aplication to the pending difficulty between Venezuela and Great Britain, but thought that it should rset there for the preset.

The vote to adopt the Davis resolution, which was drawn along the lines of the lodge resolution, was agreed to after one or two verbal alterations had been made. The committee also decided, upon motion of Mr. Sherman, that the action of the committee and the text of the resolution should not be given out until it was reported to the Senate next Monday.

Mr. Davis was requested to give notice when he reported the resolution that he should call it up at the earliest possible moment.

This resolution goes even further than did the President in his message to Congress on the Venezuelan question. It will, if passed, commit Congress to a policy from which there can be no back down.

Railroad Men Robbed.

Nevada, Jan. 16.—Yesterday was pay day on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and last night five robbers, with handkerchiefs over their faces, boarded a freight train at this city and when the train stopped at Nassau Junction they held up and robbed Engineer R. Healthy, happy children make better men and women of us all. A man is hardly himself until he has the development that responsibility brings. After the child comes, the father and mother both plan and promise what shall be done with it. A little care and a little planning before birth is often more important than anything that can be done after.

On the mother's health and strength depend the life and the future of the children. A weak and sickly woman cannot bear strong and healthy children—as well expect figs from thistles. Most of the weakness of women is utterly inexcusable. Proper care and proper medicine will cure almost any disorder of the feminine organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been tested in thirty years of practice. It is healing, soothing, strengthening. It is perfectly natural in its operation and effect. By its use, thousands of weak women have been made strong and healthy—have been made the mothers of strong and healthy children. Taken during gestation, it makes childbirth easy and almost painless and insures the well being of both mother and child.

The following letter is only one of thousands of similar ones:

MRS. FLORENCE WHITE, of Victor, W. Va., writes: "I commenced using the 'Favorite Prescription' when half through my period of pregnancy. I used four bottles and felt like another woman. My time of labor was easy and rapid. I have a dear, strong, healthy little boy baby."

Mrs. Florence White

Dr. Pierce's celebrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," will be sent free to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of customs and mailing only. The book contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, and is of inestimable value to every woman. A veritable medical library, in one volume. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE MURKY RIVER

Yawned for Him, But a Nickel Staved the Gaunt Messenger.

In the cabin of a Fulton ferryboat the other morning a red-whiskered, middle-aged man, who was badly out at the elbows, came up to me and said:

"Mister, I have nothing left to live for!"

"That's bad,' I replied.

"No, sir—nothing left to live for," he continued, "and I might as well die now as to hang on for another week."

"Are you contemplating suicide?"

"I am."

"Going to jump from the boat?"

"That's what I intended to do. I have given up the fight and am ready to go. You can tell the reporters that I was clean discouraged and ready to go."

"It's the want of money, isn't it?"

"Exactly, sir—want of money."

"How much will you take not to commit suicide on this trip?"

"How much? Now, then, we come down to business and I see a glimmer of hope ahead of me. Make me an offer."

"No—you fix the sum. If I can afford to pay it I will. If not you can go ahead with your suicide."

"Well," he said, as he squinted up at the ceiling and down at the floor, "suppose we say 10 cents?"

"That's too much for these hard times."

"Make it seven."

"I'll make it five and no more. If you'll agree to live on, here's your nickel."

"Um! I see! Well, it's a go. I have nothing to live for and intended to go overboard this trip, but being it's you I'll take the nick and suicide later in the day. Thanks. I'll be glad to do as much for you if I continue to live on."

Do Women Know?

That for a perfectly cooked roast their oven should be supplied with a gauze door, which admits enough air with a hot fire to keep the meat at an even temperature in all parts.

That bread and butter plates are now regarded as a necessity, rather than an extra touch to table setting.

That forks should be placed on the table to be used for everything that it is possible, the soup spoon being the only ones really needed in an elaborate dinner, even when ices and sauce covered entrees are served.

That thin, unbleached muslin is the best material for a pudding bag, and clean white tape should be used with which to tie it.

That the "Popular Science Monthly" has vouched for an ivy poison remedy. It is a poultice of bread wet with water, and powdered with common soda.

That the offensive odor of burned milk has no remedy, but may be checked by wiping the stove with a piece of paper as soon as the milk has been spilled and burning the paper. It is hoped that every woman heats her milk in a double boiler, so that it never has occasion to be burned, otherwise than in the spilling.

That a loaf of bread or any pastry, which is cooked too quickly, is likely to sour.

That small heel caps of waste leather will keep the holes from the heels of stockings.

That a corn cob dried and soaked in kerosene will kindle a fire as quickly as a fire brick.

Male Modesty.

The notion that the feminine half of creation alone belongs the duty of making itself personally attractive to the opposite sex is by no means exemplified in nature. Indeed, in the brute and feathered creation, as well as in savage tribes, it is just the other way. It is the male birds who possess the beautiful plumage, and who takes pains to preen their feathers and improve their natural appearance. It is the lion and not the lioness who has flowing mane, the peacock and not the peahen who flaunts a spreading and gorgeous tail. It is not the Indian squaws who are painted and befeathered, but their lords and masters. In short, the common theory that vanity and love of personal display is innate in the feminine nature falls in the most ordinary analogy.

Genuine English Plum Pudding.

Sift three pans of flour; beat eight eggs with one and onehalf of sugar till very light; two pans of beef suet, shopped fine; two pans of currants and a little salt; one and one-half pans of raisins, stoned and cut in halves; two grated nutmegs; one tablespoonful of cinnamon and mace; a wine glassful of brandy and wine; essence of lemon to taste; one pint or more of milk to make it of proper thickness, and beat all very hard. Boil four or five hours, and be careful not to det the water boil over the pudding.

For the sauce, work one-half a teacup of sugar with the same of butter, heat one pint of wine, and simmer together.

Bank of England.

The Bank of England, "The Old Lady of Threadneedle street," will celebrate its 200th anniversary this year. The founding of this bank was decided upon in 1694, and, upon the subscribing of £1,200,000 business was begun the next year. The present building occupied by the bank was built in 1734. Although there are many handsomer edifices in the world than the "Old Lady," as all know who have seen it, it is as strong as a fortress, and, in fact, has resisted two sieges by armed citizens in the course of its history. The capital of the bank at present is £14,533,000, with a reserve of £3,414,660. The bank is conducted by a governor, sub-governor, and 24 directors; and 1169 persons, drawing a combined salary of £1,500,000, are employed in the institution.

Don'ts for the Hostess.

Don't dress to outshine your guests.

Don't convert a festive gathering into an exhibition such as the upholsters and silversmiths make in their stores.

Don't strive to inculcate envy of your belongings in the hearts of your guests.

Don't address all your remarks to feminine ears when you are hostess to men and women both.

Don't invite more guests than you can comfortably entertain.

Never give your guests such entertainment as will entail poor fare upon the family for a week after.

Can Be Made New!

Your Husband and Children will Rejoice and be Glad.

Have you ever tried to renew and recreate your husband's and children's cast-off clothing? Why, this work is done easily by thousands of women, every day of the year. They are successful in the work, because they use the wonderful, strong and and never-fading Diamond Dyes. Old and faded dresses, jackets, capes, coats, pants and vests can be made to look like new garments at a cost of ten cents. When you decide upon doing dyeing work, be particularly careful to use only the Diamond Dyes. See that your dealer does not offer you substitutes or imitations. If you are unfortunate enough to be deceived, your work is in vain, and your garments are ruined.

A Square Foot of the Sun.

For every acre on the surface of our globe there are more than 10,000 acres on the surface of the great luminary, writes Sir Robert Ball. Every portion of this illimitable desert of flame is pouring forth torrents of heat. It has indeed been estimated that if the heat which is incessantly flowing through any single square foot of the sun's exterior could be applied under the boilers of the Atlantic liner, it would produce steam enough for an entire record-breaking voyage from Ireland to America. It would seem very presumptuous for us to assume that the great sun has come into existence solely for the benefit of poor humanity. The heat and light daily lavished by that orb of incomparable splendor would suffice to illuminate, quite as efficiently as the earth is warmed and lighted, more than two thousand million globes each as large as the earth.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this known means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, Jarvis, Ont

$200 FOR AN INJURED EYE.

A Hamilton Woman Gets a Verdict to That Effect, But Has Not Yet Secured the Money.

Hamilton, Jan. 15.—At the jury sittings to-day Mrs. Elizabeth Talbot, a weaver, was awarded a verdict of $1200 against the Canadian Colored Cotton Company as damages for an injury received to one of her eyes while in the employ of the company. Judgment was stayed, pending the appeal of the defendant.

The case of Salisbury v. O'Connor was settled, the plaintiff receiving $200. The plaintiff, John Salisbury, sought damages from J. & M. O'Connor for the loss of three fingers, while employed on a steam shovel on Hunter-street.

Mrs. Carrie Faulkner, whose husband, Thomas C. Faulkner, died from the effects of being burned, being thrown against a torch, while working in the T., H. and B. tunnel last August, claimed $10,000 damages from P. T. Clifford & Sons and Contractor Onderdonk, for the death of her husband. The plaintiff claimed that, through negligence on the part of the contractors, a bank fell away and threw deceased onto the torch. The judge dismissed the action as against Contractor Onderdonk, allowing the case against the Cliffords to go to the jury.

At the First Division Court to-day an action of Cope Stinson, late superintendent of the Jockey Club track, against H. T. Moore of Ottawa, was heard. At the ice races at the H.J.C. track last February, $200 was the prize in a five-mile race. The race was declared off, but four drivers decided to give an exhibition drive for $50 apiece. Mr. Moore's Clara K. won and Mayor Stewart paid the owner $10. The other horsemen insisted on being paid $50 apiece, and Mr. Stinson had to pay over the money. To get back his $50 Mr. Stinson garnisheed a $60 prize which Moore won here last summer. President J. M. Lottridge, Secretary A. D. Stewart and John White gave evidence, and the judges decided against the plaintiff.

James Tassie, a retired farmer living at 235 Hughson-street north, died suddenly yesterday afternoonn from heart trouble. He is from Nelson township.

Adopted on motion of Councillors Cahill and Best.

In submitting this, his last report, Mr. Cahill stated that he wished to compliment the council on the economy which had been practiced during the year. There was at present a balance in the bank to the credit of the town of $16,876. Of course $15,000 of this would be paid out in liquidation of a loan of the Nicholls Estate money, but still, when the rest of the uncollected taxes were in there would be a very handsome surplus, and the town occupied the unique position of having taken up a great deal of new work unprovided for in the estimates and still having a balance on hand. He was sorry that it had been impossible for the council of 1895 to see the settlement of the claim of costs of the township of North Monaghan in the sewer case, and also of the adjustment of the claim of the sewer contractors for extras. However, the council of 1895 left behind it not only a clean sheet but a snug little nest egg, and he had no doubt but that the gentlemen following would be able to reduce the rate of taxation for next year a mill or a mill and a half at least.

Councillor Best rose to state regarding the settlement of North Monaghan's claim that he had to have the solicitor for the township render a bill of costs, but without avail, as the township wished to have the town agree to settle the bill before it was produced.

The Mayor stated that he would have liked to have seen the old council remain in office for another year, in order to deal with the continuation of the sewer and the question of permanent pavements. There was no reason why the council of 1896 should not lower the rate, as they started out with every advantage in their favour. The sewerage question had been handled admirably by the council of 1895, and on a most economical basis. The estimate for the past year had been $21,000, and the work had been accomplished for far less, therefore the Council should indeed be congratulated.

The following resolution was moved by Councillors Best and Denne, and carried unanimously, on a standing vote of the members whose names were not mentioned in it:

THE RESOLUTION.

That this Council, desires to give expression to its regret on account of the retirement from office of James Kendry, Esq., who has efficiently filled the office of mayor during the past four years: and to express its regret that the town will be deprived during the coming year of the services of Councillors Cahill, Dawson, Brady, Moore, Stone and Cobb, one of whom, Councillor Cahill, has given the town twenty two years of service, and another, Councillor Dawson, who has given seven years of valuable service and all of whom have given much time and attention to the affairs of the town during the time they have been members of the Council.

In speaking to the motion, Councillor Best stated that he regretted very much to lose the association, especially of the two old councillors viz—Messrs Cahill and Dawson, as well as that of the Mayor. He felt that a mistake had been made by the electors in not keeping in the old men, as it took some time to get into the routine of council work and some important matters were coming before the council of 1896. It seemed most ungrateful to him that these men were thrown over with no recognition of their long and faithful service and predicted that such an action would have a discouraging effect and exercise a restraining influence on good men who might otherwise be induced to seek municipal honours as they would see that they were likely to be thrown over on the grounds of

A SLIGHT PREJUDICE.

He concluded by eulogising Councillors Cahill and Dawson and spoke of the able assistance which he had always received from them.

The mayor tendered his sincere thanks to the Councillors for the courtesy which they had always extended to him, while he was in the chair. It had always been a source of a great deal of satisfaction to him to receive the support of such men. A great deal of work had been done during the past year—good work but still there had been fault found. Still the council had the satisfaction of knowing that no matter who had been in office there would always have been fault-finders at hand. Everything he had done while in the Mayor's chair had been done in the interests of the town and these interests he had guarded as closely as his own. He could truthfully say that he had lived up to the declaration which he had made in taking office He desired to recognize from the chair the work done by Councillor Cahill, the oldest member in the Council. He could speak with a personal knowledge of this work during the last twelve years and could say that in Mr. Cahill the town was losing a most valuable servant. All his work had been done in manner and above board. Councillor Dawson had also done his duty without fear or favour, no matter who was opposed to him. He had always spoken out his mind on every question and had never condescended to any underhand work. The other retiring Councillors also received words of praise from the Mayor.

Councillor Dawson, after expressing his thanks to the Council for the kind words of the resolution, stated that during the seven years which he had served in Council he had derived great pleasure from the association of his fellow Councillors. He had always done his best to promote the interests of the town, and if he had erred it was through ignorance, and not intentionally. He acknowledged that he had a brusque way of speaking, which gave offence at times, but he had never left the chamber with hard feelings against anyone, but on the contrary had been always ready to extend the right hand of fellowship when next they met. In conclusion, the councillor wished the incoming mayor and councillors every success during

THE COMING YEAR.

Councillor Stone stated that he spoke next in order that Councillor Cahill—as the best—might be reserved until the last. He thought Peterborough should be proud to have possessed so courteous a Mayor as Mr. Kendry, and regretted exceedingly that Councillor Cahill had not been elected to take his place. Not that Mr. Yelland was not deserving of the honour, but that after his twenty-two years of service Councillor Cahill was more entitled to it, and Mr. Yelland could have waited for another year just as well as not. It was the least the town could have done as a mark of their appreciation of a faithful worker, to confer the honour of the mayoralty upon him. It was indeed a loss to the town that Mr. Cahill had been left at home.

Mr. Cahill very briefly returned thanks for the kind words in the resolution.

On rising to speak Mr. Cahill was greeted with applause. He stated that on an occasion of this kind he would have preferred to say nothing, but he could not very well do that after the many complimentary remarks which had been made concerning him. He felt these marks of esteem. He doubly appreciated these expressions of good will, as they came from men with whom he had been associated for a number of years, and who, therefore, knew him well. In leaving the council he could say that he had always acted in the best interests of the town, to the best of his judgment, and if he was in the wrong at any time it was a fault of the head and not of the heart. Of his actions he thought he had nothing to regret, but now found he had been exposed to all kinds of charges, and had been declared guilty of every crime in the municipal catalogue, even being held responsible for the collapse of an antediluvian bridge. Crimes not known in the municipal catalogue had also been charged against him and interjected into the campaign. It had been stated, too, that he was not friendly towards the cause of the workingman, while he had always thought that next to Councillor Dawson he was the best friend the workingman ever had in the council, but he was surprised when he heard that Mr. Dawson had also been found guilty of not being a supporter of the workingman. Since he had been in the council he had had differences with his fellow councillors as all must always have, but he had never carried away any resentment. He might come to the fore again and he might not, but he would always aim to serve the town, whether in private or public life. (Cheers.)

BOUND TO ACKNOWLEDGE

EARNEST, HONEST MEN

Councillor Phelan agreed with every word of the resolution and regretted sincerely that the council would not be graced by the presence of the gentlemen named in the motion. He hoped that the council of '96 would get along together as well as that of '95.

Councillor Mills was disappointed in the result of the recent election, as he did not think that Mr. Yelland deserved the chair as much as did Councillor Cahill, after 22 years of faithful hard work, though he would have gladly given Mr Yelland his support at any other time.

The Mayor took occasion to speak again in order to state that while he had been in the council the workingmen had never had such true friends as Councillors Dawson and Cahill.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

This Parliament Will Expire on the 25th of April.

CONSIDERATION OF THE ESTIMATES

The Railway Committee Reorganized—Death of Mr. John Bryson, M.P.—Mr. Casey's Good Measure—Suicide in the Jail—General News From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—The Cabinet was engaged nearly the whole of yesterday considering the estimates. As is well understood, the general business of Parliament is to be transacted at the present session, but whether the estimates will be passed in their entirety depends largely upon the Opposition. It is generally conceded that the life of this Parliament expires on April 25, although a few contend that it can legally run along until June. The highest constitutional authorities, however, are opposed to the latter contention and rather than that there should be doubt as to the validity of any legislation passed by Parliament, the April contention will hold good.

At the Cabinet meeting yesterday an Order-in-Council was passed on the Premier's recommmendation reorganizing the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, as follows: Mr. Haggart (chairman), Sir A. P. Caron, Messrs. Foster, Ouimet, Daly and Prior.

Profound regret was expressed in political circles to-day at the announcement of the death this morning at Coulonge of John Bryson, M.P. for Pontiac. Deceased attended his parliamentary duties for the first day or two of the session, but a week ago he went home and has been suffering since from a severe attack of heart disease. On Thursday he was very low, but rallied somewhat on Friday, and yesterday had a turn for the worse, culminating in his demise this morning. Mr. Bryson was a worthy representative of a family which is greatly honored and respected in the Ottawa Valley. Personally, he was a most estimable man.

Deceased was the eldest son of the Hon. George Bryson, late member of the Legislative Council of Quebec. He was born at Fort Coulonge on Nov. 30, 1849; married Dec. 30, 1874, to Mary, daughter of the late Thomas Bryson (who died in 1881), M.L.A. for Pontiac. He was a lumberman and farmer, and had been Mayor of Mansfield since 1882, in which year he was first returned to Parliament. He was re-elected at the last general election. In politics he was a Conservative.

Ottawa society is all agog over the grand fancy dress ball to be given by Their Excellencies in the Senate Chamber on Feb. 17. A series of eight dances, emblematic of leading periods of Canadian history, is being arranged and promises to be a great attraction.

A successor to Col. Powell as Adjutant-General of Militia has not yet been appointed. Lieut.-Col. Aylmer, Assistant Adjutant-General, is acting Adjutant-General and is freely spoken of as likely to succeed Col. Powell. During the past day or two the names of Col. Otter of Toronto, and Col. Smith of London have also been mentioned.

Mr. Casey's bill to secure safety of railway employes and passengers contains some provisions which are of a most commendable nature. For instance, all cars fitted with brakes are to be provided with an automatic device in the hose coupling of such air brakes, or in the train pipes, so arranged that after the cars are coupled, the connection between such brakes and the air pump on the locomotive cannot be broken, or the coupling deranged, accidentally or otherwise, without knowledge of the engineer. Another clause provides that all box freight cars built in Canada must, after the passing of this act, be of a uniform standard height, and provided with attachments for security of railway employes. There are also limitations respecting hours of labor for railway employes, compensation for injuries, etc.

Rev. Dr. Saunders, pastor of the Dominion Methodist Church, in the course of his sermon to-night, deprecated the extremes to which members of Parliament went in their personal attacks and calumnies in the House last week, and referred to the absence of honest argument in many of the speeches. If these methods were continued, he said they must eventually destroy the country. He deprecated the idea that a politician could not be an honest man. The country needed clean and honest men at the head of affairs, and it would be an unfortunate thing if the young men of Canada, the rising hope of the country, were to get the idea into their heads that a politician and dishonesty were synonymous terms.

Mr. Lepine, Montreal, a labor representative, is going to test the feeling of Parliament on the principle of an eight-hour day on Government works. His bill provides, among other things, that eight hours shall be the length of the working day for all workmen and laborers employed, either permanently or temporarily, by the Government of Canada, or by contractors or sub-contractors under or for it. Every employe of the Government, and every contractor or sub-contractor, who has under him or who employs workmen or laborers on a public work, and who wilfully violates the provisions of this act, is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to a penalty not exceeding $1000, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, of to both penalty and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. This act shall not apply to contractors or to sub-contractors now having contracts with or for the Government of Canada, for the execution of a public work, nor shall it apply in cases of pressing emergency or of absolute necessity.

A sad event occurred in the county jail here yesterday. On Friday, J. Rutherford Moir, alias Macdonald, who says he hails from Boston, Mass., was sentenced by Judge Mosgrove to five years' imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary for flim-flamming $10 from Ald. Forde's store. Moir was fearfully depressed at the heavy sentence imposed upon him. Yesterday he was allowed to exercise in a corridor of the jail, completely isolated from the other prisoners. He procured the towel from his cell, tied it round his neck, and then standing on a chair, fastened the other end of the towel to the lintel of the door, and then dropped from the chair. When discovered he was stone dead, his body being almost cold. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Dr. Sproule has an admirable measure on the order paper, designed to prevent the manufacture and sale of certain substitutes for honey. It is claimed that considerable imitation honey, made chiefly from sugar, is annually made. Dr. Sproules bill, when it becomes law, will aid the honest bee-keeper.

Dr. Weldon, M.P., left yesterday for Halifax for a few days.

Senator Perley of the N.W. Territories, a New Brunswicker by birth, entertained Premier Blair and other New Brunswickers to dinner in the Senate Restaurant last night.

Mr. Mulock will again press his measure prohibiting a member of Parliament from receiving mileage if he travels to or from Ottawa at a less rate than ordinarily charged to the general public.

There was a great falling off in Chinese immigration last year, as compared with the previous three years. The total collections on account of the poll tax amounted to $[illegible],502 in 1892. Last year it was only $7[illegible],175.

At present there are six vacancies in the Commons, viz., Soulanges, Charlevoix, Missisquoi, Pontiac, Northumberland and Cape Breton.

The annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce is out. It contains a vast amount of statistical and financial information, as well as details of commercial relations with different countries.

FENIAN RAID ON CANADA.

English Law Papers Draw a Parallel Between That and Jameson's Raid.

London, Jan. 18.—The law papers here adduce the treatment accorded the prisoners taken during the Fenian raid into Canada as a precedent for the treatment of Dr. Jameson and his companions in the Transvaal raid. They say that the prisoners ought to be tried by the ordinary courts of England. As no indemnity was demanded from the United States because of the Fenian raid, so no indemnity should be paid to the Transvaal.

Family Efforts to Settle

It is reported in court circles that Empress Frederick of Germany (mother of Emperor William), the Prince of Wales and Queen Victoria have exchanged a number of communications relative to the Emperor's message to President Kruger of the South African Republic. The Empress explained that the Emperor entertained the friendliest feelings for England.

Steamships in Trouble

London, Jan. 18.—The British steamer Drumelzier, Captain Nicholson, from New Orleans, which was in collision with the German bark Mowe, as a result of which the Mowe sank, has been arrested and her owners have been required to give a bond for £20,000 for her release.

The British ship County of Yarmouth, Captain Swanson, which sailed from Hull, Dec. 2, for Ship Island and put into Grimsby, Dec. 15, dismasted, has been sold at auction for 330 pounds.

The British steamer Cephalonia, from Boston, Dec. 21, for Liverpool, which struck a rock off the South Stock and was afterwards beached, and later floated, arrived at her destination today. The British steamship Dominion arrived at Bristol to-day.

Blake to Supplant McCarthy.

London, Jan. 18.—There is a movement within the anti-Parnellite section of the Irish Parliamentary party tending towards the acceptance of the resignation of Justin McCarthy, the leader of the section. There is, however, much difficulty in deciding who shall be appointed to succeed him. A number of the party are in favor of the selection of the Hon. Edward Blake, the well-known Canadian, who represents South Longford in the House of Commons.

Conferred With Lord Wolseley.

London, Jan. 18.—Prior to the meeting of the Cabinet to-day Prime Minister Salisbury, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of the Colonies, and the Duke of Devonshire, President of the Council, conferred with Commander-in-Chief Lord Wolseley and several other high military and naval officials. It is surmised that the conference had reference to schemes for the National Defence Committee, of which the Duke of Devonshire is president.

HATRED OF ENGLAND

Envy Caused by the Island Empire's Success

SAYS THE KING OF THE BELGIANS

British Prosperity in Commerce, Politics and Enlightenment Arouses the Animosity of the Continental Powers—Frenchmen Admire But Hates—Russia is Dumb.

New York, Jan. 19.—A special to The Sun from London says:

The Times gives great prominence in its columns to-day to a letter signed "A Foreigner," discussing the reasons why England is hated. Its importance lies in the fact that the writer is really King Leopold of Belgium, who is visiting London, and that he arrays himself as the only champion of the British cause which has been found in Europe during the present crisis. The following shows the tenor of His Majesty's letter:

"As one who has taken, during a half century, the keenest interest in English politics, and who has always followed with great admiration the spirit of enterprise, unflinching love of liberty, and great achievements of your nation all over the world, I cannot suppress my astonishment on finding that not only Americans, Turks, and Boers, but nearly all the nations of Europe and Asia, manifest great animosity towards Great Britain, and I, very naturally ask myself what on earth may have caused that unanimous hatred, and what is the reason that they all pour the vials of their wrath upon the English.

"In the first place it is envy and jealousy which have made England hated and feared by her rivals in the field of competition. The sight of a relatively small nation spreading a net of colonies and possessions all over the globe, bringing forward extraordinary and salutary changes in the social and political conditions of distant wild and semi-civilized nations, and, above all, earning moral and material successes for her strenuous work, could hardly have been viewed with indifference by those European nations whose awaking is of more recent date, and who do not dispose of the means and qualities which have helped you.

"Success has at all times engendered envy and animosity, and particularly if this success is the outcome of national qualities in which others are lacking. Germany, France and Russia, in comparing their gigantic military budget with the comparatively small outlays of England for her defence, must certainly feel vexed, and still more will their respective peoples envy the British citizen who does not feel the burden of compulsory military service, and still enjoys the liberty, might and power of the greatest empire that ever existed. The Frenchman of the better class is comparatively less blind in his judgment than the others. He says: 'Je deteste les Anglais mais je les admire.' ("I detest the English, but I admire them.")

"The Russian, like all Asiatics, is carefully hiding his feelings. He imitates the Englishman in habits and manners. He acknowledges his mental superiority. In appearance he respects him even, but the more deep-seated are his hatred and his efforts to oust him in Asia.

"In Germany the relation is totally different. Since 1870 the formerly modest, quiet and inoffensive German has decidedly fallen into the vice of self-admiration, and one has only to mention the spreading of the English language all over the globe, the gigantic commercial relations of Great Britain and the ubiquity of the Union Jack in all seas to rouse his anger and his dislike.

"Apart from the aforesaid enemies, England has of late estranged many of her former friends by her recently inaugurated policy in the near East. Whatever may be said about the so-called Armenian question, it will hardly be denied that the motives, as well as the means, of a diplomatic campaign against Turkey seem, to many people, inopportune and ill-chosen."

There is much more on this subject, and the King of the Belgiums concludes with the prophecy of many disturbances similar to last week, but final British triumph over all adversaries.

Ask No Odds of Anyone.

London, Jan. 19.—The Standard will to-morrow print a review of the European situation, in which it will declare emphatically that Great Britain does not seek an alliance with any power.

Death of a Noted Artist.

New York, Jan. 18.—It has just been learned that Matthew B. Brady, well known as the pioneer photographer of the United States, died at the Presbyterian Hospital, in this city, Wednesday evening.

Mr. Brady was born in Warren County, N.Y., in 1823. For 15 years before the Civil War he conducted a studio in New York. In 1851 he entered his work in a London exhibition and took first prize. His pictures were to be seen all over Europe. During the War of the Rebellion, Mr. Brady placed a corps of [illegible] in the field and obtained a famous collection of war studies at a cost of $100,000. The Government now owns the plates.

Herbert Booth Coming to Toronto.

New York, Jan. 17.—Among the passengers who arrived on the St. Louis to-night was Hubert Booth, youngest son of General William Booth and brother of General Ballington Booth of the Salvation Army. He was asked as to the reported recall of Ballington Booth and his wife from their American work. He did not know the cause of the recall, he said, but thought it likely that it was because of the practice of changing the commands of the army's officers every six or seven years. He did not know whether he was to take his brother's place or not; but thought it not unlikely that his district would be changed within the next four months or so. Hubert Booth will start for Toronto, Ont., to-morrow.

IT WILL NOT WORK.

Go on with the conspiracy, hound every Liberal as a traitor, go to the ash-barrel for old scraps of Tory papers and campaign sheets, curse Mr. Laurier as a Frenchman, put French-Canadians outside the pale of citizenship, divide the people into hostile camps, coerce and cajole; use the flag of free trade England to serve the ends of an anti-British trade policy; make it, if you can, the emblem of a faction. But we tell you, gentlemen who misrepresent the Conservative party that the plot will not succeed. It is miserable, contemptible, disloyal, dirty work. The people of Canada see and understand. They are determined to have a united, not a divided, Canada; a united people, not an English faction and a French faction, flying at each other's throats; and they will not further the wretched conspiracy to destroy the country in order to give an incompetent, hair-pulling, rib-stabbing, discredited Government another term of office.—Globe.

THE POLICY OF LYING AND SLANDER.

The policy of the present crazy-patch-work cabinet is, to use, with reverence, the language of Scripture "a refuge of lies." The ministers have lied by the book, by word and deed, both before and after the bolt, and to such an extent that the Montreal Star intimates that in view of their monumental mendacity, Ananias and Baron Munchausen are obscured under the distance flag. And the pace set by the ministers has been followed by the house and mud slinging and falsification and slander have been inaugurated to an extent that makes the blood of a decent man run cold. One cannot expect better when the party leaders set the example, and when the chief organ of the party, the Montreal Gazette, declares that lying in politics is justifiable. The Montreal Herald recalls that when Lord Mount-Stephen having charged the Gazette with falsehood, its editor admitted that political exigencies sometimes led a paper into misstatement and argues:—Is it political exigencies or a careless blunder which led it into misrepresenting Mr. Laurier's remarks on our defences in Parliament a day or so ago so grossly as appears below? Here is the Gazette's own correct report of Mr. Laurier's words:—

"He asked for more information with regard to the improvement of the militia, and advocated the provision of the best modern arms. (Applause.) We ought to have a force ready to meet the enemy and repel invasion, and it would be simply sending them to butchery if they were not properly armed."

Here is the Gazette's political exigency remark on the same paragraph:

"One of the clauses in the speech from the Throne to which Mr. Laurier objected was that referring to the arms of the militia, which the government proposes to improve. It would look as if the Opposition, at the coming election, proposed to get along without the volunteer vote."

Mr. Laurier did question, as all right-minded people did, the good taste of putting guns and bayonets into the Speech from the Throne at that particular juncture, but the paragraph above conveys a meaning precisely the reverse of that warranted by Mr. Laurier's loyal and patriotic speech. If this is not an intentional slander it is easy to confess and apologize, though even then the imputation of disloyalty is likely to travel further than the confession and apology.

ONE HONEST MAN.

DEAR EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that if written to confidentially, I will mail in a sealed letter, the plan pursued by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness, night losses and weak, shrunken parts.

I have no scheme to extort money from anyone whomsoever. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank Heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and anxious to make this certain means of cure known to all.

Having nothing to sell or send C.O.D., I want no money. Address JAS. A. HARRIS, Box 293. Delray, Mich.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER'S RECORD.

The settled policy of the present crazy patchwork combination at Ottawa is mud-slinging. The bolters and their apologists have been compelled to do a good deal of dirt eating and the organs will have to do a good deal more. Many Tory journals which in a spasm of temporary honesty or in disgust have roundly abused the bolters will have to take back some pretty strong statements, if they fall in line and support the "nest of traitors." The Mail which has taken Sir Charles Tupper to its arms as a paragon of political wisdom and sublime honesty, will also have to eat its little dirt pie. On the 9th of June, 1891, three days after the death of Sir John Macdonald, in commenting upon the possible successor of the dead premier, the Mail said:

"There can be no doubt that the wires are being actively pulled for Sir Chas. Tupper at Ottawa by his son, with his other special adherents in the Cabinet as well as by members from the eastern provinces, to which as a reward for their political loyalty to him in the late contest he has promised 'even more than justice' in the division of the spoil. His professed withdrawal from Canadian politics has deceived nobody, as all events since his proceedings in the last election."

Continuing, the Mail also said:

"Of the system which Mr. Blake deplores, Sir Charles Tupper has notoriously been the chief agent. All that is worst in it that has tended most to debase the the national character is familiarly connected with his name, and which may be said to be a household word of corruption. His name is at this moment unpleasantly connected with suspicions commercial offices in England. He will protest his innocence of ours, but his word, unhappily, is that of a man whose veracity is much impugned, and who does not scruple to use stolen letters. He is the prince of political crackmen no doubt, but we cannot afford to purchase ability even of so rare a kind at such a price as that of continued and increased demoralization. The appointment of such a man at the head of the State would be not merely the inauguration of violence and corruption unredeemed by any true wisdom or statesmanship, it would be the signal for a disruption of the community and for a moral civil war."

All of which sounds very much like the truth. Have political exigencies caused the Mail to change tack?

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

Persons outside the charmed official circles at Ottawa have to take their news very largely at second-hand. Mr. Stevenson returned to town on Saturday with a happy solution of the Manitoba school question in the interest of getting the Government out of the hole in which it finds itself. Mr. Stevenson says the policy of the Government on the school question, while not definitely decided, is reduced to two alternative points. The Government will either steal Mr. Laurier's thunder, by referring the matter to a commission, or the Government will introduce and pass a remedial bill, with the condition that it shall not come into force till it is made operative by the proclamation of the Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba in Council!

This extraordinary programme is given on Mr. Stevenson's authority.

A "nest of traitors" seems the proper place to hatch a brawling brood of boodlers.

THE special edition of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review and Dominion Dairyman, is worthy of the great cheese industry. It contains a complete review of the dairy industry of the Dominion, and pays special attention to the Oxford district, the home of successful dairying, whose importance is such that the product of this district amounts to the large sum of about one million dollars a year. The special edition of the Dairyman is profusely illustrated, and contains portraits of the leading men connected with dairying, and interesting sketches of their respective careers. The edition is brimful in all its eight neatly printed pages of matter of the first interest to practical dairymen and is a decided credit to the publishers.

LAKEFIELD BUTTER CO.

The Shareholders Hold Their Annual Meeting and Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the shareholders was held on Monday, Jan. 13th, and was fairly well attended. Considerable interest was taken as was evinced by discussions on different questions.

Mr. H. C. Garbutt occupied the chair and the minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. The annual report showed a very gratifying result of the first year's business. After paying all expenses a small margin was on hand.

The Directors had prepared rules and regulations to govern the running of the factory. They were heartily approved by the shareholders. One of the rules was that no turnips be fed to cows from which milk was brought to the factory.

The election of officers took place, the old officers being elected by acclamation.

Secretary—F. E. Kline.
Directors—Messrs G. J. Galvin, J. H. Mann, Levi Payne. Isaac Garbutt, Jr.

ADVERTISING FOR FARMERS.

While waiting at a country station I became acquainted with quite an intelligent, nicely dressed gentleman, who belonged to that class which, according to the funny newspaper, is the natural mark for the confidence man. During our conversation he learned that I was connected with the advertising department of the press.

"I believe in advertising," he remarked, "and practice it, as also do several of my neighbours."

The possibility of a farmer advertising had never occurred to me, and upon expressing a curiosity to know in what manner farmers could advertise, he said:

"I live in one of the best counties in Michigan, where I own and till a large farm. In addition to growing all kinds of grain I raise both cattle and hogs. I live within convenient distance of four railroad stations, each having a number of grain buyers and stock dealers. When I conclude that I am ready to sell my stuff, I insert a local in three or four local papers published at those villages stating the amount and quality and, if stock, when it will be ready to go. Then, instead of being compelled to go from one dealer to another in order to receive a fair price, they come to me, and by mail personally put a price on it. The buyers know my methods and also know that other dealers are after me, and as a consequence they bid the highest price they can afford. I always get the best prices going, and my little outlay in advertising pays me. Then another thing:—If I want to buy a milch cow, what is the use of my riding all over the country, inquiring from Tom, Dick and Harry for the desired article, and spending four or five dollars' worth of valuable time when fifty cents invested in an advertisement in the local paper will bring such a throng of eager sellers as to give my premises the appearance of a county fair ground."—Printers' Ink.

NEW WOMAN'S NEEDS.

CORSETS MUCH IMPROVED BY THE PHYSICAL CULTURE FAD.

Practical Sense in the Construction of Corsets—Woman Will Never Abandon Them Altogether—The Bicycle Is Responsible for a New Style of Corset—Prices and Other Particulars.

The tendency among women to take up physical culture and athletics has not driven out corsets, but it has done much to improve them. In speaking on this subject a woman who has had many years of experience as an importer and manufacturer of fine corsets, and was appointed by the Board of Lady Managers to act as judge of corsets at the World's Fair, said:

"American women have become more and more practical in their demands regarding corsets during the past two years, and as a consequence American manufacturers have advanced very rapidly in the construction of artistic and perfect fitting stays that do not mould the figure of a woman and press it into shape, but conform to the natural lines and curves of her body. Indoor and outdoor sports have taught women that if a corset constructed on such principles is worn, it serves the purpose for which it was intended, that of supporting the body, and proves a help rather than such a hindrance as the corset built to compress a waist so that it could be spanned. Five years ago there was a great demand for No. 16 and 17 corsets. Now they are not made, and the majority of women go so far as to say that a very small waist is vulgar. The best corset for women who indulge in athletic sports is made of elastic, and is cut off straight all around under the arms.

THE ATHLETIC CORSET.

The upper part is entirely independent of the body, and is made of hand-knit silk. Some women have only six or seven pieces of whalebone put in, while others prefer as many as ten. Sometimes it is made as long as an ordinary corset, at other times it reaches to the waist line. This corset yields with every movement of the body without getting out of place, whereas an ordinary health waist, if worn loose enough to prove beneficial, persists in rolling up about the wearer's waist, and, if laced up tight enough to be kept down, loses its advantage from a hygiene standpoint.

"Both styles come laced or buttoned behind or in front to suit the fancy of the purchaser, and have only the one opening."

"But how could a woman lace up a corset behind on herself?" was the next question. "Would she not have to have a maid?"

"No, indeed," was the laughing response. "Many women who do all of their own work wear this corset. As it is made of elastic the wearer is able to pull it around in front, lace or button it, twist the garment around, and slip her arms through the knitted armholes, and there she is, encased in an easy, comfortable corset, with very few whalebones in it. The cheapest corset made in this style is $5, and that is the short one; it ranges from that price up to $20, which buys one made of pure silk-finished elastic and elaborately embellished.

"Another corset, which is not kept in stock, but made to order, is very popular with athletic women. It is a ventilated stay made of either cotton braid or double-faced satin ribbon about an inch and a half wide. Each perpendicular strip has a piece of genuine whalebone inserted in it, and these are joined by strips of braid running horizontally across, leaving spaces about an inch apart. This corset is exceedingly flexible and very handsome. When made of braid it costs $12, while the ribbon one sells for $20.

"A great many women wish to wear a very long corset, and cannot, because when they sit down it binds them too much. A corset is made specially for just such persons and is lengthened at the bottom by means of a wide band of imported elastic which holds the form in, and yields sufficiently to allow the wearer to assume a graceful and comfortable sitting posture. This corset often helps to reduce large hips if constantly worn. However, a corset specially constructed for a woman with abnormally large hips and abdomen is long in front and presses down the abdomen very firmly. The gores are made so as to give sufficient spring in the back, which keeps the flesh from crowding below the corset on the hips, as is often the case. This is really a boon to women thus afflicted.

"The bicycling craze has brought out a variety of corsets specially adapted to this sport, and some of them are perfect, while most have their good points. One of the best is moderately long in front and exceedingly short on the hips, where it has two gores of elastic, which give with every movement of the legs. Another corset for the woman with a very short figure, who wishes to gain as much length as possible, is 10 1-2 inches in front and 8 inches under the arms. It has a large hook on the hips and in front, fully three inches below the waist line, and to these the skirts are fastened instead of taking up the waist line. Still another, of similar style, is only nine inches in front and six under the arms. A short, closely woven corset, containing several hundred whalebones, is quite popular with wheelwomen. They say it is as soft as an old rag, but no woman who has ever ridden in the corset first described will ever want to ride in any other.

THE STOUT WOMAN'S CORSET.

"I make a specialty of corsets for deformed women and those with curvature of the spine, which, being a weakness of the bones and muscles, is often helped by a perfectly fitting corset. Curvatures are often constitutional, just the same as curly hair. A woman comes in with a curvature. She is suspended, and her measures are taken. When she comes in for a fitting she is again suspended, and the corset is fitted on her while her figure is stretched out into natural shape, and after wearing the corset for a while she grows to it. A great many women, too, are one-sided, and are compelled to have their stays made to order. The manufacturer puts a little padding here and there where it is needed, and nobody is any the wiser. Not every woman wears a plain, straight corset, such as are on exhibition in the shop windows, and many who do ought not to, for their health is often injured by doing so.

"Corsets for evening wear are cut quite high under the arm, but low in front and right in the middle of the back. They retain their height at the shoulder blades and side of the bust and the gores of the bust are put proportionately low. One of the favorite materials for evening wear is batiste, though satin, china silk, brocade, and peau de soie are extensively used. They are trimmed in ribbon and lace, according to fancy.

"Women have learned another thing in the past few years, and that is, how to stand correctly. The time was when a woman would go to be measured for a corset. 'Stand straight,' the measurer would command, and back her shoulders would go, and out her bust and abdomen would protrude. Often it would take nearly an hour to get a woman to assume a correct position. Now just say, 'stand straight,' and she falls into an easy, graceful pose, and the work of taking her measurements lasts less than five minutes. Athletics have done this. The children in the public schools are also being taught to stand correctly, and it is not only a great thing for them, but for the people destined to make their corsets.

"As corsets have advanced in construction, they have decreased in price. This is because our own manufacturers have learned to make a first-class article at small cost. Real good corsets, in which genuine whalebone is used, cannot be purchased in stock for less than $5, and they vary in price to $15, but several materials are used to take the place of whalebone which enable retailers to sell strong, flexible, well-shaped corsets as low as $1.50. The best material for everyday wear is coutille, a kind of drilling which comes in white, black, ecru, and all shades of drab.

"Women used to wear corsets so heavy that it almost took a derrick to lift them, but they bade these cumbersome things good-bye with their small waists. The tendency now is to lightness. The first thing that a woman asks when about to make a purchase is not, What is the price? but Is it light? and she picks up the garment and shifts it from one hand to the other, testing its weight.

"It really pays to have a corset made to order, for one gets an article that fits, and most manufacturers guarantee them for one year. The majority of women wear out four or five $2 corsets a year, and one made to order costs only $9—that is the cheapest—and while it may seem a good deal for a person on a short allowance to invest in a pair of stays, it pays in the end. No two women have figures exactly alike, and it is almost impossible to get a satisfactory ready-made corset."

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. If his body is all out of order and run-down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for enjoyment be perfect. If this condition doesn't exist something ought to be done. That means nine cases in ten the use of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the body. THE RAILROAD WRECK AT LOCUST HILL.

A C. P. R. Freight Train Comes to Grief—The Loss a Heavy One.

A special freight train, in charge of Conductor McNeil, left Havelock last evening for Toronto Junction. When about two miles this side of Locust Hill an axle on one of the cars broke down, derailing the whole train and badly wrecking nine cars and their contents.

The accident occurred between two high embankments and consequently the cars being unable to spread were piled one on top of the other until many of them were splintered into matchwood. Strange to say not one of the crew was injured in any manner.

The nine cars which were so badly wrecked were freighted with dry goods and for yards around the snow is strewn with the latest fashions in hats, dress goods, etc. The rails were ripped up for quite a a distance and though the wrecking auxiliaries and their crews from Toronto and Havelock were both on the scene by midnight the wreck is not cleared away yet and passengers are being carried to Locust Hill by trains from the east and west and transferred from one to the other the trains then running back along the line again. The accident happened between nine and ten o'clock last night and it was one o'clock this afternoon before the passengers on last night's midnight express passed through, being delayed over twelve hours on the road. Their meals, however, were all provided from the dining room car free of expense.

The passenger traffic on the local division is in full swing, but the blockade in freight will be a serious inconvenience.

THE CHURCH AND THE WORKINGMAN.

To the Fortnightly Club:

Your article No. 2 of Saturday last has been perused by me and by a number of my fellow workmen, and we think you are lamenting over a state of facts that does not exist in Canada. You state that "during the last twenty or more years, the almost universal cry has been that we are losing our hold upon the workingman."

If by "we" you mean any particular church then you may be right in your conclusion—and if I may judge from the quotation from the "learned English writer" I think I am justified in assuming that that writer refers to the state of things in England, where the workingman may have too much reason for his belief that the churches are not "religious realities, not bodies organized for the teaching and doing of righteousness but for the maintenance of vested interests and conventional respectabilities."

It is pleasing to read that this high authority candidly admits that there is "disbelief in the churches rather than in religion."

I cannot suggest as a remedy any change in the religion which appears to hold its own, but might it not in England be a blessing if these "vested interests" were swept away, and by putting all the churches on the same footing—making all depend on the people for support, thus put new life and interest in the people who always value and cherish most dearly that which costs them something. And would not the church, resting on and being the people—our life—speedily "adapt itself to its environment?"

In England the workingmen 20 or 30 years ago may have been better churchmen, but they were less educated, less able to measure their teachers, and now with developed intelligence, access to libraries and an advanced press, their intellectual wants are better supplied than formerly, and the church which failed to adapt itself to its environment has no hold on them.

I admit that a little education is apt to make the working man a philosopher, and in the newly propogated theories of the right of man—communism, etc.—he is apt to hold his little stock of knowledge as more fit to guide him than the teaching of Him whose philosophy in the highest degree propounded the theory of the brotherhood of man.

But we would ask the Fortnightly Club to sift the facts. Even in England, if "we" stands for all the churches of Christ, it will be found that there is more religious life, and more hold of the churches upon the workingman than ever before. Are not chapels and houses of worship being constantly erected? Is not the church membership greater than ever before?

Applying the examination to our own country it is apparent that the conclusion of the Club is not well founded. Churches are being erected all over the land, so that a church is being dedicated every day. The people are followed by faithful teachers into the remotest settlements and their spiritual wants supplied. This is certainly suiting itself to the environment.

Last week I dropped into a little entertainment at the George street Methodist church and there I heard the announcement that the actual attendance at the Sunday school of that church was sometimes over 700. The other churches no doubt are zealously looking after the children, most of whom come from the homes of workingmen. The Methodist church of Canada has 250,000 children in its Sabbath schools. There is here a fact from which we may safely conclude that the workingmen of Canada—(and are we not all workingmen?)—do admit the gentle control of the church.

The fact is that education is so diffused in this country that men do not so much look to the church for intellectual guidance as for that spiritual help which it is the primary duty of the church to afford.

Let the church deliver its "message" and live it, and the workingman will not distrust the sincerity of its spokesmen.

The religious teacher, if he would hold the working man, must present his teaching in form and manner to secure the intellectual interest and respect of the working man, but there must also be the warmth of spiritual life, and his social interests must not be neglected—for he is made capable of social development and enjoyment. Therefore wisdom and judgment are required, and constant effort, without which under our old nature, whether of Darwin or the Book, we tend back to our first state.

And Received Injuries Which Terminated Fatally.

On Saturday morning at about five o'clock Mr. G. C. Humphries, of Asphodel, met with an accident which terminated fatally in less than five minutes thereafter. The old gentleman was making his way down stairs in the residence of his son, Adam, when he stumbled and fell to the bottom, receiving injuries that terminated as above.

He was one of the oldest residents of Asphodel, having come to the township with his parents in the early thirties. He was in the 77th year of age.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

DAILY MOTTO.

Monday, Jan. 20th.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE.

Some Facts Respecting the Origin and Aims of the Association—The Founder and His Associates—Convention in Peterborough.

In connection with the two days' convention of Christian Alliance workers to open in this town on Sabbath 26th, a few facts regarding the remarkable movement which has found embodiment in its organization will be of interest.

The Rev. A. B. Simpson, the founder of the alliance, is a Canadian, and a graduate of Knox College. He was nine years pastor of a Presbyterian church in Hamilton, Ont., and subsequently accepted a call to a church in Louisville, Kentucky, and finally to New York. Finding himself too much hemmed in by a conservative people in that city, he resigned his charge, so that he might be better able to reach the masses. He hired tents and halls in different parts of New York, and the outcome of about fourteen years' labour is "The Christian Alliance" and "International Missionary Alliance," which was organized a little over seven years ago, and has sent to different parts of the world about 300 missionaries—50 to Africa, 70 to Central India, 80 to China, and many to Japan, Palestine, South America, the West Indies, and several other places. There is also published a weekly paper called the "Christian Alliance," which has a large circulation, and a number of books, tracts, etc. In connection with the work there is a Missionary Training Institute, where hundreds of missionaries and evangelists have been trained for work in home and foreign lands. Mr. Simpson is pastor of the Gospel tabernacle, the Rev. Henry Wilson, D. D., being associated with him. Dr. Wilson is also a Canadian and a graduate of Trinity College, Toronto. After being a minister of a church in Kingston far about seventeen years he was invited to be a helper to Mr. Rainsford in St. George's, New York. He remained there six years, and is now an associate pastor of the New York Gospel tabernacle. The Rev. A. E. Funk, of German extraction, from Pennsylvania, is assistant pastor also at the tabernacle Both of these associates will be present and take part in the convention. Mr. A. P. Woodcock, a returned missionary from Africa, is also a member of the deputation

The above mentioned brethren will hold a convention in Peterborough on Sunday and Monday, Jan. 26th and 27th, in Bethany Mission, Water street, near Simcoe. Meetings, 10 a. m., 2 30 and 7 p. m. The truths presented will be salvation for the sinner, sanctification for the believer, healing for the sick and suffering and the speedy coming of the Lord for His children and also addresses on foreign missions.

The Electric Light

Is a small matter of importance compared with other applications electricity. By this agency Polson's Nerviline is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficient power. Nerviline, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, is yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonising internal pain yields as if by magic. Nerviline relieves neuralgia instantly and for the most speedy cure of nerve pains of every description it has no equal. Sold everywhere.

DEATH OF AN OLD CAVANITE.

We clip the following from the Hamiltonian, Dakota:

Died. At the Lough residence, Sunday morning, December 29th, 1895, of heart disease, David Lough, aged 76 years.

Deceased was born in county Monaghan, Ireland, June 20th, 1819, and emigrated with his parents to Canada when about four years old. The family settled in the township of Cavan, Ontario, about 1823, and were among the very first settlers in that part of the province. He was married April 4th, 1844, to margaret Weir, of County Fermanagh, Ireland. They resided in their Canadian home until 7 years ago, when they removed to this place where most of their children had preceeded them. Deceased leaves to mourn his loss a family of eight children, William H. of Ida, Ont., Mrs. John Grandy, wife of our esteemed postmaster, Thomas, of Langdon, George, now in Alaska, and Frank, Charles and Teresa, still at home. He enjoyed remarkably good health all through life, never having been confined to his bed two days by illness until his last illness, and then only a very short time. On Sunday morning he seemed to feel better, talked with his wife, has his bed fixed, and turned over with his face to the wall as if to sleep, and passed away without a struggle, motion or sigh.

The funeral services were held at the Lough residence on Tuesday at 2 p.m., Rev. Mr. Peabody officiating, and the remains were interred in the Bathgate cemetery, and were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of mourning friends and relatives.

Mr. Lough made many friends during his residence amongst us, and was universally respected. He was a type of that hearty full-faced English-Irish gentlemen, who had a hearty greeting and a friendly smile for all, and will be sadly missed. The mourning family have the sympathy of the community in this their great bereavement.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

OF MR. RICHARD FLAHERTY, SON OF MR. JAMES FLAHERTY, EMILY, WHO DIED IN ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL, NOVEMBER 1895.

A brother dear has left his home,
Who unexpected fled:
He's sleeping in the graveyard now
Among the silent dead.

He was but a tender flower,
That blossomed here and died;
The fondest of his parents dear,
Their darling and their pride.

He did not suffer long below,
Till his Father called him home,
To join the heavenly choir above
That chant around His throne.

We know his parents will feel sad,
When they think of the dear one gone;
But we know that they can say,
O Lord thy will be done.

We need not call him back again,
For he is better far;
From sin and sorrow he is safe
Within the gates ajar.

Then sisters, brothers, parents, friends,
Let us for death prepare;
That when called to the world on high,
We'll meet dear Richard there.

ONE IN SYMPATHY.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Down at the Rink Amongst the Curlers and the Hockeyists—Other Items of Interest.

HOCKEY.

The Norwood team met with a most signal defeat at the hands of the Peterboroughs on Saturday night, when the two sevens came together in a league match on the local rink. At the end of an hour's play the score stood 12—4 in favour of the Peterboroughs, thus putting the Norwoods out of the running in the O. H. A. series, unless the Peterboroughs should lower their flags to the Volts next week, which is hardly within the range of the possibilities. However, if such a thing should happen, and in the event of Norwood winning from Lindsay, then the two teams would have to play off the tie. All this, however, is beside the question, as the Volts are not strong enough to be considered a dangerous element and Norwood will have to be satisfied with having made a remarkably good showing for a first year team in the league.

The two teams lined up in the following manner:—

PETERBOROUGH.		NORWOOD.
Wasson	goal	Anderson
Adams	point	Code
Parsons	cover point	McGregor
King	forwards	Hendren
Phelan		Ashe
Montgomery		Williams
Lefevre		Stewart
S Ray	umpires	J McKelvey
H Macgachen	timekeepers	Gordon White
Referee	H. A. Moore.

In Saturday night's game the Peterborough's made it plainly evident that they are too fast a team for any of the juniors to run up against with any

HOPE OF SUCCESS.

From start to finish Norwood was on the defense all the time and the visiting team's only aggressive play consisted of a few spasmodic rushes. Of the four goals which Norwood was credited with scoring only two should have been counted. The partiality of their goal umpire was so glaringly apparent that Captain Ashe, himself, substituted another in his stead.

The sharp checking of the Peterboroughs completely nonplussed the visitors, who were unable to hold the puck with any degree of certainty. Time and again one of their forwards would come out of a scrimmage with the rubber sphere only to have it leave him to glue itself to the stick of an opponent, and be carried away beyond his reach with an ease that astonished him.

As the Norwood forwards all clustered around their goal every time it was in danger, it proved quite a hard matter to work the puck through on a combination, and consequently the majority of the goals were scored for Peterborough on long shots.

When the Peterborough forwards lined up for one of

down the rink, the Norwood defence would go out boldly to meet them, and almost invariably the result would be that a couple of Norwood men would be found to be measuring their length on the ice when the line passed them by.

The goals were scored in the following order:—

1—Peterborough, by	Phelan	1½	mins
2— "	King	2	"
3— "	Montgomery	3	"
4—Norwood	by Ashe	½	"
5—Peterborough, by	Phelan	7	"
6— "	King	10	"
7— "	LeFevre	7	"

HALF TIME.

8—Peterborough, by	Montgomery	4	mins
9—Norwood	by Ashe	2	"
10—Peterborough, by	King	1	"
11— "	King	4½	"
12— "	Phelan	1½	"
13—Norwood	by Hendren	1	"
14—Peterborough, by	Phelan	½	"
15—Norwood	by Stewart	1½	"
16—Peterborough, by	LeFevre	1	"

The Norwood team are good skaters and very speedy and their weakness lay in the fact that their combination work was defective and that they have not yet acquired the art of lifting the puck for a shot on goal. The forwards appeared to recognize the fact that their individual play would never win a match and accordingly would attempt to pass the puck when they got it, but the puck seldom reached the destination for which

IT WAS INTENDED,

as nine times out of ten it was passed straight to the stick of a Peterborough player. Practice in playing together will, in time, teach the visitors just where to find every man on their team by intuition, and when this art has been acquired Norwood will have a team which will, in all probability win the junior pennant next year if the home team go into the seniors, as is contemplated. In Captain Ashe the visitors have a man who is thoroughly posted on every point of the game, and as he has first-class material upon which to work in the shape of strong, speedy young skaters, he will doubtless have developed a very fast team by the end of the season. Having heard of Ashe's work on the forward line, the Peterborough's "laid for him." Phelan lingering behind the forward line and checking Ashe nearly every time he came through. Just here it might be said that Walter is playing the fastest game of his life this year, a long shot from the side was very cleverly executed on Saturday night. Parson's work is worthy of special praise. His lightening work at cover point was most brilliant. He was here and there and everywhere checking so hard and fast that it was almost impossible to pass him. Lefevre kept things moving in his wing and brought many a Norwood man to the ice, when they crashed into him. Montgomery played his usual steady game, but was responsible for a great many off-sides being called—so many in fact that the referee put him up on the fence for five minutes to steady him down. The difficulty seems to lay in the fact that as a point man he could hardly ever be offside and being accustomed to taking the puck every time it was within reach, he is not accustomed to guard against offside play as on the other forwards.

Lionel King was slightly out of condition through having hurt his leg a few days ago, but as he dashed around the ice it was hard to detect a fault in his play. His shots on goal are and many times did the spectators behind the wire screen throw up their hands as the puck came from his stick with a crash against the netting. Adams at point and Wasson in goal did not have much opportunity of showing of what they were capable though the latter stopped some fairly swift shots. So little did they have to do that Sam grew a trifle careless and left Wasson unprotected at the cost of a game.

If a suggestion to the hockey club would not be taken amiss it would be to advise a new formation of the team for the game with the Volts as an experiment. Parsons' dashing work at cover point this year proves him to be eminently fitted for the work of a forward. If he was placed in that position and Adams put at cover point with Montgomery back in his old place at point, the effect would probably be the strengthening of the team. A trial in the coming match would do no harm.

That hockey is a great drawing card in Peterborough is proven by the fact that there were five hundred tickets sold for the match, and curlers and yearly ticket holders as well as ladies were not charged any entrance fee. There were therefore seven or eight hundred in attendance at the rink, which was a most remarkably good record for a Saturday night.

NOTES.

The Norwood goalkeeper wore no pads to protect his legs, and as he stopped the majority of the shots with his shins he must be rather sore to-day. He proved himself a good man.

After the game the local team gave the visitors an oyster supper at McCallum's restaurant.

A funny incident happened when Ernie Wasson tripped Hendren up by diving between his legs.

The Volts go over to Lindsay to-night. It will be a close game.

The latest conundrum—Norwood won from the Volts by 6 2, and Peterborough won from Norwood 12 4. what then will be the result of the Peterborough vs. Volts game.

In the game between the Lindsay and local Collegiates on Saturday afternoon, King on the forward line and Graham on defence showed up particularly well. The Lindsay Collegiates were by far the heavier team.

JANUARY WEDDINGS.

They Took Place During the Week—Rev. John Garbutt Officiated.

WRIGHT GUTHRIE.

On Wednesday of this week two of the most highly respected young people of the townships of Smith and Emily joined hands in matrimony, Rev. John M. Garbutt officiating. The contracting parties were Mr. John Wright, of Fowler's Corners, township of Smith, and Miss Martha Guthrie, eldest daughter of Mrs. Catharine Guthrie, of Bethel, township of Emily. The bride's gown was beautiful and most becoming. Miss Edith L. Guthrie, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Deyell of Fowler's Corners.

HINES-SHAW.

At the residence of the bride's mother, township of Ops, on Wednesday, January 15th, in the presence of about twenty guests, Mr. James W. Hines of Ops, was united in marriage to Miss Emma L. Shaw. Miss Stinson of Peterborough, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Lewis Shaw, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Rev. John M. Garbutt officiated. The young couple are highly respected, and we join their friends in wishing them every happiness.

NOT ARABS, BUT PYRENEAN GYPSIES.

Mr. J. W. MacMillan writes as follows to the Lindsay Post:—It appears that some interest is still kept up among us as to the band of foreigners who were recently arrested and expelled from this vicinity. Their race and circumstances seem to be so generally misunderstood that I ask leave to tell your readers the few facts that I, by a slight investigation, have learned about them. In the first place, they are not "Arabs," but Gypsies. Their original home is in the Pyrenees, and their readiest speech is French. In the second place, they did not come hither from Chicago, but from Cork, Ireland. In the third place, while squalid and pitiable enough, they were not destitute of either clothes or money. Their clothes and bedding were not fashionable or clean, and some of the children were not warmly clad, but they seemed to have a great quantity of clothing in their possession. If any of them were half naked it was from choice and not of necessity. In their pockets were at least $25, given them in Peterborough as the price of their withdrawal. They belong to a class of people well enough known, who unite the exhibition of performing animals with persistent and shameless begging, and retain as their strongest characteristic the love of an idle roaming life. Their number, as nearly as I could discover, was twenty-six, consisting of six men, five women and fifteen children. Their possessions consisted of three wooden vans, each fitted with a bed and stove, drawn by two horses and a jackass, and accompanied by two bears, a baboon and a guinea pig. They had been somewhat disappointed in the vigour of our Canadian winter, and while able to warm themselves in their vans, were anxious to make their way south. They left here with the expression intention of getting to Toronto as soon as possible. Such a problem is an unusually vexed one to a community like ours. I know that some people were very kind to them. I know, also, that some others were very loud in their protestations of pity, but refrained from any benevolent action. I am inclined to think that such a company, being of alien tongue and habits, and possessing the means of making a livelihood in a warm and well-settled country, were best helped by efforts, which were really kindly, to move them in a direction of such a place."

Mr. MacMillan is mistaken in his assertions, as the foreigners came from a small island off the southern coast of Africa and from a port where Mr. Wm. Bowman once landed when following the avocation of a sailor.

POLICE COURT.

Two Cases Occupy the Attention of the Police Magistrate.

Wm. Rattray, was charged at Police Court this morning with stealing a robe, the property of Walter Evans. It seems, that on Saturday Mr. Evans drove in from the country and left his horse and cutter at his father's house on Paterson street. When leaving for home the robe was missed and suspicion at once fastened on Rattray and he was arrested. At the request of Crown Attorney Wood, the case was enlarged till Wednesday.

An old man named Anderson, was up on a charge of vagrancy. He has been in jail before and was not anxious to go back. He pleaded not guilty, saying he had money if he could get it. This case was also allowed to stand until Wednesday.

A mirror could not lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face, your mirror will tell you so. Health is the greatest beautifier in the world. When a woman sees the indications of ill-health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation, and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaint." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullness and grace. IT PUT NEW LIFE IN ME.

"ALL I DID WAS JUST TO MOPE AROUND"
"SCOTT'S SARSAPARILLA CURED ME."

The chilly weather of late fall and early winter finds them unprepared to stand the change and hence they suffer. This fact is plainly proved by the following opinions of some who speak from practical experience:

"I felt like a man that could commit suicide. I caught a cold while camping on damp ground, had twinges of awful muscular pains, couldn't eat and couldn't sleep. All I did was to mope around and make all in the house as miserable as myself. Scott's Sarsaparilla put new life in me, braced me up thoroughly, and since its use pain is a stranger to me." Alex Grant, Toronto.

J. T. McGraw, a mining prospector, writing from Minden: Express me three bottles Scott's Sarsaparilla here before Saturday. Have been a martyr to rheumatism and indigestion brought on by exposure. Scott's Sarsaparilla is rapidly curing me."

Nothing has ever equalled Scott's Sarsaparilla for building up the system, putting the blood in healthful circulation and invigorating the body. Thousands testify to its splendid effects in extreme weakness and all debilitating diseases. On this account no imitation of Scott's should be accepted. Of your local druggists at $1 per bottle, 6 bottles $5.

AS OOM PAUL SEES IT

An Attempt to Overthrow the Boer Republic.

THAT'S WHAT JAMESON'S RAID WAS

In the Estimation of the Kruger Government—The First Official Despatch Confirming Cecil Rhodes' Connection With the Raid—Prisoners to Have Legal Trial.

New York, Jan. 17.—In reply to a cablegram request to President Paul Kruger of the South African Republic, The World has received the following despatch:

Pretoria, Jan. 16.—A deep plot was laid to overthrow the independence of the Republic. The so-called grievances of the Uitlanders and their need of protection was simply a pretext for the invasion of the country by freebooters of the Chartered Company, whose aim was to overthrow the independence of the Republic. The free-booters are imprisoned and their officers will go to England for trial. Americans are in no danger whatever. They have no need of protection, but are able to take care of themselves. Ten of them who joined the revolutionary so-called Reform Committee will, with the majority, mostly British subjects, be tried according to law, and justice will be done all without respect of nationality.
(Signed) GOVERNMENT INFORMATION DEPARTMENT.

COMPLICITY OF RHODES

The First Official Despatch to London on the Subject.

New York, Jan. 17.—Mr. Ballard Smith cables from London to The World:

The telegram to-day from the British High Commissioner and Governor of Cape Colony, Sir Hercules Robinson, is the first official confirmation of the rumor, current in London for a week, that President Kruger secured evidence on the field of battle at Krugersdorp and elsewhere proving the complicity of Cecil Rhodes and other officials of the Chartered Company in a well and long organized conspiracy to seize the Transvaal Republic. Sir Hercules cables from Cape Town today:

"It is alleged that the Government has documentary evidence of a wide spread conspiracy to seize upon the Government and make use of the wealth of the country to rehabilitate the finances of the British South Africa Co."

If this is so, and Colonial Secretary Chamberlain makes good his fine protestations, the trial of Cecil Rhodes and his associates must prove the most momentous to England since Warren Hastings was arraigned in Westminster.

The mystery of it, however, is, if the trial is fair and a conspiracy is proved against Rhodes and Jameson, how Sir Hercules can excuse his own astonishing ignorance of the preparations on the Transvaal border, carried on for months under the certain knowledge of his subordinates in Bechuanaland; and on the other hand, if he did fulfil his duty in informing the Colonial Office here of the facts, how Secretary Chamberlain himself can excuse his failure to stop the raid until intefrerence was to late.

The present absolute lack of information to explain why Englishmen and Americans allowed their kinsfolk under Jamesoon to be beleaguered into surrender almost within sight of Johannesburg, would seemingly go to show that there was no concert of action. If, however, evidence is in "Oom Paul's" possession showing the complicity of the Reform Committee in a general conspiracy, it is difficult to see how the British Government can interfere in whatever punishment may be decreed under the Boer laws upon either Englishmen or Americans proved to have been engaged in it.

The United States Government has committed the fate of the American citizens in the Pretoria jail to the kind offices of the British Government. But it must be remembered that Great Britain's extreme claim of suzerainty over the Transvaal stops at the prohibition of the Republic's entering into foreign relations against the protest of the Queen's Government. The Republic's internal government is left absolutely to herself.

If, under the Transvaal laws, the punishment, if proved, of the crime, of the imprisoned members of the Reform Committee is death, and the accused have a fair trial, it would seem that only the armed intervention of England alone, or with the assistance or consent of the United States, could save the convicted men. The armed intervention of England unquestionably would mean the annexation of the Transvaal, and it is perfectly evident that the whole nation is ready to-day to go to war with Germany if the Kaiser pushes his interference.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—Gen. Harris, uncle of John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer of this city who was arrested with others at Johannesburg last Saturday, on a charge of high treason, received a cablegram to-day stating that Hammond was in solitary confinement at Pretoria and that the situation was very ominous.

FORTY-EIGHT LIVES LOST.

Disastrous Loss of Life Through the Swamping of a British Boat.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—Particulars of the drowning of forty-eight members of the crew of the British cruiser Edgar in the harbor of Chemuipo, Corea, early last month have been received. The Edgar, which is one of Her Majesty's Chinese squadron, has been anchored in the harbor of Chemulpo for nearly a year. It has been the custom for the crew to go ashore monthly for drill. Early in December they went to Rose Island for naval practice. At the conclusion of the drill, the men, seventy-one in number, put of towards the cruiser in a light boat. The wind was blowing a gale, and the waves were rolling high. Soon the boat became unmanageable and the officer in charge fearing that it would be washed upon the island, raised a small sail, thinking to run before the wind to a place of safety.

For a time the boat sped along under sail, when suddenly the wind changed and it capsized. The accident was witnessed from the other cruisers in the harbor and boats were sent at once to the assistance of the Edgar's men. A Russian boat rescued fifteen, and a French cruiser lent succor to eight more. The launch from the United States cruiser Yorktown broke down in the gale and was unable to render aid to any of the men in the water.

Some of the sailors clung to the upturned boat, while others swam about until they were picked up. The water was icy, and the men soon became numb and sank. The bodies of many of the dead were recovered, but others were washed out to sea.

A PEACEFUL TOWN.

Sometimes, However, There Was a Ripple in the Current of Events.

As I sat on the veranda of the village tavern and looked about me I thought it one of the most peaceful towns I ever saw, and said as much to the Justice of the Peace who occupied a chair beside me.

"Yes, purty peaceful, but"——he replied as his right hand went slowly back to his pistol pocket.

"But what?" I asked.

"But yo' don't want to mix in when it comes off. Yo'r best way will be to go through that door, an' upstairs, and don't come down as long as yo' hear any shootin'."

"But I don't understand, Judge. Is there to be any shooting around here?"

"Sartin to be!"

"When?"

"Purty quick, I reckon."

"But what about?"

"Waal," he drawled, as he pointed down the street; "d'ye see that ornery hawg wallerin' in the mud down thar?"

"Yes, I see a hog."

"He belongs to Sam Batterson, the cooper, and Sam feels mighty tender to-ards that hawg since his wife died. Now, then d'ye see that pesky dawg up the street by that shade tree?"

"Yes, I see him."

"He belongs to Joe Stivers, the harnessmaker, and Joe thinks so much of him that he makes his children sleep on the floh that the dawg may have a feather bed all to hisself. In about five minutes that pesky dawg will sight that ornery hawg, and that'll be a row."

"The dog will pitch into the hog, you mean?"

"Sartin to."

"And then?"

"And then Sam Batterson will pitch into the dawg, and Joe Stivers will pitch inter Sam Batterson, and the fust thing yo' know the hull town will be pitchin' inter each other. As I said befo' yo'd better keep yo'r eyes on that doah onless yo' want to mix in."

"But, Judge, why should a little scrap between a hog and a dog lead to"——

"Thar goes the pesky dawg!" exclaimed the Judge, as he sprang up and started down the steps, drawing his pistol as he went.

I made for the door and the stairway and reached my room. The shooting opened lively and was well sustained for about ten minutes. When it appeared to be over I descended to the veranda. The Judge was just coming up the steps from the street. He had his hat in his hand, and there was blood on his cheek where a bullet had grazed it.

"Wall, it's all over till next time!" he remarked, as he sat down and examined his pistol to see how many cartridges were left in the cylinder.

"Anybody killed?" I asked.

"One or two, I reckon, and three or four hurt; but it don't begin to be as lively as usual. The pesky dawg was shot, however, and now Joe Stivers will be layin' fur Sam Batterson every day in the year and thar'll be no end of public enthoosiasm!"—Detroit Free Press.

THE McCORD CASE.

His Disease Pronounced Diabetes and Incurable—Given up by Himself and Friends—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Richmond, Jan. 20, (Special).—The talk of farmers and others in town is mostly about the astonishing cure of Wm. McCord, a farmer near here. His presence made assurance visible, and he said:—"After the doctors pronounced my trouble Diabetes no one thought recovery possible. I was partially paralysed, was nine months in bed and I ran down until I was a mere shell. When I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I stuck close to directions. One box helped me and nine boxes cured me. Am sixty years old and have lived here 40 years." Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and dealers. Price, 50 cents a box.

A Gay Plaid Gown.

Here is a pen picture of a pretty red and brown plaid gown: The skirt is open at each side in the front to disclose a plaiting of brown velvet, and a large enameled wood button is at the head of each openeng. The sleeve is very close on the lower part, with the material shirred in the seam, and is open with three buttons like those on the skirt, but small, that fasten with cords. The fulness of the upper part falls below the elbow. The blouse has brown velvet bretelles laid in folds, wide on the shoulders, so as to fall out upon the sleeve and passing under the velvet belt. The bretelles are garnished with buttons like those on the skirt, a row of three across each, to form the line of a yoke. With this gown a toque of black braided felt, with a rosette of green ivy leaves and berries on each side the front, a larger rosette of red faille ribbon on each side of the back, and a wall of black coque blades rising high between front and back.

The Royal Sarcophagus.

Queen Victoria undoubtedly thinks that she has arrived at an age when she may devote a certain amount of time and thought to her tomb without being accused by her subjects of morbid tendencies. The tomb adjoining that of the Prince Consort, has been prepared for some time, but considerable curiosity is felt in regard to the decoration for this reason. The Prince Consort's tomb is decorated by a recumbent statue, representing him as an exceedingly handsome man of about forty years of age. If it is the intention of the Queen to carry out the same idea in regard to her own vault, at what age will she be represented by the sculptor? From an artistic point of view the Queen's marble portrait ought to match that of her departed consort in the important matter of age, and if this is to be the case, the royal effigy will not be recognized by her faithful subjects. It is known that the Queen has arranged this delicate matter, but as yet no one has been taken into the royal confidence.

When any part of the body isn't doing the work that nature intended it to do, it puts the whole system out of tune—out of harmony. When all of the parts do not work well together, none of them can work just right. Sickness in one part of the body is likely to run into all parts of the body. It isn't necessary to be sick all over the body, in order that you may feel sick all over. When children stand a row of bricks on end, they knock the whole row down by upsetting one brick. That is exactly what happens to the health when the bowels fail to perform their proper function. Constipation makes trouble all along the line—puts the liver out of order, is bad for the kidneys—bad for the stomach. It holds in the body poisonous matter, and because it cannot go any place else, it gets into the blood. The blood carries it all over the system. That makes sluggishness, lassitude, bad breath and foul taste in the mouth, fills the stomach with gas and causes windy belching, stops digestion in the stomach, causes sour stomach, heartburn and flatulence. It makes pimples and blotches and causes sick and bilious headaches. Nine-tenths of all human ailments are due to this one seemingly trivial cause. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They really cure it. Nobody becomes a slave to the use of the "Pellets." They cause no griping and are as mild as they are efficient. At any drug store. Look out for the druggist who tries to sell you something which he says is "just as good." There is nothing just as good. There is nothing that is nearly as good. Anybody who tells you there is is mistaken—or worse.

THE CANADIAN INVASION.

A Decided Objection in the States to the Men Who Live on This Side and Work Across the Border.

New York, Jan. 17.—The report of the Immigration Investigating Commission appointed by Secretary Carlisle, June 13, 1894, has just been published.

The chapters on the padrone system and Canadian migratory laborers reveal a bad condition of things.

The report says: "The Canadian migratory laborers have for many years been going and coming across the border to the detriment of the wages and standard of living of the American laborers. At least 100,000 persons come into the United States annually from Canada, fully 50 per cent. of whom return to their homes at the end of the working season, or when they have accumulated a certain amount of money. This 100,000 does not include those who come daily into the cities of Buffalo, Detroit and other border towns, and cities on the great lakes. In some cities and towns, notably Detroit and Buffalo, they send their laundry over the border, and those who come and go daily bring their dinners with them. Some even make it a boast that they do not spend a penny in the States.

"The ocean holds back in some degree the cheap laborers of Europe. The cheap laborers of British North America have, literally speaking, only to step over the line to be among us. American workmen object strenuously and with reason, to a condition which admits such unfair competition with their labor. They ask protection against this Canadian invasion and can not understand why Congress does not readily grant it."

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor,—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, Jarvis, Ont

NEW USES OF ALUMINUM.

Cartridges, Oil Cups and Baggage Checks Made of It.

Although aluminium has disappointed some of the brilliant expectations aroused by the discovery of cheaper methods of producing the metal, yet many new and important uses are being found for it. One of the most recent is the employment of this exceedingly light metal for the powder chamber of cartridges, thus enabling a soldier to carry 25 per cent more ammunition without increase of weight. Another comparatively new use for aluminium is in the making of oil-cups for the crank-pins of high speed locomotives. Formerly these oil-cups, made of copper, were frequently broken by the tremendous centrifugal force developed as they were whirled around. The aluminium cups weigh two-thirds less than those of copper, and consequently having less momentum, can stand the strain. Baggage checks, shoepegs, cooking utensils and other articles in which lightness is desirable, are now made in large numbers of aluminium. Since aluminium gives off no sparks when struck, its employment for the metal work in powder mills has proved a source of greater safety.

How Hall Caine Wrote "The Deemster."

"A Son of Hagar," Hall Caine's second novel, produced three hundred pounds (fifteen hundred dollars), and has now achieved an immense success, but its reception at the time was a feeble one. Hall Caine ground his teeth and clenched his fist and said: "I will write one more book; I will put into it all the work that is in me, and if the world still remains indifferent and contemptuous, I will never write another." In the meanwhile he had decided to follow Rossetti's advice, to write a Manx novel; and having thought out the plot of "The Deemster," went to the Isle of Man to write it. It was written in six months, in one of the lodging houses on the Esplanade at Douglas, in a fever of wounded pride. "I worked over it like a galley-slave; I poured all my memories into it," he says. In the meanwhile he maintained his family by journalism; being now connected with the best papers in England. "The Deemster" was sold for one hundred and fifty pounds (six hundred dollars), the serial rights having produced four hundred pounds (two thousand dollars). He would be glad to-day to purchase the copyright back for one thousand pounds.—R. H. Sherard, in McClure's Magazine for December.

Buffalo in Yellowstone Park.

There are ten buffalo in Yellowstone Park and their presence is a constant invitation to the hunters. Of course these hunters know that they are under ban and that hunting of all kind is prohibited in the people's pleasure ground; but there are few laws more vexatious to and more easily broken by some men than the laws for saving the lives and alleviating the sufferings of animals. There is not a great deal of glory in killing the buffalo as there is killing the lion and the tiger and the grizzly, but he is large and people find a great comfort in seeing him fall riddled with their bullets, his blood bathing the plain. They have killed the seals of Alaska, leaving thousands of their young to perish of starvation. They have killed the birds that used to sing and flit about our gardens, killed them by millions, so that our crops are threatened by insect pests, and nearly every woman disfigures herself by wearing a dead bird in her hat. Of all cruel creatures, man is the most cruel.—Brooklyn Eagle.

An Electrical Heating Plant.

No little interest will be taken in a heating plant which is being installed in the Carmelite Monastery at Niagara Falls, Ont., inasmuch as electricity will be used for the purpose. It is not intended that the entire institution shall be heated by electricity; but as a fixed amount of electric power has been arranged for by the institution, the surplus will be used for heating a portion of the building. Electricity will be used entirely for cooking and for all power purposes, and also for laundry work. The cost of heating buildings by electricity has not as yet reached figures which will make it an everyday competitor in the heating world, consequently the operation of the heating system in this monastery will be closely watched by all who are interested in the electrical field. While electricity has been used for heating street cars, it is because it presents so many advantages over any of the systems which have been in use in the past, and not because it is economical—Exchange.

Mammoth Crabs.

One of the most singular looking creatures that ever walked the earth or "swam the waters under the earth" is the world-famous man-faced crab of Japan. Its body is hardly an inch in length, yet the head is fitted with a face which bears a remarkable resemblance to that of a Chinese coolie, a veritable missing link, with eyes, nose and mouth all clearly defined. This curious and uncanny creature, besides the great likeness it bears to a human being in the face, is provided with two legs, which seem to grow from the top of its head and hang down over the sides of its face. Besides these legs two feelers, each about an inch in length, grow from the chin of the animal, looking for all the world like a forked beard. These man-faced crabs swarm in the inland seas of Japan.

WASTING YOUR LIFE.

Failure of Physical and Mental Force—To add to Length of Life—Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

With a pathetic sigh how often it has been said:

"Well, then, I suppose I must let go my hold on life."

To fathers and mothers of unreared children this is tragic.

But whence cometh sure and timely help? If death is preventable, how?

The timely answer is: By scientific and successful kidney treatment—by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hundreds write to thank us and tell of their cure, but none to say that Dodd's Kidney Pills have ever failed.

JAMESON'S DEFEAT.

Details of His Battle With the Boers.

THE BRAVERY OF DESPERATION

Four Thousand of the Burghers Against Seven Hundred Men With Jameson —Counted on Support Which Did Not Come—Boers Fired the First Shot.

New York, Jan. 19.—A Cape Town special cable to The World says:

Captain Thatcher, a traveller known in the United States, who has served seven years in India and was with Jameson's column from its start until its surrender, but escaped capture, has arrived at Cape Town. He tells the story of the expedition to The World correspondent:

"The column started," he says, "on Sunday afternoon. We were 600 strong. Besides there were 100 Kaffirs. There were three wagons, eight Maxim and three Whitworth guns.

"We knew what we were going to do. It is all rubbish about our thinking we were going to fight natives. We counted on support from the Rand. There was no other column and we realized that we had no official support.

"The first shot was fired by the Boers Tuesday night. We were 20 miles from Krugersdorp. It came from about 600 yards range. We replied with the Maxims and they cleared out. We fought only puffs of smoke. The Boers were ambushed and we could not get at them.

"On Wednesday evening a thousand Boers appeared on a ridge in open order, 2000 yards long. Concealed Boers continued firing from every direction. We could not charge, but when the Boers vanished under the fire of our guns, we followed them. We were compelled to retreat. We were under a hot fire all night. We laggared and slept in the saddle. We were all played out.

"Only one chance remained—to push through the Boer lines, at any cost, and escape. At dawn of Thursday we were fired at heavily from the village of Thuiter. My horse was shot from under me. Horses and men were falling on all sides of the hill where we stood. We were hotly engaged on all sides with 4000 intrenched men, but had no cover ourselves. The wounded were dragged along in wagons. All were in the open at the mercy of the Boers. It was bitterly cold and our hands were benumbed.

"The odds were ten to one against us. Our men were cursing Johannesburg. Cries for water went up on every side. The sufferings of the wounded were dreadful. Not an enemy was in sight. All the fighting was done from ambush. The situation was hopeless. We could only stand and be shot down.

"The Jameson party's flag of truce went up. It was an old shirt. The The Boers continued to fire another 10 minutes. The Pretoria artillery arrived and opened fire. Our Maxims could have knocked the spots out of them, but we had no ammunition. At first we thought the guns were the artillery of our allies.

"'Thank God, the Rand fellows at last,' was the cry that went up.

"Our hope was short lived. The firing stopped. The Boers rode up on us from every direction. They gave us food, for lack of which we were nearly dead.

"Jameson asked if our lives would be spared if we surrendered.

"'Yes,' the Boer leader replied. 'The lives of the men will be spared, but not yours.'

"'Never mind me,' cried Jameson, 'Surrender.'

"I escaped by representing myself as a Times correspondent. They let me go. The others they took to Johannesburg. The Boer losses have been ridiculously understated. They must have lost at least 100 men. I was at the taking of Mandalay in 1885, was in the Black Mountains, was the first up in the Ruby expedition under General Stewart, where I was shot in the chest and forehead, but I never saw braver men than Jameson's.

"What do I think of Jim himself and his generous blunder?

"D—n the blunder. Jameson's simply the grandest man I ever met."

Uitlanders Meet Boers.

New York, Jan. 19.—Cape Town special cable to The World:

A thousand armed Burghers in Johannesburg to-day were hooted by the Uitlanders.

The Burghers have prepared a strong petition for the abrogation of the treaty of 1884, under which Great Britain claims the right to control the Transvaal's foreign relations, and for the annulling of the British South Africa Company's charter.

All is quiet in the Transvaal.

The Boer Government refuses to allow Cape train guards to cross the Vaal.

All goods are opened and inspected at the border. The traffic is thereby greatly delayed.

RHODES IS NO COWARD

He Says So Himself and Will Defend the Chartered Company.

London, Jan. 19.—A Cape Town despatch to The Times says:

"Dr. Jameson's men are now being handed over to the military escort at the Natal border. Each man signs a declaration promising to proceed to England as a prisoner, and not to raise any questions respecting his legal custody en route nor attempt to escape."

According to a special despatch from Cape Town, Cecil Rhodes, the former Premier of Cape Colony, was interviewed previous to sailing for England and said:

"I am no coward, and I shall not resign my seat in Parliament. I shall meet my detractors and shall be satisfied if civil rights are granted to the Uitlanders. I intend to be present at the annual meeting of the Chartered Company in London, when I shall address the shareholders on recent events."

PACIFIC CABLE COMMISSION.

Hon. Duncan Gillies and Sir Saul Samuel Appointed as the Delegates From Australia.

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 19.—At a conference of the Postmasters-General of the Australian colonies, Hon. Duncan Gillies and Sir Saul Samuel, Agents-General in London of Victoria and New South Wales respectively, were appointed Australian delegates on the Pacific Cable Commission. The conference adopted a resolution declaring that Great Britain, Australia and Canada should each pay one-third of the cost of the cable; that the landing places should only be on British territory, and that the route from Fiji should be to Norfolk Island, from which place the line should extend to North Island, New Zealand and Moreton Bay on the east coast of Australia.

RIGHT FROM VENEZUELA.

If This Man Speaks Truly New York Papers Have Exaggerated Things.

New York, Jan. 19.—C. Marxen-Fraso who arrived in New York yesterday by the steamer Philadelphia, from Venezuela, where he represented large commercial interests, was interviewed to-day.

Mr. Marxen-Fraso stated that the reports published in the newspapers here as to the warlike spirit and excitement in Venezuela were grossly exaggerated. He had been travelling for the last two months over a large portion of Venezuela and was impressed everywhere with the absence of anything like bravado and the feeling prevalent among Venezuelans that the pending questions would ultimately be settled without war. Nobody in Venezuela seems to believe in war and there is no inclination on the part of the authorities or on the part of the people to precipitate an issue. The country is prosperous and business is progressing in its usual channels without any disturbance.

The people of Venezuela are entirely satisfied with the prospects of arbitration and both in official and unofficial circles there is a determination to abide by it, but they are at the same time determined that they shall not be despoiled by force.

Mr. Marxem-Fraso in conclusion said that nothing but positive aggression on the part of England could bring about war.

THE FLYING SQUADRON.

Denial of the Statement That Its Destination is Venezuela.

New York, Jan. 19.—The Herald's London cable says:

All the vessels of the Flying Squadron are now assembled at Spithead, whence, it is rumored, they will start on Tuesday morning. I learn from an official source that the statement of its destination being Venezuela is unfounded, and as proof thereof the fact is instanced that two vessels of the Flying Squadron, the Royal Sovereign and the Royal Oak, draw over 28 feet of water each, and thus could not approach Georgetown harbor. Gibraltar will probably be the first station of the Squadron.

The fact that nightly in the London music halls the display of French or American colors or uniforms has fetched rounds of applause, while the German flag has been hissed, is much discussed in political circles. It is said that standing by itself, this would not be of much significance, but it coincides with the strong anti-German feeling right through the country—a feeling the intensity of which has not been witnessed in our generation.

It is now an open secret that ten days ago the situation was held in responsible quarters to point to immediate war with Germany, for what rendered the position exceptionally perilous was that while the popular excitement was daily increasing the Foreign Office could not imitate the action of the Chamberlain, re the Transvaal, and public communications passing between the German Ambassador and Lord Salisbury, and between the Queen and the Emperor.

Although the acute state of the crisis is considered past, it is held by people in responsible positions who have been consulted that a lasting sore feeling between England and Germany will be the inevitable result of the recent complications, and that this will, sooner or later, lead to a change in the grouping of the European powers.

I learn from a good source that as long as Queen Victoria lives she will do her best to prevent a rupture with Germany. But should she die the additional element of commercial rivalry which exists between two countries, and which is resented in Germany perhaps more than in England, would materially increase the chances of a serious estrangement.

Russia's Policy.

New York, Jan. 19.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Herald cables:

Russia's policy at the present moment is steadfastly to avoid being drawn into any combination or complication with Armenia, Germany, England or Abyssinia, but to keep the Oriental question ever foremost.

The Hevosti, commenting on the friendliness of the English press, says: "We esteem her high civilization, but we see the defects in her policy, which is purely egotistical. An alliance could be useful only to her, not to us. France and Russia must remain neutral."

The Viedomosti says: "Russia must confine herself to the Orient."

A MOST SERIOUS STEP.

The London Daily News on the U.S. senate Committee's Action.

London, Jan. 19.—The Daily News will to-morrow say that it regards the adoption by the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations last Friday of the resolution of Senator Davis, supporting the Monroe doctrine, as a most serious step. It adds: "The sooner Lord Salisbury discovers a method of arbitration the better. The Venezuela Commission hangs fire, not perhaps without President Cleveland's connivance. If he is giving us time we would be foolish not to take it."

GLASGOW LOCK-OUT ENDED.

The Engineers Vote by Ballot to Accept the Terms Offered.

London, Jan. 18.—At a meeting in Glasgow of the locked out engineers of the Clyde ship-yards to-day, a ballot was taken which resulted in a decision to accept the terms offered by the masters, and work will be resumed on Monday or Tuesday next. The striking Belfast engineers rejected the proposals of the masters, but the delegates of the workmen say that the acceptance by the Clyde engineers of the masters' terms ends the strike.

English People Will Not Stand Much More Flouting.

THUS SPEAKS THE LONDON GLOBE

No News Given Out as to the Destination of the Flying Squadron—United States Paying the Penalty of Narrowness—Meaning of the Davis Resolution.

London, Jan. 20.—The Globe this afternoon, during the course of an article condemning the attitude of the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, says:

"The English people will not stand much more flouting from anybody, and these gentlemen, whom we credit with no more exalted sentiment than the wish to stand well with their Irish constituents, may easily find themselves face to face with a situation that could only be called appalling."

The London newspapers to-morrow morning will print the following communication, which has been issued to them by the Foreign Office:

"With reference to a report from Washington of alleged telegraphic correspondence between United States Secretary of State Olney and Lord Salisbury, respecting the movements of the British fleet, we are officially informed that no communication has passed between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of the United States upon any naval question."

The Daily News will to-morow say: The smaller American powers, whether they become free or not, by the amended Monroe doctrine, will unquestionably become the slaves of the United States. If the theory of their dependance be pushed too far, their protector may find it has more than it bargained for. If the Foreign Relations committee is right, Mr. Cleveland is certainly wrong. He expressly invited Great Britain to settle her dispute directly with Venezuela, but it now appears that whatever arrangement is made it must be submitted to the United States as a sort of suzerain. The American people are paying the penalty now for their narrowness of interest in foreign affairs. They have at last found something to occupy them, but their one idea is rapidly becoming a superstition. It only remains to apply the Monroe doctrine to the importation of tin plates and there will be no extravagance left. Alas for the common sense that Mr. Gladstone reminded us would so easily settle the dispute.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The Monroe resolution, as reported to the Senate this morning by Mr. Davis, is along the lines of previous despatches giving the purport of the resolution. It announces that any attempt to secure new or additional territory on this continent, or any of the islands adjacent thereto, either through force, cession, occupation, purchase, colonization, or otherwise, will be looked upon as an infringement of the doctrine, and that that doctrine will be asserted and maintained by the United States. It also places the control of any canal that may be constructed connecting the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans within the protection of the doctrine.

President Cleveland looks upon the Davis resolution as extreme and untenable. He would probably refuse to endorse it, even should Congress adopt it unanimously.

In the Senate to-day Mr. Sewell (New Jersey) said he could not agree to any such policy. Those South and Central American States so constantly in revolution, so unstable in their forms of government, could not fail to embroil themselves with foreign powers. They would be hasty, reckless, violent if they found that they were to be protected by the United States, and this country would find itself thereby involved in interminable trouble. The subject was grave and the action of the Senate might be fraught with momentous consequences. It demanded the most careful, deliberate and thoughtful consideration. It appeared to him that the present was not an opportune time for the precipitation of such an issue upon the country.

AT THE CAPITAL.

A Number of Questions for the Government.

THE BEHRING SEA SEALING CLAIMS

Mr. McNeill to Bring Up the Preferential Trade Question—A Newspaper Man Charges Sir Richard Cartwright With Assault — Exchequer Court—General News.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—At a meeting of the Cabinet to-day a despatch from the Colonial Office referring to the Behring Sea question was under consideration. The draft convention for determing the amount of damages to which the seized Canadian vessels are entitled under the Paris award has been approved by Great Britain, Canada having given her assent to it some time ago. The assessors will consist of one representative from each country, that is Great Britain and the United States, and it is likely that the British representative will be a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, either Judge Drake or Judge Walkem. The appointment, however, has not yet been made. Failing the two assessors coming to an agreement upon the amount to be paid by the United States to Canadian vessel owners, the treaty provides for the appointment of an umpire, and the United States Government has suggested that the President of the Swiss Republic be invited to nominate this gentleman. The Dominion Government to-day, by order in council, formally assented to the suggestion.

Mr. McMullen will on Wednesday move for a return showing the number of employes of the International Railway, working expenses, train service, etc.

Mr. Dawson will ask whether at the time they re-entered the Government the following members of the Cabinet Messrs. Foster, Dickey, Haggart, Ives, Montague and Wood, informed Sir Mackenzie Bowell that they re-entered his Government with any misgivings, but that they will nevertheless continue their loyal and united efforts to make it strong and efficient.

Mr. McNeill gives notice to-night that on Wednesday he will move that it would be to the advantage of Canada and the empire as a whole that a small duty (irrespective of any existing tariff) be levied by each member of the empire against foreign products imported by them, and that the products from such duties be devoted to purposes of Imperial intercommunication and naval defences.

Mr. McMillan on Wednesday will move that, whereas the United States Government offers to admit free of duty ploughs, harrows and certain other agricultural implements from any country which admits free of duty like articles imported from the United States, it would be greatly in the interest of both the Canadian agriculturist and the Canadian manufacturer that Canada should accept that offer by admitting those articles into Canada free of duty, and at the same time so relieving the Canadian manufacturers of the taxation on the raw material as to enable them to take advantage of the markets on the United States.

Mr. Fauvel will enquire of the Government on Wednesday the number of gentlemen to whom the vacant portfolios in the Cabinet, caused by the resignation of Hon. A. R. Angers, has been offered, and by whom was it refused.

Mr. Martin will on Monday enquire whether the Controller of Inland Revenue is a member of the Cabinet, and if so, what is his position in the Cabinet; also whether it is true that Lieut. Governor Dewdney of British Columbia interfered in the recent election in Victoria by wiring the Premier as to Col. Prior's position in the Cabinet.

Mr. Casey will ask a series of questions on Wednesday respecting the duties and salaries of the High Commissioner, Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Dawson will on Wednesday enquire of the Government whether the seven Ministers of the Cabinet who recently resigned, and who have all (save one) returned to the Cabinet, are now satisfied (1) that they have secured the formation of a Government whose Premier commands the confidence of all his colleagues? (2) That they can satisfy the Conservative party that its strongest elements are now at its head? (3) That they are now able to impress the country that it has a Government which is united and has power to govern?

Mr. Rudolph Laferriere, editor of Le Canada, to-day made the following statement for publication: "On Thursday afternoon I entered the House at the main door, just as the gallery doors were opened. There was an immense crowd waiting for a chance of getting in, and a thorough free fight ensued. I had to force my way through. As I passed the doors into the Lobby Sir Richard Cartwright who had also been forced to struggle through, seized me by the throat, nearly strangling me, and bore me back against the wall. I managed to say 'Mr. Cartwright.' He only glared at me and said 'well.' I said Sir Richard Cartwright, I have done nothing.' He turned round, still holding me, and called 'Policeman, policeman! Why do you allow these ruffians to interfere with the entrance of members into the House? He then let me go, and I walked with him towards the press room, expecting his apology. He did not apologize, nor has he yet. I consulted Mr. T. Ferguson about taking out a warrant. He advised me to take out a summons for assault. The summons will be issued this afternoon, returnable for to-morrow. Mr. Joncas M.P., St. Pierre, brother of the late Senator, and Constable Mynors of the Dominion Police, will be my witnesses." It appears that Mr. Laferriere was tramping on Sir Richard Cartwright's toes and jostling him in a very rough manner, though he doubtless was compelled by the mob of struggling, pushing men behind and around him. Mr. Laferriere thus occupied an unfortunate position, not at all of his own choosing. It is a severe reflection on the Dominion Police that they were unable to keep a passage within the lobby for members of the House and of the press to pass in, and Sir Richard Cartwright might well be excused for feeling outraged by the incident. If Mr. Laferriere is well advised he will not carry out his threat, because if he did Mr. Speaker might feel called upon to issue an order excluding him from the building in future. It is needless to say that Sir Richard Cartwright did not act with the violence described. He simply took the man by the lapels of his coat and held him while he called a Dominion Policeman from the door to take him away.

A return brought down to-day shows that the additional charge to the superannuation fund on account of last year's retirements amounts to $62,000. Of the number superannuated last year, the Customs Department has the biggest list, numbering 36. The Railways Department has 17 and the Post-office Department a like number.

In the Senate this afternoon, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, replying to Senator Perley, said the Ministry, desirous to avail themselves of Lieutenant-Governor Macintosh's advice in the forming of estimates for the Northwest Territories, and other matters pertaining to the Government of the Northwest, granted that gentleman one month's leave of absence from the 20th of December, 1895, for the purpose. He resides at the Capital for the above named period, as a matter of course, with the consent of the Government, but it was not considered necessary to appoint an administrator during his absence. Mr. Perley said he intended bringing the matter up again in the form of a motion at a later date.

In the Exchequer Court to-day, J. F. Orde of Ottawa moved for the order appointing Ellen Crawley guardian of Matilda Crawley and Susanah Crawley, infant children interested in certain lands in the Township of Douro, County of Peterboro, taken by the Crown under the provisions of the Expropriation Act. The order was granted.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association is by constitution fixed for Wednesday next, but it is proposed on that day not to transact any business, but to adjourn until Feb. 19 or 26.

FUN IN THE COMMONS.

Mr. Masson Discusses the School Question—Dr. Landerkin Causes Much Laughter.

The debate on the address was resumed this afternoon by Mr. Masson of North Grey. Dealing with the Manitoba school question, he said the Greenway Government missed their chance to settle this question after the judgment of the Privy Council was given. He proceeded to show the inconsistent position in which Mr. Laurier and his party stood on the matter. In Manitoba his organ insisted that Mr. Laurier was not in favor of Separate schools, while in Quebec it was said he had given a solemn pledge to restore them. Referring to the outcry raised by the Liberals against Sir Charles Tupper, Baronet, being taken into the Cabinet, Mr. Masson declared that the Liberals blamed Sir Charles because he had too much faith in his country, its resources and its future. They called him a false prophet. Sir Charles prophesied that the C.P.R. would be built in ten years. It was built in seven. He prophesied that the completion of the C.P.R. would build up an Indian trade. This had already been brought about. (Cheers.)

Dr Landerkin followed. He denied that the Government deserved any credit for its effort last year to build up the butter trade. The people were taxed to buy butter which was sold at a loss, and the people ware taxed again to make up the loss. The Government, he intimated, bought butter from soreheaded Tories, in order to butter their heads and cure their wounds. (Laughter.) Proceeding, Dr. Landerkin ridiculed the Minister of Agriculture, who, he said, was about to establish a green groceries department. (Laughter.) It was to be hoped that this effort would be more successful than the butter trade one. The Minister was also to engage sheep experts. He would doubtless want to shear the flock entirely by bringing in a higher tariff than ever. What the people wanted, he declared, was to be let alone. The Cabinet crisis was the next subject touched upon. He charged that the Government had placed the Governor-General in a ridiculous position. They had actually taken off their coats and asked His Excellency to hold them. (Laughter.) The Governor-General knew the capacity of their pockets, but did not feel them. They might have contained more anonymous letters. (Laughter.) Dr. Landerkin declared that he knew that when the bolters went out they would soon come back. (Laughter.) Nothing humbled pride like poverty. (Renewed laughter.) An empty bag could not stand alone. (Laughter.) He saw the Finance Minister the other day contemplatively gazing at his department, his hands thrust deep in his pockets, and his thoughts doubtless on the salary he was losing. (Loud laughter.) He thought the Minister who rode a bicycle last summer would have to go back to his wheel, making, the doctor said, the best illustration he had ever seen of a case of fly on the wheel. (Shouts of laughter.) The seven bolting Ministers, the doctor declared, had seven principles, five loaves and two fishes, the principles of peace. (Laughter.) He concluded by saying that if there was any good reason for the bolters to leave, then there was good reason why they should not have gone back.

Mr. Casey followed, speaking up to 6 o'clock. Resuming after recess, he contended that the present session was called for a special purpose, and that it would not be right for the Government to consider the estimates for the incoming year, or go on with any other business.

Mr. McMillan of Huron arraigned the Government from an agricultural point of view, claiming that the amount of mortgages and chattel mortgages had increased largely during the last few years, and moreover, that while the price of agricultural products had decreased, the purchasing power of a dollar had not increased.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1896.

THE PLOT WILL FAIL.

SHORTLY after Sir Charles Tupper came to Canada the EXAMINER pointed out that the plot was to have Sir Charles Tupper run the government campaign in the general elections and if successful, resign, and then turn over the government to the boodlers, resume his Commissionership and grow fat upon the spoils of that office. The present indications are that that programme is to be carried out Sir Charles has not resigned the commissionership, but is hanging on to it though he has accepted office in the Bowell Cabinet. He told a reporter that he would still retain the office, though Sir Mackenzie kindly offered it to his son. It would seem that the office of High Commissioner is owned by the Tupper family to manipulate it as they choose. It is simply outrageous that the independence of Parliament should be thus defied and all for the purposes of the gang of conspirators now hanging on to office at Ottawa. Do these impudent catilines fancy that the people will have nothing to say to such a compact? A government is supposed to exist for the benefit of the people and not to turn the spoils of office into the hands of any set of men. When the "high priest of corruption" appears in the lists to help to saddle a cabinet of dishonest incompetents on the country, we know what to expect. But the plot will fail. The people of Canada have still a large store of independence and loyalty to the country, and will assert themselves without equivocation.

THE WARDENSHIP.

On Tuesday, January 28th, the County Council of the county of Peterborough will meet in the Council Chambers in the Court House for its inaugural session. The matter that will elicit the greatest amount of interest will be the election of Warden. It is very probable that there will be a triangular contest, the candidates mentioned being Mr. James Middleton, reeve of Smith, Mr. E. Hawthorne reeve of Dummer, and Mr. M. Mansfield, reeve of Galway. These gentlemen have been in the council a number of years and their fellow councillors, most of whom have sat in the council with them, have personal knowledge of the qualification of the respective candidates for the positions they seek.

THE war cry of the crazy patchwork combination at Ottawa, called by a severe stretch of imagination, a cabinet, is loyalty. The idea of a "nest of traitors" adopting such a cry points the truth of the Johnsonian apothegm, "patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel."

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. If his body is all out of order and run-down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for enjoyment be perfect. If this condition doesn't exist something ought to be done. That means nine cases in ten the use of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the body. It makes the appetite good, digestion and nutrition perfect and supplies rich, red blood to all the tissues, building up solid, healthful flesh.

Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

A Commissioner in B. R.

GENTLEMEN, — Having used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in our family for years I have no hesitation in saying that it beats everything else we ever tried for coughs and colds in children as well as grown up people. It relieves that tight binding sensation in the chest. We would not be without it for anything. WILLIAM ANDREW, Commissioner in B.R., Balmoral, Man.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A VICTORIA COUNTY (ONT.) PEDDLER BEFORE THE COURTS.

Detected in Selling a Pink Coloured Pill, Which he Represented to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—The Court Grants a Perpetual Injunction Restraining him From Offering an Imitation of This Great Medicine—Some Facts the Public Will do Well to Bear in Mind.

In the High Court of Justice yesterday morning, beford Mr. Justice Meredith, the case of Fulford v. McGahey was heard. It consisted of a motion for a injunction to restrain Fred McGahey from selling a pill which he claimed to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Mr. Douglas E. Armour appeared for the plaintiffs and stated that the defendant had been peddling these goods about Victoria County, claiming them to be Dr. Williams' genuine Pink Pills. It was impossible, however, on the face of it, that they could be genuine, as he sold them greatly below what they cost at wholesale price. The defendant had given consent. Mr. Armour said that the motion should be changed to one for judgment against him. No defence was offered, and his Lordship gave an order for judgment restricting McGahey from continuing to vend the article as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for pale People.

The above paragraph, taken from the legal columns of the Toronto Globe of the 15th inst., contains a warning which every person in Canada in need of a medicine will do well to heed, and shows the care and pains the Dr. Williams Medicine Company takes to protect the public from imposition, and to preserve the reputation of their famous Pink Pills.

It is only a medicine that possesses more than usual merit that is worth imitation. Ordinary medicines are not subject to that kind of treatment, as there is not sufficient demand for such medicines worth while.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have achieved a reputation for sterling merit unparalleled in the history of medical science. In every part of the Dominion the remarkable cures wrought by the use of this great medicine have given it a name and a fame which have made the sale of Pink Pills simply wonderful.

It is because of this great merit, and the consequent enormous demand for the medicine, that it is being intimated by uncrupulous persons in various parts of the country. The intimation is cheap, usually worthless, and as only pushed because the imitator can make much more money by its sale than he can by the sale of the genuine Pink Pills. Hence the pains he takes to sell the imitation.

The Dr. William's Medical Company annually spends thousands of dollars endeavoring to impress upon the public that the genuine Pink Pills can only be purchased in one form—namely in packages enclosed in a wrapper (or label), which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. William's Pink Pills for Pale People." No one can buy them in any other form not even if they offered many times their weight in gold for them. And yet in the face of these continuous warnings there are people confiding enough to permit some unscrupulous dealer to convince them that he can supply them with the genuine Pink Pills in loose form by the dozen or hundred, or ounce, or in some other kind of a box. Any one who pretends to be able to do this is telling an untruth. Bear this in mind and refuse all pills that do not bear the full trade mark, no matter if they are coloured pink, and no matter what the dealer says.

Please bear in mind also that the formula from which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are compounded is a secret known only to the company, and any one who claims he can supply you with some other pill, "just as good," is guilty of misrepresentation, for he does not know the ingredients of the genuine Pink Pills, and is only trying to sell you some other pill, because he makes more money on its sale.

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company is determined to spare no expense in protecting both the public and themselves against these unscrupulous imitators, and will always be thankful to receive information concerning any one who offers to sell an imitation Pink Pill purporting it to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or "the same as" the genuine Pink Pills. Such cases will be investigated by the company's detective and the name of the person giving the information will not be made public, while any expense entailed in sending us the information will be promptly refunded.

Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and take nothing else. They cure when all other medicines fail.

The funeral took place on Saturday, the fourth, at the Christian burying ground. The family have the sympathy of the comuninity in their sad bereavement.

Mr. McLean, one of Toronto's Model teachers, opened a school at Metheun, on January, 7th. At first sight he thought this a rough place, since taking a part in the choir he seems quite reconciled to his fate. After he gets better acquainted he may make up his mind to become a Methuenite. He has taken up his abode at Mr. Youmans. We wish him success in his scesool.

Mr. Dingman began cutting logs the 30th of December. Mr. W. Bullied helps to cut while Mr. J. Bullied drives the team. Johnnie is an expert hand with a team.

After Mr. Youmans arrived home from Havelock he was very poorly for some time, but we are glad he is better again. With the help of his nephew, G. McGinness, he is drawing his beaver hay. Edward is noted for loading a fine square load.

Mr. Holbrook's choir, of this place, practiced at Mr. Dingman's, the seventeenth.

The wedding bells are ringing around McFadden's Corners, as our music teacher, J. H. Holbrook and Mrs. Hannah Shodise were married at St. Paul's church on the sixteenth by the Rev. Canon Harding. Mr. and Mrs. Youmans and Mr. McGinness were among the invited guests. After the ceremony the party took dinner at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. A. Wilson. We all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook a long life and a happy one.

"The Commen People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

The Herald on the Dunraven Charges.

New York, Jan. 20.—The distinguished gentlemen appointed by the New York Yacht Club to investigate the charges made by Lord Dunraven against the Defender held their sessions in private, says The Herald, in starting off a four-page article. The evidence is so overwhelmingly conclusive that it senders superfluous the report of the committee itself. It admits of only one verdict—that the charges are utterly and totally false. The testimony given at the hearings of the committee was taken down stenographically. It makes more than 500 pages of printed matter. Lord Dunraven's charges were based solely on misleading observations by himself and others who were associated with him on the Valkyrie. The deductions of fraud which he made from them were proved to be utterly false by an overwhelming mass of testimony offered on behalf of Mr. Iselin by those who spoke with absolute knowledge. In the face of such superabundance of irrefutable proof, much of which was given after Lord Dunraven had sailed for home, even his own counsel, Mr. Askwith, would not assume the responsibility of stating that Lord Dunraven would still persist in believing that his accusations were true. In one important particular Latham A. Fish, of the America's Cup Committee, flatly contradicted Lord Dunraven. In another weighty matter A. Cass Canfield and Archibald Rogers, also members of the Cup Committee, gave testimony in which they were sustained by corroborative evidence that was diametrically opposite to that given by Lord Dunraven on the same subject.

Chandler, Waupaca, Wis.; 2nd Vice-President, A. J. Turner, Portage, Wis.; Secretary and Treasurer, E. P. Towne, Duluth, Minn.

The next bonspiel will be held at Portage.

It was declared the sense of the association that the international match of the association shall be played in three divisions as follows: Northwest Curling Association against Manitoba and Grand National Curling Association against Ontario branch; the winners to play off at the Grand National Association's meeting.

Saturday's scores were as follows:

St. Paul Jobbers' Union (third draw): Tom Kelly, Winnipeg, 8; J. E. Jones, Portage, 15.

Consolation (second draw): Frank Essen, Duluth, 7; J. L. Sturtevant, Waupaca, 15.

International (semi-finals): Geo. Drewry, Rat Portage, 20; Mark Fortune, Winnipeg, 16.

Three finals in the bonspiel were pulled off Saturday night. J. McDiarmid of Winnipeg won the Duluth Jobbers' trophy against Chandler of Portage, Wis. Third and fourth prizes go to Kelly of Winnipeg and Griggs of St. Paul.

Griggs of St. Paul won the St. Paul Jobbers' trophy against Thompson of Portage la Prairie—14 to 12. Third and fourth prizes go to Chisholm of Superior and Jones of Portage.

The consolation event was won by Drewry of Rat Portage, against Chisholm of Superior—18 to 15.

McDiarmid has been doing phenomenal playing, having won fifteen successive games.

Sutton Lost a Good Game.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Will Hatley of Duluth defeated George Sutton of Toronto, Ont., this afternoon in the second game of short-stop billiards by the close score of 400 to 395. The Canadian played pretty billiards, but luck was against him. After being once ahead of the winner, he made the highest run of the game—57, which was also his last chance with the balls, Hatley scoring the five points he needed to go out. Hatley's high run was 50. The Canadian kept the ivories close together, while his opponent scored mostly at long distances, and made some brilliant long draws.

Tom Gallagher of Chicago was the winner at the evening game, and the loser was Joseph Capron, the Canadian rival of Sutton. The score was 400 to 233. Gallagher played a brilliant game at the beginning, scoring 251 in five innings' consecutive play, an average of over 50.

Capron got his stroke only intermittently, and did some good up-hill playing, but he apparently was discouraged from the start by Galagher's big lead.

SPAIN LOSES CUBA.

And the Blame Rests on the Spaniards Themselves.

THE OPINION OF GENERAL CAMPOS

The Deposed Captain-General Expresses His Opinion of the Cuban Politicians—Claims That They Conspired Against Him Because He Would Not Shoot Students.

Havana, Cuba, via Key West, Fla., Jan 18.—Gen. Martinez Campos, after surrendering the supreme command in Cuba to Gen. Marin, made the following indignant statement. The press censor forbade its transmission by cable, and it was sent by messenger to Key West. Gen. Campos said:

"I speak because I am now a private citizen and not the Governor-General. Be it known that I have not resigned; the Government has removed me and has done well.

"I feel a great resentment, caused by the conduct of the parties in Cuba. Nations exercise their sovereignty in various ways, but the head should always rule. The principle of authority should rise superior to all else.

"I have been opposed because, while I may break yet, I never bend. I have prevented a repetition of the sad scenes of the last war, and this has been distasteful to the mob.

"The situation is this: Here is a province, distant from the Mother Country, where the political parties, by the attitude they are taking, think to shape the policy of Spain. If they had not this idea I could speedily show what the necessities of the situation are.

"But they know that they would find me in the way if they would ask me to shoot 17 students—(an allusion to the massacre of students in the last war—and because of this knowledge they conspired behind my back.

"Yes, this justifies the true saying that Spain has lost the Americas because of the Spaniards themselves."

"This is a country of shopkeepers who want to govern, and it is they who are sweeping the country to ruin. Time will tell if this be not so."

New York, Jan. 20.—The Herald says: Information of a very startling character has reached the Cuban sympathizers in this city who are in closest touch with revolutionary junta whence the information comes. It is to the effect, as alleged, that President Cleveland authorized Secretary of State Olney, two or three days ago, to send a note to the American Minister at Madrid, in which Mr. Taylor, the present incumbent, is instructed to present to the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs a communication which accompanied the note, and which contained a proposition upon the Cuban question.

This proposition is, as alleged, that Spain, at the earliest opportunity withdraw her troops from Cuba; that the Spanish throne recognize the absolute independence of Cuba, and its existence as a republic; that the Spanish Government accept from Cuba a certain sum of money as indemnity; that Spain accept the guarantee of the United States that Cuba will fulfil her obligations.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Consul-General White Makes Public Some Information From Pretoria.

London, Jan. 20.—Mr. White, the Consul-General here of the South African Republic, has made public information he has received from the Government at Pretoria, which places a somewhat different aspect on the trouble in the Transvaal from that given in the despatches from English sources. It has been asserted that the Boer Government know that a rising of the Uitlanders was intended at Johannesburg, and also of the proposed raid by Dr. Jameson, and took measures to have an overpowering force ready to quell any disturbance in Johannesburg and to meet Dr. Jameson. According to the advices received by Mr. White, these statements are untrue. The Government only learned of the scheme of the Uitlanders and Dr. Jameson's movements on Dec. 30. The Government believes that a majority of the people in Johannesburg were not aware that a rising against the authorities was mooted and that the proposed movement was confined principally to the members of the Reform Union. As to the number of Boers who defeated Dr. Jameson, the Consul's advices show that instead of there being from 1500 to 1800 of them, there were only 400 at the beginning of the fight. These were gradually joined by small parties, until there were about 800 Boers in the immediate neighborhood when the fighting stopped, and the English surrendered, but many of them were unable to take part in the fighting. Actually about 400 Boers compelled the English to lay down their arms. Only five Boers were killed and two of them were shot accidentally by comrades. Three Boers were wounded.

The Times will to-morrow print a despatch from Cape Town, saying that a telegram received there from Pretoria, states that a majority of the political prisoners have been released, on giving bail in the sum of $10,000 each. The witer of the despatch gives the names or 23 men who are still in custody, including that of John Hayes Hammond, the American mining engineer. The names include no other known Americans. Dr. Jameson and the officers who accompanied him on his raid, have started, under an escort, for Natal, where they will be turned over to the British authorities for trial.

FORTY YEARS

They Courted, Waiting for the Time When They Could Marry

Ottawa, Ohio, Jan. 20.—A marriage that was stranger than fiction was solemnized at Gilboa, a small town of this county, yesterday, before a few wfriends. It was that of G. W. Wisegiver and a Miss Kell, both 60 years old. When young people they fell in love with each other, but, Wisegrove being a poor man, the girl's parents opposed the match. It was decided by both lovers to await the death of her parents. Two weeks ago the father died, the mother having died several years ago. After the estate was settled the couple decided to marry. For 40 years they lived close neighbors, and apparently as only friends. Mr. Wisegiver is wealthy, and the couple will now experience uninterrupted love and ease.

HIGHER TREATMENT.

THE BLOOD, THE FUEL AND LIFE OF THE BODY.

The Healthier the Kidneys the Purer the Blood—Dodd's Kidney Pills as a Kidney Treatment.

One of the mysteries of life is the source of bodily health. In health the temperature of a man under the equator is the same as that of the Greenlander. But what has happened when the pulse increases its beats, and the blood is four to six degrees warmer than usual?

This is one of the first signs of blood poisoning.

The usual filtering done by the kidneys, if deranged by a common cold, always shows itself by this feverished condition.

Such is the commencement of every illness.

The kidneys are first to feel it, and the blood goes past them in their congested or inflamed condition laden with poison or waste, which should be filtered out.

The simplest of all cures for a cold is kidney treatment.

This is proved true by the unfailing action of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They will cure a cold every time.

With healthy kidneys working as nature intended them to do, it is impossible to be ill.

With sluggish, disordered kidneys the worst form of illness has already got you in its grasp.

In all the world at any date of its history, there has never been a medicine so prompt as Dodd's Kidney Pills in its arrest and cure of disease.

They set the principal organs of purification at work. They strengthen the kidneys.

Upon the blood depends health. Upon the kidneys depend pure blood. Upon Dodd's Kidney Pills depend all forms of weakened or disordered kidneys.

And they depend not in vain, for Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure where the kidneys are concerned, and that is nineteen times out of every twenty.

The Destruction in Armenia.

Boston, Jan. 18.—In a letter just received from Rev. H. N. Barnum, D.D., of Harpoot, Eastern Turkey, where the property of the American board was burned, he says that reports have been secured from 176 villages in the vicinity of Harpoot. Those villages contained 15,400 houses belonging to Christians. Of this number 7054 have been burned and 15,845 persons are reported killed. Dr. Barnum adds: "The real truth, I fear, will prove to be much greater."

The Veteran Tail-Twister Honored.

New York, Jan. 18.—Not even the Lotus Club, famed as it is for its hospitality, has ever had within its walls a more distinguished gathering of men than those gathered about its dining board to-night to do honor to Charles A. Dana, the veteran editor of the Sun, to whom the Lotus Club was giving a dinner. There were lawyers, bankers, merchants, men prominent in the affairs of the state and nation and leaders in every walk of life.

Speaking, in reply to the toast of his health, Mr. Dana said that this country was the hope of the world, and that the one idea embodied in the Stars and Stripes was that of a nation where liberty should be defended with the last drop of blood in our veins. We were citizens of a country, he said, that knew no rival, and feared no foe. "We seem to stand at a most interesting crisis and our fall would mean more to the world at large than to the individual American."

A LADY OF WATERFORD COMPLETELY CURED.

Suffered for Two Years from Indigestion and General Debility.

Unable at Times to Attend to Her Household Duties.

Treated by Nearly All the Doctors in the Town Without Relief

"Six Bottles of South American Nervine Cured Me," Says Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., Over Her Own Signature.

MRS. D. A. GRAY, OF WATERFORD, ONT.

Certain dates are epoch making. They mark transitions in the individual life that are never forgotten. Their impress may be pleasant or sad, or both. As Mrs. D. A. Gray, of Waterford, Ont., an estimable and highly respected resident of that community, goes back in memory to the year 1893, her recollections are not of the most roseate character. Can there be anything rosy to one who is a victim of indigestion? All is sombre and sadness. But there was a silver lining to the cloud, as we shall see. Previous to 1893 Mrs. Gray tells us she had been troubled very much with indigestion and general debility for a period of nearly two years. Hers was no ordinary case. At times she was prevented altogether from attending to her household duties. Waterford has a number of skilled physicians in its midst and their services were called in, but in her own language, "I cannot say that they relieved me in any way." An era of joy was ushered in when her mother read the story of a cure by South American Nervine in a case where the symptoms, as Mrs. Gray says, "seemed to be exactly like her own. I bought a bottle and found much relief. After taking six bottles I was cured." The date was an epoch making date in this lady's life.

What the symptoms of Indigestion are, too many know. What the trouble is in its worst forms thousands know. People lament the spread of insanity in the present day. How far removed from loss of reason is a case of aggravated indigestion? The world to every such victim is blue enough, black enough, so uninviting and depressing that no wonder they are beside themselves. And yet the remedy is within the reach of all. That great discovery, Nervine, will cure the most desperate case of indigestion, debility or nervousness. You ask for evidence. A cloud of witnesses in the Dominion of Canada are saying amen, and amen, to the testimony of Mrs. Gray. Why suffer, fellow-citizens, friends and brethren?

Peterborough's Good Market.

Mr. F. H. Scolly, who resides four miles from Lindsay, finds that the Peterborough market if far superior to that of Lindsay as regards the standard price for produce of various kinds. Mr. Scolly arrived in town to-day with a load of hay which weighed twenty-three hundred pounds, which readily sold for $17, whereas in Lindsay he would only have received $14. Mr. Scolly has a large quantity of barley, oats, etc., which he intends delivering at the Peterborough market this week.

"The Porch of the Temple."

Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, rector of Peterborough, has issued a most interesting devotional pamphlet under the above title. It contains "plain words on the approach to our Father and His House." It is written in simple direct language of great earnestness, and is, if faithfully read, calculated to be a very great help to the earnest Christian seeking a higher spiritual life. It is a loving, yet spirited and practical call to action, and must be read with profit. It is a manual of devotion that should be in the hands of all who profess and call themselves Christians. Its arrangement is admirable, emphasis being given the leading ideas by lateral headings in heavier type than the body of the page. This little book can be purchased at the Peterborough Bookstore for the sum of five cents.

The Late Mrs. McComb.

On Sunday morning Mary Elizabeth Cowan McComb, wife of Mr. James McComb, merchant, died after a year's illness from a pulmonary affection. Mrs. McComb was a native of Clarke township, Durham county, where she was born, thirty-three years ago, and was united in marriage in that township about seventeen years ago to Mr. James McComb, with whom she came to Peterborough eight years ago. Mrs. McComb was in [illegible] a Presbyterian, and a member of the [illegible]ociation of St. Andrew's. She leaves behind her four children of tender years. Her husband will have the general sympathy in his great bereavement. The funeral took place this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock.

A QUARTETTE OF WEDDINGS.

They were Performed at the Cathedral This Morning.

There were four wedding ceremonies performed within the precincts of St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, which are the most that the Cathedral clergy ever had to celebrate in one day.

GOSELIN—MEAGHER.

The first took place at 5 o'clock, Ven. Archdeacon Casey officiating. Mr. F. J. Goselin was wedded to Miss Bridget Meagher, daughter of Mr. Dennis Meagher, who resides in the vicinity of the Locks bridge. Thomas Goselin, brother of the groom, was the best man, and Lizzie Meagher, sister of the bride, performed the office of bridesmaid.

KING—M'DONOUGH.

At seven o'clock the marriage of Mr. John King took place to Miss Mary McDonough, daughter of Mr. John McDonough. The brother of the bride, Mr. Tom. McDonough, of the Oriental Hotel, was best man and Miss Margaret McCarthy, of Campbellford, was the bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Scollard.

LANE—HICKEY.

The nuptials of Mr. Thomas Lane and Miss Catherine Hickey, daughter of Mr. John Hickey, of Ennismore, were celebrated at eight o'clock in the Cathedral by Rev. Father Scanlan. Mr. Richard Cavanagh was the groomsman and Miss Catherine Hickey the bridesmaid.

HEFFERNAN—POWERS,

Mr. Robert Heffernan, son of Mr. Thos. Heffernan, of Otonabee, and Miss Helena Powers, daughter of Mr. Thomas Powers, of the same township, were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony in the Cathedral at half past eight o'clock this morning, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiating. Mr. Thos. Powers, brother of the bride, performed the office of groomsman, and Miss Norah Heffernan, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid for the occasion.

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL.

Appointment of Officials for the Coming Year.

The statutory meeting of the Ashburnham Village Council was held last evening for purposes of inauguration. Those present were Reeve Burnham and Councillors Calcutt, Craig, Rutherford and Johnston, the latter being the newly-elected member.

THE FOLLOWING ACCOUNTS

were presented and ordered to be paid :—

As Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald offered to do the work of constable, roadmaster, etc., for the village for $300, Mr. Craig offered to do the work at the same figure and not to make any charge for repairing etc. The latter offer was accepted on the casting vote of Reeve Burnham.

Sale of Periodicals.

The sale of periodicals at the Public Library last night did not result in the securing of more than moderate prices. Some of the sets were incomplete and consequently their value was correspondingly impaired. It is the intention of the directors to have notices printed warning frequenters of the reading room of the danger of purloining papers left on the table for the general good of those authorized to use the reading room. It may not be amiss to repeat the explanation that the term "public Library" does not imply that the library and reading rooms are free to the public. They are only open to holders of tickets.

Accident at Rice Lake.

A peculiar accident happened on Friday night last to Mrs. Ferguson, who resides on an island in Rice Lake. Her son George was absent in Keene, leaving her alone in the house. She was engaged in cleaning up a closet and came across a package containing, what she supposed was, Epsom salts, too old to be of any use. The package was thrown into the kitchen stove and immediately there was a violent explosion, which blew the stove to atoms and flung the boiling water in two large pots over Mrs. Ferguson's person. In addition to being terribly scalded she was badly cut and bruised by the fragments of the stove and is reported to be in a critical condition. She is 78 years of age and her injuries may yet result fatally. The apparent harmless package she threw into the stove was smokeless gunpowder, which is of a dirty gray colour, closely resembling old deliquescent Epsom salts. Such things as poisons, gunpowder and other dangerous articles should be distinctly labelled and kept by themselves. Accidents of this kind, as nearly all accidents, are the result of some form of carelessness.

Last Night at the Opera House.

The J. L. Clarke Company opened a week's engagement at the Opera House last evening with the presentation of the great war drama "In Bondage" to a large audience. Miss Ella Cameron took the title role and she was ably supported by the first-class talent which composes the company. Miss Cameron is an emotional actress of high reputation and her capability is too well known to need comment. The same is the case with Mr. J. L. Clarke, who last evening took the part of Dennis Eagan, an Irish Corporal to perfection. The spontaneity of his wit was most infectious and when he was on the stage the audience was kept roaring with laughter. The parts of Captain Mark Stanley and Col. Peyton were capably taken, respectively, by Messrs. George Heath and Harry Brownridge. The caste is too large a one for personal mention, but all combine to make one of the strongest companies on the road and one which is deserving of the patronage of the Peterborough public. The company will be here for the balance of the week and should draw large houses.

A mirror could not lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face, your mirror will tell you so. Health is the greatest beautifier in the world. When a woman sees the indications of ill-health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation, and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaint." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullness and grace. She will be that noblest and most beautiful of all creation—a perfect woman.

Great Chance to Buy Books.

Now is the time for those interested in Sunday school and public and private libraries to buy books at very low prices. The Peterborough Bookstore is determined to reduce its large stock of miscellaneous books and standard sets, and will, therefore, previous to stock taking, close out its best books at prices which cannot be duplicated. A spendid stock to select from—equal to any in the cities. A. H. STRATTON & CO.

Of our Annual Special Stock-Taking Sale keeps going on evenly and successfully and grows increasingly lively as the momentum keeps up.

There's nothing can stop the Reductions. The swing of the movement began in January, and just as shoppers realize that it is getting nearer its end, just in proportion are sales increased. But remember we don't have to keep a clearing sale going perpetually.

We are making it worth your while to buy now instead of waiting until Spring :—

A FIRE HALL REFORM.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—Now that the new Council have fired their first shot, it will be a very short time before the different committees will be getting to work ; I would like to draw the attention of the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to a change which might be better at the Fire Hall. We all know that at a number of fires the driver of the hose cart has been late or absent. He is supposed to be at the hall all the time and not, like the other driver, delivering charity wood, etc. Would it not be better to arrange that one week one driver be on inside duty and the next week on outside duty ? This would give both men a chance and be for the interests of the department.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I remain

Yours,
RATEPAYER.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 21 pounds in weight. THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CEMETERY CO.

THE ELECTION OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS FOR 1896.

Reports from the Directors and the Superintendent—The Financial Statement for Last Year—The Outstanding Accounts.

At the annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Co., yesterday, the chair was occupied by Mr. Henry Denne, the President, others present being Messrs. W. H. Moore, Sheriff Hall, R. Max Dennistoun, Chas. Stapleton, W. Sawers, J. J. Lundy, C. Huffman, Thos. Kent, W. J. English, John Irwin, B. Shortly, J. L. Hughes, Walter Patterson, J. H. Cobb, E. A. Peck, (secretary,) and W. H. Foord, (Superintendent.)

On motion of Messrs. Shortly and Stapleton, Messrs. J. J. Hall and J. A. Hall were re-appointed auditors.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Mr E. A. Peck read the report of the Directors, as follows:

The principal improvements undertaken by the Board during the year were the erection of a fence along the west side of the land acquired from Mr. Bradburn, construction of a slat walk from the entrance gate to the Lodge, erection of a shed for wagon, etc., some repairs to house and the shingling of the stable. Some additional draining was also undertaken and a new wagon and cart purchased.

A change was made in the tariff of the charges, which change provided that the charge made for digging a grave should include the undertaking of the Company to keep same perpetually in repair thereafter and that as to existing graves, the Company would keep them for the future in repair on payment of $1.00 for each.

Some changes in the Cemetery Act being under contemplation of the Legislature, a deputation consisting of the President and Mr. Moore, attended last April before the committee of the Legislature which was considering the changes proposed. The Act passed by the Legislature provides: 1. That cemetery companies may repurchase lots previously sold and conveyed by them and may resell the same. 2. That no grave shall be re-opened for the purpose of the removal of a body and no monument or other permanent improvement removed from a lot without the consent of the Directors. 3. That companies may accept from the owner any lot for the purpose of maintaining same in perpetuity or otherwise, and 4. That Directors may pass bylaws or for regulating burials, the removal of bodies, the erection or removal of vaults, coping, fences, hedges, etc., the planting and removal of trees shrubs, etc., and otherwise generally respecting the use of the grounds by the shareholders and the public.

The receipts of the company for the year over the ordinary expenditure reached nearly $400, as appears by statement of receipts and expenditure submitted herewith.

The company purchased another town debenture for $1,000 bearing 4 per cent. interest and now hold in all debentures to the value of $5,000.

We beg to recommend that all hedges and fences (not copings) be removed from the Cemetery. We have made an effort to obtain a better supply of water for the grounds but so far have not been able to make satisfactory arrangements therefor.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Directors,

HENRY DENNE,
President.

Dated Jan. 17th, 1896.

Received and adopted.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Mr. W. H. Foord submitted his report as superintendent as follows:—

I beg to submit the following report of the improvements made at the cemetery for the year ending 31st December, 1895:

In the spring the fence between the cemetery and the land purchased from Mr. Bradburn was removed, and the ground cleaned up, and the large rocks removed, and down with grass seed; and a row of evergreen trees planted at the south side next to the railway. At the road in front the fence has been built, the deep ditch has been filled in, and preparations made to plant trees in the coming spring.

The waterworks system has been extended in Section A Q and Section K; 600 feet of 1 inch pipe and 150 feet of 2 inch pipe was laid, and hydrants erected at convenient points; 900 feet of drain 6 feet deep were made and laid with tile, and three traps built to carry surface water away.

Revere avenue, running south from Range avenue along the front of the single grave plot, has been cut to a regular width and gravelled, and a piece of ground south of the single graves has been filled in and seeded and terraced on Ravine avenue, making this a beautiful place.

With the consent of the lot owners, several of the old iron railings, and cedar hedges have been removed from around their lots, and it is hoped those remaining that mar the landscape beauty, will be removed.

I would recommend that further drains be made the coming season in section C. to intersect the present drain on Ravine avenue, as these drains have proved very satisfactory for underdraining and surface draining during the time the snow is going in the spring and when a thunder storm occurs. Also that a concrete walk be made between ranges two and three in section A. and that the fence around the cemetery be repaired and repainted.

I hereunto append my financial statement for the year ending 31st December, 1895:

He advocated the cancelling of all agreements concerning the prices on lots if the sum agreed upon was not paid into exchequer within the next two months, stating that many lots had been purchased five years ago and nothing paid on them. Since that time the price had advanced fully 30 per cent. No action was taken in regard to the matter, which will be more fully discussed at a future meeting.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and referred as appended;—

From Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson, drawing attention to an account of Bogue & Rutherford, for which they asked immediate settlement. — Referred to the Sewerage Committee.

From Jas. Brealy and Thos. McKee, applying for the position of town assessor.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Walter Stocker	$4 50
T J Mitchell	1 00
T Williams	1 00
R & J Braund	2 00
M H Haslin	17 00

Councillors Best and Phelan moved that the application for the position of assessor be taken up and settled by the council.

In amendment Councillors Hughes and Moore moved that the applications be taken up in the regular way by the Committee on Appointments.

The amendment carried.

THE COMMITTEE

to strike the standing committees for the year through its chairman, Councillor Best, submitted the following report:

1. That the standing committees for the ensuing year be composed as follows:

Finance—Councillors Moore, Best, Sawers, Mills, John White, Denne, Phelan and Langford.

Streets and Bridges—Councillors Langford, Hughes, Best, Denne, Weir, Graham and Sawers.

Joint—Councillors Denne, Moore, Best, Phelan, Langford.

2. That the first named on each committee be the chairman thereof.

3. That a grant of $250 be made to the mayor to meet the contingent expenses of his office.

4. That the sum of $100 be placed to the credit of the mayor and chairman of the Finance Committee, to meet incidental and necessary disbursements of chairmen of the committees in connection with town affairs.

Adopted on motion of Councillors Best and Wm. White.

The adoption of the last clause of the report was vigourously opposed by Councillor Hughes, who stated that he understood just exactly what this money was meant for. A visiting deputation would come to town from some other city and the councillors would be able to make jolly good fellows out of themselves at the expense of the town. The deputation would be driven around town and then taken to view the operations on the Trent Valley Canal. As it wasn't costing anything the deputation would then be taken to Lakefield, and, being a cold day, would need a little something to warm them up. (Laughter.) On coming back to town they would be cold again (laughter) and would take something else to warm them up and be taken around "to see the elephant"——

Councillor Moore—"You are speaking for yourself, Hughes, and must have 'been there' by the way you talk." (Laughter.)

Councillor Hughes then went on to say that he did not object to this $100, in particular, but thought it would be a dangerous precedent. It would be hard to tell where it would all end.

Councillors Best, Moore and Phelan all spoke, pointing out how in former years the Councillors had to put their hands in their own pockets to pay for street car tickets, hacks and the entertainment of visiting deputations of manufacturers, etc. It was quite enough, they thought, for a man to give so much of his time to the town's affairs without being put to extra expense.

Councillor Hughes did not get a seconder to his amendment.

BY-LAWS.

Mr. H. Phelan introduced the by-law for the appointment of a local Board of Health and in accordance with a recent enactment of the Local Legislature. Messrs. Henry Denne and Robert Innes were appointed for three years, Doctors Burnham and McGrath for two years and Messrs. Adam Hall and B. Shortly for one year.

Councillors W. H. White and Hughes moved in amendment to the by-law, that the names of Messrs. G. M. Roger and Adam Dawson be substituted for those of Messrs. Adam Hall and B. Shortly.

Councillor White pointed out that all the members of the Board should not live in the centre of the town. He thought that some of them should reside on the outskirts of Wards Nos. 1 and 3.

The amendment was lost and the bylaw passed.

Councillor Moore introduced a bylaw fixing the regular meeting of council for the first Monday in each month, unless the first Monday fell upon a holiday, in such case the meeting to be held on the following evening.

On motion of Councillors Moore and Denne, Messrs. John McKee and Robt. Fair were appointed school trustees to act during the ensuing year.

On motion of Councillors Sawers and Mills the Charity Committee were authorized to advertise for tenders for wood for that committee's use, and report to the council.

The council then adjourned.

RE 12TH JULY DEMONSTRATION

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—A paragraph in Saturday evening's EXAMINER is a little premature. The County L. O. L. meeting will not be held until the first Tuesday in February and final arrangements cannot be made until that date. Neither Mr. Croft nor Mr. Calcutt have so far granted any money towards the demonstration, but we have no doubt when the times comes for asking subscriptions they will respond liberally. In having a large demonstration like what is now under consideration the expenditure will be great and all depends upon what response is given by the business men when appealed to by the committee. Our past demonstrations were sufficient to prove the great benefit the business men derive from a 12th of July celebration in Peterborough.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

CHRONIC HEADACHE.

The change in my Mother's condition marvellous.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a Boon.

MONTREAL, August 29th, 1895.

GENTLEMEN:—There is such a change in my mother's health that I cannot restrain myself from writing you. She suffered for years past with a chronic headache, accompanied with a disordered stomach. She was weak and irritable, and we thought she was going into a decline. For three weeks she has been taking a course of Scott's Sarsaparilla, which was recommended to her by Mr. McGale, Druggist, Montreal. Her headache is now but a memory, her appetite is good, and she has gained five pounds in weight in twelve days. She is a different woman, and I feel that you, in God's hands, have been the means of restoring her to health. I shall always recommend Scott's Sarsaparilla to sufferers from head or digestive troubles. Thanking you again, I close,

Yours sincerely,
Hortense Gavlliere.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a concentrated extract, pleasant to the taste, and is taken in small doses. It is the finest remedy for disorders of the stomach and liver, palpitation, scrofulous sores, eczema and skin diseases arising from impurities of the blood. It builds up the weak, the strong it maintains in health. $1 of all druggists.

TOO PLAYFUL BY HALF.

How a Lively Fox Terrier Caused a Coolness Among Friends.

There is a man about town who has a markedly military bearing and a wooden leg. I won't say whether he was in the army or navy, for if I did you'd know right away who it is, but he gave that leg that Uncle Sam might have a stronger one to stand on. He went out to spend the evening not long ago at the house of some people he didn't know very well. They have a clever little fox terrier who is trained to jump over sticks that you hold out and to perform any number of other entertaining feats.

As I said, the wooden-legged man came to call. He sat down in a low, stuffed chair, whose seat was so long that the artificial leg, perforce, stuck straight out in the air. The fox terrier saw it. He recognized the invitation, and with a glad yelp he cleared it at a bound. He went over once, he went over twice, he went over thrice. Then he looked around with the air of one who has done his duty, and done enough of it. The leg still stuck out. He yelped a little unhappily and went at it again.

The hostess tried unobtrusively to call him off, but to no purpose. She tried not to notice him, and the poor dog kept at his performance, till finally in desperation she rose and carried him out of the room. I rather think the man had a fondness for that quarter once, but what can a man do after a thing like that?—Washington Post.

Impertinence Rebuked.

Mr. B., who lives in a Massachusetts town, was asked once by a stranger if he was a soldier in the civil war.

"I was not," answered Mr. B.

"Why not?" asked the other.

Mr. B. evidently regarded this question as impertinent, for he gave the stranger a quick, sharp look through his spectacles before he replied:

"I suppose it was on account of my way of looking at things."

"What! Were you opposed to the war?"

"On the contrary, I was heartily in favor of it from the beginning."

"Then what do you mean by your 'way of looking at things?'"

"I volunteered, but was rejected because I was short-sighted."

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. THE McCORD CASE.

His Disease Pronounced Diabetes and Incurable—Given up by Himself and Friends—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Repairing and patching promptly attended to Corner Bethune and Aberbrooke street

An important message often comes by telegraph, but the most important message that ever was delivered to mankind has been given to them through the newspapers. It is given again in this article.

It is the information that 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption can be completely and permanently cured. There is no doubt about it. The statement is not made recklessly, but after the experience of thousands has made it an indisputable fact. Consumption is not a disease of the lungs. It is a disease of the blood, which in weak lunged people manifests itself by the formation of tubercles in the lungs and the wasting away of lung tissue. The cure for consumption is simple. It consists in the administration of a medicine that will assist the lungs in throwing off tuberculous matter, and that will cleanse the system so that this refuse matter will be replaced by strong, healthy tissues. That sounds like a very simple operation, and yet consumption baffled the combined medical skill of the whole world for hundreds of years. Consumption was considered incurable until the advent of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great remedy is the most wonderful blood purifier and strengthener that the world has ever known. It is the result of years of study and experiment, by a scientific physician and has been tested in every way by him for over 30 years. It has an unbroken record of success. It cures a great variety of diseases, because almost all diseases have their origin and support in impurity and weakness of the blood. As long as a man's blood is rich and pure, he is in no danger from diseases. The blood is the medium through which food is carried from the digestive system to all of the tissues of the body. If it carries impure things, or an insufficient quantity of good things, trouble will ensue. There is nothing about that so very hard to understand. It is perfectly plain and natural and rational. The "Golden Medical Discovery" puts the digestive system in perfect order, purifies and enriches the blood and so puts the whole body into perfect tune.

CAMPOS IS A PATRIOT.

He Sinks His Own Feelings in Order That Spain May Not be Weakened.

Madrid, Jan. 18.—Premier Canovas has received a lengthy despatch from Gen. Martinez Campos, the retiring general of Cuba, with regard to the latter's recall by the Spanish Cabinet. The despatch is as follows:

"I regard your message as an order, but I would remark that I have not tendered my resignation. I have no sense of failing power. I have not feared opposition of any kind, for I always know how to face it. I could not resign of my own free will, yielding to pressure, in the presence of an enemy. I congratulate the Government on its decision, which may obviate dissensions, which, if they did not affect me, might work harm in Spain."

Gen. Polavieja, who is mentioned as the probable successor of Gen. Campos, has advised Premier Canovas to appoint Gen. Weylor to the position of Commander-In-Chief of the Spanish forces in Cuba.

Gen. Campos Deposed.

Madrid, Jan. 18.—The consensus of opinion here is that the superseding of General Martinez Campos in command of the Spanish forces in Cuba will greatly improve the situation there. The military journals censure Gen. Martinez Campos, and declare that his splitting up his 100,000 followers into small sections to protect rural property has been the chief cause of the extension of the Cuban revolt.

THE DIVISION OF SIAM.

Particulars of the Arrangement Concluded Between Britain and France.

London, Jan. 18.—The abundant talk of the Anglo-French alliance is based on the agreemnt recently signed by Great Britain and France relative to the partition of Siam.

Under the new convention France acquires the whole western valley of the Mekong River and part of the eastern valley of the upper Mekong, all of which territory comprises the richest of the Siamese provinces. England takes the territory west of the Menam valley and absorbs the Malay peninsula, so that the Indian Empire will extend in an unbroken line from Beloochistan to the Straits Settlements. France wanted to seize Bankok, the Siamese capital, which would have completely put an end to the kingdom of Siam, but England objected. Siam proper will now be confined to the valley of the Menam.

Both powers have now turned their attention to a settlement of the question of the Niger territory in Africa, for which purpose a joint commission will be formed.

The Temps of Paris warns the English papers that the accord of the Siam and Niger questions is not the beginning of a sort of political honeymoon of France and England. It adds that the present English adulation of France is not acceptable and that the genuineness of the feeling expressed is entirely distrusted.

ALMOST BRAINED HIM.

A Six-Year Old Boy Accidentally Falls Under His Father's Axe.

Paris, Ont., Jan. 18.—A bad accident, which may prove fatal, occurred here last night, in which a 6-year-old boy, son of Thomas Cavan, of Paris station, was nearly killed by his father with an ax. It appears while Mr. Cavan was splitting wood in the yard, the young lad, while picking up chips, slipped under the descending ax, which dealt him a tremendous blow, cutting through the skull and injuring the membrane of the brain. There is some hope of his recovery.

CARLISLE FOR PRESIDENT.

A Report That the Secretary of the Treasury is a Candidate for the Nomination.

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—The Tribune will to-morrow say:

There now seems to be no question that John G. Carlisle is an avowed candidate for the nomination for President, and in some quarters it is believed that he has been selected to perpetuate the Cleveland dynasty.

In Washington last week it was definitely ascertained that Mr. Cleveland was not a candidate, and would not accept the nomination if it was tendered him.

BANDITS CAPTURED.

They Attempted to Rob a Missouri Town and Made a Mistake.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 18.—It develops that the four bandits arrested at Cedar City yesterday are the train robbers who held up the Missouri Pacific train Thursday. Yesterday the robbers, six in number, appeared at Cedar City and undertook to run the town. Their leader was shot and killed by Charles Gilbert of Fulton, and four were wounded. They were placed in jail here. From descriptions it is ascertained that they were undoubtedly the Nevada train robbers. On one of the men $600 was found. There is in the city great excitement over the capture. The fifth man was arrested this morning when he called at the jail to see the others. He is a brother of the man who was killed.

PRINCE ST. FELIX.

The Name Decided Upon for the Duke of York's Second Son.

New York, Jan. 19.—A London cable special says:

A proposal has been made to burden the Duke of York's latest son with the name of St. Felix, for no better reason than that he was born near the church dedicated to that saint in Norfolk. The Prince of Wales is about to rebuild at his own expense this ancient church, which tradition assigns as the first Christian place of worship in this country, and the idea is to associate his little grandson forever with the pious work. The baby will be Christened in the Chapel Royal, St. James'. The Queen has promised to be present, and the affair will be one of the events of the London season, which does not give much promise so far of being particularly brilliant.

Squelched.

He—So you refuse me? Well, there are others.

She—Precisely. I'm already engaged to one of them.

A Way Out.

Down near Goldsboro, N. C., I turned in from the dusty highway and asked a native sitting in front of his cabin if I could get a drink of water. He said I could, and I walked with him to a hole in the ground a few yards away. He didn't have to go down over fifteen feet, and there was water to the depth of five feet in the hole. It was neither stoned up nor was there a curb around it, and, as there were several children around and the well was near the door, I said:

"I should think you would have a curb around this well."

"What fur?" he asked.

"Don't the children run a risk of falling in?"

"I reckon."

"And wouldn't a curb lessen the chances?"

"It mought, but 'twould take a heap of lumber and time. I've got a cheaper way. Look at that."

He pointed to a pole stuck on end in the well, and, while I was trying to make out what it was for, he said:

"That's for them to climb out on when they tumble in, and it beats a curb all holler!"—Detroit Free Press.

Motions at Osgoode Hall to Have Money Paid to Relatives of People Supposed to Be Dead.

Toronto, Jan. 21.

Two motions were made at Osgoode Hall yesterday to have money in court to the credit of certain people paid out to their representatives on the ground that they had been absent so long that they must be dead. One of these was Richard M. Moore of St. Thomas, who 30 years ago left that place. He was heard of years ago in New Zealand. He would be a man of 60 now, so the court presumed that he was dead and made an order for the payment out of court of $500 to his brother Solomon.

W. J. Moran also got an order in a similar matter for payment out of $250 in court to the credit of William and Michael Fitzgerald, who in 1854 left their home in Middlesex and have never been heard of since. The money was paid out to the three sisters, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Jane Hyde and Mrs. Catherine Newbery, all of whom live in Toronto.

Hyams Twins Remanded Again.

Dallas and Harry Hyams were up again at the Magistrate's Court yesterday morning, charged with conspiracy to murder. Mr. Curry, acting for the Crown, produced a letter from O. Ste. Marie, a witness relied upon to give important evidence with reference to some insurance transactions, and who was supposed to be in Montreal. He wrote that he was now in the Southern States, and that it would require considerable in the way of travelling expenses and compensation for being compelled to sever his business connections to induce him to return to give evidence. In view of the fact, Mr. Curry asked for the discharge of Harry Hyams, that he might be used as a witness against his brother. Mr. Curry cited precedents for the steps proposed, but Mr. Johnston, who appeared for the defence, declared that even if the court did discharge Harry Hyams, he (Johnston) would advise him not to answer the questions put to him, in view of the forgery charges pending. Mr. Curry, nevertheless, persisted in asking for the discharge of the prisoner, and he was accordingly discharged. He was at once put in the witness' box, but refused to answer any questions, further than to give his name and the name of his wife.

"Where did you reside in the summer of 1894?" asked Mr. Curry.

"I refuse to give any evidence, Mr. Curry," was the reply.

"You refuse to answer where you were living in the summer of 1894?"

"I do."

"I appeal to Your Worship if this is not a proper question to ask the witness."

His Worship said that he was just considering the matter and would adjourn the case until Wednesday morning.

Dallas Hyams was therefore remanded till Wednesday on the original charge of conspiracy to murder, and Harry was also remanded on the charge of forgery.

The Old 100th Regiment.

The United Service Gazette has this to say regarding the proposal to re-establish the headquarters of the 100th Regiment in Canada:

"It is considered to be a matter for sincere congratulation that the Canadians are displaying great energy and a truly patriotic feeling in connection with their own old corps, and they are held to deserve all the support possible on the part of this country. The re-linking of the old 100th with Canada would afford an opening for Canadians of all ranks to make a name for themselves as soldiers of the Empire, while it would certainly tend to improve the efficiency of the Dominion militia, as Canadian officers and non-commissioned officers of the 100th (i.e., granted it was restored to its native land) could in time be selected as adjutants and drill instructors for their various militia battalions, as is now done in our own army. There is one thing felt to be very certain and that is that the physique of a Canadian regiment would more than hold its own with that of any of our home service line battalions of the present day."

The Gazette also publishes the comments of the Canadian press favorable to the re-Canadianizing of the 100th Foot (Royal Canadians), now known as the 1st battalion Leinster Regiment.

W. A. Glen of Amelíasburg left his home on Jan. 9, and a week later he wrote his wife this note from Toronto: "Gone out of this world. W. A. Glen."

Mrs. Glen has requested the police to try and find her husband. He is 5 feet 6 inches in height, fair, with moustache and side whiskers, blue eyes; and dressed in black sealette cap, brown checked overcoat, black diagonal coat, and vest, and black and white striped trousers, black hose and low shoes. There was no apparent reason why he should suicide.

More or less interest centres in the operations of the Pelee Oil and Gas Company, which has just been incorporated for the purpose of drilling for oil and gas on Pelee Island. Prospecting has been carried on in the island during the past summer, and the outlook for the industry in that section of the country is said to be good. While some think that the oil found on Pelee Island is from the same vein as that which supplies the Petrolea wells, others are of the opinion that the oil here is drawn from strata of a different period, likely from one of the upper devonian formations.

At the afternoon meeting of the International Missionary Alliance, addresses were given on "The work of the Holy Spirit."

At night farewell addresses were delivered by Rev. Robert Jaffray and Rev. George Shields, who leave shortly for China and Thibet respectively. These young men were ordained at Bethany chapel in the morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Simpson, assisted by Revs. John Salmon, George Fisher and E. A. Funk.

Bruce Hutton, a milkman, carrying on business near Perth, was convicted on a charge of selling skim milk to a cheese factory, and was fined $30. Motion was brought at Osgoode Hall for leave to begin proceedings to have the conviction quashed. Judgment was reserved.

HOCKEY.

The Collegiate Institute team plays the return match with the Lindsay Collegiates in Lindsay on Friday next.

The second team of the Peterboroughs play in Millbrook on Wednesday night next. They are a dashing lot of players and should win an easy victory.

The Collegiate Institute, flushed with the victory of their match against the Lindsay Collegiates, are anxious to play the Volts and hereby challenge that team to a game.

A challenge has been received by the Printers from the Collegiate Institute team and a match will probably be arranged for next week. The Printers have had no practice this year, but are willing to play the Collegiates for the fun there is in it.

The result of the O. H. A. series in this district now stands as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	To Play.
Peterborough	2	0	1
Norwood	1	1	1
Volts	0	2	1

The Volts were defeated in Lindsay last evening by the hockey team of that town, the score being 5-6, in favour of the latter. The match is described as being most evenly contested and replete with brilliant play, the Volts putting up a far better game than they did in Norwood. It is thought that if the game had taken place on Peterborough ice that the score would have been reversed in favour of the Volts.

The teams lined up as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH VOLTS.		LINDSAY.
Kelly	goal	Walton
Thorne	point	Kempt
Knowles	centre point	Walters
Wilmar	forwards	Keenan
Adams	forwards	Herb Knowlson
Hicks	forwards	F Shannon
Barclay	forwards	Rankin

CURLIANA.

After the six rinks had been got in splendid condition for the reception of the Toronto Granites word was received yesterday afternoon that they found it impossible to get together twelve rinks to come down for the annual Peterborough-Toronto bonspiel, which had been set for to-day. As the date was set by the Granites themselves their defalcation is all the more annoying. It is rarely that a Toronto organization in the athletic line can be depended upon to live up to any agreement.

Amongst the matches played at the rink yesterday were the following:—

W Stocker,	R Hay,
R Kerr,	R H Fortye,
D Belleghem,	R Davidson,
R H Kells, skip.....12	S Ray, skip.....22
F Stenson,	Dr Greer,
C LeBrun,	H R H Kenner,
H LeBrun,	W J Thompson,
R S Davidson, sk...17	J B McKee, skip 13
H Snowden,	Dr Carmichael,
A Blade,	J Stanger,
C Rutherford,	G Brown,
T Rutherford, sk....19	J B Pentland, skip....9

Among the visitors at the rink yesterday were Mr. Salisbury, of Cobourg, father of Mr. W. Salisbury, who is an enthusiastic curler, and Mr. W. J. Clarke, of the Clarke Dramatic Company.

They are Still Talking Alike.

The eloquent and popular pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Mitchell, Ont., Rev. W. A. Bradley, B.A., gives a little of his experience as follows:

"For over a year Pinemalt has been used in my family. Its merits are so genuine that on no account would we consent to be without it. Speedy action is a marked character of this remedy. Cough and hoarseness, especially, are relieved with surprising quickness. As a general domestic remedy, it stands at the top."

So say they all. Pinemalt has become the fashionable winter medicine because it does its work—is antigerm, fragrant, healing and stimulating. Pinemalt and Hypophosphites, instead of plain Pinemalt should be used in all chronic cases. Sold by druggists.

BRITAIN'S SUCCESS.

Love of Peace Taken as a Sign of Weakness.

PROSPERITY IMPUTED AS A CRIME

Indifference to Criticism an Invitation to Insult—Speech by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain in London—Mr. Goschen Says Navy Will be Kept Supreme.

London, Jan. 21.—Right. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, delivered a speech tonight at a banquet given by natives of Queensland residing or visiting in London. He referred to the solidarity of the Imperial sentiment, which made it impossible for a blow to be struck or a chord sounded in the most distant part of the Empire without its being re-echoed in every part of Her Majesty's dominions. Great Britain, he said, had been guilty of many sins of omission and commission towards her colonies. Still she alone among the nations of the earth had been able to establish and maintain colonies in all parts of the world. A few weeks ago he added, Great Britain seemed to stand alone, surrounded by jealous competitors, and was assailed with altogether unexpected hostility. Long-standing differences appeared to suddenly come to a head and assumed threatening proportions. The quarters whence she might have looked for friendship and consideration confronted her instead with suspicion and even hate. England had to recognize that her success, however legitimate, was imputed as a crime, that her love of peace was taken as a sign of weakness, and her indifference to foreign criticism as an invention to insult. He regretted to be forced to admit that such feelings existed, but he rejoiced, seeing that they did exist, that they had found expression.

No better service had been done the nation, for it had enabled her to show her face to the world. England, while resolute to fulfil her obligations, was equally determined to maintain her rights. England, if isolated, stood secure in the strength of her own resources, in the firm resolution of her people without respect to party, and in the abundant loyality of her children from one end of the Empire to the other.

Mr. Chamberlain was heartily applauded.

TO MAINTAIN SUPREMACY.

Mr. Goschen Refers to the Flying Squadron and the Building of Warships

Right Hon. George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, made a speech at Grinstead to-day, in the course of which he said he wished to dissipate the alarming rumors that were in circulation. Referring to the flying squadron, he said it was intended for use in any emergency in any direction. It would go to Berehaven, without taking sealed or other orders, except to proceed to that place and await instructions. The squadron was not intended as a menace to any country, nor was it destined for any particular quarter of the world. It would be used as other squadrons are used. Mr. Goschen appealed to the public, if they heard that the squadron had been ordered anywhere, not to imagine that it had been sent to menace anybody. The disposal of the squadron would not be guided by political considerations while the situation remained as it is now. He denied the rumor that the Government meditated placing another squadron in commission. Nevertheless it could not afford to rest on its oars. It did not propose to adopt sensational measures, but would continue as hitherto to steadily augment the number of ships, guns and men, in order to maintain supremacy on the sea, and to secure the nation from panic whenever there were clouds on the political horizon.

Venezuela Commission Met.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The members of the Venezuelan Commission met today. Justice Brewer presided. The commission gave out for publication a letter addressed to Secretary Olney last week, inviting information from the two Governments chiefly interested in the boundary controversy.

To this communication Secretary Olney replied, stating that he had communicated the suggestions of the commission to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, and to Minister Andrade, the Venezuelan representative, for transmission to their respective Governments.

The commission then adjourned till Friday next.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S DELAY.

His Want of Action Kills the Bill—Senator Perley Complains About the Regina Fair Deficit—Debate on the Address in the Commons.

Ottawa Jan. 21.—In the Senate this afternoon Sir Mackenzie Bowell, replying to a question by Senator Perley, said the Government was aware that Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh had refused to give his assent to the school ordinance passed last session by the Legislative Assembly of the Territories, but that in so doing he was not acting on the advice of the Dominion Government. The Premier also read a report of the late Minister of Justice, which had been adopted by Council. The report stated that the Minister had under consideration the school ordinance passed by the Legislative Assembly of the Territories at its last session, which was reserved by the Lieutenant-Governor for the assent of the Governor-General. In his report Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh gave as his reason for withholding his assent to the bill that it had been passed by the Assembly on the last day of the session, and that he consequently had not an opportunity of examining its provisions. The ordinance was to go into force on the 1st of January of the present year.

Senator Perley said the statement made by the Premier would relieve the Government of much blame, as the people of the Northwest understood that the Lieutenant-Governor was acting upon the advice of the Dominion Government. It was now evident that all responsibilities for any injury done by the refusal to allow the school ordinance rested entirely upon the Lieutenant-Governor.

The bill was a consolidation of the law, and the Government declare there was no reason for reserving it. It would naturally follow that if Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh should, as Premier Bowell says, have assented to the bill, the Dominion Government ought, standing as they do in his place, to have assented to it and given it validity. But Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh, having made a mistake, the Government, whose officer he is, are going to visit the Territories with the consequences of the error of a man for whom they are responsible. Once again, as in the Shortis case, they have gone to His Excellency and said, "We are unable to recommend any action." The effect is to kill the bill. This is the school law which Archbishop Langevin of St. Boniface recently denounced as depriving the Roman Catholics of the control of their own schools in the Territories.

Referring to the territorial exhibition at Regina Senator Perley asked if the Government had received and statement from the Lieut.-Governor as to the amount and nature of the unpaid balances which were still owing in connection with the fair, and for the payment of which there were no funds. He explained that, though in all $50,000 had been granted to cover the expenditure for the exhibition, owing to the mismanagement of the Lieut.-Governor, who had sole charge of the expenditure there was a large number of accounts due to poor men in the Northwest who had supplied materials and assisted in the construction of the fair which had not been paid, and for the payment of which there were no funds. It was evident that the Lieut.-Governor's mission to Ottawa had been a failure, if the Government had not consented to place an amount in the estimates this session for the payment of these accounts. He was pleased to know that His Honor was an official of the Federal Government, as he saw in that statement an implied guarantee that the Government was responsible for the liabilities contracted by its officer. He complained of what he called the one-man power exercised by the Lieut.-Governor and Premier Haultain, which he thought had been done away with when the Territories got responsible government.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell complained of the wideness of the scope of Senator Perley's remarks, which were brought on without any notice and without the Government having an opportunity of obtaining the necessary information with which to adequately deal with the matter. He could say, however, that in all matters of money grants to and the requirements of the Northwest Premier Haultain was asked to consult with the Government. The Lieut.-Governor was the direct representative of the Dominion Government, and it was right that negotiations should be conducted through him. It was not incumbent on the Federal Government to ask the advice of the representatives of the Territories in the Dominion House, but he was surprised to learn that Premier Haultain had not sought the advice and co-operation of the representatives of his province at Ottawa. With regard to the liabilities for the fair at Regina, he did not know that the Federal Government was bound in honor or in equity to assume that indebtedness, and they certainly were not legally bound. The Government had only given a money grant to assist the fair, and had taken no further responsibility. So far as the action of the Lieut.-Governor in withholding his assent to the school ordinance was concerned, he had been told by Governor Mackintosh a few days ago that the ordinance had only been placed in his hands a few minutes prior to the hour set for prorogation, and he had decided to withhold his assent after consulting with Premier Haultain.

Senator Lougheed: Did I understand the Premier to say that the Government repudiated the fair liabilities incurred by the Lieut.-Governor.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell: I did not say so. I said it was a matter for consideration. Would it not be well for the hon. gentleman to establish a claim before he talks of repudiation?

Senator Lougheed: Well, the people of the Northwest certainly expect that the Dominion Government will pay the debts contracted by its own officer, the Lieut.-Governor.

IN THE COMMONS.

Three Capital Speeches Delivered in the Debate on the Address.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The debate to-day was marked by three excellent speeches.

At the opening the Hon. Messrs. the House this afternoon Hon. Messrs. Foster and Laurier paid touching tributes to the late John Bryson, M.P., whose sterling qualities and genial disposition made him popular with both sides, and by whom his untimely demise is greatly deplored.

There was a burst of applause when Hon. Mr. Mills arose to continue the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He began by calling attention to the fact that for two or three hours last night the Minister of Justice was the only member of the Government in the House. He said that one would be led by their conduct to imagine that there had been a change in the constitution by which members of the Government had ceased to be members of the House. Then Mr. Mills addressed himself to the consideration of the proposition laid down by Mr. Powell, that there was no such thing as Provincial autonomy. He said that he did not understand the constitution as interpreted by Mr. Powell. He held that the power of any one of the legislatures under the Federal constitution to the extent of their authority did not differ from that power possessed where Parliamentary institutions were introduced by a legislative body existing in any one of the dependencies of the empire. The character of the authority possessed by any of the provinces of the Dominion had not been altered by the fact that they had been federally united. As they were prior to the union, they should continue to be, differing from their prior authority only to the extent of the power with which they were entrusted, but not at all differing in the character of the Government or Legislature that existed under the constitution. At considerable length and with great force, Mr. Mills maintained the doctrine of provincial rights. Alluding to Mr. Kenny's violent and personal attack upon Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, he said that it was ill-judged, ill-timed, unpatriotic, ungeneous and based upon charges which were unfounded.

While Canada was devoted to the Empire, and, he trusted, fully appreciated its own interest in the matter and its own rights as an American power, with courtesy towards its neighbors, it seemed to him that it was an extremely inopportune time for Mr. Kenny to attack Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, under the pretence that these gentlemen were not just as loyal as he or any other gentleman on the other side of the House. It was important that the Canadian people should present to the world their unity in this regard. When Mr. Kenny made his attack he was injuring the country, and not the Liberal party. The effect of such statements upon our neighbors constituted a danger, and this danger Mr. Kenny, by his speech, had undertaken to aggravate.

Turning his attention to Mr. McNeill, who had quoted a portion of Mr. Blake's letter against the policy of reciprocity, Mr. Mills read further from his statement to the effect that the Government's restrictive policy had tended rather to disintegration and annexation than consolidation.

The reading of Mr. Blake's inventory of the effects of the Canadian Conservative policy was punctuated by Sir Richard Cartwright and other Opposition-ists with hearty "Hear, hears," after each strong phrase. As the phrases became stronger the responses became louder, and the whole House began to indulge in laughter. Mr. Mills concluded the reading with the remark that he hoped, as Mr. McNeill had appealed to Caesar, by Caesar's judgment he would abide.

Proceeding, Mr. Mills took the Government to task for their action with respect to commuting the sentence of Shortis, the Valleyfield murderer. He held that it was one of the duties of the Government to decide upon questions of capital punishment and that according to a widely circulated statement the Government shirked their responsibility in this case, and sent the papers to the Governor-General without any recommendation.

Mr. Daly followed. Speaking with reference to Mr. Mills' complaint that Ministers did not listen to Opposition speeches, he said indisposition was the cause of the absence of many Ministers last evening. There was no intention to be discourteous to the Opposition. Proceeding, he took exception to Mr. Mills calling Mr. Kenny's speech "a violent attack on Cartwright," but held there was justification for Mr. Kenny being incensed at Sir Richard Cartwright's saying Nova Scotia was the wet nurse and dry nurse of the worst pack of boodlers Canada had ever seen. Mr. Daly then took up the question of Remedial Legislation. He was satisfied the issue in the recent election in Manitoba was not the school question, and that Mr. Greenway had not carried the province on that question. If they had, why, he asked, did the Greenway Government have to snap a verdict from the people on a few weeks' notice? Why did they have to resort to partizan enumerators, as they did?

Mr. Daly continued after recess. He censured the Liberals for charging the Government with harshness in connection with its action on the school question, and contended that Mr. Greenway's whole purpose had been to make the question a political one.

Mr. Northrup arraigned the Liberals for blindly worshipping the fetich of reciprocity and claimed that the Conservatives were in favor of reciprocity when an intelligent consideration of it from a business point of view showed that reciprocity would be advantageous. Proceeding he referred to Sir Richard Cartwright's claim that he never advocated commercial union. Sir Richard had, then, so successfully disguised his position on that subject that every one in Canada and the United States believed him to be a commercial unionist.

AN INTERESTING COMPARISON.

The Government organs are fond of sneering at the expression, "free trade as they have it in England," but it seems after all to not be a bad thing, and to wear rather better than "protection as they have it in the United States" does, in Canada. Great Britain a year or two ago was passing through rather deep waters of trade depression, at which super-loyal N. P. papers waxed jubilant, thinking—poor deluded souls—that it was an argument in favour of that economic heresy and political makeshift—the N. P. But free trade seems to be a principle not a policy and always justifies itself, while the more we see of protection, as we have borrowed it from our Yankee neighbors, the poorer showing it makes. While Canadian imports and exports have dwindled and decreased under the so called National Policy, according to the last trade and navigation returns the export of British and Irish productions increased from £215,824,000 in '94, to £226,169,000 in '95, and the exports of foreign and colonial merchandise have increased in similar ratio. And the increase of exports, consisting of yarns, textile fabrics, and other manufactured products show that Great Britain with free trade against the petty and peddling opposition of protection tariffs, does not need a hot house scheme of protective to keep her in the industrial lead in the world. At the same time 820,000 tons register of new shipping was added to the navy of Britain. This is under free trade as they have it in England. Though it is impossible except by degrees to adopt such a system in Canada, yet it is interesting to compare these figures with the reduced purchasing power of Canadians, as shown in our latest trade and navigation returns, by the decrease in our Canadian shipping, by the reduced earnings of Canadian railways. Such a comparison indicates, to borrow the language of the Montreal Herald, that "free trade is not irremediably allied to ruin, and that "protection" is not a triple bullet proof armour against hard times."

THE present Government has been in power for seventeen years and have yet failed to supply our volunteers with a decant rifle.

I go further and say that the best armament and the best defence is to give good sound weapons to the soldiers of Canada.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier.

DR. LANDERKIN reached the spot when he said, amidst great laughter in the House of Commons that the seven bolting ministers had seven principles—five loaves and two fishes.

MR. WEISMILLER, the defeated Government candidate in West Huron, is in Ottawa looking for comfort. The electors refused to employ him; but it is more than probable that the Government will give him a job at a good fat figure and make the people pay his wages.

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. If his body is all out of order and run down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for enjoyment be perfect. If this condition doesn't exist something ought to be done. That means nine cases in ten the use of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the body. It makes the appetite good, digestion and nutrition perfect and supplies rich, red blood to all the tissues, building up solid, healthful flesh.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

PEACEFUL COUNSELS ARE GAINING

Venezuela Boundary Dispute Likely to be Settled Amicably—The London Times Glad of the Better Feeling, But Cannot Recognize the Commission.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Secretary of State Olney believes that all danger of trouble with England over the Venezuelan boundary dispute has passed. He has said to a leading member of Congress that the affair wears an entirely different look now than it did a few weeks ago.

The Secretary did not say what arrangements had been made with Great Britain, or what the nature of the settlement would be, but he did say that the prospect of an amicable understanding was regarded by him as certain. In fact, he felt certain a settlement of the whole matter would be made by the two Governments before he Venezuelan Commission could make its investigations and report.

THE FLYING SQUADRON.

Mischievous Fabrications Cabled Over to London From America.

New York, Jan. 21.—Ballard Smith cables from London to The World:

Whatever may be the sensational reports in America about the destination of the Flying Squadron, they are the merest conjecture. Not even the admiral, as I cabled on authority last Saturday, will know his destination until he opens his instructions when putting finally to sea.

The wild reports apparently current in America and cabled back here of its sailing point being Bermuda, or having reference to either Venezuela or Cuba, are denounced by the authorities here as most mischievous fabrications. Such a step on the part of the British Admiralty, it is fully recognized, would be tantamount to an act of hostility to the United States. Lord Salisbury has not lost his senses, and such action could only mean that.

No authority here can understand what is meant by the cabled report from New York that Great Britain has made a demand on Spain for the revenues of Cuba to pay the outstanding claims of investors in Spanish bonds. Doubtless there are such investors in England, but the wildest imaginings could not conceive of the British Government intervening by such a method to enforce the payment of the debt to British subjects. That, again, would mean war with the United States, if not with the whole civilized world.

It seems incredible that such a preposterous fabrication could have currency in a history or newspaper-reading community.

The Flying Squadron, doubtless, has fulfilled its mission in serving notice on the world that Great Britain is in complete readiness to meet any emergency. It may not sail a hundred miles beyond these shores. It is, indeed, proof of this empire's naval prescience and strength. Eleven years ago the best fleet of England assembled in this same harbor of Portsmouth. Thirteen war vessels were then gathered there of the best type extant at that time. Either the Majestic or the Magnificent, of the present Channel fleet could send the whole 13 to the bottom before any one of them could reach her. Of the 13 only three are now in commission, and are practically superannuated. The others have been sold as marine rubbish.

WILL NEVER ALLOW IT.

The London Globe Grows Wrathy Over the United States Proposal.

London, Jan. 21.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the Cabinet will immediately consider the matter of making important changes in the British military equipment.

The Globe publishes a severe article on the invitation of the United States-Venezuela commission to the governments of Great Britain and of Venezuela to submit to the commission all of the evidence in their possession which is likely to further the work of the investigation, and also inviting these two governments to be represented before it by attorneys without prejudice to either's claims, and says Great Britain will never allow this monstrous claim to determine the territory of a British colony within its jurisdiction. No power could admit it except at the close of a long and disastrous war. Were such a demand made by any other power, our only reply would be to hand its ambassador his passports and mobilize the fleet. Will these pernicious commissioners undertake to answer for the effect upon their own countrymen of forcing the Premier to snub the American Secretary of State?

THE TIMES IS PLEASED.

Yet The Thunderer Says Britain Cannot Recognize the Commission's Doings.

London, Jan. 21.—The Times tomorrow will give unusual prominence to a Washington despatch from its correspondent, G. W. Smalley, asserting that he has personal knowledge of the existence in the White House and the State Department of a strong and cordial wish for an early and complete settlement of the dispute with Great Britain on terms that will involve no discredit to either government, and also the existence of the belief that such a settlement may be speedily reached. Mr. Smalley adds that good advice has already been given to Venezuela, and may be given more effectively.

The Times, commenting on the foregoing and on Mr. Smalley's assertion that there has been a sudden change in the spirit of the Senate, will express its pleasure at the cheering news. The absence of a desire to hasten Senator Davis' resolution, it says, will allow time for the forces that are making for peace to operate. The paper notes the conciliatory and modest language of Justice Brewer's letter to Secretary Olney, but says it thinks it must be obvious to the Americans themselves that the origin of the Venezuelan commission and the manner in which its creation is regarded in the United States make it altogether impossible for Great Britain to recognize its doings, either directly or indirectly.

Lord Salisbury's original objection to arbitrate concerning districts settled years ago by British subjects, and under British law, still holds good but the American Government must be well aware of the perfect willingness on this side to discard the Schomburgk line and arbitrate on all the disputed territory, excluding only the districts the British or Venezuelans have permanently settled. This basis for negotiations is open for Venezuela to seek at any time. It certainly would not be rejected here, but it is impossible for Great Britain to resume diplomatic relations with Venezuela until the latter shall have made the first advance.

Commercial War Against England.

New York, Jan. 21.—Caracas, Venezuela, special cable says the press and people of Venezuela have declared commercial war against England.

The newspapers publish daily this notice in display type:

"TO THE PEOPLE—Whoever buys English products increases the power of Great Britain."

For two months from Jan. 15 the press will give daily the names of Venezuelan and foreign merchants dealing in any manner with England or her colonies.

A NEEDLE IN HER HEART.

Peculiar Case Developed at Kingston—A Prominent Physician Dying From Blood Poisoning.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 21.—The doctors in Rockwood Asylum held a post-mortem of a patient who died of consumption. A darning needle was stuck through her liver and a needle 1 1-2 inches long was embeded in her heart. She had lived with this foreign matter through them for some time.

Dr. Kenneth, N. Fenwick, one of Kingston's most brilliant surgeons, is dying of blood poisoning. While performing an operation on a child patient for septic peritonitis, he cut his finger. No alarm was felt until last night, when serious symptoms manifested themselves and to-day the arm became gangrenous. Dr. Roddick of Montreal was summoned by special train, and on arrival a consultation was held. No hope was held out. He is sinking rapidly and it is feared he cannot live the night through.

ABOUT TRINIDAD.

Brazil Has a Poor Prospect of Getting the Island Again.

New York, Jan. 21.—The Herald's special from Buenos Ayres says:

The British Minister has handed to the Brazilian Foreign Office a note from Lord Salisbury, in which are embodied the points held as the foundation for England's claim to the island of Trinidad. The British Prime Minister says that, while the English are in actual possession, in the exercise of a conciliatory spirit, the Government is willing to accept arbitration as a means of determining the rightful ownership. Brazil must reply definitely as to whether she will accept this friendly proposition at the end of the current month or on Feb. 12.

The note further says that when the British Parliament opens, the declaration that England now occupies Trinidad will be announced in the Queen's Speech, and that unless Brazil gives reason for her delay in arbitrating the dispute, by showing better proofs of ownership than those already advanced, the island is lost to the republic.

Argentina Joins Brazil.

Buenos Ayres, Jan. 21.—The Argentine Government has cancelled the concessions granted the English Cable Co. to land at La Plata on the ground that the company had failed to secure rightfully the other landing points necessary for its successful operation. This action, it is understood, is taken in concert with Brazil, and has direct bearing upon the Trinidad Island dispute. Argentine denies England's right to the Falkland Islands, and will join Brazil in resisting English claims to those islands and to Trinidad.

Winnipeg, Jan. 20.—It is definitely announced that the new Manitoba Legislature will meet for the despatch of business on Feb. 6. Nominations for the election in Dauphin have been held. Mr. Glen Campbell is the Conservative candidate, and Mr. Theo. Burrows Liberal.

Mr. T. H. Livingstone has returned here from Ottawa, where he interviewed the Dominion Government on the question of improving Red River navigation by building a lock at St. Andrew's, making the stream practically navigable from Cookston, Minn., to Lake Winnipeg, and adding greatly to Winnipeg's business interests. Mr. Livingstone stated that the Government declines to undertake the work as a public improvement, but will give substantial aid to any private company prepared to go on with the enterprise. A company is now being organized from Winnipeg's best citizens.

The Death of Frank Tyner.

Napanee, Ont., Jan. 20.—A coroner's inquest was held to-day on the body of Frank Tyner, who resided near Tamworth, and ied on Jan. 10, under circumstances which gave rise to the suspicion that he had been poisoned. The evidence so far shows that Tyner died from the effects of a horse condition powder, which had been given him in a glass of whiskey, as a joke, on Dec. 25, by a boy named Coughlin, who evidently was inspired by some older person. The boy Coughlin cannot be found. The case is in progress.

And After Being Here, Too.

When the Dairymen were holding their convention in Campbellford, recently, Mr. McGillicuddy composed the following epic on the town:—

We've met in glorious Brockville Town
And in the Limestone City;
We've seen sweet Peterborough, too,
And thought old Cobourg pretty.
Of Gananoque's beauteous site,
Abundant praise we've stored;
But, oh! the town that caps them all
Is lovely Campbellford.

A MOST PLEASANT EVENING.

The Talent Social at the Charlotte Street Church Parsonage.

The talent social which was given last evening at the parsonage of the Charlotte street Methodist church by Mrs. J. J. Rae and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, was a most distinct success, a varied programme of unusual excellence, having been prepared for the occasion.

The chair was occupied by Mrs. James Kendry, and the spacious parlours of the parsonage were well filled when the initial number of the programme was rendered, consisting of an instrumental duet by Mrs. Chas. McClelland and Miss Sherin. The selection was Harris' "Charge of the Cavalry," and was most brilliantly rendered. Miss Florence Hall's sweet soprano voice was then heard to advantage in a solo, after which little Miss Vieva Hunter delighted those present with a cleverly executed selection on the guitar.

Miss Hendren and Mr. A. L. Davis rendered a duet in which their voices blended in a manner most pleasing. This number was followed by Mr. J. Aspinall who by a most clever manipulation of a concertina, won a most enthusiastic encore. A duet by the Misses Stephens was fully appreciated, as was one of Miss Hendren's pleasing solos.

Mrs. Wesley's humorous recitations during the evening were most laughter-provoking indeed and were fully deserving of the applause which greeted them.

During intermission in the regular programme a very pretty tableau was presented, consisting of a scene representative of a tea party in Tokio. Those participating were Misses Pearl Lundy, Cloud Fee, Lillian Rush, Mary Sawers, Mary Rush, Alberta Gooding and Nellie Rae.

The second portion of the programme was opened by an exceptionally well rendered instrumental duet by Miss McBain and Miss Morris. A pretty little ditty was then sung by Miss Vieva Hunter in a very sweet manner, after which Mr. Marvin Kennedy and Miss Hendren rendered a vocal duet most effectively and in a manner to make the harmony particularly noticeable.

Miss Florence Hall again favoured the audience with a vocal solo and was followed by Miss Rose Clarke in an instrumental, which was so brilliantly rendered as to call for special mention, the touch and technique being very noticeable.

A solo by Miss Hendren closed the programme.

The ladies who assisted in making the arrangements for the social are entitled to receive congratulations on the success of the evening.

HOCKEY.

Norwood plays Lindsay on Friday evening. The game will without doubt be a close one.

Roger Davidson was out for a practice on Tuesday evening for the first time since he had his hand injured. Unfortunately he was was out of condition and was short of wind. A couple of weeks' hard practice, however, will easily remedy this evil. "Davis" is accompanying the second Peterboroughs to Millbrook to-day, and the game there will do much to put him in condition for the finals in the O.H.A. series. He may be played against the Volts in their match with the Peterboroughs on Thursday or Friday.

The Limestones of Kingston, are regarded as the winners of the series in that district. They will be due in Peterborough about the latter end of next week, or the first of the week after.

The Peterborough team which went to Millbrook to day was composed of the following players: Goal, E. Wasson; point, Will Thompson; cover point, Court Poussette; forwards, Macpherson, Mahan, Crossley and Davidson.

It will be the Victorias of Kingston, and not the Limestones, who will come to Peterborough next week, as the latter club has been downed by the Vics.

George Ewing, who made things interesting for Peterborough when they met the Granite Colts in the final match in the junior hockey series in Toronto last year, is putting up a grand game at cover point for Stratford, which team has beaten London twice in that group.

The Lindsay Post says.—The Edison Electric Works team, "The Volts," of Peterborough, met and suffered defeat at the hands of the Lindsay hockey team Monday night. Our boys have been practising faithfully since their last game, and the score Monday evening shows that their work was not in vain. About two hundred people turned out at the skating rink Monday evening to witness the contest, and easily made up in enthusiasm what was lacking in numbers. Play was started about 8.30, and although our boys did their level best the Peterborough team scored four goals in the first half, and Lindsay could not insert the puck between the Peterborough flags. At the call of play in the second half Lindsay went on the ice with blood in their eye and determination in every feature. Under the careful coaching of Captain Walters, and the encouragement of the audience, the boys warmed up to the work, and by strong combination play and effective shooting on goal, scored six goals while the Volts added only one to their score. Lindsay thus won by six goals to five. For Lindsay Walters, Keenan, Kempt, Shannon and Herb Knowlson played a fine strong game, and clearly demonstrated their ability as first-class hockeyists. Of the Peterboroughs special mention should be made of the playing of Thorne, Hicks, Barclay and Wilgar. Taking it all the way through the boys all played a good game, and with a trifle more practice will make it very interesting for the leaders in the Association. The only regrettable feature of the evening was that the game was not more liberally patronized. Hockey is a sport which, having such good material here for a team, should be encouraged by our townspeople.

THE WHEEL.

Who the presidential candidates for the position of Mikado of the C. W. A. are is still a question for the "stars alone to tell." There does not seem to be a consuming desire on the part of anyone to succeed President Doolittle, and as yet very few names have been mentioned in that connection. It is not because there is a dearth of good men. The woods are full of them, in fact too full, which makes the selection doubly difficult. Vice-President Dr. Balfour, of London, is announced, on the authority of Hal. B. Donly, to be an aspirant to the chief officership, and as he is widely known in cycledom on account of his long connection with wheeling, and the undoubted heartiness with which he has thrown himself into any work which would redound to the benefit of the C. W. A., he would fill the place admirably, and though entitled to move up one step and into the President's chair in right of succession that argument will not carry as much weight as others which can be advanced by his supporters when the proper time and place comes around in the due course of events. R. A. Robertson, Chairman of the Racing Board the year before last, and the present Chairman of the Membership Committee, will probably decide to start in the presidential race, and in that case will qualify both in the preliminaries and the final, and will carry the hopes of many that he will be first over the tape at the finish. His record is one which for good, faithful, earnest work for the association, cannot be equalled by any other member. He is responsible for innumerble reforms which have been effected in the association, and being universally liked on account of his brainy qualities he should have stacks of votes plumped for him on Good Friday if he runs. George Horkins of Peterboro, T. A. Beament of Ottawa and Van Felson of Quebec, all well known cyclists, are the other possible nominees.

The Regular Swing

Of our Annual Special Stock-Taking Sale keeps going on evenly and successfully and grows increasingly lively as the momentum keeps up.

There's nothing can stop the Reductions. The swing of the movement began in January, and just as shoppers realize that it is getting nearer its end, just in proportion are sales increased. But remember we don't have to keep a clearing sale going perpetually.

We are making it worth your while to buy now instead of waiting until Spring:—

—Quite a number of skaters are taking advantage of the river being smoothly frozen, just out beyond the C. P. R. spur line, below the Hunter street bridge.

—Thirty carloads of ice are being shipped every day to Havelock, to the C. P. R. icehouses. The purity and clearness of Little Lake ice is so well known, as to obtain for it a good market.

—To show the rapidity with which Mr. M. Carton, wholesale grocer, is building up business, it may be mentioned that he has supplied merchants in town and vicinity with nearly 4,000 cases of canned goods—all products of Canadian canneries so far this year.

—Mr. R. Turner, of J. J. Turner & Sons, has been in Lindsay, where he was placing in position a large awning for the Misses Paton, milliners, etc. The Misses Paton have many friends in Peterborough who will be pleased to hear of their removal to larger premises in the business centre of the town, and they have now one of the finest stores and one of the latest and most fashionable stocks to be found outside of the large cities.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was effected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. The Hidden Hand.

The J. L. Clark Company were greeted with a deservedly large house last night, when they presented a most laughable comedy drama, entitled "The Hidden Hand." The parts were all well taken, but special mention is due Miss Cameron, who completely took the audience in her role of "Capitola, the Heiress." Mr. Clark as "Wool," a negro slave, was greeted with much applause during the evening. Old Hurricane, a veteran Major, was represented by Mr. Geo. Heath, and if he had been the original he could not have done better. Several vocal solos were given by various members of the company during the evening. To-night the funniest and most popular comedy of "Our Strategies" will be on the boards, and as this has been seen in Peterborough before, a crowded house will, in all probability, greet it, as its merits are so well known.

The Late William McFadden.

A copy of the Buffalo International Gazette, of 11th January, has been received here, containing the following reference to the death of Mr. William McFadden, a former citizen of Peterborough. The deceased was known and respected by many here, about five years ago. He was a successful photographer, and carried on business on the corner of Simcoe and Aylstreets, after which he moved to Toronto Junction, and from there to Buffalo. During his short residence in that city, he appears to have won the esteem of all with whom he came in contact, as the following extract from the Gazette shows:—With sorrow we announce the death of William McFadden, which occurred on Tuesday morning at his residence, 333 Hampshire street. Mr. McFadden, with his family, came to Buffalo from Peterborough, Ont., about four years ago and went at once into the photographing business, and by his industry obtained quite a large custom on the west side. Mr. McFadden was a local preacher in the Methodist church, and all who have listened to him will be pained to know that his voice will no longer be heard. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from the Richmond avenue M. E. church, and his remains were taken on the 4 o'clock train to Peterborough, where he will sleep beside his children until the morning of the resurection. The Rev. E. C. Dodge, Rev. P. S. Merrill, D. D. and R. M. Clark took part in the services. The pall bearers were R. A. Eaton, A. Speir, Charles Flewell, Peter Wilson, George W. Battes, and M. W. Ayres. Mrs. McFadden and her family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in this city, who with them mourn the loss of a good man.

What Fate Has Met Wm. Austin, of Haliburton?

The citizens of the little hamlet of Haliburton, and residents of the surrounding country, are at the present time greatly concerned as to the possible fate of Mr. Wm. Austin, a well known villager and the local policeman, who left for the lumbering district at Whitney, 50 miles north of the village, on Tuesday, Jan. 7th, to pay a short visit to his son, employed in one of the shanties.

A letter was received from the son last Wednesday, 15th inst., enquiring why his father had not paid him the promised visit, and in consequence of this Mr. Austin's many friends are fearing the worst, as he should have reached the shanty some days before the date of the letter. As our readers will remember, the weather at the time was bitterly cold, and it is surmised he sat down on his long snow-shoe tramp and passed into the long sleep that knows no waking, or else broke through the ice on one of the treacherous northern lakes, which being full of springs, are always distrusted by the lumbermen.

Some people are of the opinion that he was overtaken by a band of wolves, as these fierce animals have been more numerous than usual up north this winter. A searching party started out on Wednesday last to follow up the course taken by the missing man.

Arrangements have been with Mr. F. J. Parkin, the manager of the rink, for the use of the ice from 4 o'clock until 5 every Thursday and Saturday afternoon. The club starts out with a largely increased membership, and if the enthusiasm displayed is any criterion as to the strength of the team, they will no doubt sweep everything before them.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

Paragraphs of Local Interest to Endeavorers Supplied by the County Union and Epworth League.

WORLD'S C. E. PRAYER CHAIN—SUBJECT OF PRAYER FOR JANUARY.

"That churches and young people's societies and individual Christians everywhere may receive the in-dwelling Holy Spirit, and that the week of prayer and subsequent weeks of the month may be marked by a great ingathering into the kingdom of the Lord Jesus Christ."

WHAT THE SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR STANDS FOR:

Denominational loyalty.
Inter-denominational fellowship
Definite pledged service.
Systematic committee work.
Daily prayer and Bible reading.
Monthly consecration meeting.

INDIA.

India has held its first union Christian Endeavour gathering. There are now 119 societies of Christian Endeavour there, with about 3,000 members, a larger number than is possessed by either China or Japan.

ENDEAVOUR DAY.

On Feb. 2nd, 1881, the first Christian Endeavour Society was organized in Portland, Maine, by Rev. Dr. Clarke. Since then the movement has been rolling on, gathering strength and volume as it progressed, until to-day nearly every country on the globe has Christian Endeavour Societies in its borders. The latest official figures are, 43,112 societies and 2,386,720 members. These figures mean a great deal and are worth pondering over. Christian Endeavour has come to stay, but not to stay still—that would be contrary to the word Endeavour. It is a living force in the Christian church to-day.

The Local Union have asked the ministers of the town to preach to the C. E. societies on the evening of Endeavour Day, Sunday, Feb. 2nd, and intend holding a union meeting in St. Andrew's church, on Monday, Feb. 3rd, at 8 p.m. Rev. Wilson McCann, a Church of England clergyman from Omemee, has consented to give an address that evening on "The Holy Spirit in Missions." Those who know Mr. McCann feel quite sure that he will not only do justice to the subject, but will impress a much needed lesson on the hearts of his hearers, namely, our need of Holy Ghost power in all Christian work. The whole meeting will be interesting and should be largely attended by all Endeavourers, and also by the Christian people of all denominations. A collection will as usual be taken up for the Local Union needs.

ST. PAUL'S.

The Christian Citizenship Committee of this society had charge of the meeting on Monday night. The topic—"Secrets of Strong Lives"—brought out many good thoughts. Dr. Torrance introduced the topic, illustrating it by the life of Christ—the only perfect example of a strong life. Other speakers brought forward the lives of Abraham, Moses, Paul, Daniel, Peter, Luther, Knox, Wesley, Patton, Garfield, Misses Havergal and Willard, each showing forth some point worthy to be followed. Faith, obedience, meekness, firm purpose, loyalty to Christ, consecration, prayer, education, pious parents and many other sources of strength were brought out from the above lives.

Two papers were read from the "Golden Rule," by Miss E. Temple and Miss M. Scott—one on the work of the Temperance Committee, the other on Christian Citizenship.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the attendance of a large number of Presbyterian Endeavourers from Lakefield, who had driven down to visit St. Paul's society. Rev. Mr. Reeves, of Lakefield, gave a short address on the topic, taking Paul's life as his theme. Paul's life was made strong by his firm trust in God. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." was the key-note of his life. Words of welcome were given to the Lakefield friends, to which Mr. Reeves responded, inviting the members of St. Paul's society to visit them in the near future. At the close of the prayer meeting, an hour of social intercourse, music and refreshments drew the members of both societies closer together. Miss H. Courtney and Miss E. Montgomery each gave a vocal solo. The meeting was closed by all singing, "Blest be the tie that binds."

GEORGE STREET SOCIETY.

A Temperance meeting was to have been held, by this society last Monday evening, but as Dr. Goldsmith who was to give an address was out of town, it was left over for the present, and a prayer and praise service, led by Mr. Dayman, was held instead.

RUIN AND DEVASTATION.

Gomez and His Followers Do as They Please in Spite of the Spanish.

Havana, Jan. 21.—As the news of the ruin and devastation wrought by the rebels throughout this and adjoining provinces slowly reaches this city in spite of the omission of most of it from the newspapers, the people are beginning to realize that Gomez and his followers go where they will, destroy what they please, and as they have not once been rounded up and properly chastised by the vast army which has been sent from Spain, they have begun to wonder where it will all end. The Spanish residents do not for a moment believe that Gomez can defeat the armies of Spain and win the freedom of Cuba; but they now realize that he can wreck her resources.

The difference between the maximum rate and the actual rate in The P. P. Racked with Rheumatism

Unable to Walk, owing to excruciating pain.
After ten years' terrible torture, Cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

A. H. Christiansen, writing from the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, says: "I owe you more than I can ever pay. For ten years I suffered the tortures of the damned with rheumatism. Father had it before me, and I believe it is an hereditary disease. My knee joints would get inflamed and if I was out in any "weather" I was sure to be laid up, which to a travelling man is a calamity. In a score of Canadian towns local doctors treated me, some giving relief, others none. I read that Sarsaparilla was a rheumatic cure, and I asked a druggist for "a bottle of the best Sarsaparilla on the market." He gave me Scott's, remarking that it was an improvement on all others, and that he could honestly recommend it. I have taken four bottles, and am as free from pain as a man can hope to be. I was out in a rainstorm two days ago and never felt a twinge. As I said before, to Scott's Sarsaparilla I owe more than I can ever repay."

The best remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgic pains—all arising from the presence of poison in the blood—is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a modern concentrated medicine, prompt in its curative effects. Doses from one half to one teaspoonful. At $1 per bottle of your druggist.

BLIND MRS. VAN WAGENEN.

The Van Wagenen home, nearly a hundred years ago, was in lower Broadway, and but a short walk from Bowling Green and the Battery. It was a broad brick mansion, with arched white doorway, and thin iron railings, and three big dormer-windows bulging forth just below the roof. People would point to them as they passed, and say to one another: "The Van Wagenens live there, you know." It was termed in those provincial days a great thing to be a Van Wagenen. Till the beginning of the century the head of the family had held open house here. He had been a colonel in the Revolution, and an intimate friend of Washington's, and a devoted adherent of Hamilton, and a fierce abominator of Burr. Though an aristocrat by nature, he often tortured his wife through the indiscriminate character of his entertainments. She did not believe in allowing any guest to cross the threshold of their plain and simple abode who could not boast the clearest Knickerbocker birth. She has been a Swartwout before her marriage, and her mother had been a Livingston, and some of the Van Rensselaers were her near cousins. She bore herself with an immense pride, and yet a certain air of graciousness toward those whom she esteemed her inferiors, and a lavish charity toward the poor, somehow kept her from making foes. As a girl she had been very handsome, with peculiarly lovely auburn hair, and the most delicately modeled hands, of a surpassing whiteness. When her husband died she immersed herself in the deepest mourning, and suffered agonies of grief. It was even said that she might have died, too, but for the cheering offices of her son and only child, Livingston Van Wagenen, a widower with two little girls, Kate and Margaret.

But within the next two years fate struck Mrs. Wagenen a second time, her son, Livingston, the famous New York lawyer, being suddenly taken by death. The big Broadway house, renowned for its gayeties and hospitalities, became a solemn monument, and the two motherless girls came to live with their grandmother.

A dreary childhood they both had of it. Mrs. Van Wagenen was afflicted by a trouble with her eyes which the oculists of that day unhesitatingly declared to have been brought about by excessive weeping. She was threatened with blindness for years, but the menace kept hanging over her without actually rendering her sightless.

She adored her grandchildren, and yet she reared them with great strictness. It was her desire that they should both marry with distinction, and sometimes she would sharply chide the eldest, Kate, for declaring that she never meant to marry at all. Kate was small of stature and not in the least pretty, though very gentle and engaging in manners. Margaret, on the other hand, was blooming and graceful, with liquid, sparkling blue eyes and the same glossy auburn hair which had been one of her grandmother's chief charms, though every thread of Mrs. Van Wagenen's tresses had turned white.

Margaret loved her grandmother even more dearly than did her elder sister. But she was willful, sometimes recklessly vivacious, and often stealthily disobedient as well. In her 17th year she became acquainted with a handsome young actor, named Ross Erskine, an Englishman, who had set the town talking of his poetic eyes and his symmetric figure.

Mrs. Van Wagenen lived much indoors, and her failing strength now prevented her from using over her grandchildren the same surveillance as of old. Certain imprudent friends of Margaret's had gone with her more than once to the theater where Ross Erskine played. There had come a meeting between the young actor and his infatuated admirer. All this Kate had concealed with tortures of conscience. Passionately she had implored her sister to break forever with the young adventurer who so captivated her girlish heart. She might as well have spoken to one of the bleak December winds that whirled, full of blinding snow, up along Broadway from the ice-bound parapets of the Battery. On Christmas Eve, of all other times of the year, foolish Margaret took a mad and irrevocable step. She eloped with Ross Erskine, leaving a letter to her sister in which she implored Kate to break the news to their grandmother.

And on Christmas morning Kate broke it. At first Mrs. Van Wagenen started bewilderedly upon her grandchild, with her dim, pathetic eyes. Then, realizing all, she drew herself up with a majesty that breathed strongly of her patrician past.

"Never shall I look upon the ungrateful young wretch again!" she cried. "In the name of all the Van Wagenens, I, their head, their representative, disown her forever!"

After that poor Kate had to spring forward and catch her staggering form. She fainted completely away, and on reviving wept torrents of fiery tears. It was indeed a dolourous Christmas for the girl who watched over her from morning till long past midnight. And on the morrow, when she again stood by her grandmother's bedside, she was pierced by the discovery that the old lady had become completely blind.

"Never shall I look upon the ungrateful young wretch again!"

At first Mrs. Van Wagenen was very helpless. After a few weeks, however, she grew habituated to her affliction. As spring advanced she even went out of doors, arm in arm with Kate. They walked a certain distance up and down Broadway, which was then a quiet street, with little danger at the crossings from any headlong vehicle that might break upon them. "There goes blind Mrs. Van Wagenen," the neighbors would say, "with her devoted grandchild. She actually wept her sight away because her other grandchild eloped with an actor."

Meanwhile Kate heard from her sister two or three times every month, but never dared to whisper in Mrs. Van Wagenen's hearing a syllable concerning her. Margaret had promptly become the wife of Ross Erskine, and had then gone with him upon the stage. She had not succeeded well, nor, for that matter, had he. They were trying their theatrical fortunes in other towns. "He is very good to me," she always kept writing her sister, "and I can't regret having married him. But at times we are dreadfully poor, and often the future looks dismal enough. You would wonder at this new life I am leading. People tell me I have talent, though I lack proper dramatic training. But I have learned to disguise my voice, to merge my very identity in the various parts I play. Ross teaches me all he can, though the theatres at which we manage to get engagements tax him terribly with incessant changes of the bills." * * * And once she wrote: "Dear, darling grandmamma! How I regret losing her, and how I would love to put my arms about her dear old neck once more!"

Kate would answer these letters, but she never told her sister of Mrs. Van Wagenen's total blindness, fearing to deal Margaret fresh remorseful pain. And as for this blindness, there were one or two physicians, with whom Kate had talked concerning it, confidently assertive that it might in a measure be relieved.

"There goes blind Mrs. Van Wagenen."

But Mrs. Van Wagenen would never receive their visits. "No," she said, "that rush of tears put out the last fires of my poor, failing sight. I shall never see again, and I shall never weep again."

And undoubtedly it was true that she never did weep again through six or seven succeeding years. Tales of distress moved her, but they evoked no tears. Her eyes would soften, but they never moistened.

"I perceive," she said one day to Kate, "that I really am a drag upon you, my dear. If that young woman of whom you have spoken to me will come and let me talk with her awhile perhaps I may consent to have her walk out with me, and read to me, and all that. Your health does require rest, and though I shrink from the contact of a stranger I'll play the selfish old beldame no longer."

The "young woman" and Mrs. Van Wagenen held an interview next day, and with highly satisfactory results. "She has a very sweet voice," said the old lady to Kate, "this Miss—er Miss —"

"Rivington, grandmamma."

"Yes—true. I think I shall like her. I mean to try her, anyway. At the end of about three days I can tell you how Miss Rivington pleases me."

At the end of three days the old lady forgot to tell. But undoubtedly Miss Rivington pleased her a great deal. Christmastide was now coming, and the weather was dry and sharp, though without a hint of snow. Mrs. Van Wagenen took her walks with Miss Rivington instead of Kate. Always on returning she would say to Kate, however: "I miss you, dear, of course. And do you find yourself better?"

"Oh, I'm getting along fairly well, grandmamma," Kate would reply.

"You will see the doctor to-day, Kate, of course."

"Oh, yes, grandmamma, of course."

And at last, the very day before Christmas, Kate said:

"You find Miss Rivington most companionable, do you not?"

"Yes, quite. She has sweetly winning ways. I like her far better than I expected to do."

"I'm so glad of that," said Kate. Then, after a slight pause: "Grandmamma, may I speak to you of poor Margaret? She found a very good and kind husband in Ross Erskine; but she has written me of his death in New Orleans from yellow fever. There have been no children; Margaret has little money. Shall I send her some and ask her to come North—to come back here and live with us as before?"

Instantly the white-haired head erected itself. Instantly the old haughtiness of the Knickerbocker great lady became manifest. The blind eyes grew an almost electric azure as they fixed themselves on Kate's frightened face.

"Give her money. Do for her what you think right. But never let her enter my presence again."

Yet, in spite of her cold repulsion, she spoke very feelingly to Miss Rivington as they walked together next morning. It was the morning of another Christmas, and a keen, yet not too inclement wind swept past the prim brick houses of Broadway. Bells were tolling and chiming in the limpid air.

"I have always accepted my blindness as a visitation from God, Miss Rivington," said the old lady. "I've always tried to bear it bravely. But on Christmas day I do so long, as the years pass on, to see once again, if ever so little."

"Dear grandma—dear Mrs. Van Wagenen!" burst from Miss Rivington.

"Eh? what? How queerly you spoke just then!" rang the answer. Mrs. Van Wagenen paused in her walk. "Your voice somehow reminded me—But no matter. I'll go indoors now. I—I feel somewhat unstrung."

They went into the house together and Mrs. Van Wagenen sank somewhat tremulously into one of the stiff, hair-cloth chairs, that stood ranged round the big parlor, where portraits of her own and her husband's ancestors (hideously painted in the early style of American art) looked down upon wax flowers in glass cases and a fireplace in which grinned the pink polished lips of several mammoth conch shells.

"Oh, grandmamma!" suddenly cried Miss Rivington, sinking down at the old lady's feet, in her black dress, which brought out the paler and careworn lines of a face still lovely and youthful. "It's I! It's Margaret! And Christmas day is a day of good will and good cheer!—a day when we should forget our old grudges and offenses!—a day when we should forgive! I've heard you say that again and again, grandmamma, ever since I was a little girl. I'm speaking in my own voice, now! you recognize it, don't you?"

"Yes, yes," muttered Mrs. Van Wagenen, brokenly. "And those playerfolks taught you, I suppose, to change it, and—and so deceive me!"

Margaret Erskine caught her withered hand and covered it with kisses. "Oh, grandmamma, Kate's told you of my trouble! But I loved him, and he loved me, and was always good and true to me till I lost him! But I never forgot you. I always longed to see you again. Grandmamma! I come to you in sorrow and entreaty! will you not take me to your heart—your little Margaret that you used to treasure so dearly!—and love me once again, and forgive me for doing what I could not help?"

"Margaret."

The young widow sprang up from her knees, and a long, sweet embrace followed. And while it lasted Kate glided into the room, (she had not been the least ill, but only shamming!) and presently both the grandchildren saw that tears were streaming from the old lady's eyes. Margaret staunched them lovingly with her handkerchief. And as she did so a great cry broke from Mrs. Van Wagenen.

"I see you! I see you both!" she exclaimed.

It was true. On this Christmas morning her sight (meagre, yet distinct enough to seem a glorious blessing after those past years of utter blindness!) had returned to her. And from that hour till the day of her death it never departed. Both Kate and Margaret often begged her to see an oculist and have science aid what nature had so strangely accomplished. But her answer was always the same—and delivered with a certain soft humility which differed remarkably from the old-time chill reserve of her demeanor:

"No, my dear children, no! Such as my poor sight now is, so let it remain. I like to think that the tears of a terrible pride took it from me, and that the tears of love and pardon have at least partially given it back!"

Loose clothes and downy cushions bring only a negative sort of comfort to the woman who is suffering with some disease or derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and discomfort seem less. Nothing will ever completely relieve but a radical cure. The effects of such disorders are not limited to mere local discomforts but extend over the whole body. Perhaps the nerves are most affected, and this in turn disturbs the digestion. After that there is no telling what form the trouble may take. With irritable nerves and poor digestion, a woman is on the straight road to the grave Women are notoriously negligent in matters pertaining to their health. Too many of them understand too little about their own physical make-up. They do not understand their possibilities or their limitations, and they do not know enough about themselves to know when a symptom is really serious and when it is not. This naturally makes them overlook the plainest of danger signals. The start of everything is simple. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some small hygienic measures would stop the trouble. Certainly at this time, a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse, it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure any trouble of this character. It may be absolutely relied upon. It affords immediate and lasting relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting physicians.

The whole story of the "Favorite Prescription," and what it has done for thousands of women is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This is a 1008 page book, profusely illustrated, written in plain language for the use of every-day people, and gives in a clear and lucid way an immense amount of valuable information about health and medicine. It will be sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only.

SELECTING A TROUSSEAU.

This Advice Ought to Commend Itself to Every Girl, But It Won't.

The preparation of a trousseau is always a matter of delight to even the girl who must economize in the piles of dainty linens and the various pretty trifles so dear to her feminine heart. The romance is not always taken out of the task when carte blanche is given a big firm to prepare everything, for there are dozens of small details which no outsider can manage to the entire satisfaction of a prospective bride. But it is the girl who is able to supply herself with what she desires, but who must attend to the buying and selecting herself, that the duty has the supremest delight; although to an economical little woman, whose mind dwells more on the love stitched into the pretty garments than on their intrinsic value, there are hours of pleasure in preparing the simple trousseau, which cannot be equaled by any other joy of courtship.

A word of advice to these latter maidens, and to those whose purse is not unlimited is to the effect that quality is better than quantity in this little incident of life, as well as in all others. A few pretty nightrobes, well made and daintily adorned with lace, are better by far than a dozen cheap, flimsy ones. Two well-made gowns are better than six cheap ones. And so on through all the orders of garments to be provided. The state of life is to be considered at this time even more than at another, for at the beginning depends much, and though so small a matter, clothing is not without its effects on the happiness of the first few weeks of married life. If the new home is modest, then the trousseau ought also to be modest, and if household duties are numbered among the tasks of the new life the collection should not be destitute of gowns suitable for any and every department. Better cut down the expense of the dinner dress and of the pretty reception gowns than in the necessities, which are prosaic, but none the less necessities

NOT ON THE SHELF.

Women of Advancing Years no Longer in the Background.

One of the greatest mistakes of life is that of a woman's sitting down when she has passed the meridian of years and quietly waiting for death. It may be exceedingly pretty and quite like the action of some sweet old story, the patient waiting for pale face and placid smile and folded hands, playing in a way the part of the old lares and penates beside the fire; but there are much more effective parts than that of a statue in a niche, and there seems to be no real reason for going into the grave before it is ready for us.

It is not, however, very long since this attitude was thought the proper thing for the elderly. Women with gray hair not only hid it with a wig or cap, or both, but hid and effaced themselves as well. Age was unlovely, they said, and so they put it out of sight, as far as they could, by clinging to the chimney corner. Of course they were useful there; the grandmother, the old aunt, is useful everywhere; and of course they were in the way of perfecting character and of becoming saints through sacrifice and renunciation. But they did not have much very vivid enjoyment. What enjoyment they did have was chiefly vicarious—joy at seeing and knowing the joy of others.

It is fortunate for women of advancing years that nowadays public opinion has changed, and that it is expected they shall form a part of society and of all the pleasures of society. They belong now to clubs; they are engaged in various public and semi-public work; they are actively interested in charities; they are not deprived of any invitation because of their years; and the value of their wisdom and mellowed experience is as fully acknowledged as the value of youth and sparkle and beauty.

It is a pleasant sight now in all the country towns where the trolley car has penetrated to see these elderly women taking their rides; to see their pleasure in what would have been considered by their grandmothers a wild abandonment; to see them doing their own shopping in all places, attending to their check-books and bank accounts, when they have such articles, by no means relinquishing their rights in church management, their interest in public questions, and following or adopting the fashions to such extent as they please.

How Big Are They?

It is common to hear people speak of the possibility of the planets being inhabited, and the discussion of the question often brings out some curious ideas concerning the supposed planetary beings. The majority of people never imagine that it is possible that the great worlds which we know only as shining points of light can be peopled by others than creatures resembling the highest type of animal life on this globe.

Such persons, although they may be able to tell you the exact weight of the earth in tons, pounds and ounces, the minimum and maximum temperature of the surface of the sun at different seasons and the exact day upon which the moon became an arid waste never stop to think what would be the effect on stature of persons living on such gigantic worlds as some of the stars are known to be. The dark planet which accompanies the giant star Algol is known to be more than 1,000,000 times larger than the earth, but its density is so slight that it is only about 500,000 times heavier than our globe. You are now thinking that the inhabitants of this monster planet must be at least 5,000,000 feet in height. (If they are constructed on such a plan as the world upon which they reside), but such is probably not the case. The density of the planet would have a great deal to do when it came to a question of size and weight. Figuring with density and size both as a basis, Vogel came to the conclusion that the average man on Algol's companion world would be 24 3-4 feet in height and weigh between 700 and 800 pounds. Arnoll and Metterich both figured upon the same data, adding that of the intensity of gravity, and gave a string of "corrected calculations" in proof of the assertion that a man on that planet could never grow to exceed fifteen inches in height, but would spread out over a quarter of an acre of ground.

Another Genius Discovered.

"I'm going to return this poem," said the great magazine assistant.

"Why, sir—why?" asked the editor-in-chief.

"Because it's horribly written, badly spelled and has neither rhyme nor reason in it."

"Fool!" exclaimed the editor-in-chief, "you know not what you do! You have simply discovered a great genius. Send the author a check for $50 and hand the poem in for illustration!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Matter of Time.

"I understand that you have relics of the war for sale, my little man," said the northern tourist to the towhead.

"We did have," replied the boy, "but they done bought us out, an' the swords daddy buried last week won't get rusted 'fore summer!"—Atlanta Constitution.

THEATRE BURNED.

Awful Catastrophe in a Russian Town—Forty-Nine Dead Bodies.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 20.—A despatch from Ekaterinoslav, capital of the Government of that name in south Russia, gives details of a fire that occurred in a theatre there, causing a large loss of life. The fire was discovered while a performance was going on. The spectators became panic-stricken, and made a wild rush for the exits. Many of them were knocked down, trampled under foot, and rendered unconscious. The building was of wood, and the fire spread with great rapidity. Before all the terror-stricken people could get outside the theatre was a mass of flames The scene outside was terrible. Those who had relatives or friends in the theatre rushed about wildly, crying for help to save them. Every effort was made to save those in the burning building, but the heat was so intense it was impossible to approach the structure for some time. Every effort to save those inside was fruitless, as they would have been suffocated before the fire reached them. After the ruins had cooled off sufficiently a search was commenced for the dead. Forty-nine bodies have already been taken out. A number of persons who were known to have been in the theatre are still missing, and there is scarcely a doubt that their bodies will be found later in the ruins.

One box helped me and nine boxes cured me. Am sixty years old and have lived here 40 years." Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and dealers. Price, 50 cents a box.

WOMAN'S SUFFERINGS.

UNTOLD ANGUISH OFTEN BORNE IN SILENCE.

A Plain Statement From One Woman Who Had Suffered Much at a Critical Period—It Points Out a Means of Relief to Others.

From the Advance, Ogdensburg.

Every female who is nearing the critical period of a woman's life will be pleased to hear the story told by Mrs. Frank Murray, as follows:

Mrs. Frank Murray, who resides near Ogdensburg, N.Y., says: "I am 46 years of age, and for a number of years resided in Prescott, Ont. We moved over here some time ago and have worked on this farm since. It is what is known as the Ferguson Farm and is about six miles out from the city. My husband is now working in Ogdensburg at his trade, that of a stone mason, while my children and myself carry on the farm.

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headache, which would generally come on about evening, and I would be completely prostrated, not even able to lift my hand or help myself in any way. These spells would last about 24 hours, and would leave me in so weakened a condition that for a few days I could scarcely drag about the house. Periodically the spells would come on me. I have also had considerable spinal trouble, the sharp, darting tongues of pain being most severe, following along my spine and to the back of my head.

"Have doctored much, but without the desired result. I heard of Dr. William's Pink Pills for Pale People, and also later heard of the cures they had effected in a number of persons personally known to me, and it was their published stories that decided me to try them.

"I got some of the pills, and after I had taken the first box I had no more headache for several months. Last fall the headache returned however, and I took another box of the pills and am happy to say have not since been bothered.

"This summer my head began to have a heavy feeling, and at times I was quite drowsy, but no pains accompanied it. I now have more pills and though I've taken only a few I feel well again.

"I don't think any person could stand it a great while to be troubled as I was and stand the amount of pain. I know that Pink Pills are a good medicine and fully what they are represented to be. I have recommended them to some of my friends with beneficial results. Oh, my, Yes! They have done wonders for me. I do all my own housework on the farm. We have a diary of twelve cows, and often when the boys are very busy getting in the crops I have milked all the cows alone."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing remedy for all diseases arising from a poor and watery condition of the blood, such as pale and sallow complexion, general muscular weakness, loss of appetite, depression of spirits, lack of ambition, anæmia, chlorosis or green sickness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath on slight exertion, coldness of hands or feet, swelling of the feet and limbs, pain in the back, nervous headache, dizziness, loss of memory, feebleness of will, ringing in the ears, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, rheumatism, sciatica, all diseases depending on vitiated humours in the blood, and also for invigorating the blood and system when broken down by overwork, worry, diseases, excesses and indiscretions of living.

Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail postpaid, at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2 50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

BELMONT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The sad messenger death called at the home of Mr. Melton Ellis, of Rockdale, and took from it little Mary, a child about six years old. She had been suffering with scarlet fever and though everything was done that could be done to save her life she succumbed to the disease on Saturday morning. The parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

Mr. John Elliott, of Asphodel, has been through this section of the country during the past week canvassing for the Temperance and General Life Assurance Company. He has met with fair success at Rockdale. He will visit Belmont again before long.

The Presbyterian minister of Marmora has received an appointment at Warriston and will hold regular religious services there henceforward.

The young people of Warriston are practising for a tea meeting which will be held in the Hoyles' neighbourhood this week on the 24th inst. A good time is expected. The proceeds are for the Methodist church. The Methodists of Cook's and Hoyle's neighbourhoods are contemplating the erection of a church in the near future, which is very much needed. We hope that the friends of that section will put their thoughts into motion, and that we will soon see a new church to the improvement of the locality.

James Freeman, of Victoria, is busy canvassing for the Stuart Co. Nurserymen, Newark, New York. He reports good success.

Mr. James Covert, of Victoria, lost a full blooded Esquimaux dog, which was perfectly white. Any parties seeing or knowing of such a dog would do Mr. Covert a great favour by informing him of its whereabouts.

Miss Ella McIninch entertained a few friends at her home on Tuesday evening. Mr. M. McIninch, of Madoc, is stopping with his uncle, Mr. P. McIninch, of Victoria.

Mrs. Maybee, of Hillier, Prince Edward county, is visiting friends at Victoria.

Mr. Charles Chase, of Victoria, is busy breaking his young team of colts. But when he gets through with them they will be well trained, as he understands well that part of a horseman's duties.

Mr. Samuel Allan, of Warriston, intends going to the High School at Trenton this term.

Miss Maggie Allan has just returned from visiting friends at Trenton.

Mr. Allan Russell, of Warriston, is lumbering in the north of Belmont.

Miss May Scott, of Preneveau, has just returned from visiting friends at Campbellford.

Mr. Benedict, an uncle of Mrs. P. J. Garrison, of Preneveau, died at Campbellford on the 18th inst.

Mr. P. Cronan, of Havelock, favoured Preneveau with a visit on the 12th inst.

Miss M. Stuart is home from Seymour for a visit.

Dame Rumour says that a couple of weddings will take place in the Preneveau neighbourhood in the very near future. It would hardly be right to mention the names of the suspected parties, but we offer congratulations and hope that many more will follow.

The Orangemen of Blairton held a tea meeting in their lodge room at that place on the 15th inst. A pleasant time was enjoyed.

Mr. Mark Scott, Miss M. Scott, Miss Anderson and Mr. Harold Scott, of Preneveau, favoured Rockdale with a visit last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. John Brown attended the meeting of the Farmers' Institute, at Norwood, on Tuesday.

THE NEWCASTLE FIRE.

A Loss of Fifty Thousand Dollars—The Best Block in the Town Reduced to Ruins.

Newcastle, Ont., Jan. 21.—For the third time in its history, Newcastle has been swept by fire. The first occurred on Dec 13, 1877, when the buildings on the very same block as those which were burned Tuesday morning were totally destroyed. The buildings which suffered at the last fire were those which were erected immediately after the conflagration of 1877. The loss will figure up over $50,000. This may not seem a large amount to the ordinary city reader, but it means a great deal in a town of 1000 inhabitants, especially when the best block in the place is laid in ashes.

The losses are divided as follows:

Danniel Allen, stationer and undertaker, building, $5000; stock, $4500; insurance $4200.

R. Barfoot, general store; stock, $9500; insurance, $4000.

The Windsor Block, in which were situated a number of those who suffered, was valued at $8000, upon which there was an insurance of $6000.

F. Bennett of the Windsor Hotel, lost $3000; insurance, $1000.

Royal Hotel building, $6000, furniture and stock, $2000; insurance, $1000.

James Parker, boots and shoes, building, $2000; stock, $2000; insurance on building, $700.

Mrs. C. Glendenning, confectionery, stock, $500; no insurance.

Miss Wilson, millinery stock, $500; no insurance.

C. Gomme, private residence, contents, $300; no insurance.

Methodist Church driving sheds, $150; insured.

Durham Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 66, situated over Allen's store, loss, $500; insurance, $300.

Thomas McClung, general store and postoffice, building $4000, stock $3000. Insurance on building $2000

On the opposite side of the street the fire also got in its work. W. Waggstaff, grocer; J. Irwin, tailor; Robert Lee, general store, suffered smaller losses.

The fire, which started in the stables of the Royal Hotel, was discovered at 1.15 a.m.

Strange to say, although this town has suffered so often, there was no fire protection outside of a hand engine. It is only fair to state that the most prominent citizens are not to blame. A vote was taken on the advisability of purchasing a steam fire engine a few years ago, and the ratepayers decided not to purchase.

When it was seen that the fire was well under way and could not be stopped, the Bowmanville fire brigade was asked for assistance. They responded readily, and sent their steamer and hose reel. Although only five miles away, they did not reach here until most of the damage had been done. They, however, did some service in protecting adjoining buildings as long as the water supply lasted.

Among the buildings detroyed was the postoffice, but fortunately all the mail was saved.

As to the cause of the fire there are different theories, but all are satisfied that it was caused by incendiarism or carelessness. A movement is now being agitated to ask Attorney-General Mowat to institute an investigation.

The day before the fire two women of loose character who reside in Bowmanville, came here on a visit. They created a furore amongst a certain class of young fellows who are willing to pose as dead game sports. It is said that the women adjourned to the stables with some of their friends and that jealousy got the upper hand, a fight ensued and a lantern or lamp was upset.

Mr. Urquhart, a clerk in the Standard Bank, who boarded at the Royal and was one of the first to see the fire, says that when he left his room to give the alarm he saw the women leave their room, which was almost opposite his.

Another story comes from one of the leading merchants of the town. He was passing the Royal Hotel at a late hour when he saw four young fellows on the corner. They were more or less intoxicated. As he walked by he heard one of them say: "If you say all right, I'll do it." These words did not bear much significance at the time, but the subsequent events give them some importance.

Still another story is that there was a row in the Royal Hotel and that some fellows were fired out, who afterwards threatened vengeance, but there is nothing in this story, as it was an ordinary drunken row.

Alexandria Furniture Factory Destroyed.

Alexandria, Jan. 21.—About 5 o'clock this morning our town was visited by a very destructive fire by which the Alexandria furniture factory was totally destroyed. The fire originated in the paint and finishing room. The cause is supposed to be spontaneous combustion. The loss is roughly estimated at about $20,000, insured for about $12,000.

A mirror could not lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face, your mirror will tell you so. Health is the greatest beautifier in the world. When a woman sees the indications of ill-health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation, and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaint." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullnes and grace. She will be that noblest and most beautiful of all creation—a perfect woman.

AT THE CAPITAL.

Proposed Amendment to Manitoba School Law.

M.C. CAMERON'S WARM RECEPTION

Welcomed by Political Friends and Opponents—The Debate on the Address Continued by Dr McDonald—A Vigorous Speech by Hon. L. H. Davies.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—From time to time it has been suggested that the Manitoba school issue might come before Parliament in the shape of a measure submitted by a private member of the House. It has been contended that there was no obligation on the part of the Government to introduce a Remedial Bill, but specific declarations of Ministers months ago show that they do not hold this view. However, it is evident that the question will come before the House in the shape of a bill prepared by a private member, as tonight Mr. Macdowall, member for Saskatchewan, gives notice of an amendment to the Manitoba school legislation, by providing that schools shall be wholly secularized—no religious teaching whatever by the regular teaching staff—but that on Friday afternoons, at a stated hour, clergymen of any religious denomination may hold religious exercises or impart religious instruction to the children. Col. Tyrwhitt, member for South Simcoe, will second the introduction of the measure.

No member of Parliament ever made his entry or re-entry into the House under more agreeable circumstances than did Mr. M. C. Cameron, the chosen representative of the people of West Huron, who made his bow to the Speaker to-day. He was accorded a reception that was nothing short of an ovation, and it must have been all the more pleasing to the old warhorse from the fact that the Ministerialists joined in the welcome that was extended to him. Appropriately enough Mr. Cameron was introduced to the House by Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. John McMillan, both of whom took an active and effective part in his election. When the formal presentation had taken place there was a wild outburst of enthusiasm on the part of the Liberal members, in the midst of the uproar Mr. Cameron advanced to the Speaker and shook hands with him. He was beckoned to the Ministerial benches, whither he went to receive the congratulations and welcome of their occupants. The Ministers and many of the front bench Conservative members shook him cordially by the hand. Mr. Foster motioned to a seat beside him, and when Mr. Cameron had taken it Hon. Mr. Mills remarked with a smile that he was only anticipating by a short time.

The annual report of the Postmaster-General presented to Parliament today, shows that there were 8832 post-offices in Canada on July 1 last, being an increase of 168. The new mail routes instituted last year cover a distance of 1253 miles. The total amount of railway mail travel in the year was 30,351,115 miles, a decrease of half a million, due to reduction of train service. The total number of letters posted in Canad last year was 110,500,000! post cards 24,500,000; newspapers and book packages, 23,000,000.

Toronto is again at the head of the list for the whole of Canada, having the greatest mail delivery, the total number of letters, cards and newspapers delivered by carriers amounting to 20,027,452; Montreal, 11,425,277; Hamilton, 3,248,000; London, 2,444,197; Halifax, 1,787,775; St. John, 1,939,897.

The total net revenue for the year was $2,792,782, and the total expenditure $3,593,647.

The Senators and members from Manitoba and the Western Territories will have a conference early next week with Mr. Prior, Controller of Inland Revenue, on the subject of wheat grades. They want to have the number of grades limited to four and fixed permanently by statute. If the Government declines to deal with the matter as the western members desire, they will bring a bill before Parliament and have the matter thrashed out on the floor of the House.

In the Senate this afternoon Mr. Perley asked if the Government intended to make any provision towards assisting settlers in certain parts of the Northwest Territories to procure a water supply for farm purposes. He thought $20,000 would be sufficient to conduct scientific experiments to locate water for semi-arid districts.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, in replying, said he recognized the importance of the matter, and also the desirability of making the Northwest as attractive as possible for settlers, and he would be glad to consult with the representatives from the Northwest to devise, if possible, some system if irrigation, which would cover the whole country.

IN THE COMMONS.

The Debate on the Address—Mr McShane Took a Stand Mr Foster Declined to Apologize.

Mr. M. C. Cameron, the new-old member for West Huron, was introduced to the Speaker to-day by Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. McMillan, and took his seat amid Opposition cheers.

Mr. Jeannotte introduced a bill to amend the Bank Act and to prohibit bank directors from borrowing more from the bank than the amount of shares they hold.

Dr. Macdonald was the first speaker in the debate on the address. His speeches are always replete with facts and information, presented in a manner which for clearness, incisiveness and conciseness is excelled by few political speakers. On the Manitoba school question he advocated an investigation by commission. It would be a suicidal policy, in his opinion, for the Government and their supporters to pass remedial legislation without first gathering all the facts. It would lead to continual litigation and disturbance in the educational matters of Manitoba, and would be disastrous and suicidal to the educational interests of the minority. This Parliament cannot speak for the electorate upon this question, and it is the electorate and not a moribund Parliament that should speak. Parliament's motto should be "Sufficiently fast if sufficiently well done," remembering that time frequently accomplishes an amicable settlement where hasty legislation widens the breach.

Referring to the promise of the Government in the address to make provision for the better arming of the militia and to strengthen the defences of the country, he said that this policy would be supported by every loyal man in the country. Large sums were now spent upon the militia: $1,574,000 was spent in 1895. Still, there had been complaints from all sides about the disorganized and inefficient state of the militia.

Col. R. H. Davis, in a paper read before the Military Institute, Toronto, early in 1895, said: "We have no corps fit to take the field, nor organization for a campaign, nor stores to supply it. The Militia Department knows nothing about the rural militia and cares less. Then, darkness and ignorance, or worse, have prevailed for years. The country well knows, and the department should know, that the militia is not only disorganized, but demoralised." Was that statement true when made, or was it applicable now to the condition of the militia and the ignorance and neglect of the department? Want of money was not the most serious charge Col. Davis made, but neglect and ignorance. Another charge was made by The Military Gazette in its issu of January, 1895. It said: "The militia has never been in a worse condition than it is today. Ignorance, incapacity and systematic neglect are the prominent characteristics of the present militia system." Did that ignorance, incapacity and systematic neglect still prevail in the Department of Militia? Dr. Macdonald asked.

Maj.Gen. Herbert, in his report of 1891, said: "The rural corps are very deficient in instruction, but their organization is still more defective. Money is spent for instruction by officers incapable of imparting it. The arms and equipments are for the most part obsolete." These were very serious charges coming from the chief commanding officer

The country was willing to vote sufficient money to maintain an efficient militia, but this parliament. Dr. Macdonald said, should not be called upon to vote money to a department which had given evidence of such neglect and incapacity unless it had given evidence of reform.

Sir James Grant followed. He claimed that Canada was making substantian progress and that this was a direct result of the Conservative policy. He referred especially to the progress among the farming community, due, he said, to the work of the Government in keeping farmers posted on the latest knowledge of scientific farming. He quoted statistics to prove that British Columbia's mining industry was advancing at a wonderful rate, and in passing paid a compliment to Col. Prior, the new Controller of Inland Revenue, who, he declared, was thoroughly capable of looking after the interests of British Columbia. Sir James dilated on Canada's advancement in education, but pointed out that more attention should be given to imparting education which would not tend to drive the youth from the farm. Education that led most of our young men into learned professions overcrowded the cities and resulted in dissatisfaction, and then to emigration. Sir James warmly defended the proposed fast Atlantic service and Pacific cable. He praised the militia and expressed satisfaction that the Government proposed arming the volunteers with modern rifles. In this connection he also pointed out the excellent service rendered the militia by the retiring Adjutant-General, Col. Powell. With regard to the school question he blamed the Liberals for urging a policy of procrastination, and said equal rights and privileges must be given to all classes of the community, and the object of the Conservative party was to see that this was done. Sir James declared that Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., would prove a source of strength to the Government, and that the Government's policy would certainly receive the endorsation of the Dominion.

Mr. McShane, the new member for Montreal Centre, took exception to the remarks made by Mr. Foster as to his record. He said he and the people of Montreal Centre had been insulted in a most uncalled for and unwarranted manner. He chaffed the members of the Government for their futile efforts to defeat him in the recent bye-election. He said seven Ministers were in the city almost constantly during the campaign. Among them was Mr. Ouimet, whose name would go down into history as the gallant leader of the 65th Battalion in the Northwest.

PRINCE HENRY DEAD.

The Royal Household of England in Mourning.

COAST FEVER WAS THE MALADY

His Death Took Place on January 20th on Board the British Cruiser Blonde—The Queen Deeply Afflicted—Princess Beatrice Hears the News Bravely.

London, Jan. 22.—The Standard announces that Prince Henry of Battenberg, who was taken ill while accompanying the British expedition against the Ashantees, died of coast fever on his return voyage from Cape Coast Castle to Sierra Leone.

The report of Prince Henry of Battenberg's death is confirmed at Osborne House.

Further despatches concerning Prince Henry of Battenberg say that he died on the night of Jan. 20, on board the British cruiser Blonde. It had been his intention to recruit his health at Madeira.

After Prince Henry died, the cruiser Blonde put into Sierra Leone, and the news of his death was immediately cabled to the Queen and Princess Beatrice at Osborne, and also to the Admiralty and the War Office. The Queen was intensely agitated upon the receipt of the news, and Princess Beatrice is almost crazed with grief.

The Queen's review of the flying squadron off the Isle of Wight, which was postponed yesterday on account of fog, has now been abandoned in consequence of Prince Henry's death.

The Queen Deeply Afflicted.

London, Jan. 22.—The Court Circular, referring to the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg, says a terrible blow has fallen upon Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice. Then follow details of the Prince's illness and death, after which The Circular says:

"The Queen is most deeply afflicted by seeing her beloved daughter's happy life crushed and by losing a most amiable and affectionate son-in-law, to whom she was most devoted.

"The Princess Beatrice is bearing the awful shock with great fortitude and resignation."

THE GRIEVOUS SORROW.

The Queen Replies to a Message Sent by Lord Aberdeen.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—The Governor-General has received the following message from the Queen in reply to the telegram of sympathy which His Excellency addressed to Her Majesty this morning in reference to the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg:

"Osborne, Jan. 22, 1896.—Many thanks for kind sympathy in the grievous sorrow which has befallen my dear daughter and myself. (Signed.) V.R I."

The Governor-General has also received from Princess Beatrice a personal assurance of thanks for a message of sympathy sent by Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

Prince Henry Maurice of Battenberg was a son of Prince Alexander of Battenberg (Hesse) and the Countess Von Lauck, daughter of a former Polish Minister of War, who was raised to the rank of Princess on her morganatic marriage with the ruler of Hesse. He was born in 1858, and July 23, 1885, was married to Princess Beatrice. In November last Prince Henry joined the British Ashantee expedition in a special capacity, and sailed on Dec. 7. Col. Sir Francis Scott, commander of the expedition, appointed him his military secretary. In the early part of the present month he was attacked with swamp fever at Nyassa and returned to Cape Coast Castle in charge of a surgeon, though it was announced that his illness was not serious.

A Tribute to the Late Prince.

News of the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg was cabled direct to the Ontario Government yesterday, and the official flag at the Parliament Buildings was immediately hoisted to half-mast.

BRITISH ARTILLERY.

Both Horse and Field to be Raised to Full Strength.

London, Jan. 22.—The Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War, in a speech at Salisbury, county of Wilts, this evening said that both the horse and field artillery would be raised as rapidly as possible to the full strength, making a total of 318 guns, besides the army reserve force.

Belfast, Jan. 22.—The election to fill the seat in the House of Commons for North Belfast, made vacant by the death of Sir Edward James Harland, Bart., Conservative, resulted in the return of Sir James Haslett, the Conservative candidate, by a vote of 3595 to 3433 for Adam Turner, Independent.

At the last election Sir Edward James Harland was returned without opposition.

ROBB'S DEFALCATIONS.

The City Treasurer of Moncton, N.B., Shaved Notes Also.

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 22.—Embezzling City Treasurer Robb's life is despaired of. He has been carrying $6000 life insurance in the Canada Life and Mutual Life, and a large bundle of notes found in the vault shows that he has been carrying on a note shaving business on quite an extensive scale. Some of these notes are overdue. It is estimated that they will realize $1200. Investigation shows that Robb had ben speculating since December, 1894, and a memorandum has been found showing that his profits on margins from December, 1894, to June, 1895, were $1623, and his losses over $3000. There is no record of his transactions since June last, but it is known that he kept going deeper and deeper.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. THE QUEEN'S SORROW.

Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, will have the heartfelt sympathy of her millions of loyal subjects in her great bereavement by the death of her son-in-law, Prince Henry of Battenberg, the husband of Princess Beatrice. It will be remembered that Prince Henry, who is greatly beloved by the royal family, for his admirable personal qualities, volunteered for service in the Ashanti expedition. And though the barbarous African king was brought to reason without firing a shot, the pestilent climate of this portion of Africa brought on a fatal fever that ended Prince Henry's life. Though the blow will fall heavily upon the young widow, it will be a a more serious shock to Her Majesty, who, at the age of nearly 78 years, is not in a condition to bear affliction as in her full strength. The Queen will have the consolation implied in the fact that her favourite son-in-law died as a prince should die, in the service of his country. Prayers for strength and sympathy in her sorrow in every quarter of the world will be Her Majesty's comfort as far as human sympathy can give consolation.

THE RICE MONOPOLY.

The trade returns for 1895 have been submitted to Parliament. The rice monopoly again presents some interesting features in the report. During the year 1895, 5,876,856 pounds of cleaned rice were imported, the value of which was $98,849, and the duty collected $73,466. It will be seen, therefore, that the duty on this article of common consumption was 75 per cent. For whose benefit is this enormous tax imposed? Our farmers do not grow rice. Who, then, profits by this outrageous exaction? Another item in the returns explains it. Uncleaned rice was imported for consumption to the extent of 23,772,306 pounds, value, $199,620, duty $68,933, or 35 per cent. The uncleaned rice is imported by a couple of rice-cleaning establishments which are so insignificant that there is no distinct record of them in the census returns. Mr. Foster furnished a statement that they employed 70 men. It has been asserted in contradiction of this that they do not employ 20 men. Whichever is correct only alters the outrage in degree. If the Government imposed 75 per cent. on rice for the benefit of the public revenue it would have collected $224,852 on the imports. The fact is that it collected only $142,399. The balance, $82,453, was the neat little figure that fell to the share of the rice-cleaners. It may be said that it is a small matter, but it is furnished as a type of the principle that pervades the tariff, and which in the aggregate is not a small thing. Cases of utter destitution are ever and anon brought to the public notice. The other day a man was before the Police Magistrate charged with picking up coal along the Esplanade. He told the story that he had no work, and that he had four little children at home whom he could not let die of cold and hunger. Anyone who interests himself in charitable work knows that there are not a few such cases in this city, and hundreds, to put it mildly, throughout the country. What a noble task it is on the part of a Government to make the food of such people 35 per cent. dearer on behalf of the exchequer, with an additional 40 per cent. on behalf of the monopolists.—Globe.

The Montreal Witness says:—"Sir Charles Tupper, while accepting office under Sir Mackenzie Bowell, is not going to give up the position of Canadian High Commissioner in London, which is by far the most remunerative and splendid of all appointments in the gift of the Canadian Government. Like the dog in the fable, Sir Charles keeps a grip on his own bone while running to the aid of his son and the conspirators in their task of depriving Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his bone. Sir Mackenzie has been compelled to drop his bone, and it has been virtually seized by Sir Charles, who holds it in his mouth while he guards the other bone lying between his fore paws. Such greedy assumption would not be tolerated in any other man in public life but a Tupper, but Sir Charles Tupper calmly avows it."

THERE are now six vacant seats in the House of Commons. In Charlevoix, Que., the Government had great difficulty in getting a candidate, an indication that Conservative politicians much prefer seats in the Senate or Customs' Collectorships, to being candidates. But the rule seems to be imperative that they must qualify for office under the Government by being rejected by the people. The Government has got a candidate at last for Charlevoix, in the person of Mr. Conin, who a few weeks ago applied to become the candidate of Mr. Laurier in that riding. But Mr. M. C. Angers was chosen as the Liberal candidate and will, of course, be elected. The Government's extremity is shown by the fact that it has selected Mr. Conin, the gentleman of such elastic political opinions—the rejected aspirant for the Liberal nomination. Mr. Conin has shown himself worthy to be a typical Government candidate—he has practiced bolting even before he is elected.

On Friday evening of next week, a concert will be held in the Temperance hall, Selwyn, in aid of a church at Wolsley, N. W. T., at which place Rev. J. Herbert Burrow, formerly of this place, is pastor. A good programme is being prepared, and and a very pleasant time may be expected.

The full intensity of living is reached only by the perfectly healthy. Sickness discounts the capacity for enjoyment. If the body is all out of order and run down, he will not be able to enjoy anything, no matter how full of enjoyment it may be for other people. If he is just a little bit out of order, if he "is not sick, but doesn't feel just right" he will only be able to enjoy things in a half-hearted sort of way. The nearer he is to being perfectly well, the nearer will his capacity for enjoyment be perfect. If this condition doesn't exist something ought to be done. That means nine cases in ten the use of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It works directly on the digestive organs, and on the blood and through these on every tissue of the body. It makes the appetite good, digestion and nutrition perfect and supplies rich, red blood to all the tissues, building up solid, healthful flesh.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

On the Purity of the Blood Depends Everything.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Have an Unbroken Record of Success.

Health is the largest part in the mixture called happiness.

Health depends upon the purity of the blood.

It is almost impossible to be ill if your blood is pure, rich and red.

The organs having most to do with blood purity are the kidneys.

If they are out of order you lose first the pink of health and later the pallor of impurity is seen.

And then science steps in to help the kidneys do their work.

They will respond to the first dose of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Because these pills are for the very purpose.

How quickly they cure any minor kidney trouble is already well known to a hundred thousand people or more.

They have cured in hundreds of cases after the patient had been given up to die.

And it is only reasonable to expect them to cure promptly in simple cases.

But we have yet to learn that Dodd's Kidney Pills failed in any case—simple or complicated.

Dodd's Kidney Pills revive the flagging organs.

They are the least expensive treatment in the world.

They cure the deadly Bright's disease at any of its stages.

They have cured in hundreds of cases when all else failed.

Dodd's Kidney Pills can be bought for 50 cents a box from any druggist or dealer in Canada.

Sir Charles Tupper's Visit to the Constituency.

POLICY ON THE SCHOOL QUESTION

The Government Pledge on Remedial Legislation to be Carried Out—Liberals Fighting Hard—Meeting at Glace Bay Addressed by Mr. Longley and Others.

Sydney, N.S., Jan. 22.—The Liberals are putting up a grand fight against the High Commissioner. Messrs. Fraser, Devlin and McIsaac, M. P.'s; Mr. Longley, Attorney-General, and Mr. Chisholm, M.L.A., with a fine array of local talent, are on the stump and forcing the fighting. Sir Charles Tupper depends on Mr. McKeen's position as general manager of the Dominion Coal Company, to pull him through with flying colors. If the operatives in the mines under Mr. McKeen, who number one-fourth of the electors, vote solidly, Sir Charles Tupper will be elected, but if they take the bit in their mouths and assert their independence the old warhorse will not have the majority he expects. In the towns and the fighting districts, Mr. Murray, the Liberal candidate, will have large majorities. In several farming districts where clerical influences count, the Tories are strong.

At Boisdale.

Boisdale, Jan .22.—Rev. Father A. McGillivray led the delegation at Boisdale, and Sir Charles Tupper made his first utterance on the Manitoba school question. After some preliminary remarks, he referred to his fight in the Nova Scotia Legislature in 1859, when he stood up against the proposition that no Roman Catholic should have a voice in the affairs of the country. He and his party fell fighting for equal rights and justice to all without consideration of race or creed. He was now prepared to stand by the same principle, and common justice demands that all classes and creeds should unite in the interests of this great country. In 1863 he went back to power on those principles, and he hoped the question would never be raised again. After repeating his references to the National Policy made at Grand Narrows, Sir Charles proceeded to speak with no uncertain sound on the Federal Government's policy regarding remedial legislation for Manitoba. He reviewed the position of the Catholic minority in Manitoba prior to 1890 and endorsed the stand taken by the late Sir John Thompson in submitting the matter to the Imperial Privy Council. Now that that high tribunal has declared that Manitoba has a grievance, he would be bound by that decision, placing upon the Dominion Government the responsibility of removing it. The constitution had been framed in such a manner as to leave educational matters in the hands of the Local Governments, but Sir A. T. Galt had insisted on the insertion of the provisions that should the rights enjoyed by a minority be invaded by the Local Governments, responsibility for redress should rest on the Dominion Government. Now that the Manitoba difficulty has arisen, it is the duty of the Government to remove the grievances. The Government is pledged to do so, but the charge is made that in so doing the Government will be coercing Manitoba. Such is not the case, as that province had the opportunity of first settling the difficulty, and now the duty is transferred to another authority. The Government is pledged, and will stand by that pledge as announced in the recent Speech from the Throne. Sir Charles stated that when passing through Montreal he had the pleasure of a call from that eminent educationist, Sir Wm. Dawson, who stated to him that he was in entire sympathy with the Government's policy on the Manitoba school question.

Mr. David McKeen, ex-M.P., denied the statements which he said were being circulated to the effect that he had handed over the constituency to Sir Charles Tupper without consulting the electors. He said he brought the matter before the Conservative Executive and he was quite satisfied that Cape Breton would be proud to have Sir Charles as their representative. They would be well represented by a man who would, moreover, in all probability shortly be the leader of the Government. He denied that there had been any mention of reward for resigning his seat, a statement which Sir Charles subsequently fully corroborated.

At North Sydney Station Sir Charles was greeted with an enthusiastic reception. He made a short address on the growth of the Cape Breton coal industry.

Liberals at Glace Bay.

Glace Bay, C.B., Jan. 22.—Hon. J. W. Longley, Mr. D. C. Fraser and Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., addressed a splendid gathering here to-night in the interests of Hon. George Murray, the Liberal candidate for Cape Breton County. Glace Bay is the home of the late member, Mr. Thomas McKeen, and at the last general elections gave large majorities for the two Conservatives. It was here that five years ago a meeting addressed by Premier Fielding was broken up, so strongly was the opposing sentiment. The population is almost entirely made up of miners and other employes of the Dominion Coal Company. To-night the speakers received an attentive hearing, and the sentiments were frequently applauded.

Hon. J. W. Longley was the first speaker, and first dealing with several trade matters, claimed that half the manufacturers were heart and soul with Mr. Laurier in his campaign. He proceeded to deal with the coal question, one of particular interest to his auditors. He claimed that if the coal of Cape Breton was admitted free to the New England States, it would give a great impetus to this industry. The directors of the Dominion Coal Company were using all their efforts in that direction. As to the alleged partnership of the Whitney company, he declared that company had no interest in the present result, and the employes of that company were perfectly free to use their franchise as free men.

Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., followed, and, after his preliminary remarks, proceeded to deal with the Manitoba school question. His remarks on the dissensions in the Cabinet ranks resulting from this question elicited rounds of applause from the large audience. He told about the celebrated Caron-Montague letters and the farce of His Excellency's Ministers being engaged in such tactics. In contradistinction he referred to the esteem in which Hon. Wilfrid Laurier was held by all classes. He sympathized with the Catholic minority in Manitoba, and wished to see justice done them, but he would not trust the present Federal Government in the matter. At Amherst yesterday, he said, Sir Charles Tupper said nothing on the school question because it was a Protestant constituency, but the train traveled on, and when it reached Boisdale, the Secretary of State, when approached by the parish priest and a delegation, where the people are all Catholics, declared himself strongly in favor of remedial legislation for Manitoba. He explained Mr. Laurier's proposition for the settlement of this question by approaching it in a conciliatory manner.

Mr. D. C. Fraser was the last speaker of the evening. He dealt in his usual forcible manner with Cabinet resignations, lopping off mouldering branches, the spectacle presented by the Cabinet kickers, the coal market and other timely topics. The exposition of numerous oddities in the tariff brought his speech to the meeting to a close.

DR. BINGHAM OF CANNINGTON.

The North Ontario Liberals Choose Him for the Dominion Elections.

Beaverton, Jan. 22.—A splendid meeting of Liberals was held here to-day for the purpose of naminating a candidate and for organization. Several of the delegates from the northern municipalities were unable to reach here in time for the proceedings, owing to the delay in the train from the north, but the other townships and villages were fully represented, and 120 delegates were in attendance, besides an equal number of supporters of the Liberal cause. Mr. William McPherson, president, occupied the chair, and the meeting was enthusiastic throughout.

The first business transacted was the election of officers.

Stirring addresses were delivered by Dr. Bridgland, Mr. F. J. Gillespie, Mr. T. W. Chapple, M.L.A., Mr. A. P. Cockburn, ex-M.P., Mr. I. J. Gould, Dr. H. S. Bingham, Mr. James Quigley, Mr. D. McFayden, Mr. James F. Bruce, Mr. W. J. Kester, Mr. William McPherson, Mr. H. J. Gould and Mr. T. R. Vallentyne, several of whom were nominated as the party standard-bearer in the approaching general elections. All retired except Dr. H. S. Bingham, Cannington, and Messrs. Bruce and Vallentyne. Upon a ballot being cast Dr. Bingham received a majority vote, which was made unanimous by a standing vote.

The following resolution was received with cheers, and carried unanimously:

Moved by Dr. Bridgland, seconded by Dr Bingham, "That this convention of Liberals for the North Riding of Ontario hereby record their confidence in Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and his leadership; they admire his honorable and manly stand on the public questions of the day, and look forward to his early elevation to the Premiership of the Dominion of Canada."

There are now two candidates in the field—Dr. Bingham, Liberal, and Mr. R. C. Brandon, Independent. Mr. Brandon about a year ago was nominated as a Patron, but before the close of the bye-election contest tended towards being independent of any party. At a general public meeting a few days ago he was nominated as an Independent. The Patrons and the Conservatives have not yet chosen their candidates.

CHARGED WITH THIEVING.

A Hamilton Man and His Wife Arrested by Windsor Police.

Hamilton, Jan. 22.—Nelson Cornell and his wife, nee Mrs. Margaret Doherty, formerly a fascinating widow, were arrested last night in Windsor, charged with stealing drygoods from A. R. Kerr & Co., a retail firm in this city, and the arrest has caused something of a sensation here, as Cornell was well known and looked upon as above any such action as the warrants charged him with; and Mrs. Doherty was looked upon as a widow, circumspect and honest. Cornell has been employed by A. R. Kerr & Co. for 12 years, and Mrs. Doherty for about four years. The former was head of the silk department, and the latter was head saleswoman of the mantle department. About two years ago they went to the same boarding house, Park-street south, and lived there till about two months ago, when Cornell left, having been scared away by Miss La Blanc, who was also employed in the store, and was about to bring a breach of promise against him. Since then Mrs. Doherty continued at her position, till last Friday, when she left the city, her destination being unknown, she stating that she had received a telegram that her mother was dying. After her departure rumors were afloat in the store that a steal by Cornell and the widow had been going along successfully for years, and an investigation began. It transpired that the widow had recently been having expensive costumes made up of material like that in stock, and of which there was no sale cheque. The detectives were put on the case, a search warrant issued, and the widow's room searched. A quantity of valuable goods was found, and letters which substantiated the suspicion that the two were married. The police telegraphed descriptions of the couple to western towns, and last night they were arrested.

Detective Coulter and A. Webber arrived in the city to-night accompanied by Nelson and Mrs. Cornell from Windsor. Cornell and his wife were taken to the Barton-street jail. The detective brought with him two trunks, a packing case and several parcels, which contained silks, satins and other valuables. To-morrow morning an inventory will be made of the goods alleged to have been stolen. The prisoners denied having stolen the goods, and have engaged lawyers to defend them. Mrs. Cornell is in a delicate state of health.

At a business meeting of the James-street Baptist Church to-night Rev. R. G. Boville pressed for the acceptance of his resignation, and the meeting acceded to his wishes. He will continue his lectures and conduct a party on an European trip next summer.

By this agency Polson's Nerviline is made to penetrate to the most remote nerve—every bone, muscle and ligament is made to feel its beneficient power. Nerviline, pleasant to take, even by the youngest child, is yet so powerfully far reaching in its work, that the most agonizing internal pain yields as if by magic. Nerviline relieves neuralgia instantly and for the most speedy cure of nerve pains of every description it has no equal. Sold everywhere.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE

The Great Health Restorer of the Century.

Sickness Cannot Cope With It—Has Cured the Worst Cases on Record—Cures at the Nerve Centers, and Thus Cures Permanently—A Wonderful Specific in All Cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Nervousness and General Debility—Has No Equal as a Spring Medicine.

There is a great deal of uncertainty in the methods adopted to remove disease. Doctors are not free from this kind of thing themselves. The poor patient has to put up with a good deal of experimenting. The discoverer of South American Nervine takes too serious a view of life to play pranks of this kind. He does not think that these human bodies of ours should be fooled with. He has recognized that they are subject to disease, but by scientific methods he has learned that just as the watch is to be put in perfect repair only when the main spring is kept in running order, so with the individual, he remains in perfect health, only when the nerve centers are kept healthful and strong.

What disease is more distressing than indigestion or dyspepsia? Some simple remedy may be given to cause relief for the moment. Nervine is an indisputably successful remedy for the worst cases of indigestion, because it reaches the source of all stomach troubles—the nerve centers. Indigestion exists because the vital forces have become diseased and are weakened. Nervine builds up the nerve centers, from which comes these forces, removes the causes of indigestion, and then builds up the health completely.

How many systems are run down through nervousness. A stimulant may give ease, but it will not cure nervous troubles. Nervine has cured more desperate cases of nervousness than any other medicine anywhere. And it does so for the same reason that it cures indigestion. The nerve centers are deranged, or there would be no victims of nervousness. Nervine rebuilds and strengthens the nerve tissues, and hence its marvellous powers in diseases of this kind.

In the spring of the year the strongest suffer from general debility. The blood, through neglect, has become impoverished and the whole system gets out of order. We speak of it as a spring medicine. Nervine restores the exhausted vital forces that have led to this tired, don't-care, played-out, miserable condition. No one can take a bottle of Nervine at this season of the year without disease quickly giving way to abounding health.

The moral is plain, simple and readily understood. If you would not trifle with disease, then you will take South American Nervine, which will not trifle with you.

Obituary.

The death of Lizzie Reynolds, wife of Mr. Samuel Peoples, 73 Elm street, took place at about eight o'clock this morning. The deceased has been gradually fading away, a victim of consumption, for the past several years and during the last six months her death was known to be fast approaching. A husband and three small children survive, the youngest of the children being only seven months old. The funeral will take place from the family residence to the Little Lake Cemetery at half-past two, Saturday afternoon.

Be up to Date.

The gentlemen of Peterborough and vicinity are, as a rule, right up to date. If they are not, it is because they lack opportunity. When they get the chance they take it, and catch right up with the procession. For that reason, when Prof. Dorenwend arrives in the city, they will visit him, and provide themselves with his first-class Wigs and Toupees. The gentlemen who are bald, and from prejudice won't wear coverments, should remember that they are running great risks. Any candid physician will tell them so. The best men in the land wear these scientific coverments for no other reason than protection to the head. These goods are known throughout the land, and need no recommendation. Read the announcement on another page, and bear the date in mind.—Huffman House Wednesday, Feb. 5th.

A PROSPEROUS FINANCIAL INSTITUTION.

In another place will be found the report of the twelfth annual meeting of Central Canada Loan and Savings Company of Ontario, held in the company's offices yesterday afternoon. The statements presented show the company to be in a prosperous and progressive condition in spite of the financial stringency that has prevailed for the period covered by the report. That the company has won a high place in the confidence of the public is shown by the fact that the deposits, including interest, exceed the figures of last year by over $100,000. The assets show an increase of over $250,000—$253,890.26. After defraying all expenses of management, providing for interest of debentures and deposits and meeting all the expenses in connection with the issue and renewal, $329,450 currency debentures and £133,382 sterling debentures, the company was able to pay four quarterly dividends at the rate of six per cent. per year. Altogether the affairs of the Company are in a condition of thrift, representing sound and careful financing and a gratifying confidence of the public in its reliability and excellent management. To both the stockholders and the general public the annual statement presents encouraging features. The Central Canada in the twelve years it has been in existence has made rapid and substantial progress, that has placed it abreast of the foremost of our financial institutions.

The part of Jack Ratledge was most capably taken by George Heath, and Barry Harvey made a capital father to him. J. F. The parts of Mrs. Howard and Araminta were well assumed respectively by Miss Jennie Wood worth and Miss Mattie Davis. The audience was thoroughly delighted with the able presentation of the play.

THE CENTRAL CANADA LOAN AND SAVINGS CO.

A PROSPEROUS AND SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The Twelfth Annual Meeting—Encouraging Report of the Directors—The Financial Statement—A Year of Progress—Evidences of Sound Management and Public Confidence.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company of Ontario was held at the Company's office, No. 437 George street, on Wednesday, the 22nd day of January, at 2 o'clock p.m.

The President, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, having taken the chair, the Manager, Mr. F. G. Cox, acted as Secretary. The following report and financial statement were read:

ANNUAL REPORT.

Twelfth Annual Report of the Directors of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company of Ontario.

The Directors herewith submit their Twelfth Annual Report, together with a statement of Assets and Liabilities as at the 31st December, 1895, and a statement of the Profit and Loss Account for the year ending at that date, duly audited and certified.

After defraying expenses of management, providing for interest on debentures and deposits and meeting all expenses in connection with the issue and renewal of $329,450 currency debentures and £133,382 sterling debentures, the Directors have been able from the profits of the year to pay four quarterly dividends at the rate of six per cent. (6 %) per annum, together with the income tax thereon, and to add $10,246.23 to the Contingent Fund, which now stands at $24,025.40. The Reserve Fund as at 31st December is $325,000.

An unusually large amount of sterling debentures matured during the past year. It is satisfactory to note that the renewals and new debentures issued were considerably in excess of the maturities, and at a substantial reduction in the rate of interest paid.

The Company's funds have been kept fully invested during the year, the Directors thinking it better to meet the demand for lower rates than leave money unemployed.

The assets have been increased during the twelve months by $253,890.26, and now stand at $5,454,720.34.

The interest payments and maturing instalments of principal have been met with fairly satisfactory promptitude.

The losses incurred during the year in bringing properties to sale amount to $6,355.54, and this amount has been charged against the Contingent Account, which was increased from the profits of the year by $10,246.23.

The Inspection Committee have made a careful examination of the securities, checked the same with the mortgage register, and report everything satisfactory.

The Report of the Auditors is appended to the financial statement annexed.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Directors,

GEO. A. COX,
President.

The Regular Swing

Of our Annual Special Stock-Taking Sale keeps going on evenly and successfully and grows increasingly lively as the momentum keeps up.

There's nothing can stop the Reductions. The swing of the movement began in January, and just as shoppers realize that it is getting nearer its end, just in proportion are sales increased. But remember we don't have to keep a clearing sale going perpetually.

It May be Business!

Every milling firm will try to convince the customer that their brand of flour is the best, and some will even resort to unscrupulous means to this end and go so far as to lead people to believe that Mason & Co., grocers, flour and feed merchants, are so desirous to have their flour that they purloin it, to use it as a drawing card.

Foolish Prejudices.

How does it happen that so many ladies are so very careful about dresses and bonnets, and neglect the head dress? It is because they are prejudiced against artificial hair? Ladies of the most exalted positions in the land are wearing Prof. Dorenwend's manufactured goods. They are beautiful and attractive and give a charming appearance to the face. Throw aside your false notions of propriety, and examine the Professor's elegant lines of Wigs, Switches, Braids and Wavy Fronts, etc. Read the advertisement in another column.—Remember Huffman House, Peterborough, Wed. SPORTING PASTIMES.

Down at the Rink Amongst the Curlers and the Hockeyists—Other Items of Interest.

CURLIANA.

Lakefield won from Bobcaygeon yesterday afternoon by ten shots in the district finals in Group No. 3, for the tankard. Lakefield will now go to Toronto to play in the final matches for the trophy.

The new beginners, this year, are laying down their stones exceptionally well, but should be carefully coached now before faults incidental to delivery, etc., are formed. The stone of a new beginner generally comes up the ice twirling like a top. It is unnecessary to give it such a twist on delivery, and is liable to send the stone astray.

The ice at the rink is in fine condition and does great credit to the caretakers, who are most faithful in the discharge of their duties. The visiting rinks yesterday were delighted with the smooth, level surface upon which they played.

Amongst the scratch matches played at the rink yesterday were the following:

B Bellegham,	J C Fowlds,
H Phelan,	H Grassett,
B Clegg,	Geo Giroux,
R S Davidson, sk...19	J M Irwin, skip.....10

F D Mackay,	R Hay,

G N Brown,	Jno A Cameron
W G Ferguson, sk.. 9	Jno McClelland, sk...11

Yesterday afternoon Judge Weller and his rink played a friendly match with Skip McIntyre's rink from Keene with the following result:

R E Wood,	R Brown,
W Manson,	R McCamus,
H Burnham,	M Kennealy,
Judge Weller, sk...15	R McIntyre.....12

The Lakefield and Bobcaygeon rinks which played off in the Tankard series in Group 3 yesterday were composed as follows:

Majority for Lakefield, 10 shots.

A grand curling bonspiel to decide the winner of Group 1, Ontario Tankard Series, was played in Cobourg the day before yesterday, in which two rinks from each of the following clubs took part:—Whitby, Millbrook, Belleville, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg. The final draw resulted in Port Hope defeating the Millbrook club by 3 shots.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture has presented the Oshawa club with a handsome silver cup, to be competed for by the clubs of the Midland district, and to become the property of the club winning it three times.

HOCKEY.

The Town Juniors went over to Millbrook last evening and were defeated by the score of 4—2. The sides of the rink, being unfit for the passing of the puck, puzzled the boys to such an extent as to as to make their defeat easy. The Millbrook team used the centre of the ice entirely and played a fast game. Roger Davidson went down with the Juniors for a practice and played a star game. It is a lucky thing for the Peterboroughs that they have Davidson in reserve, as otherwise Phelan's absence would so cripple the team as to make defeat in the finals a certainty. With Davidson again in shape, however, the Peterboroughs will still be strong enough to win.

The dry goods clerks hereby challenge the grocery clerks to a game of hockey. (!) Arrangements can be made with Mr. Sam. Choate, at Hall, Gilchrist & Co.'s.

In order that the Peterboroughs may know what a swift team they may have to run up against in the Victorias of Kingston, the following description of their last match is published:—

Shortly before 8.40, the referee called the men together, and they lined out as follows:—

Limestones.		Victorias.
Savage	Goal	Lamb
Strange	Point	J Rigney
McDowell	Cover Point	Metcalfe
W Harty	Centre	M Murray
E Cunningham	Wing	Reyner
S Sutherland	Wing	Taylor
Low	Wing	Murphy

The puck was faced off at 8.31, and was immediately rushed on Victoria's goal. H. Reynar secured rubber and made a splendid rush into the Limestones' territory, where it lingered for a short time. Sutherland and Harty took it in hand and made a combined rush on the Victorias' end of the rink. Metcalfe relieved them of their burden and passed to Taylor, who brought it down the rink in fine style and drew the first blood for Victoria. Time, 11 minutes. The rubber was faced again, and ran from one end of the rink to the other. A scrimmage ensued in front of the Limestones' goal, and the Victorias shot on Savage's goal. The puck missed, but struck the boards and bounced in front of the goal. Murray quickly shot it through, securing the second game for Victorias. Time, 0 minutes. Reynar scored the third game for the "Vics." two minutes later. The Limestones' backers began to feel blue, but the club pulled themselves together, and some fine play on both sides was the result. Several good rushes were exchanged, Reynar and Murray were doing the "business" for the Victorias, while Sutherland and Harty put up a great game for the Limestones. Sutherland made a brilliant dash down the rink, and passed the puck to Harty, who planted it through Lamb's post in good style. The puck was soon in motion again. Murphy got his nasal organ injured, and time was called to doctor him. No more games were scored in this half.

After the usual rest, play was resumed. Low secured the disc in the middle of the rink, and after rushing it towards Victorias' goal, he passed it to Harty, who put it through and scored the second game after 45 seconds play. Score, 3—2 in favour of the Victorias. After ten minutes play Murphy scored again for the Victorias, making it 4—2. Sutherland and Cunningham made a combined rush on Victorias' goal, and the latter shot a pretty goal, but the puck was called back on account of offside. Five seconds later Murphy got the rubber and scored again for Victorias, making it 5—2 in their favour. The puck was faced again, and wandered hither and thither around the rink. Sutherland was chasing after it, when he received a heavy body check from Metcalfe, which planted him fairly in the middle of his back. Opinions differ whether Metcalfe bodied deliberately or not. Many of the Limestones think he did. So did the referee, and he ruled him off for the rest of the game. Sutherland was severely shaken up, as was shown in his play. Reyner secured the attraction, and was making a rapid rush for the Limestones' goal, when he was stopped in his wild career by Cunningham, who, with Low, brought it back. Taylor relieved, but did not go far before Sutherland took the puck, and after chasing down the rink he passed to Cunningham, who scored the last game for the Limestones. The whistle blew, and the Victorias were the victors. Score, 5—3.

For the Victorias Reyner and Murray were the stars. Taylor and Murray played a dashing game. Lamb was a tower of strength in goal. Reyner played the fastest game on the ice. His dodging was phenomenal. For the Limestones, Sutherland, Cunningham and Harty were the points. Strange played a great game at point, and Savage stopped some hot shots. Stewart Sutherland played the most scientific game on the ice. He was very speedy and at the same time passed to his forwards every time. His combination was perfect. The Victorias are a faster team all round, and are stronger than the Limestones. The Victorias and Queen's II. play next Monday.

EAST PETERBOROUGH'S FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD AT NORWOOD.

A Large Number of Excellent Addresses Delivered to the Farmers of the East Riding Last Tuesday.

The East Peterborough Farmers' Institute meeting was held in the town hall, Norwood, on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, Jan. 21st.

The president, F. Birdsall, called the meeting to order at 1.30 p.m. In his speech Mr. Birdsall stated that it seemed a strange thing to him that so many farmers took so little interest in what was of such a great benefit to them. Last year there had been a slight rise in the value of farm produce—grains had risen slightly, and sheep were selling at a fair price. There was a fairly good market for beef and horses were being shipped out of the country every week.

At the conclusion of his address the chairman called on Mr. McCrae of Guelph. His subject was

"CATTLE FEEDING."

He began by stating the objects of the Institute, first, being to spread agricultural information, and second to develop local talent. He explained that the speakers were here, not to teach farming, for no doubt many in the audience were better farmers than the speakers, but they were here to tell what they had done and were doing. His hearers were to judge themselves whether this was of value to them or not and to test the suggestions thrown out. Personally he was raising pure-bred cattle and his aim was to produce good animals that could be sold for breeding purposes for a good price.

He then drew attention to a number of charts, showing results of experiments tried at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa. This farm, he said, was doing a good work and farmers should avail themselves of the opportunity to benefit themselves by this work. They are prepared to test seeds and give samples of new varieties in every grain and to give information on any farming subject. He had also charts showing work done by the Ontario Experimental Union. In this 78 farmers had tried oats and they had pronounced the Siberian oat the best; the Bavarian came next and the American Banner third. In potatoes the Empire State had done well, also the American Warder, but Burpee's Extra Early was the best in quality and came extra early. In carrots the "improved short white" was best. He advised the growing of mangolds by men engaged in dairy farming. The land should be prepared in the fall and manured. The manure should be lightly ploughed in just before winter sets in. In spring, sow early, using plenty of seed, in drills about twenty-eight inches apart. Work well and keep clean during summer, taking roots up before frost comes in the fall. They are best fed in the spring, keeping in closely covered pit during the winter. Mixed grains such as oats, peas and wheat are good food. Oats, peas and vetches are a good mixture for summer feed. This may be cut green and fed to cows during the summer droughts. The first feed he gives his cows in the spring is rye, cut green for feeding indoors and a field for spring pasture. Last year he kept his stock on rye until the 24th of May. He then ploughed the field and sowed rye about two pounds to the acre, in drills about fourteen inches apart. This crop was not worked at all but was ready to feed the last week of July. After this he fed corn and then soft turnips and turnip tops. These foods were not all suitable for dairy farmers. During the winter months twice a day he fed cut corn and straw mixed, and roots once, and found the stock do well on the food. He strongly advocated the use of and with all classes of stock. Keep the young animals thriving, feed them liberally, but do not feed strong food to a lean animal. A lean animal cannot assimilate strong food properly. Have them in a thriving condition before feeding any meal. Never feed oil cake with skim milk to calves. Boil linseed oil and use the jelly. Linseed is best steeped in water for about half an hour, but not boiled. After this strain it and feed in small quantities. Along with the milk give them clover hay, crushed oats and bran. Do not feed steers in good pasture any grain.

Mr. Blezard opened the discussion on Mr. McCrae's address. He stated that in going through stables at the Experimental Farm he had seen a number of head of cattle being fattened, and had come to the conclusion that it was the best course to pursue in fattening cattle. He said, that you should not start to fatten the animal right at once, as it stops growth and the animal becomes stunted. He said, the best way was to keep the animal growing for the first couple of months, slowly fatten, gradually increasing the fattening food, until the last couple of months; before marketing you should shove the fat on. Have lots of light in the stable and have it well ventilated—use tar paper in preference to sawdust for keeping the stable warm.

Mr. Beadle took up the subject of "Injuries to fruit trees, by insects boring into them." Mr. Beadle had not been successful in finding illustrations of the worms, but would give an address on them in the evening, illustrating them with magic lantern views, unless by one specially requested that he should go on at present. On request, Mr. Beadle entered into a discussion of the "Cut worm." They are quite numerous, very much alike in appearance, and habits just the same. It feeds on young buds when opening and on young leaves. In order to kill these, spray the tree in spring with Paris Green, at the rate of one pound Paris Green to 200 gallons of water, adding slacked lime to prevent the Paris Green from injuring the young leaves. The best nozzle for spraying purposes is the Vermorel, which gives a fine misty spray. It may be that the trees will have to be sprayed more than once, on account of the broods not all hatching out at the same time. To get rid of tomato worms: They generally hatch out in the fall. A good way to get rid of them is to have the ground cleared of every vestige of green, so as to starve the young worms, which are not able to travel far. Drop little bunches of poisoned greens over this cleared space and the young worms will be there and die from effects.

PRUNING.

He next spoke on pruning. A chart was hung before the audience, illustrating the right and wrong ways of pruning. The best time to prune is in the latter part of March or the beginning of April. Judge the time by the condition of the tree. Mr. Beadle preferred to prune just before the sap begins to run. Do not expose the cuts to the cold weather. If it should be that you have to expose a severe cut do it in June, because a cut heals better then. Do not prune in December, because in this climate you are apt to get the black heart in the tree. Watch the growth of the tree and when it needs it prune.

In budding cut a straight mark down the stalk and one across at the end of this, then carefully insert the knife and open this slit so as to admit the bud. Next cut out the bud with very little wood, just enough to get the heart or chit of the bud. Always take a matured bud. Slip bud carefully into the slit and tie with basswood bark, woollen yarn, if neither of these are available use cotton, always being sure that the bud is not covered up. They do not expect the bud to grow that year. The proper time for budding is when the tree has stopped growing and and formed the terminal bud.

GRAFTING.

There are two kinds of grafting, the cleft and the tongue. The latter is used when the stalks are pretty near the same size. They are wound with bands, soaked in grafting wax. The cleft is used when grafting smaller into larger.

J. B. Pearce, Warden of the county for 1896, was then called upon to address the meeting on the subject of

"THE ROADS OF HASTINGS COUNTY."

Mr. Pearce stated that he might be thought and called a crank on the question of country roads. He had for many years observed the different roads in driving through the country and had come to the conclusion that the day of statute labour was passed. He said that by getting so many dollars' worth of of work was better than getting so many days' work. Last year the county council appointed a committee to visit the county of Hastings and examine into their system of roads and report. The committee spent the better part of two days and a half in drving through the county, examining the roads and interviewing officials. There is a superintendent of general roads who, with the chairman of the bridge committee, examine all the roads, and make appropriations of money where needed. They have five gangs of men scattered all through the county, and these men become proficient in making gravel roads. These roads are paid for by levying a general tax, and appropriation of the money is made according to the amount of the assessment of each municipality. The township of North Monaghan has voted down statute labour, and is now going to try the experiment. This subject will be thoroughly discussed in the county council this year. On good roads the farmer is able to draw twice the load with less wear and tear to the wagon and horses. Those who were most bitterly opposed to the adoption of this system of gravel roads in the county of Hastings are to-day its strongest advocates. These county roads are kept clear of drifting snow. Statute labour is still done on the side roads.

Mr. Hawthorne stated that he was greatly surprised in travelling over the roads in Hastings county. He said all the ratepayers were satisfied with their road system. When the committee was examining these roads they had gone to everybody, not only those who advocated the system and were its friends, but to everybody and had found all satisfied. He said the ratepayers of the county of Hastings had gone into the raising of barley extensively and had made their money at it about the time that those in Peterborough county had started it. They had gone into dairying and had made a success of it about the time the ratepayers of Peterborough were starting into the dairy business. He attributed it to their good system of roads.

HAIR HAIR

PROF. DORENWEND is Coming

It is contrary to nature that the head should be bald. Let that be fully understood. Is it not a fact that many ladies and gentlemen do not wear artificial hair for no other reason than prejudice. Unfortunately there has been a marked increase of late in baldness and gray hair, and the result is the loss of an attractive and refined appearance. MANY LADIES have the wretched habit of crimping and curling their own hair instead of buying an article according to the style. The result is they ruin their hair and when new styles come in they are unable to follow them.

Prof. Dorenwend of the Dorenwend Co. Ltd., of Toronto, has for thirty years demonstrated the beautifying effects of wearing his hair goods. Thousands of THE BEST LADIES and gentlemen of Canada and the United States are wearing his articles to-day. In many cases the manufactured article is more becoming than the natural growth, and not even an expert can detect that the hair is artificial.

The Professor carries an immense stock of Ladies' and Gents' Wigs, Toupees (half wigs), Bangs, Wavy Fronts, Switches, Braids, Etc., in every form, shade and quality. All can be pleased. Cast aside and provide yourself at once with a head dress that will give charming effects. Prof. Dorenwend will be in

SPECIAL AGENT

The difference between the maximum rate and the actual rate in The P. P. I. shows conclusively that members profit to a very large extent by the extraordinary care exercised in the selection of risks, and it affords a very strong reason why insurers should patronize a Company that only levys for actual requirements, after making provision for a sufficient reserve.

Could not get Insured.

Rejected by Straight Line and Mutual Companies.

But now Insured in both.

"Should I die while I am in a position to pay my insurance premiums, my family will owe their support to Scott's Sarsaparilla. Two years ago I applied to two companies for insurance, $1000 in each. My face was a mass of pimply blotches and my urine did not stand the test. One doctor in examining me said I could not pass, but that my trouble was curable. He advised an alterative medicine, and I commenced taking Scott's Sarsaparilla. Both companies rejected me, but four months later, after I had taken five bottles of your remedy I am thankful to say both accepted me as a risk—one being a stock company, the other a mutual. The examiner who previously examined me, remarked "I never saw such a change in any man." This is indorsed by Mr. J. Todd, the popular druggist, corner Queen and Crawford Streets, Toronto.

Scott's Sarsaparilla builds up debilitated constitutions, imparts strength, vigor and vitality, clears and purifies the blood. It cures skin diseases, rheumatism, gout, indigestion and all complaints arising from poor or poisoned blood. Of all druggists, $1 per bottle.

Sold by J. B. Tully, Peterborough.

HER CHRISTMAS GIFT.

She was born on Christmas day, and so came with her little white face and solemn eyes into her pale mother's life. She was worse than fatherless. The least of a man she might have come to call by that sacred name would now be beside the snowy cot, weeping in maudlin rejoicing over his new treasure, if the mother had not resolutely put him out of her life some six months before.

The world knew him as Judge Barrett, a man of fine family, superb talents, a magnetic orator, perhaps a trifle too convivial on occasions. He was returned again and again to the State Legislature by his people, who looked more to mind than morals. The wife knew him as besotted and disgusting. What matter his learning, his eloquence, his aristocratic blood, or his ample income? To her alone he brought his degraded mass of humanity day after day, and though never personally unkind to her or to the little boy that died, she was enabled by the might of her tearless agony beside that tiny bier to cut the last tie that bound her to the blear-eyed mourner on the other side. The last tie? Ah, woe was she! The coming time brought into her desolate life the frail link she must now take up; and in the first bitter realization of her wronged womanhood the mother-love lay dormant.

As the months went by the little Jean twined herself in every fiber about that mother's heart till she was loved with a love that was pain. So jealously guarded, too, that never once had her father's eyes fallen upon her, not even by chance. In vain he sent appeals just to look on his little daughter; he would ask no more. He was refused, and the babe's nurse threatened with dire punishment if she transgressed. By and bye Jean grew big enough to understand, and then she wanted to know who her papa was, and why he never came to see her as Masie Morrow's did. At this her mother would be terrified and tell her she must never ask about her papa, he was a dreadful man.

"Is he like Jack the Giant Killer, mumsie?"

"No, dearie; a great deal worse."

Another time she said, "I know, mumsie, my papa was a great black thing, like the pictures in the circus papers."

So it came to pass that Miss Jean fell to thinking about her father till it got to be almost a mania with her. Her life was secluded, but she was fondly attached to her grandparents and to a number of friends who were constantly received at the house. Her mother had a comfortable income, and provided her little girl with the best masters. She was a quaint, white-faced solemn-eyed creature, as she had been from the first. She said "old" things, her black nurse declared, and she knew her little "missus" was under a spell. If so, the spell was tempered by an almost idolatrous love on the mother's part. When she was getting to be a big girl, she had just as queer ways; too old for a child, though the solemn, owl-like look began to give place to an earnest expression which on occasions verged upon a twinkle in the deep blue eyes. Distant friends were now writing letters of inquiry, and her father's relatives persisted in urging Mrs. Barrett to send the child to them for a visit. At last she took Jean and went; she would not trust her out of sight. She was a pale, pretty, gentle-looking woman, with a will of iron. It was to Judge Barrett's sister, Mrs. Stanton, in a neighboring town that they came. They were afraid to mention his name or hint at a possible reconciliation: but they managed to make the little Jean very much in love with her new aunt and merry, pretty cousins.

Meanwhile her father had gone from bad to worse, a confirmed drunkard, though rarely too far gone to make an eloquent stump speech if occasion required. So popular was he that he had the sympathy of the community in his domestic estrangement. Some said his wife was too hard and unforgiving; all agreed that he should have been permitted to see his child.

Jean was seventeen years old, and had long since asserted herself to the extent of going to her aunt, Mrs. Stanton, whenever she wished. She had come to be quite a sensation in her father's native village, his hosts of friends striving in vain to trace a likeness to himself. She was a sweet, rather wilful maiden, not exactly pretty, but very refined and attractive. Judge Barrett had always found a bed at his sister's, no matter at what hour of day or night he came staggering in, but the large family combined their efforts to prevent the contretemps of a meeting between him and Jean. Their promise to her mother was too sacred for trifling, and they loved the girl too well to risk being deprived of her society. Destiny, or chance, was too strong for them. It was on a bright, sunlit day when Jean was in the midst of an animated discussion with her cousin Roger upon the merits of Vassar College, which the young man declared was only a place where they transformed a quiet girl into a boy!

"Never go there, Coz, if you wish to retain an ounce of your womanhood."

"Prejudice, prejudice, every bit of it," she retorted, "and I am certainly going there if I can persuade my mother to part from me for so long."

"Why not take her with you," Mrs. Stanton was saying, when, horror of horrors, there appeared at the side door of the large sitting room a flushed and tangled-looking creature, tottering and righting up, alternately. All eyes were turned upon him, and every voice was dumb. Steadying himself within the door, he slowly surveyed the young faces grouped there, till his eyes fell upon Jean's white, wondering countenance. Perhaps she reminded him of the wife who had repudiated him. Perhaps some dawning instinct was at work. He staggered up to the girl, who never once turned her gaze, and placing a hand upon her head, said, in the words of Childe Harold.

"Is thy face like thy mother's, my fair child?"

Tears sprang to every eye; but Jean, first grasping as with a revelation from some long-dormant recess of her brain, arose and catching his hand as it fell powerless, burst out:

"Are you my—father? Oh, tell me," she appealed to the group about her—"my father?" and stood breathless before him. The words seemed to sober him with a mighty shock. He sank upon his knees, her hands still clasping his, and burying his hot face in her cool palms, murmured:

"Her father—my child—my God, I thank thee!"

But the strain was too much. In a moment more he sank all in a heap upon the floor, limp and lifeless. Passionately the girl knelt beside him, and looked searchingly at his now colorless face, while the others hastened with restoratives. Nor did she leave him during the days of illness that followed, except when obliged to rest. Little by little they had told her the story. She only said: "Oh, I never dreamed he was like this. I used to think he must be something inhuman, horrible! Then I found myself staring at every stranger, especially if he was monstrous or in the least hideous. But I had given up all hope, and felt afraid to ask."

"No, my dear child," soothingly said her aunt, "your father is not horrible or hideous, except that he is the slave of drink. He is not inhuman, but a tender, loving creature. He is a gentleman, cultured and learned. There is nothing fine in the language that he cannot repeat, so wonderful is his gift of memory. Oh, my child, can you not—will you not help him? You can win him, I feel sure." Jean learned to love her father by reason of his idolatrous devotion to her, as well as the powerful influence of his brilliant talents. In those first days of convalescence he followed her feebly from room to room; and one day, folding her to his heart, he said:

"My precious child—my beautiful daughter—hear your father's vow! Come what will, never more shall a drop of the accursed fire pass my lips. I will redeem our name—I can and I will."

He kept his word. Jean went to Vassar. She wrote long, loving letters every week to her mother and father. Once she said to her mother:

"You know what I wish, my darling mumzie; you know I wish to reunite my two beloveds; but never shall I ask it. You must follow your own heart. I believe my father will be worthy of us: but I shall be guided by you alone."

At first the mother was stricken down by the fierce throes of jealousy and pain that rent her soul; but as time went on and she knew that she was not supplanted, she grew quiescent. But she owned to herself that she never could have sent Jean away if it had not been to separate her as well from her father. On every side his praises were sung in her ears. He was rising higher and higher in his profession, and one enormous fee had suddenly made him rich. Both were getting on toward middle life, and he was slightly grey; but her brown hair lay in the same soft, glossy bands, and her pure, white face was placid as of yore.

Four years had passed, and Jean's twenty-first anniversary was at hand. Her mind had been made up for days. Christmas light and gladness reigned supreme. It was just at the close of the day, when entering her mother's room upon the arm of her tall, handsome father, she threw her arms about her mother and whispered three words, "For our sake."

Then kneeling with courtly grace before her he kissed the fair hand he had won in his youth, and in the tones whose music had thrilled her girlish heart, he spoke:

"My beloved, will you not trust me again? See, our darling has saved us for each other."

And the last ray of the roseate sun lingered lovingly on the three, as the day sank into blessed night.—Ladies' Home Companion.

A foul breath is one of the greatest afflictions that a man or woman can have. An affliction not only to themselves, but to those with whom they come in contact. A foul breath is a dreadful discourager of affection, or rather of the demonstration of affection. It would probably be more so if people only realized just what bad breath means. Bad breath is one of the symptoms of constipation. Some of the other symptoms are sour stomach, loss of appetite, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, heartburn and distress after eating. These things mean indigestion. They lead to dyspepsia and worse things. They all start with constipation, and constipation is inexcusable because it can be cured—cured easily, quickly and permanently, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a perfect remedy for this most common of all troubles. They give to nature just the little help that she needs. They are very mild in their action, and act without any violence whatever. In this, they are different from many preparations offered for a similar purpose. Sometimes the remedy is worse than the disease, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are mild, but they are infallibly efficient. They do the work which they are intended to do, without deranging the system in any way. They not only give immediate relief, but the benefit derived from them is permanent. You can stop taking them by and by and there is no danger that you will become a slave to their use. The druggist who tries to sell you something else "just as good," either does not know what he is talking about, or he makes more money on the other thing. If you care more for his prosperity than you do for your own health, take the other thing. If you value your health, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. A free sample, of from 4 to 7 doses, will be sent to any address.

A copy of Dr. Pierce's celebrated 1008 page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated, will be sent free on receipt of thirty-one (31) cents in one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only.

MARTINI-ENFIELD.

The New Arm to be Purchased for the Canadian Militia

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—The Government has decided upon its line of action with reference to the rearmament of the militia forces. It was generally thought in militia circles that the Lee-Metford rifle would be procured for the forces generally, but it is now proposed to confine the use of this weapon to the permanent force. The authorities consider that as the mechanism of the Lee-Metford is very delicate there would be great danger of the weapon getting out of order in the hands of unskilled men. With the permanent force, however, this objection would not hold. Col. Lake, quartermaster-general, is meeting with every assistance from the War Office and the Horse Guards, and before he leaves England a contract will have been entered into for supplying Canada with 40,000 stand of Martini-Enfield rifles. This new weapon will have the Martini lock and action with the Enfield barrel, or a modification of it. The regular Enfield has four grooves, but the new weapon will be cofined to three grooves. This change will render the rifle less liable to fouling. The Lee-Metford, it may be remarked, has a seven-grooved barrel, and one of the chief objections to it, in the opinion of competent authorities, is fouling, to which it is subject. The Martini-Enfield will take a .303 bullet, the same as the Lee-Metford, so that the regulars at Halifax, the permanent force of Canada, and the militia will all use the same ammunition. With bayonet attached, the rifle will weigh about nine pounds, and will, without doubt, prove a most serviceable weapon. The cost of this large consignment of rifles will be in the vicinity of $800,000.

The writ for Northumberland, N.B., was issued to-day. Nomination takes place on Jan. 30, and polling on Feb. 6.

DIED IN DISGRACE.

The Recent Death of Levina Kruger of Blenheim Being Investigated

Toronto, Jan. 22.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review of Monday contains a touching story of the downfall and death of a young girl, the daughter of a respectable German farmer named Andrew Kruger of Blenheim Township, Oxford Co. The particulars in brief are these: Three years ago Levina Kruger, then 18 years of age, obtained employment at the house of a neighboring farmer, where she remained, despite her father's entreaties to return home, until December of last year. The first intimation her father had that she had left her employer was the news of her death at Grace Hospital, in this city. Investigation revealed the fact that she had sought refuge at the house of Mrs. Tranter, 56 Terauley-street, where in the course of time she gave birth to a child. She was subsequently removed to Grace Hospital, where on Dec. 17 she died of peritonitis. The man who negotiated for the girl's care and keeping in Toronto at first gave his name as Locke, but subsequently said that it was John Young, and that his postoffice address was Princeton, Blenheim Township. Messrs. Ball & Ball of Woodstock have been investigating the case, and declare that a writ will be issued at once against the unfortunate girl's employer, charging him with being responsible for her death.

SHE SNORED.

And Therefore Barney Claimed Justification for Thumping His Wife.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 21.—Barnard Keenan, aged 70 years, became a single man this afternoon, the Circuit Court granting a divorce to his wife, Katherine Keenan, aged 55 years, thus settling a case of some standing on the docket. Katherine testified that Barney had a gentle pastime of punching her jaw, and Barney thought this was fully justified by the fact that she snored most detrimentally to his peace nights.

A Bar to Canadian Sailors.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Mr. Mahany, (R., N.Y.), to-day introduced a bill in the House requiring Canadian sailors seeking employment in this country, to have a domicile of at least six months in the United States before they can be employed.

Mr. Mahany says the measures has the endorsement of all the Workingmen of his state.

Seeking British Protection.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 21.—A large number of American sealers have become dissatisfied with the manner in which the Customs Department of the Government is handled on Puget Sound and are seeking protection under the English Crown.

France Will Arbitrate

New York, Jan. 21.—The Herald's special from Buenos Ayres, says: France, through her Minister, has informed the Brazilian Government that she agrees to arbitration of the Amapan boundary question. She will, however, absolutely refuse to discuss the details of the affair of May 16, 1895, in which French subjects were attacked in the Amapan territory.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

ROBB IS A WRECK.

He Caught the Speculation Fever and Dipped Into the City Treasury.

Moncton, N.B., Jan. 21.—There is tremendous excitement here over the embezzlement of Geo. J. Robb, City Treasurer. Robb was arrested this morning, having been traced to the house of a friend in the country. He is almost crazed and is a physical and mental wreck. He has confessed his embezzlement is the exact amount of a check, $9100, being the amount of expenses of the water and light expropriation first paid by the city and afterwards transferred from the water account to the city. He says the money was all squandered on margins on pork and other produce and stock, his agents being Austin & Shaw, New York City, and Toronto firms. Robb was in receipt of salary and commissions amounting to about $1100 a year and was the secretary of the Canadian Mutual Loan and Investment Company, from which he derived two or three hundred a year. He had no vices and was regarded as a model young man.

AT THE CAPITAL.

Sir Adolphe Caron also made use of every possible influence against him. The Minister went to St. Patrick's Church during the campaign. People wondered who the little man with the eyeglass was. (Laughter.) Mr. McShane said Sir Adolphe Caron heard a good sermon that day, and trusted he would profit by it. (Laughter.)

After recess Mr. Davies continued the debate. He devoted considerable time to endeavoring to force Mr. Foster to apologize to Mr. McShane for the strictures of which Mr. McShane complained in the afternoon.

Mr. Foster denied that he made any charge against Mr. McShane, but that he simply referred to Mr. McShane's record in the courts and to the vigorous opposition offered that gentleman by the St. Hyacinthe Liberal organ of Montreal, The Witness.

Mr. Davies insisted that there should be an apology, but Mr. Foster refused to make one.

Proceeding, Mr. Davies took up the question of arming the militia and said the Liberals would agree to the expediture of the requisite amount of money if the Government brought down a proper scheme. He dilated on the loyalty of Canadians, and said if the recent war scare dissipated the idea of Americans that Canadians were not thoroughly British in sentiment, it would not have been in vain.

Referring to the school question, he said the establishment of free schools in the three Maritime Provinces 20 or 30 years was an object lesson that should not be lost sight of. At the time there was a vigorous agitation for disallowance, but it failed and today, he held, all admired the way in which the question had been worked out by these provinces. He wished that the House, when considering the Manitoba school questioin, would show as much common sense and shrewdness as it did in the case of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Davies contended that the Manitoba school question had not been properly investigated when before the Canadian Privy Council, instancin the case of affidavits produced by complainants which were withdrawn rather than wait till the Manitoba Government had produced its evidence in rebuttal. He contended that therefore the Government should appoint a commission of enquiry before enacting Remedial legislation, and that in any case the Government should not act till they had a mandate from the people on the subject. (Opposition cheers.)

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, on continuing the debate, took up the question of re-arming the militia. He declared there was no doubt where the sympathies of all Canadians were. Despite the fact that the loyalty of the Liberals was brought into question in the election of 1891, he considered they were true to the Mother country. However, he held that the Liberal agitation for commercial union, or continental free trade, justified the construction that was thrown on their loyalty. (Hear, hear.)

Proceeding, Sir Charles took up Sir Richard Cartwright's recent attack on Nova Scotia. He said he would not insult the pride of Nova Scotia by stooping to defend it.

Referring to the school question he quoted Sir John Thompson's speech delivered in Toronto in 1895, in which the late Premier declared that the Government would be guided solely by the opinion of the highest judicial authority, and that whatever this opinion might be, it would be carried out. This policy, he contended, had been followed ever since.

Concluding, Sir Charles said, if this school question were not settled on the grnes of justice and fair play towards the minority of Manitoba it would create bad feeling both at home and abroad. (Hear, hear.) He believed when the Government brought down its measure it would be found to be one which even Liberals would be compelled to support.

Mr. O'Brien moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned at 11.40.

THE BANK STATEMENT

Nothing Particularly Startling, But Some Features Give Reason for a Feeling of Encouragement.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—The monthly statement of banks under review becomes of interest, more owing to its completion of the year 1895 than from any startling facts or unusual changes revealed in its columns. The changes shown are of a downward tendency, although that is not a cause for surprise, as it is more the rule than the exception. But where we find encouragement is when comparing the statement with that for the same month of 1894.

Bank notes in circulation as on the 31st December and the greatest amount of notes in circulation at any time during the month are larger than in 1894. The banks in the provinces by the sea have been holding their annual meetings; and pudging the results as set forth in their statements they have no cause for complaint. They have earned sufficient to add materially to capital and to add $432,000 to reserve fund. Public deposits have been slightly drawn upon and other columns, to the extent of reducing total liabilities by over $3,000,000.

One noticeable feature is a decrease of nearly 10 millions in foreign balances, the greater portion of which is attributable to the Bank of Montreal. This may not foreshadow anything, but coming closely upon the heels of the "Grover windstorm," it may attract attention. It is also remarkable that foreign balances due from Great Britain increased nearly three millions. Bankers have an eye single as to where their best security for investments is to be found.

There is little change under the headings of current loans or those on stocks and bonds on call, but there is a reduction in total assets of over four millions. Directors' liabilities show a tendency downwards.

MR. WALCOTT DEFENDS BRITAIN.

A Rather Remarkable Speech in the United States Senate.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The principal feature of to-day's session in the Senate was the speech of Senator Wolcott, (R., Col.), in condemnation of the proposed extension of the Monroe doctrine and in criticism of the action of the Executive and Legislative Departments of the Governments on the Venezuelan question. Mr. Wolcott spoke of the aid given by Great Britain to the people of Venezuela in breaking off the Spanish yoke, and said that those who were to-day attacking Great Britain as if she were the oppressor of Venezuelan liberties, would do well to read the history of those early and bloody times. If it were not for the heroic and reckless valor of the British legion at one of the decisive battles in that war of independence, it was possible, he said, that Venezuela would not now be free. He spoke contemptuously of the people of that Republic, less than 1 per cent. of whom were white, the rest being Indians, negroes, mulattos and Zambos, and he expressed the hope that the boundary line would be found where it would leace the rich gold fields of that region where the English-speaking miners would not be subject to the cupidity of Venezuelan harpies, but would be under the shelter and protection of British common law. He spoke of the diplomatic correspondence on the Venezuelan question as irritating, of the President's message as ill-advised, and of the appointment of the commission without the invitation of the countries interested, as premature and hasty. The peroration which his hearers heartily applauded, was in these words: "May there two great nations of the same speech, traditions and lineage, be found standing together, shoulder to shoulder in the interest of humanity, both in compelling pace and awaiting th eday when 'Nation shall no longer lift up sword against nation,' nor shal lthey learn war any more."

The remainder of the day's session was occupied by a financial debate on the bond bill, with the free coinage substitute, and at 5.30 the Senate adjourned.

MAKALLE WAS TAKEN.

Report That the Abyssinians Have Captured the Stronghold.

Paris, Jan. 22.—The Figaro this morning says it has received private information that the Abyssinians captured Makalle, the Italian position, on Sunday last.

Previous to this report, the latest news from Abyssinia was that King Menelek had invested Makalle and that Gen. Barratiera, the commander of the Italian forces, was at Erythrea, and unable to succor Makalle, the three approaches to that place being almost impassable from natural causes, besides being guarded by 60,000 Abyssinians.

A Contradiction.

London, Jan. 22.—The correspondent of the Central News in Rome telegraphs that advices from Massowah say that the Italian garrison at Makalle have discovered a spring which will afford them an abundant supply of water. The despatch also says that Major Galliano has refused to surrender the garrison at Makalle upon the terms offered by King Menelek, or upon any other condition.

Five battalions of troops will arrive at Adigrat on Jan. 24, and it is expected they will speedily relieve the beleaguered garrison at Makalle.

Bad Wreck on the Panhandle.

South Charleston, Ohio, Jan. 22.—Passenger train No. 21, on the Panhandle railroad, due here at 8.10 this morning, was wrecked a mile east of this place. The train was running 60 miles an hour when the engine blew up with a report that was heard for three miles, instantly killing the engineer, Clark Trimble, and Fireman Waters. The train carried nine coaches, with two mail coaches, being the through train from New York to St. Louis. A number of passengers were badly bruised, but none fatally injured.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. A NEW MOVE.

Reported Alliance Between Russia and Turkey.

THE REPORT LACKS CONFIRMATION

Opinions in Various Quarters—Six Weeks Court Mourning for Prince Henry—Armenians Use Dynamite Against the Turks—Plague of Rats and Mice in Russia

London, Jan. 23.—A despatch from Constantinople to The Pall Mall Gazette says: An offensive and defensive alliance has been concluded between Russia and Turkey. The basis of the treaty is on the lines of the Unkiar-Skelessi agreement. The treaty has been signed here and its ratification has been exchanged at St. Petersburg between Aarej Pasha and the Czar.

M. Cambon, French Ambassador to Turkey, had an audience with the Sultan on Jan. 21 which lasted two hours. This tends to show that France is in all probability a member of the new alliance.

The Gazette's correspondent is believed to be inside of the British Embassy.

The Unkiar-Skelessi agreement dates back to 1833, and amounts to a reduction of Turkey to the position of a vassal state. The treaty bound the Russian and Turkish Governments to mutually assist one another to resist foreign aggression and to help each other in case of internal dangers. As Turkey was, at the time of the conclusion of the agreement, in a state of utter collapse, Russia waived the matter of assistance promised by Turkey and received instead permission, in the event of Russia's being at war, to close the Dardanelles to warships of all nations. The Western powers refused to recognize the treaty, which was soon tacitly abandoned.

The Pall Mall Gazette guarantees the reliability of the sources of information of its representative at Constantinople.

The Foreign Office officials profess to know nothing whatever of the alleged offensive and defensive alliance between Russia and Turkey, and attach no importance to the statements concerning it published in The Pall Mall Gazette.

The Stock Exchange market opened favorably to-day, but afterwards relapsed upon the strength of the rumors of an offensive and defensive alliance between Russia and Turkey.

PRINCE HENRY'S BODY

The British Cruiser Blonde on the Way From Sierra Leone.

London, Jan. 23.—The Admiralty received despatches from Sierra Leone this morning stating that the British cruiser Blonde, with the body of Prince Henry of Battenberg on board, sailed from that port at midnight for England.

The Queen, despite her grief and consequent nervous condition, busied herself with the consideration of state papers throughout the forenoon.

A number of American residents and sojourners in London, who wired messages of sympathy to the Queen at Osborne, have received the following: "The Queen desires to sincerely thank you and your fellow-countrmen for the kind expressions of sympathy which Her Majesty has had from you and them, and which are much appreciated."

Sir James Reid, physician in ordinary to Her Majesty the Queen, issued a bulletin this morning, saying the Queen and Princess Beatrice, though in excellent health, are overwhelmed with grief at this sudden and unexpected bereavement in the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg.

The Queen drove out from Osborne House this afternoon. The court will go into mourning for a period of six weeks for Prince Henry of Battenberg. Prince Henry will be buried with military honors. His funeral will take place at Windsor.

ARMENIANS USED DYNAMITE

Laid a Mine and Exterminated a Host of Turkish Soldiers.

London, Jan. 23.—Constantinople despatches state that the consent of the Porte has been granted to allow the American Red Cross Society to distribute relief to the Armenians. The European societies objected to the society's work.

The foreign consuls have arrived at Aristob to meditate, but the baggage has been all stolen en route. A Marash letter says the Armenians laid a dynamite mine and exterminated a host of Turkish soldiery with it. The Turks have captured the barracks and cut off the water supply from the Armenians.

The Standard publishes a despatch from Constantinople, under the date of Jan. 22, which says that the Turkish Ministers assembled at a meeting Tuesday evening, the alleged occasion of which was the receipt by the Porte of a telegram from Shakir Pasha, the Imperial Commissioner appointed to carry out the reforms in Armenia, reporting that the Armenians are reduced to the last extremity and are being decimated by hunger and cold, and are committing revolutionary acts out of sheer despair.

It is reported that the Sultan's favorite, Izzet, has been directed to formulate a reply to the letter written to the Sultan by Queen Victoria.

The Porte has given out the information that two Armenians, believed to be members of the Armenian revolutionary committee, have murdered the Armenian bishop of Boghos.

Turks Suspicious of Americans.

Constantinople, Jan. 23.—In spite of the urgent representations of the United States Minister, Mr. Alexander W. Terrell, the Turkish Government still hesitates to accord permission to the American Red Cross Society to distribute relief to the sufferers in Anatolia.

VOLNEY ASHFORD'S CASE.

Possibility That the Canadian in Prison at Honolulu May be Pardoned.

Boston, Jan. 23.—The following was received to-day from Honolulu, under date of Jan. 18, via San Francisco, Jan. 23:

The action of the British Commission appointed to consider the Ashford matter has been made public. Col. V. V. Ashford, whose mother resides in Thoroid, Ont., was one of those accused of participation in the revolt last January. He was convicted and sentenced to one year's imprisonment and a $1000 fine. He claimed his British citizenship and appealed to the protection of his Government. The commission appointed to consider his appeal made a review of the evidence under which he was convicted and sentenced. It is probable that the result will be the pardon of Ashford, in order that the strained relations of the Hawaiian Republic with Great Britain may be relieved.

HAYHURST GETS A BERTH.

The Winner of the Queen's Prize is a Civil Service Employe.

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The first appointment to office, made by Col. Prior, the new Controller of Inland Revenue, does him infinite credit. It is the placing in the Inland Revenue Office at Hamilton of Private Hayhurst of the 13th Battalion, winner of the Queen's Prize at Bisley last year. Mr. Hayhurst is by calling a maker of dental and surgical instruments. Finding it hard to make things go in Hamilton, in a line in which the work is limited in this country, he had about decided to return to England, although anxious to live in this country. Col. Prior heard of this, and a vacancy opening in the Inland Revenue Office, he had Hayhurst put there.

The director of the Meteorological service at Toronto has been instructed to make arrangements for the issue of a special forecast of weather probabilities for Ottawa and surrounding district, and also to provide the present western St. Lawrence valley district into two parts. The new division will be called the Ottawa valley district, and will comprise the Counties of Lanark, Prescott, Renfrew, Ottawa and Argenteuil. It is probable that an entire re-arrangement will be made of the present existing probabilities districts, which have in the past been considered not sufficiently definite.

Mr. Hays Shaking 'Em Up

Montreal, Jan. 23.—Mr. Charles Hays, the new General-manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, is shaking up the dry bones in the vicinity of the general offices at Point St. Charles. The other afternoon at 4 o'clock the general-manager sent for one of the leading officials, and the messenger returned with a report that "He has gone home, sir." At this the hustling head of the G.T.R. at once sent for his secretary and issued a circular enjoining the officials to be at their offices from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mr. Hays thinks the G.T.R. of Canada has been asleep long enough.

IN CAPE BRETON.

Sir Charles Tupper Nominated by the Conservatives Yesterday at Sydney.

Sydney, C.B., Jan. 23.—Sir Charles Tupper was this afternoon formally tendered the nomination of the Conservative party for the seat in the County of Cape Breton, vacated by Mr. David McKeen. Mr. E. T. Moseley, President of the Conservative Association, presided at the meeting, the opening of which was delayed by the snowing up of the delegation from the mining districts on the Sydney & Louisburg Railway. Mr. McKeen protested against the reports that he had carried around the nomination in his pocket for Sir Charles Tupper. The nomination was then carried unanimously with considerable enthusiasm.

When Sir Charles appeared he was warmly received. He spoke principally on the condition of the Cape Breton coal industry and the greatness of the Canadian Pacific Railway, interlarded with laudations of the great benefits of the National Policy to Canada. In concluding he dealt briefly with the fast Atlantic steamship service, the entrance of Newfoundland into Confederation, and the Manitoba school question. On several of the topics he rehearsed numerous arguments touched on at various points on his travels on the line of the Intercolonial Railway en route to this town. The auditors of the Secretary of State were composed of delegates from various parts of the constituency, those from the mining and shipping points of Glace Bay, Bridgeport, Portmorien, and Louisburg predominating. North Sydney and Sydney, both considerably interested in the mining industry, were also well represented, the audience being both large and enthusiastic.

Those who have been coughing for years should know that Dr. Laviolette's Syrup of Turpentine can effect a complete and radical cure.

ADDRESS PASSED.

The Close of the Debate in the Commons.

MR. TARTE ROASTS THE MINISTRY

Mr. Martin Pitches Into Mr. Daly With Reference to the Voters' Lists in the Northwest—Mr. O'Brien on the Manitoba School Question

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—There was an interesting digression in the House today from the general political topics which have occupied the attention of the members almost constantly since the beginning of the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. "Fighting" Joe Martin led a well-grounded attack upon the Government in general, and the Minister of the Interior in particular, for the attempt, with the connivance of the Senate, to steal the four constituencies of the Northwest Territories in the coming election. Mr. Martin formulated his charge in a strong speech, dealing with the whole outrage, which he exposed. It was in introducing a bill to undo the great wrong that had been perpetrated that he addressed the House. He explained that in 1894 Mr. Daly had introduced a bill for the purpose of giving the ballot to the Northwest Territories at the coming elections. Its provisions were supported by both sides of the House, as there had been a considerable agitation in the Territories in regard to the question of the ballot. The Liberals were, of course, very strongly in favor of extending to the territories the law that was in force in other parts of the Dominion as to voting by ballot. It was then thoroughly understood that the bill did not seek to alter matters in regard to the Voters' Lists.

The bill went to the Senate, and that body undertook to make a most material change in the law affecting the preparation of the lists. It had made a change which simply ment that at the coming general elections the Government would have the power to name and elect members for the four constituencies in the territories. As arranged in the Senate the law was such that there was no possibility whatever of any opponent of the Government getting his name upon the Voters' List unless sthe officer appointed by the Government was willing that his name should be there. There was no opportunity of the voter knowing whether his name was upon the list or not if it did not appear in the preliminary issue.

Mr. Daly said he never spoke to a Senator about the matter and did not know the bill had been amended until it came back to the Commons. Then he made enquiries and ascertained that a Northwest member had suggested the change.

Mr. Martin—Will you give the name?

Mr. Daly—Certainly; the member for East Assiniboia—Mr. McDonald.

Continuing, he said the amendments went through the House during the afternoon when Mr. Martin was in his place. Had it been in the evening, possibly Mr. Martin would have been engaged elsewhere. (Laughter.)

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) and Mr. Davies insisted that gross injustice was done by the amendment.

Mr. Davies called attention to the resolution of the Northwest Assembly condemning it.

The bill was read a first time.

Col. O'Brien, in continuing the debate on the Address, vigorously assailed the Government. He referred to the Cabinet crisis in sarcastic terms and declared that the great Conservative party had come to the conclusion that they could not and would not continue to support the policy maintained by the Government. The fact that the Government had to go to the man who instituted this policy in order to strengthen the Cabinet was an indication of the way the country felt. Proceeding, he warmly defended the Northwest mounted police from the attacks made by Liberals and defended the system of caring for the Indians at present in vogue. He asserted that whatever might have been the case in the past, matters in connection with the Indians were now fairly and honestly administered.

Referring to the proposed arming of the militia he denied that the paragraph in the Speech from the Throne was a jingo utterance and held that it might have gone much further without being of a jingo character. He hoped no half measures would be adopted and that sufficient would be spent to thoroughly equip the forces. Continuing, he took up the school question. He would have nothing to do with a commission, because he did not want the possibility of a commission saying he should act when he was determined not to act. He denied that minorities had any rights except such as they enjoyed in common with the rest of the community. Parliament should not enact any legislation which recognized a Roman Catholic or any other minority. He denied that there was any analogy between the case of the Protestants in Quebec and the Catholics in Manitoba, declaring that the Protestant schools in Quebec were not sectarian, while the Quebec public schools were sectarian and doctrines and dogmas taught in them which Protestants disputed.

Taking up the arguments in favor of the minority advanced by Government supporters on constitutional grounds, he said the Government regarded the constitution when it suited its purpose to do so, but that there was no principle of the constitution that it had not violated. The case of the late member for Cardwell was an instance. The Government kept him in the House for three years with the promise of an appointment in his pocket, and this, the Colonel held, was much in the nature of a violation of the Independence of Parliament Act.

In conclusion, he declared he was firmly determined to oppose all attempts of the Government to coerce Manitoba, when the province was simply exercising its constitutional rights.

Mr Tarte followed after recess. He Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 24, 1896.

SINCE the present Government has held power, the rate of expenditure has increased 60 per cent., while the population has not increased 20 per cent.

THE "Cumberland war horse"—Sir Charles Tupper—is showing himself to be something of a mule—he sticks to the coercion policy of the government in spite of the warnings of the bye-elections.

WARDEN MASSIE, of the Central Prison, has been appointed Registrar for East and West York, and Dr. J. P. Gilmour, who has been filling the Registrarship for some years, has been appointed Warden of the Central Prison.

THE Venezuelans are boycotting British goods. These benighted south Americans in adopting a policy that will have no more effect than a fly on the tail of a mule, are following a precedent, adopted by our super-loyal Dominion Government, which has a boycott of 22 per cent tariff tax on British goods, as against a 12½ per cent rate on American goods.

A CORRUPT and self seeking government finds in a protective tariff a natural ally, and extravagant expenditure follows naturally. The higher the taxes are piled on in the interests of monopolists the greater the contributions to corruption funds; and the greater the extravagance of expenditure the greater the excuse for high taxation.

IN the year of grace, 1895, our exports to Australia amounted to $417,124. Of course boomsters like Sir Charles Tupper who has a great fondness for subsidies will tell you that this large sum is due to a subsidy of $120,000 a year to a steamship line, but the cold fact is that in 1889 before this subsidy was paid, our Australian exports amounted to $361,208. That is, we pay $120,000 a year for the sake of promoting trade with our cousins in the other side of the world, with the result of decreasing our exports at the rate of nearly $50,000 per year. This is one of the beauties of the system of trade restriction.

HARVEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The reeve and councillors elect met at the town hall, Jan. 20th, excepting Chas. McIlmoyle, who is under the doctor's care.

The members present having subscribed and fyled their several declarations of qualification and office, took their seats. Minutes read and confirmed.

Communications read from C. E. Bonnell, M.D., requesting re appointment as Medical Health Officer for 1896. Tenders read offering to board John Lancefield, from George Quible, Stephen McIlmoyle, J. E. Stewart and John Kreger. Stephen McIlmoyle is to keep him another year. Circular read from Good Roads Association, also a circular from the Single Tax Association re exempting improvements on land.

Bylaw passed re-appointing John Elliott and W. P. Chase as auditors, also a bylaw passed re-appointing the clerk, treasurer assessor and collector for 1896, also a bylaw passed re-appointing officers of the Board of Health, viz., Robt. Shaw, reeve, Jas. S. Cairnduff, clerk, ex-officio, Robt. Renwick, Wm. Walroth, and Thos. Kingsborough. Accounts passed and orders drawn for payment amounting to $89.

Council adjourned to meet at clerk's office Feb. 17th.

WASTING YOUR LIFE.

Failure of Physical and Mental Force—To add to Length of Life—Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

With a pathetic sigh how often it has been said:

"Well, then, I suppose I must let go my hold on life.

To fathers and mothers of unreared children this is tragic.

But whence cometh sure and timely help? If death is preventable, how?

The timely answer is: By scientific and successful kidney treatment—by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hundreds write to thank us and tell of their cure, but none to say that Dodd's Kidney Pills have ever failed.

EAST PETERBOROUGH'S FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD AT NORWOOD.

A Large Number of Excellent Addresses Delivered to the Farmers of the East Riding Last Tuesday.

THE BABCOCK TESTER.

Mr. Payne, of Warsaw—Is the Babcock Tester the farmers' friend? Our friend is the person or thing which assists us in the time of need. Since Mr. Payne saw notes on the invention of this test he has been in favour of it. He has used it now for three years. Mr. Babcock thinks that the farmer of to-day needs the aid of scientific invention and this one marked an epoch in dairying. It was not an invention for mere speculation but was invented for the purpose of improving the products of the dairy. It is of use to the farmer at home in testing the quality of the milk of individual cows and the quality of milk produced by a herd as a whole. In the hands of the Inspector it is very important also, as it is his duty to fine all persons who are convicted of impoverishing the milk in any manner, and by this test the innocent escape while the guilty are justly punished. In the cheese factory it is good in showing the manufacturers how well they are succeeding in getting all the available cheese out of the milk by simply testing the whey.

Mr. Spence was called upon to express a few remarks on this point. He said he considered it the farmers' friend. Where the Babcock Tester is used the milk is better taken care of. He considered it the only test which had been of practical use to the dairymen of the country.

FODDER CORN.

J. J. Ferguson was then called upon, his subject being "Fodder Corn." The great question of the dairy to day is the growing of corn, either as a cured fodder or for ensilage. For saving the crop Mr. Ferguson considered the silo as good. No question at all about it, it preserved the corn in a succulent condition and in a smaller space. In storing corn in the barn have it done up in sheaves tied with binding twine. Take the sheaves in after they have been properly cured. Stand them in rows on their butts. The best time to cut the corn is just shortly before ripe, it is then in a more succulent condition and will cure perfectly standing in shocks. He considered the silo the best means of storing corn though, because the pasture could not always be depended upon, and when your pasture runs out in summer time you had only to open your silo and you had plenty of food. He asked if any had tried storing corn in tiers with straw between. This he said had been tried by many but he had never come across a man who tried it a second time. This he said was not a good way to store it. In feeding the corn they fed the stalks to the cattle and the ears to the hogs. Do not husk the ears. He had found that it paid better.

Among those farmers present were John Knox, Jas. Moore, Geo. Elliott, Charles O'Reilly, R. Birdsall, Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., J. J. Carter, J. B. Peoples, John Fitzpatrick, Wm. Buck, Jas. Andrews, Hugh Nelson, Chas. Nichol, W. A. Howson, Wm. Webster, E. Hawthorne, D. Mahoney, W. Oatman, Thos. Thistlewaite, John Brown, D. Campbell, Robt. Knox, W. Lynch, A. McMillan, W. G. Patterson, John Laing, Thos. McMillan, E. Squire, W. Breckenridge, R. Scott, Robt. Burgess, Wm. Burgess, Wm. Mackie, Wm. Sharpe, John Elmhirst, Jas. Robb, J. A. Sexsmith, D. McCarthy, Thos. Robson, Wm. Knox, Alex. Gardner, John McCarthy, Thomas Scott, Geo. English, J. B. Ewing, R. Payne, Thos. D. Buck, Thos. McQuaig, Charles Wilde and many others.

Evening Session.

The house was crowded long before the evening session commenced, many had to turn away because there was not enough room. The president called the meeting to order at 7.30. He first called upon J. B. Ewing, of Dartford, to speak upon "The Probable Pork question." Mr. Ewing was sorry he had not seen more of the young men out at the afternoon session. It was the aim of the Farmers' Institute to be a benefit to the rising young farmer. He thought the attention of the young men should be directed towards the farm and not the professions which had become overcrowded. To do this move Farmers' Institute meetings should be held and the young men encouraged to attend them.

In the hog question we have one of the most prominent industries of the day. The principle of transportation should always be kept before the farmer, it is of great importance to him where he can get the best market for his pork. Care should be taken in the choice of your animals. Have beasts of a good build and sound body. There is much to be considered in feeding young pigs. It is comparatively easy to feed hogs in the summer time, but if you are going into it as an industry they have to be fed twelve months in the year. Keep the pigs constantly thriving and growing. It does not do to have them stunted. A pig should be ready to market at 6 or 7 months, and should weigh about 160 or 180 lbs. Mr. Ewing was to have discussed this question in the afternoon but did not get there in time, and so was not able to do it full justice before such an audience as he had in the evening, as there were many things to be taken into consideration, which could not be talked of before such a gathering.

Mr. Honey was called on to discuss Mr. Ewing's address. He said, he had nothing to say on the question, that full justice could not be done to it.

After this they began the programme proper. The first item was a solo, by Mrs. D. A. Fraser, entitled "Loves Old Sweet Song." Mr. Beadle was then called upon to give a talk, on our insect friends and enemies, His address was accompanied by stereopticon views. The many enemies of the fruitgrower were talked about, and how to get rid of them.

Next was a solo from Master Willie Howson.

MR. FERGUSON ON "THE FARMER'S POSITION OF TO-DAY"

If you speak to some farmers on the position they occupy, they will tell you that it is the lowest in the financial and social scale, others will tell you the very opposite. He said, the farmer of to-day was occupying a high position, he was no longer occupied with those perplexing questions which bothered the heads of those who opened out the country. They were living in the age of scientific discovery.

He said owing to the facilities of importation, farm produce could be gathered from New Zealand and Australia and put on the market here, to compete with home produce. Competition was increasing along every line, and farmers must be prepared to meet this by being able to produce at a reduced price. Many farmers instead of producing at a reduced price, were producing at the same price which he had forty or fifty years ago. This, he said, was on account of the farmers lacking co-operation. With farmers, as a class, it seemed that every man's hand was raised against his brother.

Two points which he thought were characteristic of the farmer, were, first they were more suspicious than any other class, and second, they were the most gullable of men. To get rid of these traits the farmer must become alive to the fact that he is living in an age of advancement, and that unless he thinks for himself they cannot be overcome. The farmer must not imagine that thinking belongs only to the professions—it is needed to a greater extent on the farm than in any of the professions. The farmer must study for himself and read the current literature along his particular line of business.

After a solo by Miss Roxburgh, Mr. McCrea addressed the meeting on Farm Life. We are only living this life once; are we making the best of it? Are we enjoying our work? Some are looking forward to happiness in the future—take it now. Farm life is independent, and most honourable. It may be a farmer goes with a ragged coat, but if it covers a contented body which owes no man anything, what is the difference? Are we living life as we ought? Many farmers go out into the fields thinking only of the dollars and cents they are going to earn, and see none of the beauties of nature. Farmers have to work with life, while the tradesman and mechanic have to do with inanimate objects.

Mr. McCrae based his address under the heads:

1. Lessen the drudgery.
2. Improve the products.
3. Beautify the home.

With some men it is work, work, work, all the time, without one thought as to how they could lessen the labour. This is not right; take time to think, and buy yourself good implements which you need. Buy implements for your wives as well, and so lessen your own drudgery as well as that of your wife. Teach the boys to work, but do not work them too hard as it stops their growth. Give them holidays and money to spend. Teach them to use money, then when they go out to seek their fortune in the world they will know both how to make money and how to use it. Give the girls a chance. Let them have poultry to raise, and allow them to use the money themselves. To improve the products the Farmers' Institute is working along that line. Raise the best and only the best and you will always get the best prices. No article is made on such scientific principles as Canada's cheese and look at where it now stands at the top of the ladder. He gave three C's for the farmers to grow, cows, corn and clover. To get the best cows, raise corn. The best crop to grow is clover. It enriches the land.

TO BEAUTIFY THE HOME.

Plant evergreen trees not too near the house. Plant them in such a position that the branches may grow right down to the ground. Plant flowers about the house. Have them inside as well as out. Have good books in the house and music and give the young people their due.

MR. BLEZARD ON THE "HIRED MAN."

The hired man is a very important piece of the machinery of a farm. He is a very great benefit to the man who employs him if he knows his business well and is thorough and trustworthy. He will have half a dozen men looking for him at the same time. He will never be without a place and always get the best wages. It is the farmer's duty to use him well. Use him as he would one of his own family. Feed him well. Let him have little holidays when the work is not too pressing and do not charge him for them. It will pay in the end. He will be ready and willing to turn in and work on a rainy day and will help do little chores around the house.

A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies and deputation who had assisted in the meetings. Mr. McCrae replied to this vote.

The meeting closed with God Save the Queen.

SHOT HIMSELF DEAD.

William Cameron, Ex-Warden of Kent County, Ends His Life—Is it a Case of Suicide?

Blenheim, Ont., Jan. 23.—William Cameron, who lives just west of here, and who was warden of the county of Kent in 1882, lies dead at his home. He, in company with one of his sons, had taken a gun to the barnyard to shoot a chicken, and while his son was on the opposite side of the barn he heard the report of the gun. Hastening to where his father was, he found him in a dying condition, with the contents of the gun in his body. No reason is assigned for the act, which it is generally believed was premeditated. He leaves a wife and six children, two of whom are married.

A PLAGUE OF RATS AND MICE.

Southern Russia Overrun With the Rodents, Which are Causing Immense Destruction.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Mice and rats have caused great destruction in certain localities of Southern Russia during the past two years, and the remarkable invasion of the rodent army is the subject of a report just received at the State Department from Thomas E. Heenan, United States Consul at Odessa. The first appearance of mice in great numbers was in the autumn of 1893, and their rapid increase is attributed to two consecutive good harvests, in consequence of which much grain remained in stocks until threshed and to the mildness of the weather. There were three varieties of mice observed, the common house mouse, the common field mouse, and another kind never previously noticed, having a long sharp nose. They swarmed in houses and granaries, and in some places moved in great numbers like an army. Instances are cited by Mr. Heenan where they attacked animals and men. The rats were not so numerous as the mice, but caused great destruction, even ruining buildings. Every effort was made to stop the plague by the people living in the infested districts, and finally Government aid was secured. The Department of Agriculture, in June, 1894, sent Dr. Merezhkovski to one of the mice-ridden provinces to carry out experiments of exterminating the mice by means of the cultivating of the bacillus discovered by him. The results were excellent. Epidemic disease was generated among the rodents and now the plague has ended.

A HOWL FOR AMERICANS.

Hammond is in Jail and Cannot Help Himself—Justice Will be Done.

New York, Jan. 23.—A despatch to The Sun from Newcastle, Natal, says: "Hammond is in jail and the Government refuses to admit him to bail. The position of Americans in the Transvaal is lamentable. Something should be done for us. We can do nothing for ourselves. (Signed) Curtis." The despatch was sent by Joseph Storey Curtis, son of the late George Tickner Curtis of this city.

The Journal prints the following cablegram from President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic, in reply to a request for information as to the Americans now imprisoned in Pretoria for alleged participation in the recent uprising of the Uitlanders: "Pretoria, Jan. 21.—Everything quiet at present. Americans are in no danger whatever. They enjoy full protection of the law like any other foreigners; therefore, no need of protection from outside against any illegal or revolutionary movement. Even if such protection against revolutionists were necessary, which is not so, the Americans are capable of taking care of themselves. The Government regrets deeply that, whilst almost all the Americans took the side of order and law, a very few of them have joined the so-called Reform Committee. These, together with a majority, mostly British, will be tried according to law, and justice will be done all concerned without respect to nationality. (Signed) Information Bureau, Kruger's."

TRADE IN CANADA.

Advances in the Prices of Sugars and Wheat With Increased Business.

R. G. Dun & Co. say: The movement in Montreal wholesale circles does not show any material increase since a week ago. City retail trade in dry goods and kindred lines is quiet. In the eastern townships and different other sections of the province, as well as in Eastern Ontario, the scarcity of snow continues, and is the excuse generally advanced by country dealers for their inability to make better remittances. The banks are evidently conserving their resources, and money may be called tight. Some of the banks do not seem over anxious to make loans except on large margins on the approved stocks. This policy, no doubt, largely accounts for the decline noticeable in many leading stocks. Within the week advances have been established in sugars and turpentine, also a slight advance in green hides.

There is a slight improvement in trade in dry goods at Toronto. The more seasonable weather and better roads have tended to create an increased demand, and the feeling is more hopeful. Travelers are sending in fair orders of spring goods, and prices rule steady. In groceries the demand is said to be good, and the movement in sugars is satisfactory. Prices of both granulated and yellows are an eighth better than last week. The hardware trade is quiet. There are a good many complaints of poor trade in boots and shoes of late, and the number of failures in this line appears to be increasing. The uncertainty existing is demoralizing and prices in many cases are below the cost of production. Payments are only fair, and the numerous failures throughout the province have an unfavorable influence on the community. There is another advance in prices of wheat owing to limited offerings. Supplies are said by some to be comparatively small, and holders in many instances look for much higher quotations. The money market is firm, with call loans quoted at 5 1-2 to 6 per cent. and prime commercial paper discounted at 5 to 6 1-2 per cent.

UNDER FALSE PRETENCE.

The Confidences Inspired by Merit Preyed Upon by Greed.

The Scheming Imitator—The Villainous Fraud—Robbing on the Strength of Your Resolve to Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

To warn and guard from danger and wreck, beacon lights stand high and boldly on rocky coasts.

To lure and deceive to ruin the wrecker sets up false lights.

There is a sort of loyalty due to the man, or men, who point out grave dangers and how to avert them.

And there is something unspeakably execrable in the villainy that seeks to profit by your danger, by deceiving you on false grounds.

Such is the act of those who endeavour to palm off upon you imitations of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They may offer them to you by count, dignified by the name. "Kidney Pills."

It is almost needless to say that the original and genuine Dodd's Kidney Pills are put up only in boxes.

They may be offered to you in boxes, too, at almost any price, but you are safe from the intended fraud if you note the absence of Dodd's Kidney Pills on the case label.

No one dare use that name, for the counterfeiter would be liable to imprisonment.

It is something to be aware that in buying Dodd's Kidney Pills you are buying the real thing which envious greed would cheat you out of, if they dared.

But there are scores of ways in which the attempt is being made.

The true and original Kidney Pills are put up in a large, flat wooden box, covered with blue label with white letters, also having a red band.

There can be only disadvantage and danger in taking anything but the genuine, so do not be defrauded by accepting anything else.

Judge Ardagh has struck th name of Constable Cuppage off the roll.

City Lodge Scores Another Grand Success in Its Entertainment Last Night.

There is no denying the fact that City Lodge, I.O.G.T., provides the best entertainments for the money charged of any organization in town. The hall was nicely filled last night, and all came away well pleased with the evening's enjoyment. Mayor Yelland, who was to occupy the chair was out of town, but Mr. Jas. Stubbs, Chief Templar of the lodge took his place very acceptably, and under him the following meritorious programme was rendered:

Selection.....Miss Roberts, Fr. d Roberts, Ed Roberts and T Sabin
Reading.....Mrs Jackson
Selection...Messrs Sabin, Freeburn and Roberts
Dialogue, "Playing School".....Misses Annie Dawson, Jennie Noyes and Evelise Dormer
Duet (encore) "Rose, Thistle and Shamrock.... Messrs. Jas and Geo Anderson
Solo.....Miss Lillie Miller
Dialogue, "The Train to Mauro"....Misses Alice Barlow and Redmond, Mr Cranfield and Bert Cranfield
Song (encored).....Mr J J Turner, jr
Recitation (encored).....Miss Lizzie Round

INTERMISSION.

Dialogue, "The Journey of Life"..... Misses Mabel McIntyre, Lizzie Starr, Clara Green, Amy Maharry and Minnie Sutcliffe
Selection (encored).. Miss Roberts, Ed Roberts Fred Roberts and T Sabin
Recitation (encored)..... Mrs Christie
Duet ....Misses Pascoe

The pronouncing of the benediction brought to a close this excellent programme, which was in every respect worthy of the progressive lodge under whose auspices it was held. Every number deserved the hearty applause which greeted it. In the different selections which were given, Mr. Ed. Roberts played the mouth organ and autoharp, Mr. Sabin the guitar, while Mr. Fred Roberts whistled, Mr. Will Freeburn also played a mouth organ in one of the selections. Mrs. Jackson's reading was very pathetic and being excellently rendered was followed with great interest throughout. Messrs. James and Geo. Anderson won many laurels in their duet. Mrs. Christie is a talented reciter and and Miss Round did remarkably well in her two selections. The solos by Miss Lillie Millier and Mr. Turner and the duet by the Misses Pascoe were given in good voice and with taste and expression. The dialogues were perhaps the best part of the entertainment, the first two being exceedingly humourous, and the last very impressive.

At the close a vote of thanks to those who had taken part was moved by Mr. G. W. Powell and seconded by G. K. Munro. This was carried unanimously.

City Lodge meets every Thursday in the hall over Matthew's store. All are invited to become members.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Preparation for the Convention in Belleville on February 18, 19, 20.

Every preparation is being made for the coming meeting of the Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church in the Bay of Quint Conference, to be held in the city of Belleville, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 18, 19 and 20. It is expected that it will be one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of young people ever held in this section of the country. It will embrace representative from all the Societies and Mission Circles, and is the first held within the bounds of the Conference. The president of the convention is C. P. Holton, Esq., of Belleville, and the secretary is Rev. C. W. Watch, of Brighton. The pastors of the city churches and the Young People's societies are heartily co-operating with these officers to make the gathering a success, and Mr. Watch has twice visited the city in the interest of the meetings.

The key note of the convention is "The Culture of Heart and Mind for the Building of Character and the Saving of Souls." A session will be given to each department. The Rev. A. C. Crews will deliver an address on "A 13th Century Failure and a 19th Century Success." Dr. Carman will speak twice. Dr. Potts will lecture on "Epworth League for Christ and the Church." N. W. Rowell, Esq., will speak on "The Culture of the Mind in the Religious Life." Altogether there will be about fifty papers and addresses given, and among the speakers in addition to the above are found the names of Revs. S. J. Shorey, J. J. Rae and W. R. Young, B.A., of Peterborough, T. Manning and F. B. Stratton, S. T. Bartlett and Prof. Doxsee. The railways will issue reduced tickets to the convention. Enquiries concerning programmes, rates, etc., should be sent to Rev. C. W. Watch, Brighton.

CONCERT IN SMITH

In Aid of the Fowlers' Corners Presbyterian Church.

A number of young people from town drove out to the Temperance Hall in Smith Township last evening and gave a concert in aid of the Presbyterian church at Fowlers' Corners. Vocal solo, "Can a Boy Forget his Mother?"... Miss Vina Bellegheem
Instrumental solo.....Miss Scott
Vocal solo, selection.....Mr Thos Begley
Reading.....Mr Ruth
Vocal solo, "Calvary".....Mr Fred Skitch
Vocal quartette, "Peace, be Still".....Misses Vina and Annie Bellegheem and Messrs F Skitch and Jas Brown

Postoffice Statistics.

The annual report of the Postmaster General, which was distributed yesterday, shows that 107,565,000 letters passed through the mails during the year ending June 30th, 1895. On the 30th of June, 1895, the number of post-offices in operation in the Dominion was 8,832, an increase as compared with 1894 of 168. There have been 1,253 miles of new mail routes added during the year. The annual mail travel, however, shows a reduction from 30,851,179 miles from 1894 to 30,351,115 miles for the year ended June 30th, 1895. There was an increase during the year in the value of postage stamps of $75,399. In registered letters there was a decrease due to the increased facilities afforded for the transmission of money by telegraph orders and by orders issued by the express companies. The net revenue of the department was $2,798,786, a decrease of $16,551 over the previous year, and the expenditure $3,503,647.

CURLIANA.

Although the Thistles went to Toronto exceptionally strong to play in the Tankard matches, yet they were beaten by eight shots by the Prospect Park rinks, both the Peterborough rinks being "down." The games, as will be seen by the score, were very close:

The Peterborough Granites are said to have put up a very strong game against Oshawa, and succeeded in defeating them by five shots. The rinks played as follows:

Geo S Matthews,		A Rankin,

Arrangements are being made by the Toronto Granites to come down to Peterborough for a bonspiel, twelve rinks strong on Monday next. As the Toronto men rarely live up to their word, the local club is in a quandry as to whether to make any preparations for their reception or not. Last week the ice was in readiness and a banquet prepared for the guests, but they came not, giving as an excuse that they were afraid the ice would be soft, although assured by telegraph that this was not the case.

The Toronto Globe, in speaking of the curling there, yesterday, says:—"Yesterday was far from being curling weather, but that did not dampen the ardor of the devotees of the sport, and the games which were played at the Victoria, Granite and Prospect Rinks were struggles from the beginning to end, though the soft ice did 'hog' many beautiful draws and upset the deep laid schemes of the skips. At the Victoria Rink in the afternoon Oshawa, the winners of the Consolation and of the Governor-General's medal respectively last year, were consigned to the list of beaten teams by the Peterborough Granites, who had to fight hard for their victory. If Oshawa had played fast shots as well as they drew the result would have been different. For nine ends Skip Sykes did not score and was 13 shots down, but towards the end of the game he marshalled his men in good style and decreased the lead of Skip Allen, though he could not overcome it. At the Granite rink the other bower that Peterborough held, the Thistles, were beaten by Prospect Park. The game was close and at the 20th end the city rinks were only two up all around, but in their next two essays Prospect got 6 shots and won handily. Skip Connal came within a fraction of an inch of a four-end on the 19th end for Peterborough.

The dominies of the Collegiate Institute will play the staff of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute in that town to-morrow.

HOCKEY.

The match between the Volts and the Peterboroughs will take place to-morrow evening the rink. As the Peterboroughs will be played in the new formation suggested by the Examiner last week, everyone interested in the team should attend in order that they may keep fully posted as to every change in the team and form their own ideas as to whether such changes tend to strengthen the town seven.

Arrangements are being made by the hockey club to entertain Walter Phelan ere his departure for the west. No one is more deserving of such recognition than "Scuddy," but the affair should be made more general and the citizens allowed to participate in the banquet.

The third match in the junior series, group II., will be played on Monday night between the Victorias and Queen's II. hockey teams. This will be the final, unless Queen's defeat the Vics. It is said Queen's will play several senior team men.

If the Queen's II. team win from the Victorias in Kingston on Monday, the series in that district will have to be played all over again, as the Limestones, Victorias and Queen's II would thereby all be made a tie for first place. This would suit the Peterborough's to a T, as more time is needed by the local team in order to be in better shape for the semi finals and finals.

The Granites ought to be emphatically in it, in the race for the junior championship of the O. H. A. as the Peterboro team has been weakened very materially by the absence of Phelan, their star forward, and esteemed their best man, who leaves for Winnipeg on Monday. The Victorias of Kingston will be the Granites' hardest competitors.—Toronto Globe. The Granite soothsayer may find out to his cost, that Peterboro is very much in the race yet, if he is foolish enough to back up his opinion.

Walter Dixon of the Granite Colts will not figure on their forward line any more this season, having gone into the theatrical business. He is in Pittsburg this week.

The Granites state, that if they come out on top in the junior O. H. A. series they intend to challenge the team winning the championship of the eastern Association.—The Granites shouldn't count their chickens before they are hatched.

THE WHEEL.

The Canadian Wheelman publishes the following letter which it received concerning the Presidency of the C. W. A. this year:

"As Peterboro is going to have the Meet for '96 why not the Presidency also? Peterboro has the largest membership of any club in the Association and deserves the honour of both the Meet and the President. Anyone who takes an interest in wheeling, will admit that there is not a harder worker or more more popular member of the Association than Mr. Geo. Horkins, of Paterboro. I don't think Mr. Horkins has been consulted in the matter of becoming a candidate for the office, but in my opinion we could not do better than induce him to do so. I hope Mr. Horkins will consider this matter and allow himself to become a candidate and he need not have any fear as to the result.

Sambo.

LINDSAY ICE RACES.

Arrangements have been fully completed for winter races at Lindsay on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, and the prospects are bright for a successful meeting. Liberal purses are offered for each event, and as there are are more trotters and pacers out this winter than ever before, it is safe to say that every race will be hotly contested from start to finish. Two events are set down for the first day—3 minute and 2.27 class—for purses of $100 each. On the second day a still stronger card is hung up for 2.20, free-for-all, and "green-uns." Perhaps the green race and three minute trot will prove the most interesting, as all the local horses will participate in these events. Numerous enquiries have been received from horsemen as far west as Hamilton, and as far east as Kingston. It is almost an assured fact that Mr. Burns, the popular owner of Harry B., 2.17, will be in attendance with a string of flyers, as well as other noted noted Toronto horsemen. Mr. Jas. J. Daly of Orillia, has also announced his intention of starting the old time favourite, Blackstone, 2.21, in the free-for-all.

A GOOD COLT.

Con Millan, proprietor of the Thousand Island House, at Alexandria Bay, sold his chestnut "War Cry" colt, on Saturday last, to E. Gallagher, of Harrowsmith, for a very tidy price. Mr. Gallagher, according to yesterday's Kingston Whig, disposed of his purchase to Mr. Graham, of Peterborough, at an advance of fifty dollars on the price paid to Mr. Millan. The second deal was arranged and closed by telephone, and the horse was not out of his stable from the time of his disposal to Mr. Gallagher until he was sold the second time.—Brockville Times.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." Jacob Wilcox, St. Thomas, Ontario.

A REPLY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in your issue a few days ago a letter signed "Ratepayer," regarding the drivers of the Fire Department, asking to have the work made equal, so as to have one of the drivers at the station all the time. Now, Mr. Editor, don't you think it would be a good idea to give both drivers leave of absence on Friday evening, Jan. 31, to attend the Sons of Canada's Grand Carnival. Prizes now on exhibition in the window of P. Connal & Co.

Mercer's

"DARKNESS AND DAYLIGHT."

Or Lights and Shadows of New York Life.

In this new and superbly illustrated work a noble Christian woman tells the thrilling story of her personal experience in Gospel, temperance, mission and rescue work in a great city. No recent publication is now commanding so much attention nor has any other called forth such ringing words of "God-speed" from ministers and eminent women. It has been preached about from famous pulpits, read by tens of thousands of subscribers, and made the subject of many a clergyman's Sunday evening lecture. Its authorship is fourfold, its four authors being no less than:—Mrs. Helen Campbell, Rev. Lyman Abbott, D.D., Col. Thomas W. Knox, and Inspector Thomas Byrnes, Chief of the New York Detective Bureau.

Mrs. Campbell, the principal writer, certainly was a woman commissioned of God, and "In His Name" spent many years as a city missionary literally "In Darkest New York." What a wonderful work she did. How devoted and blessed her labours were. It is a story never to be forgotten. This unique volume presents there thrilling experiences of Christian endeavour with the hundreds of pathetic and amusing scenes that were packed into them; it portrays life in a great city by day and by night "As Seen by a Woman;" it shows the power of the Gospel to redeem souls from the lowest depths; it gives striking testimonies of the redeemed; and from all these rich and varied experiences it draws living truths for head and heart that are worth to any reader ten times the price of the book. Mrs. Campbell's account of rescue work is full of wonderfully touching incidents. Stranger stories are here told than romance ever dreamed of, every one of them drawn from real life by a woman's hand. In every chapter she weaves in anecdote after anecdote, incident after incident, story after story, and the reader's attention is held breathless to the end of the volume. "Strange but most suggestive is the fact," says Bishop Coxe in warmly commending this volume, "that Christ is to be visited in these dens and dives; there are those whom he will bear in mind when He says: 'Ye visited me;' or, when he says: 'Ye did it not to Me.'"

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott's life long interest in City Mission work, and his personal share in that work, pre-eminently fitted him to write for his book. In his introduction to it he says:—

"My interest in these phases of city life dates from my college days. From that day to this—over a third of a century—I have continued the studies then begun, and the subject of this book has been one of the great subjects of my study—sometimes in literature, often in life."

No appeal from temperance advocates can do more to promote the cause of temperance than the thrilling scenes and incidents so well described; at least so say Mrs. Mary A. Livermore and Miss Frances E. Willard.

One of the most absorbingly interesting portions of the book is that written by Inspector Brynes giving the ripe experience of thirty years of detective life. Many of the startling revelations he makes are taken from his private diary. They have never before been published.

This fascinating volume is indeed a wonderful tale of Christian love and faith, all alive with intense and striking reality. The best of it is that it is a pure and elevating book from beginning to end—a volume for the family circle. On this point the words of Rev. Dr. Twichell (who has a family of ten children) and Rev. Dr. Magoun, President Iowa College, are worth quoting here: Dr. Twichell writes, —"My wife says that she is going to set our young people on the book right off, for the good it will do them;" and President Magoun says,—"My family finds, where other books on our shelves lack interest, this one always holds and rewards attention."

It contains 252 superb engravings, every one of them made from photographs taken from life, mostly by flash-light. Every face is a portrait, every scene a stern reality. In looking at these splendid illustrations the reader sees at a glance just how Gospel work is carried on by day and by night by rescue-bands; he is shown strange sights in out of the way places that are rarely or never seen by the casual visitor; he is taken into cheap lodging-houses and cellars; into the homes of the poor; into newsboys' lodging-houses; into the police and detective departments, etc., —nothing seems to be omitted.

We do not know when 740 pages have given us more genuine pleasure. If we speak warmly of the book, it is because it richly deserves it. It is sold only by agents, and is meeting with an enormous sale. Agents who introduce such a work ought to be cordially welcomed. A better work has certainly never come to our table. It will be read over and over again by old and young, with ever increasing pleasure and lasting profit.

The work is published by the old and well known firm of A. D. Worthington & Co., Hartford, Conn., whose imprint is sufficient guarantee of the excellence of this first-class volume. Royal Octavo, 740 pages, 252 fine plates, portraits and text illustrations. The local agent will call on you.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks From the Wheels—Cinders for the Eye.

The big railway companies which have equipped their freight cars with air brakes have discovered that not only has the liability of accidents with consequent injury of employees been lessened, but that a decided saving in the operation of trains has resulted.

The New York Central is one of the railways which has adopted the air brake. Two years ago it was decided that every freigh train must contain a number of cars with such brakes—a sufficient number to control the train. The company has now prepared some statistics based on the result of this experiment. Nineteen thousand cars were equipped with the safety brake at a cost of one million dollars. The first result of the use of brake was the reduction of the number of brakeman, and an annual saving of $95,000 in wages on that account was affected. Estimating the interest charged on the million dollars invested in equipment at $40,000 and the annual cost of maintaining the brakes at $26,000, the company figures out a direct net saving of $29,000 a year.

In addition to this direct saving there is an indirect advantage gained by the use of the air brakes. The decrease of 35 per cent, in the cost of accidents, and the next is an increase in the speed of freight trains of about 30 per cent. Both these considerations are important—more important in the eyes of the railway managers, no doubt, than the direct money saving.

BONNETS AND WRAPS

THE LAY OF EXTREME SIMPLICITY HAS GONE BY.

A Velvet and Fur Combination—A Fashionable Collet—The Bonnet Must be Subordinate to the Woman and Not the Woman to the Bonnet.

That the evening bonnet of the winter is decidedly a bonnet, and not merely a strap of velvet with a bunch of blossoms on each side, is undoubtedly due to the fact that the Dutch bonnet having been worn by every woman whether it suited her or not has at last reached a rung on the fashionable ladder marked "undesirable." Of glossy felt, sometimes plainly shaped, sometimes cut in fine strips and plaited to shape, as well as of rich velvet, is the smart bonnet for evening wear. The rosette at each side continues to be in vogue, but for the evening this is either of fine lace or chiffon. The bunches of violets, so generally noted on the evening bonnets of last winter, are quite out of fashion. The new aigrettes, especially those of white, are quite ten inches high, and will suggest that one which stands so proudly on the drum major's hat.

Wings, quills and feathers massed in rosette fashion are well used on evening bonnets, while the large velvet roses of a purplish red, of which I have spoken before, are given a special cachet. The blue and green-black and white and the scarlet and black contrasts are all approved by French milliners and seen in some of the smartest bonnets. Spangles of all colors and shapes make rich the dressy chapeaux, while beautiful buckles of Rhinestones or well-imitated colored gems increase their elaborate air.

VELVET AND FUR COMBINATION.

French women are giving special vogue to the black and white contrast, which has, of course, this to recommend it—that it harmonizes with almost every costume.

The magic contrast, which is the name given to the effect when black and white are brought together, is well displayed in a bonnet intended for evening wear at concert or opera during the season. The small, rather low crown is of white satin felt, the tiny strips being braided in basket fashion. The narrow brim is of softly-twisted black velvet, cut out at the back so that the hair shows below, while there are falling over it two of the long, hornlike-shaped rosettes so much fancied, daintily made of fine duchesse lace. A narrow twist of white satin is just above the velvet at the edge of the crown, and on one side there stands up a ten-inch white pompon, while on the other is a star-shaped buckle of Rhinestones. Velvet ties come with this bonnet.

WHERE FEATHERS ARE USED.

THE FASHIONABLE COLLET.

With it is worn the fashionable collet, which is the smart little wrap counted necessary at a place of amusement in the evening. A seven pointed white satin collar, full and flaring, makes the foundation of the collet, and from it depends three double ruffles of black chiffon, so that it reaches almost to the waist. Loops and ends of broad white satin ribbons are at one side of the front falling from under a rhinestone buckle, and a strap from under this buckle and its bows and streamers goes across to the other side and hoods under a full white rosette so that a secure and pretty fastening is furnished. The high collar is a folded stock of white satin ribbon with a flaring bow at the back, which makes a most stylish finish to this very fashionable collet.

AN ALL-BLACK EFFECT.

Well-dressed women always appreciate the vogue given to all-black costumes, but especially now when black is shown in such beautiful fabrics. In the illustration given are pictured a bonnet and short wrap made of several materials, but of the one sombre shade. The bonnet inclines to the toque shape and is worn well back on the head. The crown is a plain black felt, thickly spangled with jet, and having a brim of stiffened black lace made brilliant with long pointed jets. At the left side is a black aigrette and on the right one two or three loops of velvet with a small jet buckle seeming to hold them in place. At each side of the back, but as if to give breadth to the bonnet, which they do, are two very full rosettes of black lace. No ties are with this bonnet.

The cape to be worn with it has a round, rather deep-fitting yoke of black velvet, from which depends two ruffles of black lace with one black chiffon between them. On each shoulder, to give the fashionable width, is a five-pointed falling epaulette of black satin ribbon. The full neck finish is double ruche of black chiffon tied with long ends of black satin ribbon. If one grew weary of the all black it would be very easy to take out the pompon and put a colored velvet flower in the bonnet, but as an all-black get-up is invariably refined this would scarcely be likely to happen.

A BLACK AND WHITE EFFECT.

Fur in the shape of the heads and entire bodies of small animals is greatly liked in combination with velvet, and to add to the contrast white lace or chiffon is often put with it, so that color and fabric are both intensified. A very smart bonnet and collet intended for evening wear are shown in our illustration. The bonnet has a crown not unlike a Tam, though it is bent in a little here and there. The material used for it is velvet in the new shade of green called prairie. The brim is a small poke shape of satin felt the same color as the velvet. At each side, adding to the width, is an enormous white velvet rose, and leaning against the crown, standing some distance above it, is a crinkly quill, that on the left being green, that on the right being blue. At the back are two drooping horns of white lace that fall on the hair, but are, usually, by the wise woman, pinned to position against it.

The collet is a flaring, round full one of prairie green velvet, having on each shoulder an entire little mink so arranged that his head falls to the front while his body and tail hang over the back. The high collar is a folded one of prairie green satin, with two tiny mink heads seeming to clasp it just in front. From under the velvet cape, as if to show the disdain the milliner of to-day has for all rules in regard to contrast of material or color, fall three full plaitings of white chiffon. The general effect is not only good, but picturesque, and the wearer of these pretty belongings really looks, in her chiffon and lace, velvet and fur, as if she overruled all sumptuary laws and created laws of fashion for herself. Another collet made after this style has ruby velvet used instead of the green, but though the chiffon is black the contrast in colors is not as good as in the one displaying brown, green and white.

The evening bonnet to be smart must not only be becoming, but must show that it has been created for evening wear. The day of extreme simplicity has gone by, and the chapeau counted good form for the street is no longer to be advised for wear at any place of amusement. Lace, velvet, chiffon, quills, spangles and all the pretty trimmings in vogue may be liberally used, always with that proviso that they are becoming. Shapes may be ruthlessly cut into by the scissors to suit one's head, and the amateur as well as the professional milliner has learned that the bonnet must be subordinate to the woman and not the woman to the bonnet.

The collet, simple as it looks, must have a certain air to be a success. It does not want to stand up high on the shoulders, but it should go out in a very broad fashion, so that the waist below it looks very small by comparison. Then the frills must be very full, and whatever is used must be at once harmonious and chic. If there are ribbons they must be very long. Rosettes are more like cabbage roses than ever before, and chiffon frills are in fullness like unto the drops of water in the ocean. Give to your evening bonnet and collet that intangible air, which, for want of something better, we call style, for then, and then only, will it be a success. And then, and then only, will you look well in it, and will it be an absolute success on you. And it is only when one's gowns and one's belongings are successes that the general woman feels comfortable and really enjoys herself. Since man furnishes the strength and woman the beauty to life this is altogether as it should be.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Rheumatism Runs Riot

When there is lactic acid in the blood, liniments and lotions will be of no permanent benefit. A cure can be accomplished only by neutralizing this acid and for this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye.

Why is it that one man is old and decrepid at 45, and another hale and hearty at 80? The accident of birth has something to do with it. Some men are born stronger than others, but frequently the strong man becomes weak and the weak man strong. It depends on the care he takes of himself. When the man who runs an engine hears an unusual sound about it, he stops immediately and looks it up. If he finds a little looseness, or a little crack, it is remedied immediately. If it isn't, there will come a break presently—a break that will wreck the engine. Likely as not, this same man will totally ignore the call for help from some one of his own organs. He will let the trouble grow and grow until it lays him out in bed. If he keeps on working with a damaged body, he will soon wear it out. The strain on his nerves will tell on his constitution. He will not be hearty when he is old. The chances are he never will be old at all. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores health. It is not only a cure for disease, it is a preventive. Whenever a man feels that he is not quite as well as he ought to be, whenever he is listless, without energy and without vitality, whenever he finds that he is losing weight and that his ordinary work gives him undue fatigue, he needs the "Golden Medical Discovery." No matter how his trouble shows itself, this wonderful remedy will cure him. We say it is wonderful because of its wonderful results, and not because there is anything supernatural about it—not because it does anything that is unexpected, or anything which its discoverer did not mean it to do. That it cures many different so-called diseases is the most natural thing in the world when you understand that nearly all diseases spring from the same thing—bad digestion and consequent impure blood. The "Discovery" makes the appetite good, the digestion strong, assimilation easy, and the blood rich and pure. No disease of the blood can withstand its action.

Learn more about it from Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, which will be sent free on receipt of thirty-one (31) one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. CRAIGIE IN AMERICA.

She Is Better Known to the Readers of Fiction as "John Oliver Hobbes."

A slender, graceful, tastefully dressed little woman of decidedly feminine aspect has just arrived in New York on the Campania, and is now stopping at the Waldorf, where she is known by the name of Mrs. Craigie. In the literary world "John Oliver Hobbes," Mrs. Craigie's pseudonym, is already in possession of a certain kind of fame. As a writer of brilliant epigram and really virile English she has attracted wide comment.

When seen at her hotel Mrs. Craigie chatted freely about herself and opinions, and as her books have to do with the woman who "did" and as she herself was recently separated from her husband, what she has to say on divorce is particularly interesting. She finds, she says, that divorce is not regarded in America with the same seriousness as it is in England. American newspapers speak of it in a flippant way, something that would not be tolerated across the water. A woman who seeks a divorce in England must have great provocation, and even then is not looked upon with kindly eyes. "Divorces and funerals," concluded Mrs. Craigie, "are very serious things in the little isle."

In regard to her books, Mrs. Craigie confessed that she has a "purpose." In her latest novel, "The Gods, Some Mortals and Lord Wickenham," she has selected the inevitable woman with a past, and from her conduct drawn a "lesson." She does not take her critics very seriously. She believes she knows what a good book is, and when a woman thinks she knows—and then again Mrs. Craigie is a "writing woman."

An interesting point in Mrs. Craigie's character was brought out by a reference to dress. She confessed that she was very, very fond of dress, which is indeed a great confession for a successful literary woman. She explained that she hated anything ugly (which does not explain the realism of her books), and that particularly was she disgusted with an ugly gown. She likes a "fine book and a fine dress"—another epigram.

Mrs. Craigie is yet in her twenties. She was born in this country, but has lived in England since she was 3 years of age. She comes to America for the purpose of visiting her father, John Richards, a member of an old New England family.

Trained to Sit Up.

The Princess of Wales, to the great discomfort of whoever may be acting as the maid in waiting, never puts herself at ease in traveling. Hour after hour she retains a bolt upright position, and never thinks of removing her bonnet or lying down. She attributes the habit to her rigid bringing up, and in speaking of it recently said to a friend: "We were never allowed to lie down during the daytime when we were children, for fear of making ourselves untidy, and I am so accustomed to the habit now that I should never dream of removing my bonnet while on a journey."

Rare Postage Stamps.

High prices paid for postage stamps at recent London sales were: Spain, two reals, 1851, $140; two reals, 1852, $110; Madrid, three quartos, $58; Tuscany, three lire, yellow, $133; Naples, half tomese, blue, $81; Canada, twelve pence black, damaged, $135; Newfoundland, one shilling vermillion, $140, one shilling carmine, $105, sixpence, half penny carmine, $65; New Brunswick, one shilling violet, $92; Nova Scotia, one shilling mauve, $105; United States, a set of the department of justice, $58.

Out With It.

Judge—Remember that you are to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Witness—All right, my Lord. The fact is, I wanted to keep it to myself. But if I am bound to state the whole truth—then I must confess that you are the ughest man I ever clapped eyes on in my life.—Il Motto per Ridere.

He Used to Be.

First Sweet Thing (to a friend whom she has not seen for some time)—And so you are married dear. I am so glad. Is your husband well off?

Second Sweet Thing (looking complacently at her diamonds)—He was when I married him.—Ally Sloper's Half-Holiday.

The Difference.

"Shall I sing Ben Bolt?" she asked him.

It happened his name was Ben;
He never stopped to answer,
But bolted there and then.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

He will take no Risks.

Shrewdness of a wellknown City Merchant.

HE KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR HIM.

In winter when Canadians spend a large portion of their time indoors and cannot have the same variety of fresh food as in summer and fall, indigestion and dyspepsia afflict a majority. "If anybody will tell me that dyspepsia in its advanced stages is perfectly curable," said a Toronto merchant, "I will take his word. Personally I run no risks. As soon as I feel a sense of weight in the stomach, after a meal, I know that my blood is sluggish in circulation. In my business I cannot take much exercise, and I fight the first sign of stomach troubles with Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never failed me, and has saved me many a doctor's bill."

Scott's Sarsaparilla possesses medicinal properties superior to all other so-called sarsaparillas made. As a remedy for indigestion, rheumatism, pimples, scrofula and all blood diseases, physicians state that its equal was never known. Sold at $1 per bottle, of all dealers.

ADDRESS PASSED.

said the Government, as at present constituted, was just the kind that suited the Liberals. Proceeding, he discussed the new material added to the Cabinet, Sir Charles Tupper and Senator Desjardins. He wanted to know why Sir Charles Tupper did not run in Montreal West, where the result would have been a fair test of public opinion. He said Sir Charles had gone to Cape Breton, where coercion could be used. There were many men in Cape Breton who worked in the mines, and the Government, in this issue, relied on the coercion of these men. He said Mr. Desjardins had been chosen to succeed Mr. Angers because the Government could not carry a single constituency in the Province of Quebec.

Taking up the school question, he reviewed it from its origin, and dwelt particularly on the refusal of the Government to disallow the objectionable measure. "I cannot help thinking," he said, "that if it was Quebec that had taken away the rights of the Protestant minority, the Government would have exercised its power of disallowance. The Government referred the question to the courts, and for six years had pursued a policy of vacillation." He contended that the members of the Cabinet could not agree on the matter, and in making his point referred to ex-Controller Wallace's 12th of July speech. He charged that the Controller had first submitted this speech to the Premier.

Mr. Wallace immediately arose and denied this.

The Government's policy of vacillation, Mr. Tarte contended, was responsible for the serious aspect the school question had assumed. He insisted that the minority had a grievance. The Manitoba Legislature deprived them of their rights. The House was to a certain extent responsible, because the obnoxious laws were allowed to go into operation by the Dominion House, and the question also had been allowed to go to the courts and there declared constitutional. He pleaded for the appointment of a commission of investigation, holding that no harm could be done and a great deal of good might follow. He complained that the Government was putting a most serious responsibility on the French members of the House. If the French-Canadian members of both parties carried the Remedial Bill, then he was afraid that throughout the Dominion there would be a cry of French domination.

Mr. Dupont—Don't be afraid of it.

Mr. Foster asked what Mr. Tarte proposed the commission should do if one were appointed.

Mr. Tarte in reply said he felt absolutely sure that there was a grievance and a right to redress. He did not want a commission to investigate these features, but wished to have a committee of the House meet both sides interested, see what each would give towards settlement, and then draft a bill on these lines. He wished that the investigation should take place during the present session and its report be crystalized into law this session.

Mr. Costigan said Mr. Tarte was not afraid of the cry of French domination in the event of the French vote carrying the Remedial Bill, but was afraid of a division between him (Tarte), and his Ontario friends. He maintained that the question at stake was not the re-establishment of Separate Schools, but simply the question of giving the minority rights which were unquestionably theirs. He pointed out that the law which guarantees redress to the minority was framed for the benefit of a Protestant minority, but now it was invoked by a Catholic minority. "I only wish to God," he declared, "that it was a Protestant minority that was seeking redress in order that I might speak in thunder tones for justice for them. (Cheers.) The Manitoba minority being Catholics, I feel somewhat delicate in dealing with the matter." Continuing, he charged the Liberals with a large degree of responsibility for the unyielding attitude of Mr. Greenway, because they stood up in the House and defended Mr. Greenway's determination to ignore the constitution. He also charged them with using the question for party purposes, French Liberals in Quebec saying that the Conservative party, a party of Orangemen, never intended to pass Remedial Legislation; while elsewhere English Liberals were crying, "Are you going to allow little Manitoba to be coerced by those Conservatives?" The anxiety of the Liberals to have a commission appointed was simply to justify their contention that the Conservatives would not pass the Remedial bill this session. While there had been differences in the Government on the question, they now stood in the House unanimous in support of the measure. He believed the bill would be passed and that if the members approached the question in an honorable, dignified and proper manner there could be no doubt as to a happy solution. (Cheers.)

After Mr. Laurier, Mr. Foster and Mr. La Riviere had spoken, the address was passed and ordered to be transmitted to the Governor-General.

On motion of Mr. Foster, seconded by Mr. Laurier, the following address to Her Majesty was unanimously adopted:

"To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty:

"We, the House of Commons of Canada, in Parliament assembled, approach Your Majesty with renewed assurances of loyalty and devoted attachment to your person and crown. The intelligence of the death of Prince Henry of Battenberg has deeply touched the hearts of the people of Canada. We speak in their name as well as in our own when we tender you the expression of our earnest sympathy in the affliction which has deprived the Princess Beatrice of a consort and Your Majesty of a son-in-law, a young prince in the prospect of a long and useful career. We pray that the God of consolation may comfort Your Majesty, and long preserve you and your people."

An address of condolence with Her Royal Highness the Princess Henrice was also adopted, and an address to His Excellency the Governor-General requesting him to forward the addresses of condolence to England.

The House adjourned shortly after 11 o'clock.

One Honest Man.

Dear Editor:—Please inform your readers, that if written to confidentially I will mail in a sealed letter, particulars of a genuine, honest home cure, by which I was permanently restored to health and manly vigor, after years of suffering from nervous debility, sexual weakness, night losses and weak shrunken parts. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and wish to make this certain means of cure known to all sufferers. I have nothing to sell, and want no money, but being a firm believer in the universal brotherhood of man, I am desirous of helping the unfortunate to regain their health and happiness. Perfect secrecy assured. Address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, Jarvis Ont

AVENT THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Prof. Wrong Lectures on the Venezuelan Question at the University

Toronto, Jan. 24.

The Monroe doctrine, its historical setting and application to the present situation, was the interesting subject of the lecture of Prof. G. M. Wrong, at the University yesterday.

He first dealt with the political conditions existing in Europe in 1823 when the doctrine was promulgated, and showed that there was real danger then of an attempt by France to gain possession of former Spanish colonies in America and that England and the United States were united in opposing such a step. He quoted the statement of Calhoun, a member of Monroe's Cabinet, that the doctrine was intended only to meet a temporary emergency which soon passed away and pointed out the extreme unlikelihood of England attempting to absorb Venezuelan territory.

"True," he said, "Secretary Olney says Venezuela is being robbed, but Lord Salisbury pointed out that Mr. Olney had adopted the ex-parte Venezuelan view without examining the evidence in rebuttal. Mr. Cleveland comes out with a strong declaration that England is proceeding 'in derogation of the rights of Venezuela,' but in the next breath asks for a commission to enquire into the facts. He declares England is quite in the wrong and then, having prejudged the case, blames her for not submitting to arbitration. The fact is that Mr. Cleveland's tone is quite inexcusable, though probably in nearly all fundamental points he is theoretically right, such as the appeal to arbitration and the desire to save America from European complications."

The concluding point of the lecture was that American hostility to England is based upon the defective teaching of history in United States schools. The element of hope in the situation, he said, is that sounder methods of historical study are finding place in the schools of the United States.

Warlike Preparations.

New York, Jan. 23.—A special from Caracas, Venezuela, says: El Liberal in a leading editorial calls the attention of the Government to the military preparations on the Guiana frontier, which, although London denies it, are actively going forward.

On the British Island of Trinidad the forts are being repaired and the militia is being drilled in the method of handling the new heavy guns.

Cuban Rebels Whipped.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Minister De Lome has received the following despatch:

"Madrid, Jan. 23.—Col. Molina defeated in Alfonso XII. the bands of Nunez and others. Maceo has been seriously defeated in the route from Coloma to Pinar del Rio; he had more than 300 wounded, among them the leader, Bermudez, and left 30 dead on the field. The defeat of Maceo, by its importance, has produced the best impression here. (Signed) ELDUAYEN."

Italians Still Hold the Fort.

New York, Jan. 23.—The Italian newspaper, Il Progresso Italo-Americano, has received a special despatch stating that the assertion of The Paris Figaro that the Abyssinians captured the Italian fortress at Makalle on Jan. 19 is untrue. The paper has received advices that the Italian garrison at Makalle is still holding the fortress most heroically.

Sutton Was Nowhere

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Tom Gallagher excelled all his previous performances in the billiard line at the tournament this afternoon, by running out his string of 400 points in 14 innings, while Sutton, whose billiards entitles him to sixth place, scored a paltry 53. Tom's average was 28 8-16. This beats the highest average made by Jake Schaefer and Frank Ives before they met the last time here and in New York, when both men made such phenomenal runs and averages. The performances in the championship games, however, were made with the anchor shot barred. Gallagher ran 104 to-day, failing on a hard masse. The score: Gallagher 400, high run 104, average 28 8-16; Sutton 53, high run 13, average 4 1-13.

McLaughlin of Philadelphia to-night defeated Hatley of Duluth. McLaughlin ran 103, failing down on a short one-cushion carom. Score: McLaughlin 400, high run 103, average 12½; Hatley 287, high run 71, average 9 8-31.

Our bounding enthusiasm urges us—perhaps rashly—to making our January business something phenomenal—something better and greater than anything in the past! Besides—

It's Price-Pruning Time, Previous to Taking Stock.

STORM KING RAMPANT

And Toronto Received His Special Attention.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS LOST

Terrific Velocity of the Wind, Aided in the Destructive Work by a Freezing Rainstorm—Wires, Fences and Trees Levelled—No Electric Lights Last Night.

Toronto, Jan. 25.

Almost without warning, the city was overtaken by the fiercest storm since the memorable blizzard of 1893, at an early hour yesterday morning. The storm struck the city in all its fury shortly after 3 o'clock, and before daylight most of the damage, which will require many days' labor and the expenditure of thousands of dollars repair, had been accomplished.

It was in the Gulf of Mexico that the storm arose, and, according to the best advices obtainable, it quickly spread over the great area bounded on the north by Lakes Huron and Ontario, on the east by Massachusetts and on the west by Iowa. Traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour, Toronto was visited and the destruction accompanying the visitation was accomplished without unnecessary delay. Telegraph and telephone poles, trees, fences, wires of all descriptions and debris indescribable contributed to the general demoralization, and when the citizens awakened in the morning, there was little left for them to do but gaze upon the wreckage and marvel at the greatness of the storm king, when he takes a notion to assert his powers.

The wind was greatly aided in its destructive march by the weight of ice which had gathered on the trees, poles and wires during the close of the rain storm, which had immediately preceded its coming. So great was this accumulation that when the wind commenced to assert itself, the poles snapped like pipestems and the heavy wires were brought to the ground or entangled with other wires, which, unable to withstand the added pressure, came tearing to the ground or lodged on housetops and in the branches of trees. The scene on many of the city's thoroughfares at the break of day was indescribable.

Brock-avenue, probably, suffered more than any other street. Along that important thoroughfare there was hardly a pole left standing, or an electric wire that was not a source of imminent danger to pedestrians and property. The beauty of the scene along the avenue in the early morning, as the heavily charged wires were dashed to the ground and brought in contact with the G. T. Railway Company's tracks was magnificent in the extreme. Such a display of pyrotechnics has never before been witnessed. Shots of vari-colored lights were sent out at every contact of the two metallic substances. Bombardments that would have turned a Chinese celebrator green with envy were constant throughout the length of the street, while the sizzling and cracking of burning metal, accompanied by showers of colored sparks, added greatly to the weirdness of the scene. Many of the wires had fallen immediately in front or to the rear of the dwelling houses and the fact that they were fully charged with electricity sufficed to keep the occupants of such houses prisoners until the various electrical companies had succeeded in removing the dangerous obstructions.

On Teraulay-street the damage is nearly as great, though the absence of trolley wires served to render the consequences of the storm less disastrous than that which accompanied the Brock-avenue disasters. At the intersection of Esther and Queen-streets, the telephone and telegraph wires became tangled with those of the trolley company and a woful mix-up resulted. The telephone poles at this juncture were broken off and some little damage to property occasioned. Peter, Simcoe and John-streets were also blocked by fallen poles and tangled wires.

King, Yonge and Queen-streets were fortunate in escaping without serious obstruction, notwithstanding the enormous quantity of wires which are strung along these thoroughfares, the tall buildings evidently thwarting the storm in its destructive march. Out at the Junction and in the northern and eastern suburbs, where there was practically no obstruction in the path of the storm, poles, wires and fences were mixed up in a delightful fashion and it will likely require the assistance of a court of arbitration to determine the ownership of the scattered timbers and tangled wires.

In the northern portion of the city, the companies will be obliged to spend a goodly sum of money to again place their systems in good working order. Bloor, Gerrard, Robert and Huron-streets and Hazelton and Brunswick-avenue are demoralized with strewn and dangling wires, broken poles and uprooted trees.

Jarvis-street early in the morning, with its ice-coated trees, presented a stormy appearance, while the picturesqueness of the Horticultural Gardens, where the long arms of the giant maples, elms and oaks, were covered with ice and snow, was simply entrancing. The damage at these points while not great from a pecuniary standpoint is of a nature that will tend to detract from the natural beauty for which they are famous to all visitors to the city.

It is a subject for congratulation that no lives were sacrificed as a result of the flying wires. Many persons were more or less shocked by coming in contact with live wires and a few sustained injuries from falling poles, but with one exception, none were seriously injured.

The presence of live wires and the threatening condition of poles in many places were not without their humorous situations. There was hardly a moment during the day, after the storm had subsided and the work of clearing up the wreckage in the various portions of the city had begun, that some funny incident was not forthcoming, but it is, indeed, fortunate, notwithstanding the deadly nature of the work, that serious consequences were not of frequent occurrence.

A MASS OF ENTANGLEMENTS.

The Telephone Company in a Badly Wrecked Condition.

Completely disorganized are the only words that can fitly describe the state of the telephone service. It was an utter impossibility for Manager Dunstan and his staff of assistants to locate all the points at which the service had suffered or give any estimate of the cost of the damage sustained last night. They say that they will be pleased if they are only able to clear away one-half of the wreckage that strews the streets crossing the main thoroughfares so that traffic may be resumed on them some time to-day.

"Our first thought," said Manager Dunstan, "was to avoid accidents as far as lay in our power. By 5 o'clock in the morning all the men we could command were hard at work disentangling our lines from those of the street railway and the electric companies. We are actuated by but one idea: that is to clear away the debris and get our service into working order again at the earliest moment possible. We don't intend to calculate the cost of this course and will spare no expense to accomplish our end. You may say that we want all the men we can get who have had any experience whatever in handling wires. We will also employ some green hands. I have not yet had reports from all points at which our poles and wires are down, but I think I can safely say that our loss will be heavier by at least one-half than it was in 1893. Our leads, on the main down-town thoroughfares, with the exception of Teraulay-street, are scarcely affected. The damage has been done chiefly in the outlying sections. It is a singular thing and worthy of note that more poles were torn down where there are few wires than where there are the heavist leads. Of all the concerns that have suffered, we are the heaviest losers."

The telephone company sent out special notices requesting subscribers to refrain from touching disarranged wires, as some of them lead across feed wires of the street railway and electric light companies, which may be carrying heavy charges of the deadly current.

One of the officials of the company estimates that its loss will fall not far short of $45,000.

THE C.P.R. SHUT OFF

All Its Wires in Every Direction Rendered Useless

The Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company officials report that the storm has been more disastrous to their system than any they have ever experienced in Ontario. Early in the day they sent out special engines with men to locate exactly the sources of trouble. The only news the officials had received at a late hour was that all their wires were down and they had no means of determining exactly when they will be able to resume business. They hope, however, to have some lines open this morning, as gangs of men will be kept at work all night. The trouble in the east is on the Ontario and Quebec division, near Peterborough, and that on the north is somewhere between the city and Toronto Junction. The last named lines were made unserviceable by the fire at North Parkdale Station and the jumble of telephone and electric light wires at Brock-avenue crossing. The work of righting the lines running north has been greatly hampered by their contact with the wires of other concerns carrying currents that may prove deadly to the men handling them.

Nearly 200 Canadian Pacific linemen and repairers arrived last night from London, Chatham, Hamilton and other western points. It is expected that another large force will be on hand this morning from Montreal and eastern cities.

Between Lecside Junction and Myrtle on the C.P.R., a distance of 30 miles, 132 poles are broken down.

One C.P.R. lineman, whose name could not be learned, fell from poles twice yesterday. The first time he broke his nose. Undaunted by this he mounted again, only to come down and break two ribs. Then he went home.

G.N.W.'S LUCKY ESCAPE.

The Company's Main Lines Withstood the Storm Nobly.

The officials of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. declined to attempt to estimate the damage to their service by the storm. Its area, as near as they could ascertain, covers the district bounded on the west by Guelph, on the north by Newmarket, and on the east by Port Hope. Reports from the Niagara Peninsula indicate that little or no damage has resulted there yet. While the storm was at its height here a heavy rain was falling there. It is feared, though, a change will result in the wires being loaded with ice to the breaking point, and if that occurs, communication, save by indirect routes, will be cut off between here and New York and eastern U.S. cities.

The chief damage to the Great Northwestern was done between Toronto and Whitby. About 20 of the railroad wires are down. These, or the most of them will, it is expected, be in thorough working order this morning. How many of the highway lines are down is unknown, nor will the company attempt to learn until after they have restored communication over their main lines.

The break in the Hamilton line was discovered early in the day. It was at the Exhibition grounds, and had been caused by falling telephone poles. At 10 o'clock the company had an open line to Hamilton, Buffalo and New York.

The wires on the line of the Northern Railway are all down, but the company is not yet worrying about them, as it can get messages through to northern points by way of its lines on the Midland road.

About the Railways.

Early in the morning the demoralization of the railroad wires commenced, and although there was not sufficient snow on the tracks to cause any appreciable delay, traffic on all lines was greatly interfered with by reason of the lack of telegraphic communication. The train despatchers had but little to do, and all day the bulletin board at the Union Station bore this notice: "No information can be furnished regarding trains. All wires are down."

All passenger trains were run by the time table, without the aid usually given by the despatchers, while freight trains were sidetracked and laid up until the mail and express trains had passed, these having the right of way.

There is little prospect of a general blockade, unless a pronounced cold wave should come, in which case nearly all traffic would likely be suspended.

ON THE STREET RAILWAY.

All Sorts of Efforts Employed to Restore Traffic

Citizens suffered from the storm in proportion to the distance of their homes from the centre of the city, the breakdown of the street railway service being, to the average person, the worst feature of the visitation.

Late on Thursday night twenty cars were placed on the different night routes, in addition to the owl cars, in the endeavor to keep the lines clear. All night the cars and sweepers were kept going, and until 8.33 yesterday morning the regular service was kept up. Then the trouble began. Ice formed on the wires, and it was found necessary to take the wheels off the trolley poles. Small bars were substituted, and these, cutting the fringe of icicles from the wires, completed the connection, although the rails were deep in snow.

Before 7 o'clock, however, the falling electric and telephone wires and poles had broken the trolley lines on nearly every route, and, the sweepers being unable to move, the tracks were soon covered deep in slush. Extra gangs were sent out with the repair wagons, and with hard work the wires were so far repaired at 2 o'clock that the six big sweepers were sent out to clear the tracks, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon a partial service was established.

Until 5 o'clock the Belt Line cars did not make the complete circuit, Bloor-street, between Yonge and Spadina, being impassible by reason of fallen poles, wires and trees. The debris in Queen-street west made it impossible to run cars on that line past Esther-street until after 4.

After great exertions on the part of the company's employes, all the lines were made comparatively clear, and when the shops and factories discharged their home-going crowds, there was nearly a full car service, albeit the time made was considerably slower than usual.

An official of the company estimated the loss to the company by reason of the storm at $1500 in fares alone, while the damage to wires, and plant will probably reach a larger total.

Last night a full service was kept up, and belated citizens who caught extra cars were only assessed the ordinary fare, although conductors on the owl cars exacted the customary ten cents from their passengers.

The Electric Light Company

The only thing that troubled the Toronto Electric Light Co. was its inability to trim the street lamps. When Manager J. J. Wright was seen he was fervently praying that the weather would become milder and thaw out the ropes so that the arc lamps might be lowered and the carbons renewed.

The city was in comparative darkness last night as the result of a consultation held yesterday afternoon among Mayor Fleming, Ald. Bell and Chief Graham of the fire brigade, at which it was decided not to use the electric lights last night on account of the number of wires lying around which were torn away from their fastenings by the storm.

Fire Alarms Rendered Useless

The fire system is almost demoralized, most of the alarm boxes being burned out and the only telephones that can be used are those connecting the central hall with Wilton-avenue and Berkeley-street stations.

The crossing of the wires throughout the city caused an incessant ringing of the fire alarm gongs in the stations, and should a fire break out the only sure way to report it is to run to the nearest fire station.

No Trouble With the Incandescent

"We are in that fortunate position where neither storms can assail nor frosts disturb us," said Mr. Fred Nicholls, manager of the Incandescent Electric Light Co. All our wires are underground, and I am happy to be able to say that our customers' regular service will run just as smoothly as if there had been no storm."

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 33 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

THE "LOYALTY" CRY.

When President Cleveland's ill-advised message brought about chances of hostilities between the United States and England, nothing could surpass the fervid spontaniety with which every class and section of the Canadian people, from the humblest to the highest, sprang to arms, figuratively speaking, willing, nay eager, to show that Canadians were ready with life and means to share the responsibilities and dangers of connection with the Empire in times of trouble, as well as to enjoy the benefits of that connection in times of peace. No one could doubt that the sympathies of the whole Canadian people were sincere, that they were loyal to the core, and it would have fared ill with any one who had dared to impugn the loyal fidelity to Great Britain of the humblest of her subjects in Canada. England appreciated, and does appreciate, these evidences of fealty on the part of Canada, and a day or two ago Hon. Jos. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, referred in the course of an eloquent speech to "the abundant loyalty of her children from one end of the Empire to the other," and he might have truthfully added that in no colony under the flag was that sentiment more emphatically existent than in Canada at the present moment.

In view of this fact, which no honest person will attempt to controvert, it is surprising that the leaders of a political party should have the tremendous audacity to attempt to sow the seeds of dissension and for the base purpose of making political capital and retaining their grip on the spoils of office, impute disloyalty to the Liberal party of Canada. Could anything be more unpatriotic to this country or more disloyal to the Empire at the present time!—when the Empire needs all its friends; when an alert and active enemy to the south of us, and enemies in every part of the world, jealous of Britain's greatness and envious of the compactness of the loyal sentiment of every one of her colonies, will! hail such a division as the slanderous and wicked charge of the Conservative leaders, if justified, would indicate; when every citizen of Canada should be encouraged (if such encouragement were needed) to stand shoulder to shoulder with his neighbour, irrespective of personal or political opinions; when the Empire needs the moral support, if not the material aid, of every arm of every subject. The attempt to throw doubt upon the loyalty of one half of the people of the "Brightest gem in Britain's Crown," without the slightest reason and merely for the sake of gaining a base partisan advantage, is too dastardly for words to fittingly characterize. No act short of overt treason could be more disloyal to the best interests of the Dominion and of the Empire. It suggests the baseness of a son discrediting his mother's virtue for the sake of robbing a brother of his inheritance.

The question of the loyalty of one great section of the people, where all are undoubtedly loyal, should never be raised without the most indubitable warrant, and, in the case in question, no such warrant exists. While it is to be conceded that the Conservative citizens of the Dominion are loyal, it is equally to be conceded that, man for man, the Liberals of the Dominion are equally loyal, though it must be admitted that judging by the record of the leaders of the former party, the latter haven't so much loyalty upon their lips. The man that is loyal at heart doesn't feel the necessity of advertising its possession. The man that is honest does not boast of his honesty. As a rule, when you meet a man boasting of his honesty, it is a signal to button your pocket securely. He is contemplating some dishonest game. So the politicians that are flaunting their own loyalty, have some ulterior object; and no doubt the object of the party in power at Ottawa, by parading their own self-sufficient loyalty and impugning that of better men, is to divert attention from their record of mal-administration and corrupt government that must be discussed in the face of a general election. While, as we before stated, the Conservative party is loyal as a body, the evidences of real disloyalty and lack of patriotism on the part of the party that is now claiming a greater surplus of loyalty than they have of money in the Treasury, is by no means wanting. Though the cases that can be cited may not all have been intended as disloyal acts and disloyal attitudes, yet in effect and essence they are truly disloyal.

We need not go back to the time when some good loyal Conservatives pelted the representative of Her Majesty with rotten eggs and burned the Parliament buildings. We need not go back to the time when prominent Conservatives signed a manifesto in favour of the annexation of Canada to the United States, and were, some of them, subsequently taken in as members of a Conservative Cabinet. We need not recall the fact that one of these annexationists, afterwards a Premier of Canada, for signing that traitorous document, was promptly cashiered and removed from his position of second Lieutenant in a mounted infantry company, and that Lord Elgin (who was treated to evidences of loyalty in the form of addled eggs) received the thanks of the Colonial Secretary for so doing. We need not recall the fact that the Mail, when it was the organ of the Conservative party, in meeting the objection that the National Policy was a menace to British connection, in its loyal fervour said: "so much the worse for British connection." These instances are suggested, not as a reproach, but as a reminder that some discretion should be exercised in hurling indiscriminate charges of disloyalty and, to lead up to fresher and far more flagrant instances.

The idea of the recent charges of disloyalty made in parliament, coming from the present Cabinet ministers, is an example of infinite "cheek"—a cabinet composed largely of men described by their head as "a nest of traitors," who conspired to stab in the back and oust from office a venerable statesman. Why, the Artful Dodger's cry of "stop thief! hurled at the flying Oliver Twist to divert attention from the real culprit, is maiden modesty compared to the gang of bolters raising a cry of disloyalty to obscure their own act of traitorous treatment of their chief—their own forgetfulness of dignity as advisers of Her Majesty in the person of his representative. There is nothing in the cry of disloyalty of Liberals; it is raised to cover the treachery of the bolters, to hide the internal dissensions of the squabblers after office, to conceal their crooked course on remedial legislation, to obscure live issues, to deaden the memory of the innumerable crimes against "honesty, liberty and true patriotism" that they have been guilty of during the past seventeen years. But the cry will fail. Nothing can obliterate from their record the deep stains that blacken its every page.

If it thus ill becomes, for the reasons given, the leaders of the Conservatives to glory in their loyalty, it certainly as badly becomes a party, that is committed to an un-British and anti-British trade policy, slavishly copied from the republic to the south of us. This so called national policy is un-British because it is contrary to the settled policy of Great Britain, reiterated repeatedly and recently by the present British Premier, Lord Salisbury; it is anti-British because it discriminates against the mother country, and in favour of United States,—the most bitter enemy of the Empire on this continent. Last year we imported twenty-five million dollars more goods from the United States than from Great Britain, yet we taxed thirty-one millions of British imports, several hundred thousand dollars more than we did nearly fifty-five million dollars of American goods, in other words the rate of taxation on American goods imported, was 12½ per cent, while we taxed British goods 22 per cent, a discrimination of 10 per cent against England, and in favour of the United States. The Liberals are in favour of removing this disloyal disparity and are on record to that effect. In 1895, the Conservatives voting down a Liberal resolution introduced by Mr. Davies, calling for a reduction in the scale of duty on goods imported mainly from Great Britain. And it is against the Liberals, with such a record and policy, that the discriminators against English imports, bring the charge of disloyalty. This is the return that our good super-loyal Tory government makes for the protecting wing, the Empire holds over the Dominion.

This brings us to another consideration. Everybody admits that in case of need Canadians are ready and willing to help the mother-land fight the battles of the Empire. Yet how has Canada, as represented by the present government, helped its citizens to implement this willingness and readiness? For answer the shameful mal-administration of the Militia Department for years needs only to be cited. Hon Mr. Laurier was denounced in the house as disloyal because he questioned the wisdom of a jingo policy of elaborate fortifications, and said that "the best armament and the best defence was to give good sound weapons to the soldiers of Canada," which is a self evident truth. The record of our supremely loyal government is one of inefficiency, indifference and neglect towards our brave volunteers. In 1891 Major General Herbert said our rural corps were deficient in instruction and still more deficient in organization. Money was spent, he said, in paying incompetent instructors and the arms supplied were obsolete. Four years later the same system of neglect prevailed. Last January a prominent volunteer major in an address before the Military Institute thus summed up the result of the course of the Militia Department, which he said knew little about the militia and cared less, by saying—"the militia of Canada is not only disorganised but demoralized." Liberals and Conservatives voted over a million and a half last year for militia purposes and it was largely wasted, at least, incompetently expended. Our Conservative leaders prate about their loyalty and boast of their fidelity to British connection, yet they shamefully neglect the most important means by which the undoubtedly loyal people of Canada—Liberal and Conservatives—can show their love for Britain and British connection. This is not sentimental, it is practical disloyalty to the Empire and a betrayal of the trust imposed in them by Canadians. Loyalty, like faith, without works is dead.

A policy of coercion of any province, a policy of slandering Liberals as traitors; a policy of setting religion against religion and creating race divisions; a policy of "using the flag of free trade England to serve the ends of anti-British trade policy; a policy of political tumbling to retain office; a policy of self-righteous brag, and a policy of subordinating the best interests of Canada to the retention in office and the spoils of office of a "nest of traitors," whose parallel no civilized nation can furnish; a policy compounded of these political witches' cauldron ingredients, is not one that will commend itself to the people of Canada. We are a united people with common interests and common aims, and though we may honestly differ as to the means to be employed, we are all one as to the end to be gained—the good government and the consequent development of our great land to the full of its capacity, and the closest alliance political and commercial with the great Empire, whose co-operation, help and protection will be a mighty factor, in addition to the united energies of a united people, in working out our national problem. And the basest traitor knave will be he that attempts to create distrust and weaken the bond of common loyalty to Canada and the Empire, that unites the two great political divisions of Canada.

HAIR HAIR

PROF. DORENWEND is Coming

It is contrary to nature that the head should be bald. Let that be fully understood. Is it not a fact that many ladies and gentlemen do not wear artificial hair for no other reason than prejudice. Unfortunately there has been a marked increase of late in baldness and gray hair, and the result is the loss of an attractive and refined appearance. MANY LADIES have the wretched habit of crimping and curling their own hair instead of buying an article according to the style. The result is they ruin their hair and when new styles come in they are unable to follow them.

Prof. Dorenwend of the Dorenwend Co. Ltd., of Toronto, has for thirty years demonstrated the beautifying effects of wearing his hair goods. Thousands of THE BEST LADIES and gentlemen of Canada and the United States are wearing his articles to-day. In many cases the manufactured article is more becoming than the natural growth, and not even an expert can detect that the hair is artificial.

The Professor carries an immense stock of Ladies' and Gents' Wigs, Toupees (half wigs), Bangs, Wavy Fronts, Switches, Braids, Etc., in every form, shade and quality. All can be pleased. Cast aside

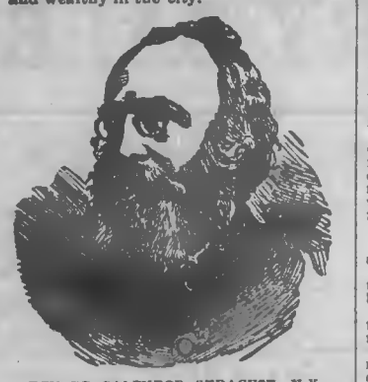
A BROAD MINDED DIVINE.

DOES NOT HESITATE TO SPEAK FOR THE GOOD HIS WORDS WILL DO.

A Scholarly Christian and a Beloved Pastor Who Believes in Training the Body as Well as the Mind.

The twenty-ninth day of April is a notable day in the history of the May Memorial church in Syracuse, as it is the anniversary of the installation of the Rev. Samuel R. Calthrop, D.D., the eminent divine, who so long has ministered to them spiritually as pastor of the church.

Dr. Calthrop was born in England and received his preparatory scholastic training at St. Paul's school, London. Entering Trinity College, Cambridge, he soon became a bright figure in that brilliant coterie of scholars, literary men and wits that followed in the traditions of Macaulay and his associates at the university. In the middle of the century he visited Syracuse and received his first impressions of the young city that nearly a score of years later he was to choose as his home and in which his labours have been so long and effective. The masterly pulpit addresses of Dr. Calthrop have had their fundamentals drawn from the deepest research. His people have been instructed by him, not only in things spiritual, but in the elements of the broadest culture, in literature, in art and in science. His young men have been taught a muscular system of morality. In these and in many other ways has he endeared himself to his congregation, which is one of the most highly cultured and wealthy in the city.



REV. DR. CALTHROP, SYRACUSE, N.Y.

Dr. Calthrop has a striking personality. To the eye he is a most picturesque figure. His head and face, framed in luxuriant masses of silky, snow white hair and beard, are of the type of Bryant and Longfellow. Although over seventy years old his rather spare figure is firm and erect and every movement is active and graceful. His whole life long he has been an ardent admirer and promoter of athletic sports, and even at his advanced age, plays tennis with all the vigour and skill of a young man. To Syracusans, perhaps, this remarkably versatile man is most widely known, apart from his profession, as a scientist.

On a bright April morning a reporter followed the winding driveway that, curving around the hill, leads to Calthrop Lodge, an old-fashioned red brick mansion, surrounded by a grove of oaks and chestnuts. Wearing a black skull cap and a black coat of semi-clerical cut, the master of Calthrop Lodge graciously received the reporter who called to inquire about his health, for, though manfully repressing all possible evidence of his suffering, Dr. Calthrop for many years had been the victim of a distressing affliction, until by fortunate chance he was led to take the remedy which has effectually cured him.

During more than half of his pastorate in Syracuse, Dr. Calthrop has been troubled with rheumatism, and at intervals he suffered excruciating agony from it. At times the pain was so great as to prevent him from walking. Many remedies were tried without success and he and his friends had given up hope of a permanent cure or of more than temporary relief when he took the preparation that drove the disease completely from his system.

In a letter written to the editor of the Evening News, of Syracuse, last year, Dr. Calthrop told of his affliction and its cure. This is Dr. Calthrop's letter:

To the Editor of the Evening News:

Dear Sir,—More than 35 years ago I wrenched my left knee, throwing it almost from its socket. Great swelling followed, and the synovial juice kept leaking from the joint.

This made me lame for years, and from time to time the weak knee would give out entirely, and the swelling would commence. This was always occasioned by some strain like a sudden stop. The knee gradually recovered but always was weaker than the other.

About 15 years ago the swelling recommenced, this time without any wrench at all, and before long I realized that this was rheumatism settling in the weakest part of the body. The trouble came so often that I was obliged to carry an opiate in my pocket everywhere I went. I had generally a packet in my waistcoat pocket but in going to a conference in Buffalo I forgot it, and as the car was damp and cold, before I got to Buffalo my knee was swollen to twice its natural size.

I had seen the good effects that Pink Pills were having in such cases, and I tried them myself with the result that I have never had a twinge or a swelling since. This was effected by taking seven or eight boxes.

I need not say that I am thankful for my recovered independence, but I will add that my knee is far stronger than it has been for 35 years.

I took one pill at my meals three times a day.

I gladly give you this statement.

Yours, S. B. CALTHROP.

Since writing this letter Dr. Calthrop has not had any visits from his old enemy and is even more cordial now in his recommendation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than he was then. To the reporter he said:

"I am continually recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to acquaintances and those I chance to meet who are troubled with rheumatism or locomotor ataxia.

"Pink Pills," continued Dr. Calthrop, "are the best thing of the kind I know of. They are infinitely superior to most medicines that are put up for sale. I know pretty well what the pills contain and I consider it an excellent prescription. It is such a one as I might get from my doctor but he would not give it in such a compact form and so convenient to take.

"I recommend the pills highly to all who are troubled with rheumatism, locomotor ataxia or any impoverishment of the blood."

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

South Wentworth Returns Mr Dickenson by Over 800 Majority—No Report From Wellington.

Hamilton, Jan. 24.—To-day's gale of snow proved to be the political winding sheet of Mr. W. W. Buchanan in South Wentworth, for Mr. John Dickenson gained the seat in the Legislature by a majority of 312 in a total vote of 2079, which is about 700 less than the total vote polled at the last election. This shows that a goodly number of Conservatives turned out to vote. The weather was wretched, and made the vote lighter than it would have been.

As the returns came in showing that Mr. Dickenson was the choice of the voters, he and his friends adjourned to the Dominion Hotel, where an impromptu meeting was held. Mr. Awrey and Mr. Dickenson spoke briefly, thanking the Conservative friends for keeping their word and refraining from opposing the Liberal nominee. Mr. Awrey said it would take Mr. Buchanan 25 years to recover the ground he had lost by his foolish move in South Wentworth. Mr. Dickenson also extended his thanks to the workers who had helped him through the campaign.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Dickenson was "chaired" and carried to the Young Liberals' club rooms, where a rousing meeting was held, with President McClement in the chair. Mr. McClement, in his opening address, referred to The Globe's appeal to the Young Liberals, and said the Hamilton Club was ready to enter the fray when required. Mr. Dickenson again extended his thanks to those who had supported him, and said that the South Wentworth electors had spoken very plainly that they did not want any outsider to represent them. Congratulatory speeches were made by Mr. J. T. Middleton, M.L.A., Ed. Williams, Mr. Awrey, Mr. Henry Gayfer and others.

To the Ladies of Peterborough.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

SATURDAY, Jan. 25th.

We have had our January thaw, about the usual time, always after the 22nd, but never before, and at this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 20 degrees above zero.—THOMAS TELFORD.

"Call Up."

Saul asked the witch of Endor to "call up" Samuel. It is suggested that you request the witches at the Central to call up Stratton's, 285, if it should be too stormy to get out to-night to buy your favourite book, periodical, magazine or paper. You that can get out needn't use the telephone. Our Saturday evening list is increasing—we want you to swell the number, if you are not already on our list.

Death of Mr. J. R. Dundas.

The many friends of Mr. J. R. Dundas, of Toronto, will learn with regret of his death which took place yesterday. The deceased gentleman, who was 60 years of age, was one of the vice-presidents of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, elected at the last annual meeting, and was a prominent figure in financial circles in the city. He was held in very high respect by all who knew him, and his death will be learned with regret by all who had the pleasure of personal acquaintance and business relations with him. Funeral at Lindsay on Monday on arrival of Toronto morning train.

Foolish Prejudices.

How does it happen that so many ladies are so very careful about dresses and bonnets, and neglect the head dress? It is because they are prejudiced against artificial hair? Ladies of the most exalted positions in the land are wearing Prof. Dorenwend's manufactured goods. They are beautiful and attractive and give a charming appearance to the face. Throw aside your false notions of propriety, and examine the Professor's elegant lines of Wigs, Switches, Braids and Wavy Fronts, etc. Read the advertisement in another column.—Remember Huffman House, Peterborough, Wed. Feb. 5th.

THE TEMPERANCE AND GENERAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO.

A Very Successful Annual Meeting.

H P. Lindsay, District Manager, and J. H. Fife, Peterborough agent, were in Toronto this week attending the annual meeting of The Temperance and General Life Assurance Company. We are pleased to learn that this already popular company has had another good year. That the premium income increased nearly $100 per each $1,000 of insurance added, shows much in favour of the agency staff of the company. That the Company could pay and apportion over $7,000 cash profits to policy holders; a 5 per cent. dividend on paid up stock to guarantors and still further increase the surplus to policy holders' account, must be gratifying to directors, policy holders and agents and reflects great credit on the careful and successful Manager of the Company.

The Company now has $6,051,000 of insurance on 5,016 policies. The income last year was $158,170.00 and the assets for protection of those insured are $423,989.44.

The policy of steady economical growth is leading this Company on from success to success.

AN ASHBURNHAM ROW.

A Wild Time in the Village Last Night—Windows Smashed, Etc.

A young man created quite a sensation last night at the corner of Elizabeth street and Driscoll terrace, Ashburnham.

While under the influence of alcohol he deliberately smashed to atoms several panes of glass in Mrs. Swanson's hotel without any provocation whatever.

The young man implicated is a well known cigarmaker in town, Maurice Gainey by name, and was subsequently arrested after a great deal of trouble.

Chief Craig having secured the aid of Messrs. J. Swanson and Thos. Craig finally arrested Gainey and lodged him in gaol. The sidewalk in front of the premises of Mrs. Swantson's and Mr. Collin's grocery store is bespattered with blood, as an artery of the unfortunate young man's wrist were severed in the struggle. Dr. Yelland was summoned and dressed the wounds.

The trial took place this afternoon before, Mr. Wood, J.P., of Ashburnham.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Down at the Rink Amongst the Curlers and the Hockeyists—Other Items of Interest.

HOCKEY.

The Collegiate Institute team was defeated in Lindsay, yesterday, by the Institute team of that town by a score of 6—4. The boys were well treated in Lindsay, being all taken to the homes of the different members of the team to spend the night. Another match to decide the tie will be played here next Saturday.

The Lindsay hockey team didn't go to Norwood to play last evening, the match having been postponed until Monday.

The Volts and Peterboroughs play a schedule game to-night at eight o'clock.

A meeting of the Hockey Club is called for this evening, to make final arrangements concerning the supper which is to be tendered Walter Phelan on Monday evening.

The second championship hockey match of the season will take place at the rink to-night between the Volts and the town team. The following will represent the town team: Goal, Wasson; point, Adams; cover point, Parsons; forwards, Montgomery, LeFevre, Davidson and Phelan.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

A Public Debate Upon the Programme.

The next open meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 28th. A debate will take place on the resolution that Chinese labourers should be excluded from the Dominion of Canada. The debaters are W. J. Drope, E. A. Peck, R. M. Dennistoun and W. H. Hill. Miss Naomi Lewis has most kindly consented to play the following selections: "Adieu," by S. Smith; "Deutsche Tanzi," by Beethoven; "Shepherd's Tale," by Nevyn. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

Notice.

All accounts due the firm of Foot & McWhinnie must be settled on or before the 14th of February, as all accounts not settled by that date will be placed in the hands of our collectors for collection, as books must be balanced. d

Toboggan Slide at Chemong Park.

Everything is now in fine trim and slick running order at the toboggan slide at Chemong Park, opposite Fobert's Hotel. With lots of snow, a glare track, and a smooth runway, its no trouble to shoot down the hill, and over half way across the lake. Great sport is expected during the rest of the season. Parties from Peterborough can arrange for toboggans and tobogganing and toboggan parties by telephoning Fobert's Hotel. d

Effects of the Storm.

The storm has brought down all the telegraph and telephone poles west, and Peterborough is completely cut off from Toronto. The telephone wires are up as far as Bowmanville on the front line and as far as Lindsay on the Midland line, but these are the furthest points west that can be reached. Both the G.N.W. wires and those of the C. P. R. are all down west of Peterborough. The trains are running well on time. Later—The C.P.R. lines are now open.

The Good Roads Commission

Appointed by the Ontario Government will report in favour of toll roads. This will be hardly fair in the county of Peterborough, as it will make the residents of the town contribute to the support of the county roads. As it is now the town pays one half of the expense of the support of several county bridges, but the money is well spent, as it will enable a large crowd to assemble in town on Jan. 31st, to attend the Sons of Canada's Grand Carnival. Prizes now on exhibition in window of P. Connal & Co., George street. 1d

NORWOOD'S NEW RINK TOTALLY WRECKED.

THE ROOF TOO WEAK TO SUPPORT A HEAVY DRIFT OF SNOW.

The Loss is Estimated at $2,000—A Big Gang of Men at Work Clearing Away the Debris—No One Was Hurt When the Crash Came.

NORWOOD, Jan. 24th.—Great was the consternation when the report was spread over the village that the skating rink had fallen in. The snow had accumulated in a large drift ten or twelve feet high on the west side of the roof and the great weight was bending the rafters. Noticing this just after after dinner a gang of men were put on the roof to clear away the snow, and braces were put under the roof of the curling rink on that side. This didn't seem to lessen the danger, and about half past four or a quarter to five they saw that there was no help for it, and that the great roof was going to collapse. They ordered all the skaters off the ice and out of the rink and all the men off the roof. The last one had just gotten out of the building and the last man off the roof when the crash came. The whole middle of the building came down, only about seventy-five feet at the front end and about thirty-six at the back being left standing. The loss is estimated at about $2,000.

Mr. Buck says there will be skating by Monday night, if not to-morrow night. He will put a large gang of men on to-morrow to clear away the wreck and they will run an open rink the rest of the season. The accommodation will just be as good, as none of the rooms were destroyed.

The Norwood boys were to have played Lindsay to-night, but luckily the Lindsay team could not come and the match was postponed until Monday.

YOUNG WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The directors and members of committees will meet in the rooms on Tuesday evening, between the hours of 5:30 and 8, for the purpose of becoming better acquainted, and discussing associational questions. Light refreshments will be served.

DOURO.

"How sweet and pleasant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."

On last Sunday, Father Keilty, the parish priest of Douro, preached from St. John xv. 18 and 19: "If the world hate you know ye that it hated Me before you. If you had been of the world, the world would not of love its own, but because you are the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you." He exhorted his hearers always to cultivate the friendliest possible feelings with their Protestant neighbours. Remembering this, they would establish in this country the record that their forefathers had already made in the South of Ireland, where Catholics are in the overwhelming majority, and where, too, Catholics and Protestants live together on the best of terms. In confirmation of this fact the reverend gentleman read a letter recently written by the Protestant rector of Cuhirciveen to Father Brosnan, who is building a church there in memory of the immortal Daniel O'Connel: "You and I have worked together for many years for the promotion of the welfare of our people, not, I am thankful to say, without some success, and we have at all times let it be seen that cordial friendship is quite consistent with firm attachment to our conscientious convictions. I take this opportunity of saying with much gratitude that during my long residence of 28 years amongst them I have received nothing but unvarying respect and kindness from your flock, and I shall never forget how, on two occasions, when laid low on a bed of illness you and they acted towards me." This is as it should be and, Father Keilty concluded by once more exhorting his hearers to be always true to their forefathers, who came from the south of Ireland and where always the relations between Catholics and Protestants were of the kindliest possible nature. On no other foundation can be built the prosperity of this Canada of ours. On such a foundation and no other, this Canada of ours will live and thrive, go on and prosper.

Henry Bros. Accounts.

All overdue accounts of the firm of Henry Bros., must be settled with the undersigned, at the office in the store, No. 341 George street, on or before the 15th of February instant. After that date, all accounts not paid will be placed in the hands of a Solicitor for collection. M. L. Henry & Co.

Be up to Date.

The gentlemen of Peterborough and vicinity are, as a rule, right up to date. If they are not, it is because they lack opportunity. When they get the chance they take it, and catch right up with the procession. For that reason, when Prof. Dorenwend arrives in the city, they will visit him, and provide themselves with his first-class Wigs and Toupees. The gentlemen who are bald, and from prejudice won't wear coverments, should remember that they are running great risks. Any candid physician will tell them so. The best men in the land wear these scientific coverments for no other reason than protection to the head. These goods are known throughout the land, and need no recommendation. Read the announcement on another page, and bear the date in mind.—Huffman House Wednesday, Feb. 5th.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE CONVENTION.

It Will Begin This Evening, at Eight O'Clock, in the Bethany Mission.

The Christian Alliance convention will open this evening (Saturday), at 8 o'clock, in Bethany Mission Hall, corner of Water and Simcoe streets, when a number of workers from New York and Toronto will be present. The convention will last two days, closing with evening meeting on Monday. Services will be as follows:—Sunday, 10 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., to be addressed by Rev. A. E. Funk, assistant pastor Gospel Tabernacle, New York, and Rev. Mr. Woodcock, returned missionary to the Congo, Africa, Pastor Salmon, Toronto, and Mrs. A. B. Simpson, New York. Monday there will be three meetings at the same hours, to be addressed by Rev. A. B. Simpson, New York, president of the Christian Alliance and International Missionary Alliance, who, since his last visit to Peterborough, has visited Palestine, Egypt, India, China and Japan, in the interests of Foreign Missions, and whose heart God has deeply moved in sending forth labourers into the harvest where so few have heard the gospel of His grace. About 300 missionaries have already been sent to the various fields during the last seven years, through the work of the International Missionary Alliance. Also Dr. Henry Wilson, a native of Peterborough, now of New York, who preaches to his old parishioners in St. George's church, Kingston, on Sunday, will be present at the three services on Monday. Two or more workers will take part in each service.

It is Absurd.

It is absurd to try to cure rheumatism with sarsaparillas and the ordinary advertised compounds which are recommended for the cure of almost every disease to which the human flesh is heir.

This disease, as all know, is caused by an acid poison in the blood, and can only be quickly and effectually removed by the use of an internal remedy, which will neutralize it, and thus destroy its irritating properties. The ingredients of South American Rheumatism Cure have not been long known, but are recommended by some of the latest English medical works as being to rheumatism what quinine is to ague, an absolute specific. The first dose of the remedy gives perfect relief, and it at once begins the chemical process of neutralizing the acid of the blood. It usually cures in one to three days. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Maltine With Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites for Consumption, Colds and Bronchitis.

No objections can be urged against the generally acknowledged remedial properties of pure cod liver oil beyond its tendency to upset the stomach and impair the appetite, and fortunately this drawback is overcome in the preparation of Maltine with Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. The oil is rendered palatable and of easy digestion, the appetite is improved, and the hypophosphites are of great service in pulmonary affections and in wasting diseases generally. Maltine, too, is unique, not only for its nutritive value, but by reason of its energetic action upon starchy foods, throwing into circulation a largely augmented supply of nutrition available for the replacement of the waste. A trial will convince of its efficacy.

THE TOMB OF BURNS.

(Robert Burns, born January 25th, 1759)

What woos the world to yonder shrine?
What sacred clay, what dust divine?
Was this some Master faulder's fine,
In whom we praise
The cunning of the jewelled line
And carven phrase?

A searcher of our source and goal,
A reader of God's secret scroll?
A Shakespeare, flashing o'er the whole
Of Man's dominion
The splendour of his cloudless soul
And perfect brain?

Some Keats, to Grecian gods allied,
Clasping all Beauty as his bride?
Some Shelley, soaring dim-descried
Above Time's throng,
And heavenward hurling wild and wide
His spear of song?

A lonely Wordsworth, from the crowd
Half hid in light, half veiled in cloud?
A sphere-born Milton cold and proud,
In hallowing dews
Dipt, and with gorgeous ritual vowed Unto the Muse?

Nay, none of these,—and little skilled
On heavenly heights to sing and build!
Thine, thine, O Earth, whose fields he tilled,
And thine alone,
Was he whose fiery heart lies stilled
'Neath yonder stone.

He came when poets had forgot
How rich and strange the human lot;
How warm the tints of Life; how hot
Are Love and Hate;
And what makes Truth divine, and what Makes Manhood great.

* * * * * * *

Singly he faced the blear-eyed brood,
The weakly wise, the feebly good;
He pelted them with pearl, with mud;
He fought them well.—
But, ah, the stupid million stood,
And he—he fell!

All bright and glorious at the start,
'Twas his ignobly to depart,
Slain by his own too affluent heart,
Too generous blood;
And, blindly, having lost life's chart,
To meet Death's flood.

So closes the fantastic fray,
The duel of the spirit and clay!
So comes bewildering disarray
And blurring gloom,
The irremediable day
And final doom.

* * * * * * *

No mystic torch through Time he bore,
No virgin veil from Life he tore;
His soul no bright insignia wore
Of starry birth:
He saw what all men see—no more—
In heaven and earth:

But as, when thunder crashes nigh,
All darkness opes one flaming eye,
And the world leaps against the sky,—
So fiery-clear
Did the old truths that we pass by
To him appear.

* * * * * * *

And though their ice-stellar names decay,
His own can whither not away
While plighted lass and lad shall stray
Among the broom,
Where evening torches glen and brae
With rosy gloom;

While Hope and Love and Youth abide;
While Age sits at the ingleside;
While yet there have not wholly died
The heroic fires,
The patriot passion, and the pride
In noble sires;

While, with the conquering Saxon breed
Whose fair estate of speech and deed
Heritors north and south of Tweed
Alike may claim,
The dimly mingled Celtic seed
Flowers like a flame;

While nations see in holy trance
That vision of the world's advance
Which glorified his countenance
When from afar
He hailed the Hope that shot o'er France
Its crimson star;

While, plumed for flight, the Soul deplores
The cage that foils, the wing that soars;
And while, through adamantine doors
In dream a flung wide,
We hear resound, on mortal shores,
The immortal tide.

—William Watson, in The Spectator.

A mirror could not lie if it wanted to. The glass has nothing to gain by flattery. If the roses of health and plumpness of beauty are leaving your face, your mirror will tell you so. Health is the greatest beautifier in the world. When a woman sees the indications of ill-health in the face, she may with almost absolute certainty look for the cause in one or both of two conditions—constipation, and derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Dr. Pierce's Favourite Prescription will cure permanently and positively any so-called "female complaint." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation. There is no reason in the world why a woman should not be perfectly healthy. She will gain in health, strength and flesh. Hollows and angles will give place to fullness and grace. She will be that noblest and most beautiful of all creation—a perfect woman.

INTERESTING TALK ON OLD OXFORD.

THE FAMOUS UNIVERSITY THE SUBJECT OF DR. BAIN'S ADDRESS.

The Life of the Average Student Does Not Develop His Intellectual Powers at the Expense of His Social and Physical Attainments, and he Emerges from Oxford Stamped with the Subtle but Clearly Defined Impress of the Cultured Gentleman.

Dr. Bain, who occupies the Chair of History at Victoria University, delivered a profoundly interesting lecture last evening on "Oxford," under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club in the George street Methodist church.

The chair was occupied by Rev. H. Symonds, in the absence of the president, Mr. C. Fessenden, and the audience, though not a very large one, was composed almost entirely of the educationalists and professional men of the town, all of whom have a warm interest in matters concerning the great University upon which the speaker was to found his address.

As Dr. Bain has recently returned from abroad, after taking a course in history at Oxford, he was most thoroughly at home with his subject, and was enabled to go into the most minute details when questioned at times by members of the audience. Arriving as he did, in the midst of the long vocation and coming from the roar and bustle of London, the quietness of the place was greatly accentuated and it seemed to him as though he had come unawares upon the haunts of the lotos eaters. The lawns and parks were occupied by old ladies in search of a bit of sunshine, and nurse girls with their charges. Even the business men appeared to be in no hurry and everything seemed to lend an air of profound solemnity to the quaint old town and its famous educational institution. The spacious quadrangles, delightful old gardens and vistas of stately steeples, stamped the whole place with an impress of mediævalism which affected him profoundly. The weather beaten statues, guarled trees and in fact everything seemed to say that toil was a thing of the past in this spot.

Towards the middle of October it became evident that this listless spell was about to be broken and it was most interesting to watch the hansoms dash up to the doors, deposit their fares and roll smartly away again. In a few days the cap and gown were to be seen everywhere, increasing the previous impression conveyed of mediævalism. The work of another session was evidently under way.

The speaker then spent some time in explaining the nature of the

MODE OF GOVERNMENT,

Concerning the chancellor, he explained that this dignitary was generally a nobleman of eminence, who seldom interfered in the work of the university, though the present chancellor, Lord Salisbury, took a most lively interest in everything which concerned Oxford. The Vice-Chancellor received his appointment of four years according to seniority in connection with the University faculty. He was the highest resident official and to him every student was presented on entering upon his University career. He also received his laureation at at the hands of the Vice-Chancellor upon finishing his course. The Proctors looked after the discipline of the University and at one time, students discovered minus their cap and gown were subject to a fine and for breaking some academical regulation could be placed under arrest. It was different now, however, and Big Tom, the bell which tolled at nine for the closing of the gates, the Proctor's prison cells and the Chancellor's Court were all relics of the good old times.

The great library is always visited by the sightseer. As every publisher in England has to present to it a copy of an edition of his work, its magnitude

CAN BE IMAGINED.

It contains 480,000 volumes and 27,000 scrolls of manuscript. The officers are efficient and obliging and every effort is made to make the treasures of the library available.

The money basis on which the University proper is conducted is poor, at least so say the authorities, yet the income of the University and the Colleges combined amounts to five hundred thousand pounds a year. If the Canadian Universities could dip their hands in such coffers as these, the speaker thought that there would be no grumbling. The first money, forming the nucleus upon which this gigantic endowment grew, consisted of a fine of fifty-two shillings levied upon the burghers of Oxford for hanging a clerk in holy orders. If the burghers thought they were used unjustly upon this occasion, their descendants were living to bless the day that the university was established.

In all there are 21 colleges at Oxford all independent of each other and largely of the university also.

The number of fellowships, scholarships and prizes obtainable are hard to determine. They are 385 fellowships of £200 sterling each with a attached, as free liveries, etc. Then there are 560 scholarships of £80 sterling each, as well as a large number of prizes of from forty to one hundred and fifty pounds each.

Tradition claims that Merton College is the oldest in connection with the University, being said to have been founded by King Alfred and in 1872 this college celebrated its millenium. As a further confirmation of the tradition it is known that when the Monks were in charge prayers were said daily for the repose of Alfred's soul. History, however, avers that Walter de Berg founded the College of that name as the first of the many which are now flourishing.

A new era has recently dawned in connection with the University. Conservatism is not now so much in the ascendency as it used to be and the non-conformists who were drummed out two centuries ago have been welcomed back and have established a College under one of the ablest men in Oxford.

In a brief description of the routine life of the average student at Oxford, Dr. Bain said attendance at 8 o'clock prayers was required, which was followed by a breakfast in his own room by the student. If he were he often invited four or five of his friends to partake of this meal with him, and served all the delicacies obtainable. The hours between ten and one were devoted to hard reading, and at the latter hour the student partook of his lonely and frugal luncheon of bread, cheese and beer. Luncheon over, he changed his gown for the dress of a well-clad young man and sauntered forth to stroll on High street or along one of the numerous pretty roads in the neighbourhood, or else donning his flannels hurried to the football field or the river to take his place amongst the hundreds already congregated there. Or perhaps he would call for his trap or his hunter, if he was the happy possessor of either, and seek recreation through this medium.

Five o'clock found the students in the colleges again devoting themselves to to their books in the interval before dinner or else attending a lecture.

In the dining room at the upper end on a raised dais sat the dons, while on benches at long tables the students congregated. Retirement from the dining room was not immediately followed by work, as an hour was generally spent in sociability. After this three hours were put in by the student, but it could not be said that the intellectual powers of the Oxford student were developed at the expense of his social or physical attainments, and when he emerged from the portals for the last time, having finished his academic career, he was stamped for all time with the subtle but clearly defined marks of a cultured gentleman.

The speaker concluded his interesting address by stating, with what feelings of regret he took his last look at the stately towers and steeples of the town, around which is wrapped the warmest interests of so many of England's greatest, and the memory of which, for him would always be invested with a warm and tender regard.

A most hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Doctor, on motion of Rev. Dr. Torrance, and Rev. J. C. Davidson, each of whom expressed the pleasure they had personally derived from being present.

On Tuesday evening next, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun and Mr. W. J. Drake will debate on the question, as to whether Chinese labor would be beneficial to Canada.

LADIES, BEWARE OF THEM!

They Lack all Good and Essential Qualities.

Ladies, beware of the many crude imitations of Diamond Dyes that are sold in some places. These imitation dyes lack all the essential qualities that are required to produce good and permanent colours.

A TRUE BENEFACTOR.

Thousands Bless the Memory of Prof Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D.

He Gave Humanity Paine's celery Compound.

Medical Men Say it is the Only Perfect Cure For Bright's Disease and Diabetes.

Dr. Phelp's wonderful prescription, Paine's Celery Compound is a boon to suffering humanity. This remarkable medicine has cured and saved more victims of kidney trouble than have all other combined agencies in the world. It has rescued thousands who were thought to be hopelessly lost—made them well after medical men had pronounced them incurable.

The case of Mr. C. F. Kevill, of Dunsford, Ont., is one of the strongest proofs ever put on record, that Paine's Celery Compound cures kidney disease, and all the terrible evils that follow this dangerous malady. Mr. Kevill has written for the benefit of other sufferers; he says:

"I wish to testify in favour of the wonderful curative powers of Paine's Celery Compound for two reasons: first, in justice to the proprietors; and secondly, for the benefit of suffering humanity.

"For the past fifteen years I have been troubled with diseased kidneys. I am engaged in the manufacture of cheese, and am obliged to work more or less in a stooping position. At times I found it almost impossible to work owing to severe pains across my kidneys. Often after working in a stooping position for a time I would find it very difficult to straighten up at once, and could only do so after repeated efforts.

"Of late years while labouring under these severe attacks I became very nervous and continually had tired worn out feelings. My rest at night seemed to do me no good, and I always felt tired out in the morning.

"I had been taking various medicines and was getting worse all the time. At last I decided to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial. I procured a bottle, and took it according to directions, and found its effect wonderful. Before I had used the first bottle I began to improve; after I had used the second bottle felt as well as ever I did in my life. It had banished all aches and pains, my nervousness was all gone, and the tired and worn out feelings were banished. I can go to bed now and sleep well, and rise in the morning rested and refreshed.

"I have recommended Paine's Celery Compound to my friends who were suffering from the same troubles as I had, and all have been greatly benefitted. Knowing what it has done, I can cheerfully recommend it to any person suffering from kidney disease."

The Bard of Avon on Bloomers.

Shakespeare has been declared to contain everything in the cosmos of his dramas. A search through the plays of the myriad-minded dramatist would, no doubt, unearth many predictions of the new woman of this latter end of the nineteenth century.

One of these is the Shakesperian prophecy of the feminine bloomers. It is to be found in "Antony and Cleopatra," and reads:

Oh, thou day of the world
. . Leap thou, attire and all,
Through proof of harness, to my heart and there
Ride on the pants triumphant.

That is not bad, forsooth, as a title for bloomers—"pants triumphant!"

TRANSVAAL AFFAIRS

General Joubert Makes a Speech to the Burghers.

THANKS THEM FOR PROMPTNESS.

He Exonerates the Honorable Section of the British From Blame for Jameson's Raid—A Feeling of Restlessness Still—Other News by Cable.

Pretoria, Jan. 24.—General Joubert, commander-in-chief of the forces of the South African Republic, in a speech at Heilbron yesterday, in which he thanked the burghers for the prompt, energetic and patriotic action in the recent troubles in the Transvaal, said that the raid of Dr. Jameson and his followers was not the work of the honorable and noble section of the British residents, but, on the other hand, was a cunning and insidious attempt to overthrow law and order. He said the Boers were proud of the sympathy manifested by the Government and people of the Cape Colony, and he foresaw a great future for South Africa if it were united. But he said quiet had not yet been restored. Weapons were still being discovered in the possession of men who had been called upon to give them up. Advices from Johannesburg represent matters as quiet there, but a feeling of unrest pervades the populace and the unemployed, of whom there are a great many, are becoming dangerous. They are leaving that city daily in small parties, but their destination or objects cannot be ascertained.

AS TO VENEZUELA.

The London Times Says Lord Salisbury is Open to Any Fair Proposal.

London, Jan. 24.—The Times contains an article discussing the Anglo-American situation in the light of the latest developments. It does not adduce any new views, but recognizes the efforts of the Government at Washington to bring about a peaceful solution of the question. It sees much significance in the anger of the jingoes at these efforts.

It again contends that Lord Salisbury's despatch, far from refusing, made a specific offer to arbitrate the Guiana boundary dispute and declares it to be no secret that the Prime Minister is quite prepared to consider favorably any fair and frank suggestion modifying the details.

The Daily News pleads for a settlement of the Anglo-American dispute. It sums up the British advances, but says it is equally true that ample justice has been done by the press and public in the United States to the strength of England's position and the equity of her conduct.

The paper remarks upon the silence of Lord Salisbury, and declares that the matter cannot be left to the Foreign Office. "The public," it adds, "is wisely content that professional diplomats shall deal with technical diplomacy, but there are broad principles concerning which the nation must be heard and its voice heeded. The British people will not have war with the United States and there is the end of it."

The Daily News appeals to Washington to clearly indicate to Venezuela that the United States wishes the question to be speedily settled, and declares that a word from President Cleveland to President Crespo would produce a decisive result.

The Chronicle will to-morrow say that the drawing in its legal aspects of the British case in the Guiana boundary dispute has been intrusted by the Government to Sir Frederick Pollock, corpus professor of jurisprudence of Oxford University.

Holding the Big Fellows

London, Jan. 24.—The Times will to-morrow publish a despatch from Pretoria, saying that all the members of the Reform Committee, who were arrested at Johannesburg, would be admitted to bail with the exception of Lionel Phillips, president of the Chamber of Mines; Col. Francis W. Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, ex-Premier of Cape Colony; Percy Farrar, proprietor of the South African paper, Country Life, and John Hayes Hammond, the American mining engineer. The despatch adds that the enquiry in the case of those arrested will take place on Wednesday next, after which most of the assused will be liberated.

MEETING OF BRITISH CABINET.

The First Lord of the Admiralty and Admiral Dale With the Ministers.

London, Jan. 24.—A meeting of the Cabinet was held this afternoon, Lord Salisbury presiding. Previous to the Cabinet meeting a conference was held between Mr. George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Naval Board, and Rear Admiral Alfred T. Dale, commander of the flying squadron.

Rebel General Killed.

Madrid, Jan. 24.—A despatch received from Havana says the rebel leader, Maximo Gomez, with his command reached a point within 15 kilometres of Havana, when Gen. Marin, with 1500 cavalry and four guns, started at night and drove the rebel leader Castillo near Cienfuegos. In the rout Castillo was killed.

The Logical Conclusion.

Repairing and patching promptly attended to Corner Bethune and Sherbrooke street

There is no joy in this world equal to the happiness of motherhood. A woman finds ample compensation for her trials and worries and bothers in the soft, clinging little body nestling close to her own—in the trustful clinging of the little hands, and the love light in the little eyes.

A woman's health is her dearest possession. Good looks, good times, happiness, love and its continuance, depend on her health. Almost all of the sickness of women is traceable directly or indirectly to some derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Troubles of this kind are often neglected because a very natural and proper modesty keeps women away from physicians, whose insistence upon examination and local treatment is generally as useless as it is common. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do more for them than 99 doctors in 100. It will do more than the hundredth doctor can unless he prescribes it. It is a prescription of Doctor Pierce, who for 30 years has been chief consulting physician of the World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo.

"I lost six babies by untimely births. In the eighth month of my seventh pregnancy, as usual, I was taken ill. The family doctor was called. He said there was no help for me. The baby must be born. I grieved excessively. I persuaded my husband, against the physician's advice, to get me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Four doses quieted my pains. That child was born at full time. It is three years old, and I am the happiest mother in the world."

(Mrs.) Belle Sinnett
Iroquois, Ill.

"What have you there?" asked Mrs. Bowser, as Mr. Bowser pulled a small book from his pocket and sat down to his after-dinner cigar.

"This? It's a book Green lent me over at the office. It's called: 'How to Cultivate Memory.' It says in the preface, and it says truly, that the past years of most people are a blank wall. How far back can you remember, Mrs. Bowser?"

"To when I was four or five years of age."

"Give me some incident that happened when you were four years old."

"I—I fell down stairs and broke my arm."

"Very well. How came you to fall down stairs?"

"I don't know."

"How many steps in those stairs?"

"I never counted them."

"Who picked you up at the bottom of the stairs?"

"I think it was mother."

"How long before your arm was well?"

"Why, how can I tell all those things, Mr. Bowser?"

"That's it—that's the very idea!" he chuckled. "When you were about four years ago something like a tragedy happened—You were romping in childish sport when you suddenly pitched headlong down stairs. You broke your arm instead of your neck. A doctor was sent for—you were laid up for long weeks—you suffered great pain—and yet you practically remember nothing about it! I suspected just such a state of affairs. And it was on your account more than my own that I borrowed this book."

"HOW FAR BACK CAN YOU REMEMBER, MRS. BOWSER?"

"But why should I remember an incident that occurred when I was only four years old?" she protested.

"Why should you? Suppose there was a million dollars at stake. Suppose you had witnessed a murder!"

"But there was nothing of the kind."

"How do you know? You can't remember. What you want to do is to carefully peruse the pages of this book for about two hours. I presume your childhood is a perfect blank to you. Aye! I doubt if you can remember anything of moment between the ages of 12 and 18. In other words, half of your life is a sort of dream."

"But yours isn't!" retorted Mrs. Bowser with considerable pepper in her voice.

"Certainly not. I can distinctly remember things that occurred when I was only a year old. For instance, I swallowed a thimble on my first birthday, and I recall how alarmed mother was. When 13 months old they found me with father's razor in my hand."

"Had you shaved yourself?"

"There you go! Every time I try to pound some sense into your head you get mad about it. Why don't you take this book and read up and benefit by it?"

"Because it's all nonsense!"

"It is, eh? Of course, you'd say that. Let me tell you something, Mrs. Bowser. Before I got hold of this book I couldn't remember events of five years ago. Now I can recall the minutest details of my daily life back to the first year. I can even remember every time I stubbed my toe or had a sore heel as a boy. It has just come to me that on the day I was 16 months old I was bitten on the thumb by a cat. It was a black cat, and

"WO—WOMAN! ARE YOU TALKING TO ME?"

she was blind in the left eye. Mother found my thumb all bloody, but I didn't utter a single cry. On the day I was five years old I fell into the cistern. On my eleventh birthday I got choked on a fish bone. Everything stands out as clear as print."

"You were born on the 16th day of June, 184," said Mrs. Bowser.

"I was."

"What particular thing happened on the twelfth of July, 1843?"

"What particular thing? Give me just a minute. Let's see! Ah! I have it! At 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the twelfth of July, 1843, I being then about 13 months old, my uncle Reuben was sunstruck in the harvest field, and died. And they would not let me see the body, for fear it would shock me."

"How thoughtful of them!" said Mrs. Bowser.

"That's you to a dot!" he shouted, as he rose up and began to walk about. "Because you are so cabbage-headed that you can't see through this thing you are making fun of me! All right, however. If you want to go slamming around like an old horse living only to-day, I shan't object. I suppose you carry a card around with you, so as not to forget your own name!"

"Mr. Bowser?" said Mrs. Bowser, after a moment's silence, "you say you can remember everything connected with the past?"

"I can."

"A week ago you brought home some hooks to put up in the kitchen for the cook. Where did you put the package?"

"Where? Where? Why, I—I——!"

"Some ten or twelve days ago," she continued, "you hunted all over the house for the oil can to oil the springs of a mouse trap. Where did you leave the can?"

He looked at her without replying.

"Five or six days ago you got the saw down to fix the back door. Where did you leave that saw?"

Still no reply.

"You have been up and down these stairs thousands of times. How many steps are there? When did you buy coal last? You had Mr. Davis over here one night within a month to play cards with you. What night was it?"

"Wo—woman, are you talking to me!" demanded Mr. Bowser.

"Of course I am! You have read all about George Washington. How old was he when he died?' On what date did you order your last shirts? What night last month did we go to the theatre? You fell off a street car and hurt your back awhile ago. Please give me the exact date? How old is our boy? What is the date of our marriage?"

Mr Bowser had stood over her, waving "How to Cultivate Memory" in the air and flushing red and white by turns. He was caught dead to rights and realized it, and there was only one thing for him to do. He did it. He stiffened up, waved the book more vigorously, and thundered out:

"Woman, I go to the library! If my lawyer calls send him in and we will arrange to see your lawyer early in the morning! As we can live together no longer we will separately quietly and without scandal, and you can return to your mother!"

Laid Low by Indigestion.

I was so run down I had to give up work.

Scott's Sarsaparilla the kind that cures.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is the bane of thousands, and is one of the most depressing of afflictions. It arises from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, which weakens the digestive and assimilative organs, rendering them incapable of performing their natural functions, and if neglected, the sufferer loses flesh, complains of exhaustion after slight exertion, and becomes rapidly debilitated.

Mr. Wm. W. Thompson, a prominent resident of Zephyr, Ont., in a letter dated Aug 12th, 1895, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work and felt as if life were not worth living. Mr. Dafoe induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, and after taking four bottles I am now feeling as I formerly did years ago, and I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and feeling, to use slang phrase, 'completely knocked out,' don't despair until you give Scott's Sarsaparilla a fair trial."

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a blood food, it stimulates all vital organs to healthy normal action, enabling them to throw off all poisonous and debilitating humors. Sold by druggists at $1, but there is only one Scott's. The kind that cures.

A Constantly Growing Force.

Every Day Gives Momentum to the Success of South American Nervine.

Canadian Citizens from Every Quarter Tell of the Extraordinary Results Following the Use of This Wonderful Remedy.

MR. C. G. CHAPIN, OF BURK'S FALLS, ONT.

There is encouragement in the knowledge that even after the skill of eminent physicians has failed, and many medicines have been used, a certain cure for the diseases of life is to be found in South American Nervine. This is a remarkable medicine, especially when the trouble is nervous debility, indigestion, dyspepsia, sick headache, or a general breaking-up of the system. It has made thousands of cures of Canadian citizens all over this beautiful Dominion, and they have not been slow to sing its praises.

The strength of South American Nervine rests in its being something more than a mere tonic. A tonic will give temporary benefit, but if disease is in the system something more is needed to remove it. South American Nervine possesses all the virtues of a tonic, but more than that, it is a disease-healer. It has been discovered that certain nerves have entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and indeed all internal organs. When disease comes upon the individual, if a careful analysis is made of the trouble, and things are not gone about in haphazard fashion, it will be shown that the disease has its origin in a derangement of these nerve centers. South American Nervine goes at once to the nerve centers and removes the disease. Then strong, rich, pure blood runs through the veins and gives health and exhilaration to all parts of the system. This is one secret of the power of South American Nervine. But it does not stop here. There is no medicine that is so great a nerve-builder, nor flesh-producer as Nervine. It purifies the system. It imparts to it health and vigor, and builds up the constitution.

Now, this is exactly what was done in the case of Mr. C. G. Chapin, a well-known jeweller, of Burk's Falls, Ont. He says: For years I had been much troubled with nervous debility, and believe I had tried all proprietary medicines, but none seemed to relieve me, until I used South American Nervine. To my surprise the first bottle gave me great relief. I am still taking this great remedy and must say I have not felt so well in years. I highly recommend it to all suffering from nervous disease, for it has made a great change in me."

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

No. XLVIII.

The Church and the Industrial Classes

(No. 3.)

In amplifying and supporting the assertion with which our last column closed, that "the social development has outrun the religious, and it will only be by the religious development overtaking the social that the church will be able to reclaim the masses," our author passes in review the various influences of the Political Development, of Society and the Social Spirit: the Industrial Development, and finally of the Intellectual Movement. Of these the first has but little interest for us. Regarding the influence of society and the social spirit, we read that "there are social tendencies and a social temper which are even more divisive in their action than political thought and feeling," and that "these seem to be increasing in force rather than decreasing." "Masters and workmen are every year growing farther apart, becoming rivals that with fear and distrust jealously watch and willingly outwit the other. The old personal relations between them are being lost." "The head of a great firm is mostly invisible; he is a name to his people and nothing more; his people are to him part of his machinery, distinguished from the other parts by being less manageable, and when deranged more difficult to repair." As they stand, these statements are to Canada, even in our larger cities, still less in Peterborough; but can it be denied that the same tendencies are at work here as in England, and, under similar circumstances, would produce the same kind of results? The feelings of the workingman who is treated simply as a piece of live machinery, all of whose interests are entirely subordinated to those of his employer are justly outraged. If, as I think is the case, he sometimes manifests a sensitiveness which his own self respect should lead him to conceal, it must not be forgotten that he has some reason to be suspicious, and those whose honest efforts are sometimes repulsed should remember that the results of centuries cannot be undone in a day.

Our author maintains that this divisive tendency in social life has operated in the sphere of the churches. "The churches have hitherto tended to follow the line of least resistance, and to grow into societies for the demarcation and consecration of class. And the more they have done so, the more distasteful they have become to workingmen." "If wealth were wise, there is nothing it would more dread than the separation of classes in the house of God; and if it were good as well as wise there is nothing it would so little allow. The master who goes to worship where only other masters are, does his best to alienate himself from his people, to lower religion in their eyes, and to bring on for the only salt that can preserve society is sympathy and communion in the most serious things of the spirit between all classes." These are wise words, as are those which follow. "If master and workman are associated on equal terms in church affairs, they will attain the mutual knowledge and develop the mutual respect that will make intercourse on other things more pleasant and reasonable." It is not the office of the present writer to tender advice but only to expound the views of another, but in passing away from this point he may add that the congregation can and ought to be the common meeting ground of all, and he believes that in Peterborough the effort is everywhere being honestly made to realize the Apostolic ideal.

How has the industrial development affected the relations of the churches to the industrial classes? "The harder the struggle for existence grows, the harder does it become to be religious. If the wolf is not only at the door, but has to be held out by sheer strength of muscle, we can scarcely expect the man who holds it to think of other, even though they be, higher, things. In order to worship there must not only be a day of rest for the man, but a rested man for the day." The industrial development "has created conditions that have made religion indefinitely harder to the man who must keep pace with it in order to live." But it is not altogether to the amount of work that this evil is to be assigned—for, unquestionably, there are professional men, doctors and statesmen, for example, who are more cruelly overworked than the industrial classes—but "to the solid conditions within and without the worker." The first thing to be done is to enrich and ennoble the soul, to beget purer tastes, and evoke higher capacities. "This is a thing that ought to be considered from the very beginning of intelligent being, attempted in our schools, and incorporated in our systems of education. The school ought to be made as bright and beautiful as possible, imagination ought to be cultivated as well as the understanding, and artistic faculty made as real an end as technical skill. If taste or the intellect could be so developed that to satisfy it became as instinctive and imperious a need in the workingman as in the cultivated lawyer, or doctor, or statesman, then he would, even as they pluck, from the very heart of his toil, the moments needed for the refreshment of his mind or the culture of his spirit. Then there ought to be accessible to him places where he could cultivate the tastes which had been developed within. The bath has been a great refining agency, for physical, is near of kin to spiritual, cleanliness, but these can both flourish only where the means for their being can be found, and the churches ought about the conditions necessary to intellectual and spiritual health as our public authorities are about those needful for the physical. Museums, picture galleries, and places of delight may, without a prepared people, be worse than useless; indeed only haunts for the idle; but to a people prepared they may be made high means of grace."

But of all the many wise things in the book under consideration, we think the following is the wisest, and here we believe the churches are one and all failing of their duty. "The most needful thing of all is the recreation of the home, for in industrial England and the same is growing steadily more and more true of Canada) it has almost ceased to be. Increased domesticity means the increase of all the finer affections, the rise of all the more gracious cares, and hopes and loves. And where these are religion is never far away; and where they are not, it will be an internal and, as it were, manufactured thing. It seems, therefore, as if the recovery of the home were the final necessity of the situation. If only the church could rebuild the home, it would create the conditions that would, even in the face of our modern industrial development, make all the old chivalries and graces of religion possible."

ED. F. C.

In reply to "workingman" whose letter appeared in the EXAMINER of Jan. 20th., the author from whom my quotations are made, refers to no church in particular. He says the estrangement between the Church and the industrial classes, is general, in this sense that it is a state which all churches know and have cause to lament. We are disposed to agree with the general conclusion of "Workingman" and would remind him, that in our first "column" on this subject we pointed out, that in Canada we have scarcely anything like the developed Secularism in older countries.

In thanking "Workingman" for his contribution to the discussion of this question—we may add that the Fortnightly Club is in no way responsible for the Fortnightly Club column, the management of which is left entirely in the hands of the editor. Individual members contribute to its columns, and we are glad of contributions from any who may desire to assist in providing a column of good reading under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club.

We have received a further communication on the same subject, from a lady, who desires to remain anonymous. She is, generally speaking, in agreement with the editor, but attributes to certain doctrinal causes, the state of things lamented, whose discussion would be out of place in this column.

MR. EWEN GRANT'S CASE

Publicly Endorsed by Several of His Neighbours.

Three Years Ailing—Had to Quit Work But was Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quion, Que., Jan. 25.—(Special)—"Do any of you know a Mr. Ewen Grant of this place? This was asked by your representative as he walked into one of the principal stores here. All but one of the half dozen men about the store answered yes. "He says that until recently recovered, that most of the time for the past three years he has been too weak and ill to work." "Yes, that is true." "Certainly," answered three or four of the men.

"That about two years ago, on that account he had to leave his job at Glenwood sawmill?"

"Yes; I know that, for I worked there when he left," said one. "And a fine strapping fellow he used to be, too," said another.

"That finally he was prostrated by a cold, was fearfully ill, and that he lost his sight, hearing and memory.

"Yes," said one, "and when he got up he was a skeleton all but his legs, which were swollen to three times their natural size with dropsy."

"He states that hearing of Dodd's Kidney Pills that Mr. Gideon Smith gave him $2 to buy the first four boxes, and—"

"Yes, very likely," said several, "for he is that open-hearted. It is just like what he would do."

"And he states that after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills that he has completely recovered, and that he is as able to work as he ever was in his life."

"Yes," says one, "he talks to every one he meets about Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am sure I could not say as to the number of boxes, but his cure was no doubt brought about by using the pills."

"But he says he had Bright's disease?"

"That is what one of the village doctors told me," said one, "and he told me he was past medical help."

Hoarseness and Sore Throat.

DEAR SIRS,—I highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness and sore throat, ever used.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. Warner's SAFE Cure is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged Kidneys and Liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; or the distressing disorders of Women; for all Nervous Affections, and physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Its past record is a guarantee for the future.

Failure of Physical and Mental Force—To add to Length of Life—Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

With a pathetic sigh how often it has been said:

"Well, then, I suppose I must let go my hold on life.

To fathers and mothers of unreared children this is tragic.

But whence cometh sure and timely help? If death is preventable, how?

The timely answer is: By scientific and successful kidney treatment—by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hundreds write to thank us and tell of their cure, but none to say that Dodd's Kidney Pills have ever failed.

THE BOOT and SHOE TRADE OF PETERBOROUGH COMING OUR WAY ON THE JUMP!

We feel it in our mit—we see it in our crowds—we read it in our sales.

Selling Boots and Shoes alongside of Clothing, &c, and under the same roof, lessens running expenses and reduces prices all along the line—that's part of the secret of our big sales, and shoppers have had it proved to their entire satisfaction times without number.

Time was when we paid the wholesaler a stiff profit and took what we could get. Now the Situation is changed, and if we want anything we go for it and buy in big enough quantities to discount the trade generally. In other words the wholesaler is no longer supreme.

Besides our own efforts to get the nobbiest of stylish Boots and Shoes, manufacturers are on the alert for the largest distributing points, and without a lantern come straight here when they think of Peterborough.

We Are Selling To "Beat the Band."

Doing a rattling business and whittling prices down in spite of the increased price of leather. Sooner or later we'll have to charge more, but not yet awhile.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, BOYS AND GIRLS, are all remembered. Their wants have all been anticipated. Fine Boots, Shoes, Slippers, Rubbers, Overshoes, Cork Sole Boots, Leggings, Artic Snow Excluders, and every possible need of man, woman or child.

Keep your feet dry—healthy—warm—cornless—painless—these stormy wintry days. Don't wait for another snow storm, but buy your Boots, Rubbers and Overshoes now! Bad weather soon finds the weak spots in Footwear.

It isn't a question of how much we can get but how little we can afford to sell for, and if you don't find values here the best within your reach, make us pay well for our imprudence. This year we begin with fresh resolves to outdo and excel all our past records.
